Norwich Bulletin

VOL. LXXII—No. 209 POPULATION 32,103 NORWICH, CONN., MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 1, 1930. EIGHT PAGES—64 COLUMNS PRICE TWO CENTS

47,000,000 BREADWINNERS IN 122,000,000 POPULATION

Estimate Given By William M. Stevens, Director of Census—90 Per Cent. of Men and 25 Per Cent. of Women Are Gainfully Employed—1,000,000 Persons in Public Or Private Institutions Supported in Whole or in Part by Federal, State or Local Governments—Not More Than 40,000,000 or 42,000,000 Persons At Work On a Given Day

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31—(AP)—William M. Steuart, director of the census, estimated today that ten million women in the United States are engaged in gainful occupations.

Discussing the 1930 population enumeration in a radio address over the Columbia Broadcasting system, Dr. Steuart said half of the women were producing tangible goods while the other half were engaged in service occupations of various kinds.

The census director estimated that the total population of 122,000,000 is "mainly supported, so far as breadwinning is concerned," by about 47,000,000 persons working about three-fourth of the time.

The number of persons between 16 and 64 was placed at 36,000,000 men and 37,000,000 women and Dr. Steuart said 90 per cent of the men and 25 per cent of the women were gainfully employed.

He gave the number of women engaged in housekeeping as 23,000,000, with most of them doing the major part of this work. Including the housekeepers, the director said about 50 per cent of the women could be classified as employed.

The number of persons 65 or over was placed at 5,500,000 with 3,000,000 of them over 70. Dr. Steuart said it was probable that 2,000,000 of the former were "actively at work competing with the young and more vigorous."

One million persons were said to be in public or private institutions supported in whole or in part by federal, state or local governments. Patients in general hospitals for the sick and injured were estimated at 250,000, mental patients in federal and state hospitals at 265,000 and federal and state prisoners at 125,000.

Dr. Steuart said those employed did not work more than 275 days a year on an average. He attributed this to vacations, sickness and part-time work. He commented that probably "under present normal industrial and business conditions there are not more than 40,000,000 or 42,000,000 people in this country who, on a given day, are at work full time on a gainful occupation."

One-third of the total number of workers, the director said, are engaged in manufacturing or mechanical pursuits, a larger number than in agriculture, which employes approximately 10,000,000 persons.

Less than three per cent of the total workers were said to be engaged in mining, seven per cent in transportation, seven or eight per cent engaged as clerks, stenographers, agents, bookkeepers and messenger boys; five per cent in professional service and eight per cent in domestic and personal service.

"BAD JOHN" WRIGHT LIES AT THE POINT OF DEATH

WHITESBURG, Ky., Aug. 31.—(AP)—"Bad John" Wright, former feudist who in later years was revered as an intrepid mountain peace officer, lay at the point of death today at his home in Wise county, Virginia, near the Kentucky border, unaware that his son, Sam, had met violent death yesterday in Pike county, Ky.

"Bad John" earned his sobriquet by killing more than 30 men while he served in various positions of authority in the border counties of Virginia and Kentucky. All his killings were "within the law," his friends hasten to tell casual questioners; the events of the famed Wright-Jones feud of 40 years ago have long since been forgotten.

The famed border patrolman, whose age is variously estimated between 87 and 96 years, was an intimate friend of John Fox, Jr., novelist, and furnished the author with much material for his books dealing with mountain life. "Devil Jack Tolliver," one of the characters in the Fox novel, "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," was a prototype of John Wright.

However, "Bad John's" admirers hasten to add, "Bad John" wasn't like "Devil Jack." "Bad John" wasn't really bad at all, they say, citing his record as an enforcer of the law, whereas Fox's famed character was depicted as a blood-thirsty two-gun man of the hills who killed for the mere fun of it.

MASCULINE MANNERS LAG: FEMININE IMPROVING

NEW YORK, Aug 31.—(AP)—The manners of women are improving because of the feminine clothes they have donned, but masculine manners are lagging behind, says Kathleen Howard.

"Clothes influence manners more than most people know," Miss Howard, fashion editor of Harper's Bazaar, said today. "When women dropped their skirts below their knees and stopped tugging at them every five minutes, when they came back to fitted waists and sleeves that were something more than an arm covering, the old brisk post-war manners just didn't fit. They softened their voices and stopped smoking so much in public and became feminine again.

"The men who were used to saying 'Come on, girlie, let's dance,' told us they did it because of our own manners and when we'd change, they'd come back to kissing our hands again. They haven't done it. We're still waiting for them to treat us with the deference they gave our mothers. The stage is set for a revival of romantic manners in men."

YOUTH SLAIN; BODY THROWN INTO LAKE MICHIGAN

EVANSTON, Ill., Aug. 31—(AP)—The body of a youth, who apparently had been clubbed to death and thrown into Lake Michigan, off the Northwestern University campus, was recovered today and identified as that of Herbert Tews, 18, of Chicago, a printing pressing pressman apprentice.

Identification was made by Arthur Tews, father of the victim, who said his son became involved in a labor dispute and had been threatened by men reputed to be labor organization sluggers.

Three men, whose names were not revealed, were being sought in connection with the slaying.

Chief of Police William O. Freeman said he believed the youth's assailants had not intended killing him, but on finding death would result from a beating administered, drove to the lake and tossed the dying man into the water.

KILLED EACH OTHER IN A PISTOL FIGHT

BARBOURVILLE, Ky. Aug. 31—(AP)—G. T. Lockhart, chief of police and Pete Goodin, carpenter killed each other in a pistol fight here last night.

The police chief was called to quell a disturbance in the downtown section, where a group of men had gathered. As he stepped from his automobile, Goodin pulled a pistol and fired, hitting Lockhart in the heart.

As Lockhart fell, he fired at Goodin, the bullet entering the carpenter's head. Both men fell dead within [illegible] feet of each other.

POLICE FIRED ON MOB RIOTING IN BOMBAY

BOMBAY, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Police fired on a mob of riotous workers opposite the New City Bombay mills today, injuring several.

The disturbance started when a number of employes from other mills gathered at the New City mills, which have been working, and urged the operatives to cease work. When they refused, the crowd pelted the mill with stones and the management appealed to the police.

The police charged the crowd with lathis and then opened fire, quelling the disturbance.

A mass meeting of congress volunteers and sympathizers on the Esplanade Maidan to salute the nationalist flag passed without incident, the demonstrators keeping within the limits drawn by the police.

NEGRO TAXI DRIVERS TURN HIGHWAYMEN

GREAT BARRINGTON, Mass., Aug. 31—(AP)—Amos 'n Andy, apparently, have no monopoly on taxicab business difficulties. Henry Johnson and William Coleman, Negro taxi drivers of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., took on highway robbery as a side line, according to police. They obtained only $10 for their efforts and were locked up here today after their arrest in Torrington, Conn.

Henry Lundy, of Newark, N. J., and Miss Dorothy Tinker, of this town stopped their automobile on the main highway three miles north of here last night on hearing the thrill blast of a police whistle. A Negro immediately appeared at their side brandishing a revolver. Lundy passed over $10 and Miss Tinker observed the registration of the car in which the robber and his companion escaped.

Connecticut police located the car early today and arrested the two men. Miss Tinker identified Johnson as the actual robber but both men were held for robbery and assault.

FILIPINOS BURN BOOK BY NICHOLAS ROOSEVELT

MANILA, P. I., Aug. 31—(AP)—Amid the shouts of some 2,000 Filipinos peasants a copy of a book supposed to be Nicholas Roosevelt's "The Philippines, a Treasure and a Problem," was publicely burned at Balintawak Philippine national shrine today.

The crowd was worked to a high pitch of excitement by a series of patriotic speeches in the Tagalog dialect.

Before being burned the book was placed on an anvil and hammered with a mallet to emphasize further the crowd's resentment against Roosevelt's writings and their opposition to his appointment.

Then it was handed to Representative Francisco Varona, radical member of the legislature and the moving figure behind the ceremony, who poured kerosene on it and ordered a torch applied.

Attendance at the ceremony was a disappointment to sponsors who had expected 20,000.

FEW VALUABLE RECORDS WERE LOST IN FIRE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31—(AP)—Federal trade commission officials today said few valuable records were believed lost in the fire which swept the commission building yesterday.

Edgar A. McCulloch, commission member, said that if testimony taken in the commission's varied investigations was burned it probably could be replaced by a New York firm which holds the contract for recording testimony in commission inquiries.

Otis B. Johnson, commission secretary, said almost all the records taken in the power and chain store investigations had been saved. These were at first reported destroyed.

Johnson said outside of the damage to the building, the greatest loss was in office equipment.

The quarters of the women's bureau and children's bureau which also were in the temporary building erected during the World war were badly damaged.

FORCED DAUGHTER TO AID IN POULTRY RAIDS

NORWALK, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Claiming that her father, Clarence Jennings, Sr., alleged leader of a gang of chicken thieves, tied her thumbs to two spikes, nailed in the wall over an open doorway, and left her suspended in the air, with her toes barely touching the floor until she agreed to accompany him on his raids on poultry farms throughout Fairfield county and southeastern New York state, Mrs. Ruth Jennings Reddy, today was being held without bonds by the Norwalk police for complicity in the chicken thefts uncovered by Norwalk and state police after a seven months' investigation.

The girl was arrested last night with three others: Harold Coggswell, 28; George Mills, 27, and Benny Olmstead, 21, all of Norwalk. Previously five others had been arrested: Fred Reddy, 27; Joseph White, 20; Charles Veach, 16, and Clarence Jennings, Sr. 42, and Clarence Jennings, Jr., 16. Jennings, Jr., like his sister, had also told the police that his father had administered beatings to him in order to make him steal poultry. The nine are alleged to have stolen thousands of chickens in the course of a year.

The police declare that they have statements admitting the thefts from all but Jennings, Sr., and Olmstead. All are charged with theft of poultry. No bonds have been set for the four arrested last night but the first five apprehended are being held in lieu of bail of $2,000 each.

The police are continuing their investigation of the case.

ARREST RESULT OF POKER GAME ON TRAIN

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—(AP)—A poker game in a New York bound Pennsylvania railroad train which cost a Providence, R. I., business man $600, resulted in the arraignment in magistrate's court today of Jack Lance, 34, who gave his address as Atlanta, Ga. He was held in $2,000 bail on a charge of suspicion of grand larceny.

Police said Lance's record shows he was arrested April 30 in Philadelphia as a professional thief. The records contained no disposition of the charge.

American Woman Held In Cuba For Treason

Mrs. Martha Lane Placed Under Military Guard For [illegible]leged Plot

MARIANAO, Cuba, Aug [illegible]—Mrs. Martha Lane Moriote, [illegible]merican woman, was held here [illegible]day under military guard on charges of high treason in connection with an alleged plot to reveal Cuban military secrets. She said she was mystified by the government's action.

Mrs. Marlote, formerly of Longmeadow, Mass., and widow of the late Lieut. Rogelio Morlote of the Cuban Army Air corps, was arrested yesterday by military authorities and ordered detained for 72 hours while investigation was made into her alleged espionage.

She was specifically charged with "entering into negotiations with secret agents of Colombia, S. A., and the United States to sell the secret key of the Cuban Air corps code."

Her arrest by officers of the general staff of the Cuban army took place shortly after she had booked passage on the S. S. Morro Castle, which sailed for New York yesterday.

Detained with her at Camp Columbia is Luis Marti, a soldier who was an orderly under Lieut. Morlote up until the time the latter was killed in an airplane accident at Alacranes, July 1.

"I know nothing of the charges against me," she told newspapermen. "I have been in mourning since my husband was killed in an airplane accident on July 1, and know nothing of any 'secret keys' he might have possessed to the Cuban military code.

"If he had any such 'keys' he did not impart them to me. I was just about to sail for Longmeadow to visit my father, Roy Lane, who has been seriously ill, when the officers placed me under arrest. I cannot understand why this action has been taken against me."

General Alberto Herrera, chief of the general staff of the army, went to Pina Del Rio province for a week end trip shortly after Mrs. Mariote was detained and could not be reached today. None of the members of the staff here would discuss the affair.

BEARING BODIES OF ANDREE AND COMPANIONS TO TROMSOE

HAMMERFEST, Norway, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Dr. Gunnar Horn today told the Associated Press that the bodies of all three men who made the 1897 Andree polar expedition were aboard the sealer Bratvaag. Previous information had left the number of bodies aboard in doubt.

The interview was conducted by telephone between Hammerfest and Hasvick, where the Bratvaag touched en route to Tromsoe, and was the first statement Dr. Horn had made for the press about his sensational discovery on White Island.

Dr. Horn said it was only last night that he had received a radio message ordering him home and it was difficult to make it out on his receiving set.

He was asked if he had met any of the newspaper expeditions out looking for him and replied:

"No, you are the first journalist to take a message from us.

Questioned whether he had brought everything he had found from the Andree expedition, Dr. Horn answered

"Yes, and Andree's body seems very well preserved. Everything we found we placed on the afterdeck. The bodies are lying in cases with ice packed well about them."

BELIEVE WOMAN BURNED TO DEATH BY EXTORTIONISTS

REED CITY, Ill., Aug. 31.—(AP)—Mrs. Tranquita Rinaldo, 32, blinded with acid and then burned to death last night by an unidentified assailant who escaped, is believed by police to have been a victim of extortionists.

The woman gave only a meagre description of her assailant before she died. The man, who she said was about 40 years old, sprang out at her from a clump of bushes as she walked along a lonely road near her farm home here, and discharged acid from a squirt gun into her eyes. As she groped about, blinded and screaming with pain, she said, he knocked her to the ground. An inflammable fluid was thrown over her clothing and ignited. Before lapsing into unconsciousness, she said, she saw her assailant flee toward a nearby woods.

The woman was found by her husband and young son who had become alarmed at her failure to return home from a neighbor's and had started a search for her She died shortly after being taken to a hospital

Sheriff Ernest Fleming, who advanced the extortionist theory, said the Rinaldos, thrifty farmers, had received a number of threatening letters demanding money.

PIKEVILLE, Ky., Aug. 31.—(AP)—Pike county officers said Henry Branham, captured by them early today admitted killing his cousin, Melvin Branham, after Melvin had killed Sam Wright during a quarrel in front of the Wright home yesterday.

Deputy Sheriff Harvey Childers said Branham told him he fired to quell the disturbance and had no intention of hitting any one.

Branham told the officer he fired after Wright had fallen and while Charles Ray and Melvin Branham were throwing rocks and firing into the yard.

Ray, whose wife's quarrel with Wright's wife, started the trouble, admitted he had been drinking and said Melvin Branham had been drinking also, accoring to the officers. Ray is being held in jail with Henry Branham pending investigation.

INVITATION DECLINED BY 12,000 AUSTRIAN SOLDIERS

VIENNA, Aug. 31—(AP)—Twelve thousand Austrian soldiers, through their spokesmen, have refused the socialist city of Vienna's invitation to dinner.

New Haven Delegates Pledged For Cross

[illegible]arded As Certain That He Will Be the Dem. Gubernatorial Nominee

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 31.—(AP)— Dr Wilbur L. Cross will return to his home here from New Hampshire, some time this week to find his candidacy for the democratic gubernatorial nomination grown to proportions which political observers believe make his nomination at the state convention in New London next week a certainty and his nomination by acclamation a strong possibility.

With the support of Bridgeport's delegation already assured him and with Waterbury's delegation reported as favoring his candidacy, Dean Cross, who recently retired as dean of the Yale Graduate school, last night was pledged New Haven's 62 delegates. Included in Elm City delegation is Col. N. G. Osborn, one of Dean Cross' closest friends. The [illegible] to present the name of Dean Cross to the convention unless his physicians advise against it.

David E. Fitzgerald introduced the resolution to the New Haven city convention which directed the delegation to vote as a unit for Dean Cross as long as his name is before the state convention.

Dean Cross is expected to be consulted during the week by the subcommittee named by James J. Walsh, chairman of the democratic state central committee, to prepare a draft of the platform which will be submitted to the resolutions committee at the convention. The members of this committee are: Francis P. Guilfoile former mayor of Waterbury; Curtiss K. Thompson, West Haven; Mary C. Mahoney, Shelton; Leroy D. Downs, South Norwalk, and Joseph F. Dutton, Bristol.

PRELIMINARY OBSERVANCE OF LABOR DAY IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31. — (AP) — President Green, of the American Federation of Labor, in an address today at the Washington cathedral, urged the wider application of religious principles to human relations in industry.

The preliminary observance of Labor day was attended by hundreds of spectators.

Green left tonight for Syracuse, N. Y., where he will deliver an address tomorrow. All the cabinet members and President Hoover were expected to be out of town on Labor day. Two governors, however, Ritchie, of Maryland, and Pollard, of Virginia, were to be in the capital to watch the traditional parade.

Green said that without "service rendered by the heart, hand and brain of labor, civilization would perish while cities and towns would become desolate."

"If capital and labor are to carry on a relentless industrial class warfare then religion and ethics have failed. The rule of righteousness in human relations has ceased to operate and a sense of individual moral responsibility has been destroyed," he said.

"The American Federation of Labor steadfastly refuses to embrace such a philosophy or to accept such a pessimistic theory."

A total of 389 accidents were reported within the state during that week, of which 175 occurred in incorporated cities. In the same week last year, there were 429 accidents, of which 200 were reported from incorporated cities.

MANHATTAN, Ill., Aug. 31.—(AP)—A family reunion was marred here today when an airplane crashed with two youthful fliers who had been exhibiting their piloting skill before relatives.

About 40 members of the Jones family had gathered at the victim's home and the youths both student fliers, decided to add to the entertainment with a flight in a rented plane.

DEMOSTRATION AT BUENOS AIRES CATTLE EXPOSITION

Minister of Agriculture, John Fleitas, Was Booed As He Entered the Building—"Down With the Government" Was Shouted As He Attempted to Open the Program—Anti-Yrigoyen Pamphlets Were Distributed Through the Crowd

BUENOS AIRES, AUG. 31—(AP)—A demonstration at the cattle exposition this afternoon against Juan Fleitas, minister of agriculture, and President Yrigoyen caused the minister to leave the building and the exhibition was postponed.

An aftermath of the tragic events open the first program a crowd outside shouted "Down with the government," and those in side began booing and whistling when the minister attempted to speak. The disturbance continued as long as he stood on the platform and at last he left, escorted by firemen.

Anti-Yrigoyen pamphlets were distributed through the crowd. They were signed by the "Legion De Mayo" (May 25 is the Argentine independence day)

This is an organization formed by a discontented faction, including Videla Dorna, whose recent election as a deputy was not recognized by the government.

Meanwhile, the government continued a strong military guard about the presidential palace and in other strategic locations, following the reported unrest of last week, and made plans for the opening of congress this week.

Under the revision of credentials it is understood that the chamber will have 99 Yrigoyenist deputies and 53 in the opposition, including 25 conservatives, 14 independent socialists, eight anti-Yrigoyenists and six of other groups.

The senate will have seven Yrigoyenists, 18 direct oppositionists and five others.

Police believe that the demonstration was directed principally against President Yrigoyen, who has customarily had promised to attend but sent Fleitas as his representative at the last minute.

The demonstration was a particularly noisy affair. Officials of the Socieded Rural attempted strenuously to calm the crowd and Fleitas even jumped atop a chair to make himself heard, but the crowd hooted, hissed and whistled until the minister had left.

Then the demonstrators gleefully shouted "He's gone! He's gone!" for several minutes.

UNREST PREVAILS IN RIO GRANDE DO SUL

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Aug 31—(AP)—A dispatch sent fro mPorto Alegre last Wednesday, and received by the newspaper La Manana today, said that great unrest prevailed in the Brazilian state of Rio Grande Do Sul with important political events expected and possibly a revolutionary outbreak. The correspondent said the leader of the discontented faction was Dr. Osvaldo Aranha, a former minister who resigned when the president of Rio Grande Do Sul was defeated for the national presidency by Dr. Julio Prestes in a recent election. He said the outbreak of rebellion had so far been precented by Borges De Medeiros, leader of the republican party in the state.

Dispatches received from Montevideo last week, said revolt was threatening in Rio Grande Do Sul, but the government at Rio De Janeiro denied that there was any danger.

REORGANIZING PERUVIAN DIPLOMATIC SERVICE

LIMA, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Peru's new military government, beginning its second week under Lieut. Col. Luis M. Sanchez Cerro, today began making over the Peruvian diplomatic service.

The government announced that it was quite satisfied with the services of Manuel Freyre y Santander, Peruvian ambassador at Washington, and would retain him in that post.

The minister to France, Mariano Cornejo, was less fortunate. He was ordered to deliver the legation to the secretary and then come to Lima for investigation of his conduct. Francisco Garcia Calderon, noted writer and philosopher, will succeed Cornejo.

Eleodoro Romero will remain as ambassador to the Holy See. The government accepted the resignations of the minister to Spain, Eduardo Leguia, brother of the deposed president; Alejandro Puente, minister to Great Britain; Cesar Canevaro, minister at Vienna, and Guillermo Swayne Mendoza, another relative of Leguia, minister at Brussels.

The consular service also will be changed, with Major Alfredo Henriod appointed consul general at New York to succeed Dimetrio Correa Olavegoya, who has been appointed consul general at Hamburg instead of Rodolfo Rixrath. Augusto B. Leguia, the former president, remained aboard the cruiser Almirante Grau in Callao harbor.

LARGE LUMBER MILL DESTROYED BY FIRE

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., Aug. 31—(AP)—Fire which started last night and which firemen from four towns battled until 5 o'clock this afternoon destroyed Branch & Callahan's lumber mill, one of the largest in northern New York. Police estimated the loss at a quarter of a million dollars.

The flames, starting in a large frame barn, swept through a garage, storehouses, sheds and an office building into the mill. The fire fighters, hampered by low water pressure, had difficulty in preventing the flames from spreading to nearby dwellings and a garage, an automobile salesroom and an automobile salesroom and an apartment house were damaged.

Saranac Lake firemen called for help from Malone, Tupper Lake and Lake Placid.

Branch & Callahan's mill, in the heart of the city, was destroyed with its entire stock of lumber in 1901 in the most disastrous fire in this resort city's history.

FAIL TO FIND ANY TRACE OF GANGSTER DIAMOND

LONDON, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Police in two portions of the British Isles today failed to find any trace of Jack (Legs) Diamond, American gangster, who was reported last week by New York authorities to be heading for Europe.

When the liner Baltic called at Cobh, Irish Free State, this afternoon, detectives and newspapermen went out to meet her, but could not find any evidence of the man they sought. The same tender carried scores of letters addressed to Diamond, chiefly marriage proposals from Irish girls. Some of them, however, merely wanted to reform the gangster.

MAN KILLED BY TORNADO AT HOUSTON, TEX., AIRPORT

HOUSTON, Tex., Aug. 31.— (AP) — Roaring from a blackened sky a tornado, accompanied by a high wind and severe electrical and rainstorm, struck the Houston Municipal airport and vicinity today claiming one life, damaging two hangars and demolishing a garage.

A heavy downpour of rain which followed the storm flooded Houston gutters and disrupted traffic.

GENERAL HENRY T. ALLEN DIES OF HEART ATTACK

WAYNESBORO, Pa., Aug. 31.—(AP)—His career ended by a heart attack at a summer cottage near here, the body of Major General Henry T. Allen, 71, commander of the American army of occupation in Germany, lay in an undertaking parlor today awaiting removal to Washington, D. C., for burial.

The major general, calling with his wife yesterday upon Dr. Rudolp Leitner, first secretary of the German embassy at Washington, stood for a while admiring the view from the Leitner summer cottage at Buena Vista, Pa., seven miles from here. Suddenly he turned pale, and before others in the party could hasten to his aid, he fell from the veranda, and down a 15-foot bluff.

Dr. H. C. Bridges of Blue Ridge Summit, called to attend the stricken officer, said death had been caused by a blood clot on the heart, and that General Allen undoubtedly was dead before he fell.

General Allen retired seven years ago, making his residence then in Washington, and devoting much of his time to writing of his military adventures. His name was not known alone for his work on the Rhine, however, although his extreme authority there caused him to be known as "king," drawing upon his experiences as military attache at Berlin and St. Petersburg.

He successfully urged organization of the army general staff in the United States; turning from war to peace, he organized the American Committee for Relief of German Children.

One of his early accomplishments was organization of the Philippine constabulary.

CAPONE GANG CONTROLS 33 CHICAGO LABOR UNIONS

CHICAGO, August 31. —The Tribune says the Capone gang has gained control of 33 Chicago labor unions and has made it so evident that it is grasping for others that President John Coefield of the International Union of Steamfitters and Plumbers has come here to lead a fight against the hoodlums.

The paper says the Chicago crime commission is completing a report estimating that $500,000 a week is wrung from reputable citizens by the gang through its labor racketeering and its program of making small business men join various organizations under threat of violence.

When the report is finished, the Tribune adds, the crime commission, the "Secret Six," the Employers' association and probably the Better Business bureau expect to unite in a determined campaign to break the underworld grip.

The Tribune quotes an unnamed member of the crime commission as saying: "We find that 90 per cent of the Chicago unions are honestly officered and are fair in all their dealings But Capone and George Barker now have 5 per cent of the unions in their clutches and nothing but trouble and extortion can be expected from them."

Barker is a notorious gunman and former convict who has been suspected in many killings, including the Moran gang massacre and the Lingle slaving.

ACTRESS LILLIAN GISH BITTEN BY MONGREL DOG

NORWALK, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Several hours after she had arrived from Europe aboard the steamer Paris last night, Miss Lillian Gish, well known movie actress, was badly bitten on the left hand as she tried to separate a pet Sicilian dog, which she had brought from Europe, and a mongrel that had attacked the Sicilian. Miss Gish was at the John Nash McCullaugh estate here, which her mother, Mrs. Mae Robinson, and her sister, Miss Dorothy Gish, have leased for the summer. She had come to Norwalk directly from New York.

The mongrel bit Miss Gish on the left hand, inflicting a palm wound one inch long, and a cut on the back of the thumb a half inch deep. She was taken to the Norwalk hospital where the wounds were dressed and anti-toxin administered. Tonight Miss Gish is at her mother's home, under the care of Dr. William W. [illegible], of Norwalk.

OVER 6,000 AT THIRD NIGHT OF ELKS' FAIR

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 31—Hundreds who turned away from the gates of the Elks' Country fair because of a series of showers Friday night, returned Saturday night, running up a banner attendance of over 6,000 for the evening performance. In every way the week end fair program went over "big" and the committee is looking forward to a new high attendance for the Labor day matinee and evening performances which will bring the fair to a close. The grand finale Monday night will be the giving away of seven automobiles and 18 cash gifts to the fair patrons. A brand new bill of vaudeville has been secured for Labor day, the only act of the six engaged for the first three days to remain being the spectacular Bellclair Brothers loop-the-loop to a hand catch. The grounds will open for the day Monday at 1:30 o'clock. In addition to the regular attractions during the afternoon there will be a program of airplane flying, formation flights, parachute jumps, and stunts over the park, this feature being in connection with the V. F. W. air meet.

Saturday afternoon 3,000 children were given free admission to the Elks' Country fair and many received prizes. During the afternoon Colonel Earl C. Popp, V. F. W. aviation officer for Connecticut, gave a thrilling aerial stunt performance over the Elks' park, the air performances concluding with a parachute jump from an army plane.

V. F. W. Air Meet

The lack of a suitable airfield in the immediate vicinity of the city caused a last-minute curtailment of week end plans for the air meet being held here by Gold Star post No 1724, Veterans of Foreign Wars. Today's program had to be omitted entirely. It was said today, however, that the complete line-up of aerial activities scheduled for Labor day would take place. A squadron of army planes is to leave from Brainard field, Hartford, for formation flights over the city and a dozen or more ships using Weir field, Windham Center, as a base, will participate in various maneuvers and stunts. There will be one or more parachute jumps during the day, and the scheduled air performances over Elks' park late in the afternoon. With the concentration of virtually all activitives on Labor day instead of over the three-day period as previously planned, is expected by the veterans' committee to result in an unusually splendid one-day air program. Permission to use Weir field Saturday and Monday was secured from members of the Weir family after Inspector George Prainitis of the department of aeronautics, had revoked the department's sanction to use Brown's field on upper Ash street.

Saturday seven ships landed at Weir field to engage in an afternoon program under supervision of Colonel Earl C. Popp.

MRS. R. N. BOWEN HAS SKULL FRACTURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 31 — Mrs. Ralph N. Bowen of 33 Mountain street, is a patient in St. Joseph's hospital with a fracture of the skull and various bruises as a result of an accident that occurred at 9:20 o'clock Saturday night at the triangle junction of Jackson street with the Mansfield and Conantville roads. Mr. Bowen, husband of the injured woman, was driving a touring car northerly to Conantville as a light delivery truck operated by Joseph Bartisek of North Franklin, came southerly on the Mansfield road. An investigation by Officer John Killourey showed that Bartisek's car was traveling three feet off the right shoulder of the Mansfield road upon approaching the apex of the triangle formed by the junction of that highway with the Conantville road. The truck continued on for a distance of 84 feet after the collision. Bartisek was arrested on a charge of reckless driving and will appear in police court early this week. Mrs. Bowen was rushed to the hospital where she was treated by Dr. Edward J. Ottenheimer. An X-ray photograph this morning revealed the fracture of the skull. Other members of the Bowen party were slightly bruised and both machines were damaged.

Y. registration 3L-1075, operated by Wilmot L. Morehouse of New York city. The New York car was making a right turn from the Norwich road onto Main street and in order to avoid a head-on collision with the Hartford machine which was headed south, the New York operator drove his car straight across the path of the approaching Ford just too late to avoid hitting the right front wheel and fender of the Hartford car. The occupants of the cars were uninjured but the Ford had a badly twisted front axle and fenders and the New York car got a twisted fender. Constable Harold Clark investigated the accident. As the drivers arrived at a compromise settlement for damages, no arrests were made.

A car said to have been operated by Mrs. Ross, of Hartford, was implicated in a slight accident at the Day corner about 8 o'clock Friday evening. It is understood the car was coming toward Colchester from Norwich and on reaching the junction of Hayward and Norwich avenues, the driver applied the brakes suddenly when she found that she had gone past the intersection as she had intended to turn into Hayward avenue on her way to Hartford. The roadway was wet from a sudden shower and as the car skidded the driver lost control of the wheel and the machine veered through the shrubbery bordering the roadway and catapulted head-on into the east ell of the Ransom school building. The outside entrance, stairway and cloak rooms, which several years ago were attached to the east side of the structure, were ripped away from the main part of the building by the impact. The car was only slightly damaged and its occupants escaped injury. As the accident was not thought to be a case of reckless driving and as the owner of the car agreed to pay for damage to the building, it is understood that no arrests will be made. Carpenters were busy Saturday and Sunday jacking up and repairing the building in preparation for the opening of school Tuesday.

LISBON

Rev. W. J. Reynolds preached Sunday on The Sending Forth of the Seventy. They were of the common people and unlike the twelve disciples whose names are familiar to everyone, the names of the seventy are unknown but each had a mission and each was required to give an account on his return. Like them we each have a mission and will be called to account.

Monday morning Harold Mell left for Durham, N. H., with Mrs. George Hemboldt, lecturer of Lisbon grange, Miss Clara Hyde, lecturer of Pachaug grange, Mrs. Sidney Hall, lecturer of Preston grange and Miss Bessie McClurgage of Jewett City. Plans are under way for a garden party on the parsonage grounds.

Frank Barber of Boswell avenue, Norwich called on his niece, Miss Martie Barber Sunday.

DANIELSON

SO. KILLINGLY OLD HOME DAY TODAY'S FEATURE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Aug. 31—Outstanding in the Labor day events scheduled for Killingly is the Old Home day at South Killingly. Gathering of those who come from distances to attend this event of many years standing was underway today, when the services at the church were in a sense a prelude to the events arranged for Labor day. Monday, those who are to attend the event on the grounds near the historic 18th century church, will assemble during the course of the forenoon. There is no formal program for that period, nor need there be It is taken for granted that those who go will be seeking out old-time friends and acquaintances, will find them and pass a happy hour or two in discussing the days that are gone.

Then comes the traditional "shore" dinner, and after that a formal program of exercises. Rev. Henry Coolidge, the pastor, will tell of what has been done by the church society during the past year, and outline the program for the coming year.

Only Two Week End Arrests

Up to late this afternoon nothing very serious had occurred to attract the attention of state officers of the Danielson barracks, who were engaged yesterday and today in careful supervision of the heavy traffic through this territory.

There were no accidents of any consequence, and only two arrests for violation of the motor vehicle laws. Both arrests were made in Brooklyn, where state officers were engaged in checking up cars as to the efficiency of the equipment of the machines. Edward Moran, visiting from Flushing, N. Y., with relatives in Brooklyn and operating a car owned by George Anderson, was ordered into court for operating without a license. George Wilson, of the Bronx section of New York city, also was told to make a court appearance for operating a car with only one headlight. The Ford that he was driving had but one headlight. The other headlight was without a lense, the reflector rusty and only part of the light bulb remaining in the socket, indicating that the condition of the lights had been bad for some time past and that nothing had been done to correct it The car was a menace to other operators in the heavy traffic.

Tonight, shortly after midnight, the Labor day midnight frolic started at the dance pavilion at Wildwood park, and was scheduled to continue until early Monday morning. As in other years, dancers gathered from far and near for this event, the last big holiday dance until Columbus day. No special program of public events is scheduled for Labor day in Danielson, though dancing opportunities will be available Monday evening. And then it will be back to work Tuesday morning for the thousands of workers in this vicinity who have had a three-day layoff from their regular occupations.

Schools of the town of Killingly, resuming sessions Tuesday morning, will draw many hundreds of Killingly's children back to their studies, and some additional ones beginning their organized effort to obtain the rudiments of an education The fact is not lost upon the parents of the young people, because for a week past these responsible persons have been engaged in getting their children ready for school, buying them such new clothing and other things they needed for the opening of the schools.

FUNERAL

David G. Byars

At the home in Elmville Saturday afternoon, funeral services for David G. Byars were conducted by Rev. Albert Abbott, pastor of the Danielson Methodist Episcopal church. Numbers of relatives and friends were in attendance. Burial was in Westfield cemetery. There were a great many beautiful floral pieces. The bearers were T. J. Brisbouis, James Kent, George Kent, William Dawson and Floyd Nettleton.

A. F. Wood was in charge of the arrangements. Among the floral remembrances was a large piece from the employes of the Killingly Worsted company where Mr. Byars, a resident of Webster for many years, had been an overseer for a long time.

A death during Saturday at the home in the Christian Corner section of the town of Brooklyn, was that of Mary E. Hueston, 75, widow of James Hueston and mother of Robert Hueston. Mrs. Hueston had been seriously ill for the past month. She was a native of Brooklyn, N. Y., and had been resident in the territory where she died for about 11 years past.

The concrete work having been completed on the nearly three miles of new state highway between Danielson and Wauregan, that much traveled truck line route will be open again to the traveling public during the course of the coming week, and the detour through Brooklyn, that so many have been using, will no longer be necessary. The contractor, who has done the work, has made a splendid record of efficiency, putting in the concrete in just about half the time that many thought would be required for the work. While cars were moving over the new roadway today, only a part of which was closed to travel, the shoulders are not finished as yet, and all who use the route are therefore advised that caution is necessary if accidents would be avoided.

Another highway note is that shoulders of the state highway between Danielson and South Killingly were oiled, on part of the route the past week, and left without being adequately covered with sand over the holiday period, setting up a treacherous condition for all travel, and especially for the many drivers who are unfamiliar with the route.

Parents may lend their aid, or be sorry in certain cases, unless they instruct their little boys to stop prowling back of business blocks in the central part of the borough. This information came from Chief John McFarland this morning, and he knows the reason why for this warning.

A horse-shoe pitching league will be in action in Killingly during the weeks following the first of September Shooting these shoes has become a sort of a fad, and it may be mentioned that the town has some high class shooters among those who have been at the game for months since.

Armand Heneault and members of his family are at Saratoga, as guests of friends, over the holiday period.

Mr. and Mrs. Augustus L. Meade, of Reynolds street, motored to Taunton today to spend the holiday.

Mrs. Mary Taylor, of Webster, is spending the holiday period with her sisters in Danielson.

Having returned from his summer vacation, Rev. Harding W. Gaylord conducted the services at the Westfield Congregational church today Rev. Mr. Gaylord has been spending the month of August on Cape Cod.

Leslie Murray, of Boston, was a visitor here over the week end with his mother, Mrs. P. F. Murray, of Academy street.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hilton and their two children were with relatives in Boston over the week end and are scheduled to return here Monday evening.

While at the cottage he has been occupying at Misquamicut during the month of August, with his family, First Selectman Charles A. Tillinghast was among those who watched the plane of the four German flyers who arrived here the past week from overseas, skirting along the shore of the Rhode Island summer resort on its way from Halifax, N. S., to New York.

The schools of the town of Killingly are to re-open for another year next Tuesday morning The arrangements for the beginning of the new school year which will continue through until next June are complete.

Miss Madeline O'Brien, of Wauregan is spending her vacation with relatives in Hartford, and also will visit in Newark before her return home.

Mr. and Mrs. Ashley Mills, of Boston and Mr. and Mrs. John Mills, of Boston, and Mr. and Mrs. William Mills, of Brockton, were guests of Mrs. Ella Mills, of the West Side, over the week end.

PUTNAM

CITY TAXI CO. GETS SCHOOL TRANSPORTATION CONTRACT

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Aug. 31—Children whose homes are situated in sections of the town remote from public schools will be transported to the various schools during the coming academic year by cabs of the City taxi fleet, owned and operated by James H. Tatem of Center street. Such was the decision of the transportation committee of the school board, announced Saturday evening following a special meeting held for the purpose of opening bids and awarding contracts. Edward W. Mullan, chairman of the committee, said this morning that the proposal of the Tatem hackney firm was the most attractive of any of the five bids receive dfor consideration.

In past years the school board has seen fit to employ the services of two concerns for rural transportation work, but the fact that the Tatem concern pledged itself to transport the children from the three outskirt districts at a price considerably lower than any of the four competing firms, left the committee no alternative, other than handing the City Taxi company contracts for the complete work.

In commenting on the terms of the proposal Mr. Mullan said Mr. Tatem at the present will assign six cars for transportation of the school children from the Putnam Heights, River road and East Putnam districts of the town. Each cab in the fleet is built to transport five passengers. A seven passenger car is to be acquired and pressed into the service in the near future, Mr. Mullan added. When asked to disclose the proposed prices of the successful bidder, the chairman asserted that he did not believe himself vested with the authority, without having obtained the consent of the remaining members of the school board.

The bidding for the school transportation contracts was a contest closely waged among five taxi service establishments. Others who sought the work were—The Putnam Taxi company (independents,) Arthur Pepin, Peter Racette, and Ferdinand Gagnon The Putnam Taxi and the Gagnon fleets of cars performed the work last season.

Considerable interest was manifest in the outcome of last night's meeting of the transportation committee. Residents of the Putnam Heights and River road communities were especially eager for the Putnam Taxi company's independent drivers to be favored with a renewal of their contract. This was evidenced in a petition included with the firm's proposal, which was signed by the heads of every family whose children were riding to and from school in the independent cars. It was reported this morning that a number of signers of the petition upon learning the action of the school board transportation committee, lamented the decision and signified their intentions of protesting or refusing to allow their children to ride with the possessors of the new contract.

Police of Norwich and officers of the state police barracks at Groton and Danielson today were asked to aid in a search for John Andrews of Farrows street, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. N. Andrews, who has been missing from home since Saturday afternoon. Andrews, who is a member of the senior class at Putnam high school, is 16 years of age. He was last seen Saturday when aboard a Connecticut company's bus which was Norwich bound. He was attired in boy's sport togs and was carrying a russet leather bag. The boy was described as being about 5 feet 7 inches tall and weighing 135 pounds. When last seen he was without a hat or coat. Both the state and Norwich police promised cooperation in searching their respective territories for the missing Putnam lad who is believed to have been induced to leave home by the attractive recruiting posters used for the enlistment of candidates for the U. S. Navy.

Gifford, who died at the Huntington Memorial hospital in Boston Thursday, was held Saturday afternoon from her late home on Ring street, with a service at the Congregational church at 2 o'clock. Rev. PACHAUG GRANGE PLANS FOR ANNUAL BIG FAIR

The dates have been selected for Pachaug grange fair. It is learned from the treasurer, that now with nine years of creditable exhibitions, with some good weather season, and some not so good, the balances are on the right side of the ledger. This fall's three day's fair will be the tenth anniversary celebration, with every attraction promised that belongs with such exhibits. Some have wondered why it is that with other agricultural societies deeming it a losing game Pachaug fair is well patronized. The fine exhibits have included annually fruit, vegetables, fancy work, art, antiques, flowers, dairy and general family and farm products.

At this grangers' fair, the social side is always prominent. Old friends meet, and definitely settle all affairs of the town and nation, while there exists a friendly spirit which makes one feel that the whole show is a real community event.

LOCAL TENNIS PLAYERS FALL IN THIRD ROUND OF EASTERN CONN. TOURNAMENT

The remaining hopes that the Eastern Connecticut tennis championship would come to Norwich vanished in the third round of the tournament being played at the Norwich Golf club courts when Bill Werth, city champion, Peterson and Shep Palmer were eliminated on Sunday. Those who will go to the semi-finals are Allen Lebourveau of Hanover, Jack Tilney of East Orange, N. J., John Angeles of New London and Sam Wilkinson of East Orange, N. J., with Tilney and Lebourveau meeting in the upper half of the bracket and Angeles and Wilkinson in the lower half.

Lebourveau is the favorite through his brilliant display of tennis against his first and second round opponents. In the first round he easily disposed of George Strouse, 6-4, 6-2, and then beat Percy Harwood, one of the seeded players in three hot sets that furnished the upset of the day. Harwood was given a more than even chance of reaching the finals but Lebourveau's brilliancy won the first set 6-3. He coasted along in the second set and Harwood won by teh same score. Lebourveau then ran Harwood to all corners of the court to win 6-3.

The third round match between Wilkinson and Sawyer of Providence was another brilliant match and the only other to go to three sets, Wilkinson meeting very strong opposition, especially in the last two sets which went to extra games.

In the doubles Sawyer and Peterson won their way to the finals by beating Brewer and Billy Tirrell, a local team, 6-1, 6-0. Genter and Lebourveau will clash with Angeles and Kenyon in the other half of the semi-finals this morning. ARNOLD FAVORITE TO WIN AUTO CLASSIC TODAY

ALTOONA, Pa., Aug. 31.—(AP)—The favorite to win the 200-mile automobile race here tomorrow, Bill Arnold of Chicago, tonight was prepared to make his last bid for the national championship of the American Automobile association.

Arnold won the Indianapolis race and that at the local track here in June. Victory tomorrow, he believes, will assure him the 1930 auto racing championship.

However, Shorty Cantlon, his rival for honors, and Lou Meyer, thrice a winner on the local track, are expected to give him a stern battle. Arnold qualified at 124.3 miles an hour, the fastest preliminary time. He was followed four miles slower by Deacon Litz, of Dubois, Pa.

Twelve of 22 drivers who entered will take the mark tomorrow. The others were unable to make the required speed of 103 miles an hour.

HARD LUCK ATTACHES ITSELF TO BRITISH BOATS

DETROIT, Aug. 31.—(AP)— Misfortune, which again hounded Miss Marion Barbara Carstairs yesterday in the first heat of the Harmsworth trophy races, pounced on the first heat of the international race for five and a half liter hydroplanes today.

The Phantom, driven by H. Luetcher Brown, of Houston, Tex., capsized when a patrol boat crossed its path. Hubert Scott Paine's challenger, Miss Britain 1, after making a sudden stop to offer assistance, was forced out by engine trouble and the regatta committee declared it no contest and ordered the heat re-run tomorrow.

The Phantom's crew, uninjured, was picked up by a patrol boat.

Today is Labor Day

It is a day when the laboring man and those supposed to labor forget work and get out into the wide open spaces for rest and recreation. Folks, ain't that sumpin?

But to us of the newspaper profession, it's just another day. In fact, the newspaper boys have to work harder on these holidays than on any others.

Oh, I most forgot. Those of the policing profession have to labor today also, or I might say, have to be on their beats. Now, Bert, that's not new. Of course it's a profession, doesn't every cop profess to be an officer?

Yes sir, Labor day is a great day. You don't have to work but it's a ten to one bet that you'll get into the little trundle bed tonight feeling a whole lot more tired than if you'd been on the job all day.

Those who have been bitten by the golfing bug will walk some ten or a dozen miles after an elusive little white ball. They'll trudged up and down hill without a word of complaint but if they were on the job they'd take the elevator to go up one story.

The difference between work and play is that you get paid to work but you're willing to pay to play.

It's a great life just the same.

BOOTS GREENE PITCHES IDEALS TO EASY VICTORY

With Boots Greene striking out 13 men and keeping the eight hits he allowed well scattered the Ideals defeated the Fisk Rubber team, 8 to 1 on Sunday afternoon at the J. B. Martin field. Not only did Boots pitch brilliant ball but he secured two hits. The Ideals got away to a good start, scoring three runs in the first inning to which they added one in the fifth and four in the sixth. The Rubbermen did not score until the first half of the ninth inning when they manager to push one run across the plate, thereby saving themselves a shut-out. The score:

At Willimantic Sunday afternoon, The Shymas dropped a hard-fought game, 4 to 2, to the Chapman Aces of that city. BROUILLARD BREAKS LEFT HAND IN BOUT AT KEANE

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Aug. 31—Lefty Lou Brouillard, Danielson's outstanding fighter, broke his good left hand in a bout at Keane, N. H., the past week, and will be idle from his ring activities for sometime to come. Yet, after his hand cracked up he went on to win a decision.

FIRST GAME OF INTER-CITY SERIES WILL BE PLAYED AT ACADEMY CAMPUS TODAY

TODAY'S LINEUP

Kaceys	Polish Citizens
Coyle, c	c, Lamorey
Daniels, p	p, J. Greene
Joe McInnes, 1b	1b, West
Barry, 2b	2b, Jarvis
Tuneski, ss	3b, Finn

Ryan, cf	cf, Gaudette

Game called at 3 o'clock.

At the Academy campus this afternoon the Polish Citizens and the Kaceys, winners of the city leagues in Norwich and New London, respectively, tangle in the first of a five-game series for the inter-city title. Both teams are strong aggregations and each romped through their respective leagues against keen opposition with little or no trouble. The Citizens, which loked like the best team early in the season got away to a bad start but as soon as they hit their stride they mowed down all opposing teams without mercy and went to the top of the league to stay.

The Citizens present as well-balanced a team as has ever represented the city and a curious thing about this club is that every man on it can be used as a pitcher, each having taken his turn in the box at some time or other. Besides their pitching ability, the Citizens have as heavy hitting club as any in the state, all having finished the season with a mark of .300 or better and two or three batting well over .400.

Manager Rizinski's choice for mound duty is Johnny Greene, speed-ball artist, with his brother Boots held in reserve. Johnny, if he is given good support, should be able to hold the Kaceys, who are not fond of speedy pitching.

Manager O'Connell will oppose Greene with Tillie Daniels, former Bulkeley high school star. Tillie is no stranger to Norwich baseball fans, who know him as a real hurler who for three years stood the Academy teams on their heads. Backstopping for Tillie will be Bill Coyle, who has been ball playing around these parts for the past 20 years or more. This battery should give the Citizens something to worry over, to say nothing of the heavy stickers like Bill Barry, Joe McInnes, Ryan and Watterson.

But even with this array of heavy artillery stacked up against them the Citizens continue to rule 5 to 4 favorites in the opening game. It is reported that New London followers are delighted at the odds and are bringing up their shekels in baskets and are even willing to wager the baskets if necessary.

Hank Morin and Bill McKnight will be the umpires.

THOMPSON DEFENDS HIS TITLE DURING THIS WEEK

NEW YORK, Aug. 31—(AP)—Young Jack Thompson's first defense of his welterweight title heads the nation's boxing card this week.

The Los Angeles Negro who dethroned Jackie Fields in May, battles Tommy Freeman, rugged Cleveland star, for 15 rounds at Cleveland Friday night. Freeman, 26 years old, has fought more than 100 battles since he began in 1921, and has suffered only one knockout—by Joe Dundee in 1926. Thompson, however, will be a strong favorite.

Other boxing centers have little to offer in the way of high-class amusement. Cincinnati has a ten rounder on Thursday between Fidel LaBarba, retired undefeated flyweight champion, and Bushy Graham of Utica, N. Y., former world's bantamweight titleholder, both of whom now fight as featherweights. This battle was scheduled for last week but was postponed on account of LaBarba's illness.

Ernie Schaff, Boston heavyweight, takes on Babe Hunt of Ponca City, Okla., in a ten rounder at Fenway Park, Boston, Tuesday night.

Other bouts on the national schedule include:

Monday—At Kansas City, Mickey Cohen, Denver, vs Joe Glick, New York, lightweights, 10.

Tuesday—At New York, Queensboro stadium, Harry Smith, New York Negro, vs Gorilla Jones, Akron, O., Negro, middleweights, 12, and Joe Scalfaro, New York, vs Vidal Gregorio, Spain, bantamweights, 10; at Los Angeles, Bucky Lawless, Syracuse, N. Y., vs Sammy Jackson, Los Angeles, welterweights, 10; at Hollywood, Goldie Hess, Los Angeles, vs Hector McDonald, Vancouver, lightweights, 10; at Indianapolis, Meyer Grace, Philadelphia, vs Tommy Herman, Chicago, welterweights, 10.

Wednesday—At New York, Henderson's bowl, Ruby Goldstein, New York, vs Jack Zivic, Pittsburgh, welterweights, 10.

Thursday—At Columbus, O., Freddie Miller, Cincinnati, vs Babe Ruth, Louisville, featherweights, 10.

Friday—At Detroit, Bat Battalino, Hartford, Conn., vs Roger Bernard, Flint, Mich., featherweights (non title) 10.

JUNIOR LEAGUE TRANSFERS ACTION TO CAMPUS

With the close of the City league last week, the baseball fans of the city will no doubt turn to the Junior league for their baseball during the coming week. Arrangements have been made to finish the Junior league schedule at the Academy and with three teams still fighting it out for the top position, there is bound to be plenty of interest.

The Duwells at present are leading the circuit with seven victories and one defeat while the Rotary club and the Elks are close behind with seven wins and two losses. The Duwells have two more games yet to play, one with the Rotary on Tuesday and the other with the Elks, probably on Thursday, and with all three teams so closely bunched, the league winner will be decided by these two games. The Duwells and Rotary played a 1 to 1 tie game about two weeks ago so Tuesday's game should give the fans their money's worth. In case the Duwells win, the Rotary will be put out of the race, although the Elks will still have a chance to tie, provided they defeat the Duwells on Thursday. If the Rotary wins all three teams will still have a chance, depending on the outcome of the Duwell-Elks game.

It is planned to start all games at 6:15 p. m., sharp.

WORCESTER, Mass., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Holy Cross football activities will start next week when 45 candidates will report Tuesday to Captain John J. McEwan, head coach. Eighteen members of last year's varsity squad will report, with 27 members of the 1929 freshman squad. Holy Cross opens its season with St. Bonaventure, September 27.

It was the former Three Eye league strike-out king's second victory in as many starts.

Jimmy Moore, a new White Sox rookie from Little Rock, pitched well but weakened in the seventh when the Tigers nicked him for three runs. The score:

SHORES PITCHES ATHLETICS TO A CLOSE DECISION

BOSTON, Aug. 31—(AP)—The Athletics defeated the Boston Red Sox 2 to 1 here today behind the three hit pitching of Bill Shores, who had slightly the better of Danny MacFayden in a pitcher's duel.

The Red Sox made only one hit after the first inning, when they scored for the only time on singles by Scarritt and O. Miller with a stolen base in between. The Athletics tied the count in the second on a pass to Foxx and singles by Bing Miller and Boley. West and Lary led the batters with three safe hits each. Babe Ruth's sprained back kept him out of the New York line-up again.

INDIANS SCORE HEAVILY TO TURN BACK BROWNS

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 31.—(AP)—One big inning in which ten runs were scored was more than enough to give the Cleveland Indians a 17 to 6 victory over the St Louis Browns in the opening game of a series here today.

Thirteen men went to bat for Cleveland in the big seventh inning. Hodapp and Morgan contributed home runs in that frame besides getting another hit each.

Walter Stewart, who has won 16 games for the Brownies this year, was the losing pitcher.

HALLAHAN HOLDS CUBS TO FOUR HITS AS CARDS WIN

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Wild Bill Hallahan held the Cubs to four hits today and the St. Louis Cardinals trounced the National league champions, 8 to 5, to even the series at two each. Outside of the eighth, when the Cubs bunched three of their safeties, Hallahan was in no danger, and embellished his triumph by striking out 12 men. Jess Petty started for the Cubs, but was batted out of action in four innings. Guy Bush succeeded him and fared little better, and Lynn Nelson and Al Shealy finished without further Cardinal scoring.

The game was the final of the Cubs' home stand and sent them abroad with a record of 16 victories and seven defeats since the first of the month.

GIANTS GET EVEN BREAK IN GAMES WITH BRAVES

NEW YORK, Aug. 31—(AP)—With the opportunity of picking up a game and a half on the league leading Cubs, the Giants could only break even in a double header with the Braves here this afternoon as they squeezed through to win the first game, 4 to 3, but dropped the second duel of sluggers, 14 to 10.

A four-run rally in the fourth inning overcame the Braves' three run lead to win the opener, and a five-run furore in the fifth frame tied the score in the second contest, but even the heavy hitting of Melvin Ott, who slammed out a double and three home runs, could not bring victory to the Giants in the twilight session.

The Braves hammered Chaplin, Donohue, Pruett and Parmalee for a total of eighteen hits and pulled away after the Giants had caught up. The Giants made fifteen safe blows off Zachary and Cantwell, but the latter managed to stagger through to victory with the aid of his ball-mauling mates. The scores:

ROBINS POUND SWEETLAND FOR 23 HITS AND GAME

BROOKLYN, Aug. 31—(AP)—The Robins fell upon Sweetland and Hansen for 23 hits this afternoon and easily beat the Phillies 14 to 3. Adolfo Luque went the route for the victors.

It was the first game here since a new 20 foot screen had been constructed atop the right field fence at Ebbets field. The screen was entirely ignored by the players who celebrated the occasion with five homers. Wright, Bressler and Whitney hit home runs into the left field bleachers and Herman and Hurst hit home runs completely over the new screen. The score:

REDS TURN ON PIRATES TO WIN EASILY 4 TO 1

CINCINNATI, Aug. 31—(AP)—After taking four straight drubbings at the hands of the Pirates, the Reds arose today and took a 4 to 1 decision over Pittsburgh behind the splendid pitching of Eppa Rixey, who held the Buccaneers to nine scattered hits.

Rixey was never in danger except in the fifth inning when the Pirates counted their only tally. Hemsley singled to center with one out and Rixey let loose a wild one that hit Brame on the hand. P. Waner scored Hemsley with another single to center. The score:

HORSE RACING AT FAIRGROUND TODAY

Lovers of fine saddle horses will throng the Fairgrounds this afternoon to see the program of horse racing, dog scaling and trick riding being sponsored by Nemrod Grotto. Practically all the riding academies in Eastern Connecticut have entered their star riders and horses in the races so that plenty of action, keen racing and thrills are in store for those attending this afternoon.

The race attracting the most attention is that between Lady Etta, Miss Pendleton's wonder horse, and Blaze Worthy, owned by Sterrill M. Chase. These two horses have raced before with various results and there is exceptionally keen interest in the race today.

Among the features will be the Morgan Chaney outfit from East Lyme, which will put on a rodeo in competition with other of the Eastern Connecticut outfits. H. Miller will be the local entry in the rope throwing and trick riding. Miller has been hard at work during the past few weeks perfecting his art and will show the public a few new stunts which will take the novelty honors.

The dog scaling contest will be another feature of the afternoon, as there are several brilliant dogs entered who have scaled near record heights. Brunolof, Sterrill M. Chase's entry, is expected to get plenty of competition from a Hartford-owned scaler, who issued a challenge recently and which Mr Chase accepted.

There will be a band concert during the afternoon. This afternoon's entertainment is expected to draw exceptionally large numbers as this event will be the best ever seen in Connecticut.

BOTH RETAIL AND WHOLSALE TRADE SHOWED IMPROVEMENT LAST WEEK

NEW YORK, Aug. 31—(AP)—The closing days of a summer of exceedingly trying economic readjustments, aggravated by blistering heat, have produced a few signs distinctly encouraging to harassed merchant and manufacturer.

The past week in trade and industry has been a period when vacation absences are heavy, and not normally a period of shift acceleration of business activity. But indications of increasing energy have been evident.

The period contrasts sharply with these days of a year ago. At the end of August in 1929, statistics clearly indicated with rising stock prices that industrial depression seemed too thoroughly outmoded to be considered as more than a vague possibility.

About a year of painful deflation, ending in levels of depression, as measured by most statistical indices, not experienced in about eight years, has passed, but many prominent bankers and economists now look for almost steady, if perhaps gradual and only seasonal betterment. Business sentiment remains gloomy in many quarters, but it is pointed out that while this may impede the progress of recovery, it also suggests that pitfalls will be avoided.

Statistics coming to hand during the past week indicate that since the middle of August, a turn has come. The movement of revenue freight and the production of coal have increased a little more than the normal seasonal trend would call for. As closely as it can be measured, steel mill operations have perhaps gained a little more than is expected at this time of year. The drop in building appeared to be checked. Both retail and wholesale trade have shown more activity during the past week. Several advertising agencies report that extensive programs are being worked out. Comparisons with recent years are not cheering in most cases, but the trend seems to have changed.

The automobile industry continued to operate at low and cautious levels. The lumber and shoe industries remained quiet. Hardware and machine tool demand was said to be showing some gains. Particularly cheering was a slight upturn in building activity over the levels of July.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Security and commodity markets and banks will be closed tomorrow in observance of the holiday.

Substantial purchases of new equipment this year, with a maintenance condition that is the best in the history of the road, are mentioned by President C. E. Denney of the Erie railroad as "evidence of our confidence in the future." Delivery has started, Mr. Denney says, on 500 50-ton steel box cars, 800 all steel hopper cars, and 450 all steel drop-end gondolas. Other equipment has been promised for delivery in September and October.

Two hundred thousand horsepower will be added to the total controlled by the Union Carbide and Carbon Co when two new power projects of subsidiary companies in West Virginia are completed next March. The output will be utilized by a proposed plant at Boncar, W. Va. This plant is a project of the Electro Metallurgical Co., a Union Carbide subsidiary.

SCHOOL OR JOB?

September is with us once more and with it there must come the very important decision as to whether those who have completed their grammar school course are going to seek a better education. For many the decision has already been made. For others it cannot be delayed much longer.

It is a time when the boy or girl needs the helpful advice of parents and friends. There are those who may be better equipped to secure a higher education than others but the mistake of not attaching proper value to education while it is obtainable should be recognized when further studies are possible rather than in later years when they are not.

James E. West, editor of Boys' Life, has much of value to say on this subject. He urges every boy to finish his course, and he points out that "Never before has there been such a need for educated men as there is today. Hundreds of new positions, requiring educated and trained persons to handle them, are developing annually."

After showing that the better educated boys are receiving better pay, Mr. West continues: "Emerson remarked once that America is another word for opportunity. That is very true. Perhaps in no other country in the world today are the opportunities for advancement, service and happiness so great as in the United States. But America is another word for opportunity only to the boy who is trained to make the most of it. If you read the biographies of the outstanding men of America today, you will see that, when they were boys, they seized every opportunity for study and advancement.

"My advice to every boy is, get a good education, both general and technical. It is my conviction that the boy who really wants an education can get it. He will have to make sacrifices and work hard. But he should make up his mind definitely that he will not be handicapped through all his future life by a lack of education."

Further golden advice is given when he declares: "Men advance only in proportion as their brains are active and trained. My message to every boy is to secure the necessary training for advancement. Cultivate the habit of learning. The great need of America today is for leaders, men of character, men of action, men of education. It is the boys of today who must supply this need tomorrow. Get in the habit of looking ahead, planning always for at least a little more knowledge before you stop studying and learning, if you want to become one of tomorrow's leaders."

FIGHTING BLEASE

Almost before the voters of Texas definitely determined that they had had enough of the Ferguson family and refused to return them to office, it is established beyond a doubt that there must be a run-off primary in South Carolina to determine who is to be the United States senator from that state to succeed Cole Blease.

If we can judge by the number of votes cast for other candidates, there is plenty of opposition to the desire of Senator Blease to succeed himself. Whether that opposition can be consolidated is the question which the second primary must determine.

Senator Blease has been a prominent political figure in his own state. He has held about every office within the gift of his constituents. He has played politics by opening the gates of penitentiaries, he has come out as a strong supporter of lynching and even defended it in his campaign speeches, he has admitted that he was a wet but, knowing that South Carolina was dry, had voted dry though his policy in many instances has been a decidedly personal one. He has been in public life for years but he has aroused opposition within his own party. He has so conducted himself in the greatest office he has ever held as to create the impression that someone else would do the job better. South Carolina has figured prominently in the senate of the United States. It cannot forget its Tillman and, even though Tillmans are not available at every corner, the efforts of Blease to measure up to his predecessor's prominence and service or to gain the esteem in which he was held have not succeeded.

Now it remains to be seen whether the democrats of South Carolina want him to go back or stay at home, for the democratic nomination in that state equals an election.

PORTO RICO'S NEEDS

Much attention is being directed to conditions which exist in Porto Rico and from the reports furnished there would appear to be reason for it.

Following the devastating effects of the hurricane in that island we received good and sufficient reasons for [illegible] and it was done in a manner that was of great benefit to the island. But it is not solely from the hurricane that Porto Rico suffers. The island has ills that are of much greater age, handicaps which were accentuated by the hurricane but which, nevertheless, need persistent treatment. It is far more than a temporary situation which needs attention.

Governor General Roosevelt made a survey of conditions there soon after his appointment and he was able to show how the island is lacking in educational facilities, hospital equipment and a proper sanitary system.

His statement of conditions there has made a lasting impression, but it is given added emphasis by the survey which has been made by the American Child Health association, which points to the underfed, stunted and diseased children, the prevalence of diseases which have a most detrimental effect upon the people in general, the future citizens, and particularly those of the poorer classes, among whom there is much poverty and little inducement to change their status from generation to generation.

Porto Rico is one of the insular possessions that suffers from overpopulation and the situation is made all the worse by the destitution, failure to deal adequately with the health problem and the educational requirements.

While the island has been greatly helped since it became a part of the United States, it has not made progress as rapidly as conditions call for. With the situation set forth by different agencies there appears to be a real opportunity for this country, and all those interested in bettering just such conditions, to see that the necessary aid be given to the island in effecting the needed changes as rapidly as possible. It appears to be a field for real humanitarian work.

HIGHWAY ADVERTISING

In support of the efforts that have been made by various organizations for the removal of advertising signs along the highways in order that highway users may have a chance to enjoy the unmarred countryside, President Woolsey of the Connecticut Forest and Park association declares "the time had come for the cities of every state of this country to rise up and insist that outdoor advertising along highways be done away with."

It is a view that is consistent, considering the efforts that are being made by the organization of which Colonel Woolsey is the head. In endeavoring to give the people of this state, state forests and parks for the enjoyment of nature and recreation, there cannot fail to be brought home the detrimental effects which are created by the erection of highway signs that deny to highway users the very things which the association is endeavoring to provide. But Colonel Woolsey also says that "these signs are often an actual menace to travel and are certainly unsightly eyesores."

Sufficient reasons have been set forth against the roadside advertising signs to prompt legislation against them in many states. With more and more people using the highways, it can be easily recognized that those whose safety is involved and those whose views are obstructed are certain to add their protests to those which have already been heard. And as that swelling chorus rolls across the land there are reasons for believing that it will set in motion those necessary efforts which will result in increased condemnation of the policy of roadside advertising for such effect as it may have upon those interested in it and in securing remedial legislation where that is needed. The movement is by no means new nor insignificant.

FEDERAL RESERVE GOVERNORSHIP

It is perfectly evident that while Roy A. Young governor of the federal reserve board, is leaving that responsible position and taking up the duties of president of the federal reserve bank at Boston he may be going from a high position of importance to a subordinate one, but he is at the same time stepping into a high salary.

Mr. Young has been at the head of the reserve board during a trying period. He has measured up to the responsibilities of the office in keeping with expectations. He has continued to retain the governorship for months longer than would have been necessary had he considered that he should accept other duties upon call. He weighed his responsibilities conscientiously, stuck by the governorship until the credit structure of the country was put in an easy and strong condition and then told the president that he would like to be relieved because he could not longer afford to continue the sacrifice of holding the high office with a small salary when the Boston offer with double the salary was before him.

In the caliber of service rendered and in standing by the reserve board during times of stress, Mr. Young justified the confidence that was placed in him when he was placed at the head of the reserve board. The directors of the Boston bank have recognized their opportunity to secure an exceptional successor to those who have stood at the head of that institution. This means much to New England, but it raises the question as to whether the time will ever come when the government will be able to command the services of the country's best men against the attractions of better-paying jobs.

IT'S DIFFICULT TO PROPOSE

Everybody liked Walter Hemmingway. And everybody in the office somehow took a special interest in him since the day when he let it slip that he'd probably never get married because he thought that proposing must be a very difficult thing.

Walter was eminently marriageable. The girls in the office whose homes were particularly happy often found points of similarity between Walter and their fathers. He was gentle and courteous, had a sence of humor, and worked right along with the department when the rush season came. He had a good position as head of the accounting division.

The rush season was on now. Inventory, preparations for auditing and closing the books were keeping the department busy every evening.

To help during the rush the department took on three new girls. One of them was Helena Doermer.

On the way out one evening for dinner, Miss Reynolds, who had charge of the girls in the general office and Miss Polk, secretary to the treasurer, glanced through the glass partitions into the accounting department.

"Have you noticed that new girl?" asked Miss Reynolds. "The one whose desk is nearest Mr. Hemmingway's?" Miss Polk made a quick feminine survey of Helena.

"Nice looking, isn't she? Rather striking?"

"Do you know," Miss Reynolds went on, "I can't help thinking what a wonderful couple they would make."

Miss Polk laughed. "Are you going to turn matchmaker?" she bantered. In denying the charge, Miss Reynolds developed her reasons. They seemed good ones.

Perhaps they seemed equally good to Walter Hemmingway. His eyes strayed often enough from the work on his desk, and he was conscious of a nagging feeling that he was going to hate to see Miss Doermer go after the rush was over.

Usually he brushed such thoughts aside impatiently and went back to his work, whistling softly as was his wont. The department was emptying gradually as the workers went singly, or in pairs, to have dinner.

"What was that song you were whistling just now?"

Walter looked up, a bit startled. Miss Doermer was standing beside her desk ready to go.

"Why—why," stammered Walter. "I hardly know—let's see. Oh, yes; it was 'Knowest Thou Yonder Land?'"

Miss Doermer thanked him and went her way. Walter whistled it over again. When he returned from his own evening meal the department was busily at work. He sat down at his desk and commenced checking some figures, whistling as usual. With a moment of self-consciousness, as he realized that he had just gone over the aria again, he glanced in Miss Doermer's direction. Her eyes met his in fleeting glance with the hint of a smile in them.

The rush continued for the better part of the month. Then the department returned to normal, the extra desks, and the girls who had worked at them, disappeared. Within two or three weeks it was made known that Walter was taking a two-week trip, a honeymoon trip. His companion would be Helena Doermer.

Griswold, secretary of the company, an old man and, on the surface, a gruff one, stopped at Walter's desk.

"What's this the president's been telling me? Going to get married, eh? Thought you were too timid to propose?"

Walter laughed and shrugged his shoulders.

"I'll say you worked fast," continued Griswold. "That girl was only here for about three weeks. You timid chaps—bah! How'd you screw up the necessary courage?"

But Walter only shrugged his shoulders again, and turned to his work as Griswold went up the aisle between the desks. For the next hour, as he worked, Walter whistled. A keen observer might have found something significant in the sequence of the tunes he whistled, from "The Sunshine of Your Smile" to the wedding march from Lohengrin. Helen Doermer had—Chicago News.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug 31—The great drought of 1930 had its aspect of coincidence.

It fell within the term of President Hoover, the man most experienced in the country certainly, perhaps in the world, with organization of relief measures against actual or prospective food shortage involving great numbers of people.

Assuming that Mr. Hoover never had entered politics, but at the end of the World war had gone back to private life, would he still have had a share in organizing relief work in 1930?

What would any president, republican or democrat, have been apt to do when faced with the 1930 drought situation and with Hoover available for draft?

One After Another

Here is a president whose political career grew out of his selection to organize food and other American relief work in Belgium.

You never heard of anybody but Hoover in that connection. That led naturally to his appointment by President Wilson as war-time food administrator. No one else ever was considered for the job.

And that, again, was a food shortage problem, not for Americans, but for the people of the allied countries.

The war over and before Mr. Hoover's party alignment in politics had been discovered, again he was the instant choice to lead American famine relief work in Russia and the Near East.

Push along another few years and the Mississippi flood disaster offered Hoover another chance. He was commerce secretary then. His cabinet colleague, Dwight Davis, was war secretary and it was army engineers and army supplies that were drafted to afford first government aid to flood-sufferers.

But it was Hoover, not Davis, to whom President Coolidge turned to head the federal commission he named to survey the situation and organize the relief job. And that, too, when Hoover was openly a candidate for the republican presidential nomination.

Turning Point?

Now, as president, Mr. Hoover has moved to meet the drought emergency. He is his own chief of organization.

Political ill-luck has dogged Mr. Hoover since he entered the white house. The stock market crash and its aftermath, the battles with the senate over farm relief, tariff and supreme court nominations, the developments that compelled complete reorganization of his national committee on the eve of the bye-elections—all these have raised democratic hopes for both 1930 and 1932.

Perhaps the drought will prove to be a turning point for Hoover. The chance seems to be there, hand-picked to suit his unique experience.

(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

We continue today our discussion on the various aspects of so-called failures in life.

The man who is nursing a case of dyspepsia and grouch may be having bad luck on the stock market or at a game of cards, or perhaps he is having a hard time to get along with his wife, but there's little doubt that as a child he was also a poor loser and had pretty much his own way. He just wasn't given a chance to learn about the gives and takes of life.

Then there is the woman who can't sleep nights, has to go to bed with a sick headache every week or so, or is afraid she's going to die and in general is quite miserable most of the time, just because some over protective parent or friend during her early life, without realizing it, instilled some fears into her personality. Of course, it may be an unsympathetic husband, or the ever present children who put too much strain on her emotional make-up, and aggravate her fears.

Many parents and teachers do not realize the fact that they are godheads to their children and can do no wrong. The children naturally conclude that what these adults do is what they should do; whether it be to get angry, lie, steal, alibi or procrastinate. Once started these practices may become habits, and since example is far more impressive than precept it can hardly be expected that laws and regulations placed upon these children when they grow up will be honored.

You can thus see that what we say and do to our children may be the real cause of our failure later on in life, but fortunately, mental hygiene and child guidance is helping to right much of the wrong that has been done and is preventing such errors in the future. The ideal of mental hygiene is the attainment of mental health, which means the ability of persons to support themselves and yet be happy.

Stories That Recall Others

Extreme Affection

New expressions of love always brought a repetition from Bobby, to the delight of his father on returning home each evening.

"Bobby," the father greeted him, "I love you so much, it hurts."

Bobby laughed, bestowed a kiss and ran to play. A little later he dashed up to his father and said: "Daddy, I love you so much it's sore."

Nautical Difficulties

Jane's mother bought her a toy sail boat and told her to put some water in the bathtub and sail it. Fifteen minutes later Jane came out on the front porch with the toy boat in her hand.

"Why aren't you sailing your boat?" asked her mother.

"Oh, the tub ran over and the boat kept falling out," replied Jane calmly, "and I got tired of putting it back again."

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

AN UNDERGROUND HOUSE

By Thornton W. Burgess

Be careful how and when you speak,
But keep your tongue within your cheek.
—Impy the Chipmunk.

Impy, the black chipmunk, was happy. Impy was working and that was why he was happy. Nothing makes for greater happiness than work. I know that some of you will have hard work to believe this. You think that play makes for happiness. Play dies make for happiness that you get from work well done. Ask Striped Chipmunk if this isn't so. Ask Impy.

Impy had never done any work before. He had nothing but play. You see, while he was growing up there was nothing for him to do but to eat, sleep and play. But now that he wanted a home of his own, he must work to get it, and he was working.

"Well, well!" exclaimed Blacky. "Who told you you could wear black?"

"I want to get a good bedroom," said Impy, as he dug and pushed the sand out in a shining heap. Most of that sand had to go out on the surface you know. He did find some places where he could pack sand in around some stones, and this helped. "Yes, sir," continued Impy, talking to himself for lack of any one else to talk to, "I want a good, comfortable bedroom, and I want it deep enough in the ground to be comfortable in the cold winter I've heard about. Of course, I have never known a winter yet, but from all I've been told it is well to be far enough down in the ground to be warm. I may as well build it now as by and by. Besides, I want it to sleep in."

So when Impy reached the right point, or what he thought was the right point, he began digging a bedroom. It was oval in shape and big enough to accommodate more than himself. You see, Impy believed in being comfortable. He intended to make a good bed in there and have plenty of room to turn around, as the saying is. Once in a while he would stop outside to rest, for digging is hard work. He would climb up on the pile of stones or sometimes up on a fence post. Once as he climbed up on a fence post he discovered Blacky the crow sitting on the next fence post.

"Well, well!" exclaimed Blacky. "Who told you you could wear black? Black belongs to my family. Where is your striped coat?"

"I haven't any striped coat," replied Impy. "Black may belong to your family, but it belongs to me, too. Old Mother Nature gave me this black coat and there is nothing for me to do but to wear it."

Blacky nodded. "That's right," said he. "We all have to do what Mother Nature tells us we must do. But, tell me, where did you come from and what are you doing here? Are you one of Striped Chipmunk's children?"

Impy nodded and answered the last question first. "Striped Chipmunk is my father," said he, "and, of course, I came from the old stone wall. As to what I am doing here, that is my business."

The eyes of Blacky the crow twinkled. "Of course," said he, "of course. Have you decided to make a home around here, or are you going on to see more of the great world?"

Impy's eyes twinkled this time. "That, too, is my business," said he.

"And I suppose that little pile of sand over back of those stones is your business, too," said Blacky. "However, I won't tell anybody about it. No, sir, I won't tell anybody about it.

Impy couldn't find a word to say, so he whisked down the post and disappeared in the pile of stones, while Blacky the crow chuckled.

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

Chase Companies, Inc., Waterbury

The first and original plant of the Chase Company, Inc., was the Waterbury Manufacturing company, which was founded in 1837. It was formerly called Hitchcocks and later became known as the United States Button company, 1876 it was incorporated under the new name of Waterbury Manufacturing company and in 1882 it employed about 37 men in contrast with several thousand employed today.

By 1900 it used so much brass that a new plant called the Chase Rolling Mill company was built to cast and roll the metal needed. Gradually this second unit of the company entered the market as producers of Chase brass sheet, rod, wire and tubing.

Later, in 1910, with a view to the future of the brass business, a second brass mill, the Chase Metal Works, was founded. It is today one of the largest and best equipped brass and copper mills in the country.

In 1917 these three plants, the Waterbury Manufacturing company, the Chase Rolling Mill Co. and the Chase Metal Works were merged into Chase Companies, Inc.

In 1921 Chase brass and copper warehouses were soon added in important manufacturing cities.

In 1927 the Chase Companies, Inc., bought the U. T. Hungerford Brass & Copper company, who also operated brass and copper warehouses in principal cities.

Both the Chase and Hungerford chains of warehouses were united and merged into a separate company named the Chase Brass and Copper Co. Inc., which in addition to its warehouse business also acts as the selling and distributing company for the products from the mills of Chase Companies, Inc.

In 1928 construction was started on a new mid-western Chase mill in Euclid Village, Cleveland, Ohio. This Chase Brass and Copper company plant will be one of the largest brass and copper mills in the west and will eventually represent a $6,000,000 investment. It will give better service to mid-western brass and copper users as Cleveland is a logical center for mid-western manufacturers.

The chain of Chase Brass & Copper company warehouses is now the largest and most complete brass and copper warehouse system in the world. Its line of warehouses is still being added to and the company has definitely embarked on a policy of distributing Chase brass and copper products either direct from the mill or from local warehouse stocks.

Officers of the Chase Brass and Copper company are: F. S. Chase, president; R. L. Cole, vice-president and general sales manager; J. R. Van Brunt, vice-president; R. D. Ely, treasurer; C. E. Hart, secretary; Rodney Chase, assistant secretary and advertising manager; W. A. Purdy, comptroller; F. A. Jackle, superintendent of plants.

POETRY

"The Little Bronze Button"
(To the tune, "Old Oaken Bucket.")

How dear to the heart of each gray-headed veteran
Are the thoughts of the days while he still wore the blue;
While memory recalls every accident and danger,
And scenes of the past are brought back to his view.
Though long since discarding the arms and equipment,
There is one thing the veteran most surely will note,
The first thing he spies on the form of a comrade
Is the little bronze button he wears on his coat.

Chorus:
This little bronze button was made from the cannon
That fired the shells in the battles won,
It's a sacred token, yes, it's a blood-bought emblem,
This Grand Army button is worn only by loyal men.

"How much did it cost?" asked the man of the veteran,
"That little bronze button you wear on your coat;"
"Ten cents in good money," he answered the stranger,
"With four years of marching and fighting to boot."
The wealth of the world could not purchase that button
Unless the wearer once wore the blue,
For it shows to mankind the true marks of a hero,
A man to honor and country proved true.

Chorus:
Then let us remember that little bronze button
And wear it with honor both noble and bold;
And fraternally welcome all who uphold it,
For the love in our hearts for the comrades of old.
Each day musters out whole battalions of wearers,
And soon will be missed that token so dear,
But millions will come who will remember with honor
The men who had the right that button to wear.

NORWICH TOWN PASTOR PREACHES FINAL SERMON OF HIS PASTORATE

A large congregation which included several from other churches, Christ Episcopal, Park Congregational, Trinity Methodist Episcopal, friends from Springfield, as well as some of the clergy in Norwich, attended the First Congregational church, Sunday morning, when the retiring pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey gave his farewell message. His pastorate at the Norwich Town church closed on Sunday.

The Scripture reading from the 20th chapter of Acts by Rev. Charles E. Reeves, the hymns sung and lastly the beautiful message left with his parishioners by whom Rev. Mr. Bailey has been a beloved pastor, were all in keeping with the spirit of the day. The first hymn, Holy Spirit, Truth Divine, one used more than any other during his pastorate here, and a favorite of Rev. Mr. Bailey, who said it appeals to the heart, also I've Found a Friend, O Such a Friend and the Churches One Foundation in closing. Just prior to his fervent prayer, Rev. Mr. Bailey baptized Elsie Louise Main, infant daughter of Allen Nelson and Florence Wheeler Main.

"On With the Church" was the theme of the inspiring sermon.

Rev. Mr. Bailey said his farewell sermon was not necessarily a personal reference. The day is unique for me. I have given three farewell sermons before, saying good-bye before one congregation, while another group was waiting to welcome me. Today it is different, I look into a blank space. My purpose though in the future is to be helpful in proficient cordial good taste, like my brother Charles Reeves who has been so very helpful to me in a most courteous manner, I am willing to follow his example. I am conscious my work is unfinished here. A minister has a different work than an accountant, it is something that cannot be finished. Character building, thank God, is something that cannot be finished. One sows, the other reaps.

Rev. Mr. Bailey in alluding to his activities here in a general way stated that he should miss many things when he goes out of this parish connected with the church. "I have enjoyed the beautiful home provided, which was a real delight to Mrs. Bailey, situated in such a pleasant domain, with 40 trees in nearby surroundings, often counted. I have always enjoyed the Rocknookies and shall miss the personal greetings of these little folks when passing the home. I also shall miss the social life cultivating of acquaintances, shall miss the opportunities. I shall miss the prayer meetings rewarded to me, conference and themes for discussion on matters uppermost in my mind.

"Though I have officiated at many funeral services, some personal friends in the parish, others perfect strangers, I never could get myself hardened to a professional funeral service. They have taken strongest hold of my sympathies and reached the deepest in my heart, as I felt the affliction of the family.

"I shall miss the social gatherings. While with you I have been the host, I have been king, though now it will be different, when I come back I will have to be greeted. It has been a valuable experience, a reward to my heart when host. I make reference to the Christmas festivals, the voices of the children. I know of nothing that brings the melody of Heaven closer to us than to hear the children's voices."

Lastly, Rev. Mr. Bailey mentioned that he had enjoyed his preaching. "My themes have applied to things most appealing to my own heart and I hope to preach occasionally. I want some bridges to leave that I may come back to, the installation say, of your new pastor, the 275th anniversary of the church in 1935, and Mr. Yerrington's 50th organ recital January 1st, 1931. I go out cherishing the highest regard for you all, with a sense of benediction and good will."

With reference to the first lines of his theme, Rev. Mr. Bailey quoted, What are we as individuals compared with On With the Church? The benediction was by Rev. Mr. Bailey.

MISS WHITEHEAD FREED FROM CRIMINAL LIABILITY

Coroner Edward G. McKay has exonerated Miss M. Evelyn Whitehead of No. 8 Rogers avenue of criminal liability in causing the death of Nicholas Peterson, 50, of Worcester, Mass., who was killed by an automobile operated by Miss Whitehead. Coroner McKay's finding was announced Saturday. Peterson, a salesman, was fatally injured August 11th when the machine mounted the curbing on Main street, at the corner of Park street, and pinned him against a telegraph pole. In his finding Coroner McKay says:

The above mentioned collision occured on the northerly sidewalk of Main street, immediately west of the intersection of Park street with Main street, in Norwich. This latter street is the principal thoroughfare of the city, and at that point runs generally east and west. It is about 40 feet wide and runs over level ground. It is a hard surfaced road. Through the middle of the street two pairs of trolley tracks run. Just east of the intersection of Park street, there is a square known as Burnham square. Streets run into this square from the east, west and north.

Miss Whitehead had been in the central part of the city doing some shopping. She had taken her automobile from her home and had completed most of her shopping. She was accompanied by two nephews. These two children occupied the back seat of the car.

Miss Whithead had planned to purchase a cake of ice from her dealer station. The regular call of the ice man was late in the afternoon and she had planned to be away from home when he called. She had driven up to the station of the ice dealers but there was no one there to get the ice for her. She was informed that the ice wagon might be found in the center of the city. She eventually found the ice wagon at Franklin square, and purchased a large piece of ice. She had taken a large pan from home for the purpose of placing the ice therein. After she had purchased the ice she directed that it be placed in the pan which was resting in the front seat of her sedan car.

She started to return home, and was at that time headed east on Main street. She followed the usual custom of drivers in the city of going to Burham square to turn around a beacon there, so that she might return to her home in the Laurel Hill section. She drove up Main street and approached the beacon. When she arrived there a car came from the east and she allowed this car to pass in front of her before completing a circuit around the beacon. When she had gone probably fifty feet, she noted that the ice was moving out of its position on the seat to her right. She released her right hand from the driving wheel and pushed the ice with her elbow in an effort to correct its movement, at the same time leaving her left hand on the wheel.

When Miss Whitehead so pushed the ice, she apparently took her eyes from the road for the instant. This movement towards the ice caused her to turn the driving wheel toward the right. The front wheels of the automobile mounted the cross-walk which runs along the southerly end of Park street. They also hit the rounded curb at Park street and went on to the sidewalk. The machine at this time was out of control and struck Mr. Peterson who was standing beside a pole located about 5 feet from the Park street line.

Mr. Peterson had been standing on the east side of the pole on the sidewalk, near the intersection of Main street and Park street. He was apparently waiting for a trolley car and had placed himself at the trolley car waiting pole. While he was standing at this place the aforesaid automobile of Miss Whitehead came upon the sidewalk, struck him, and pinned him against the pole. The automobile held him there and he was not released until by-standers pushed the automobile away. When this was done he fell to the ground seriously injured. First aid was rendered to Mr. Peterson immediately and he was rushed to the local hospital. His injuries, however, were of a fatal nature and he died about an hour later.

This was a most lamentable accident. While it would have shown better judgment on the part of Miss Whitehead to have placed the ice in the rear seat, where it might have moved around freely without intering with the operation of the car; still, the fact that it was placed in the front seat does not constitute criminal negligence under the statute. If it were placed there wantonly and wilfully, instead of without thought of the consequences, there would be reason for another finding. At the time the car went off the road, it was being operated slowly and the act of protecting herself against the movement of the ice was more or less instinctive and could not be termed gross recklessness. A person is held under the statute when death is caused in consequence of any gross or wilful misconduct or negligence. There was none present in this case.

I am satisfied and find that the death of Nicholas Peterson was not caused by the criminal act, omission or carelessness of any other person or persons.

The witnesses were: Harry B. Ford, Norwich; William T. Driscoll, M. D., Norwich; Paul Labranche, Bolduc Lane, Taftville; Courtland Mott, 82 Garden St. New Britain; Sherwood Mott, 82 Garden St., New Britain; M. Evelyn Whitehead, Rodgers Ave., Norwich.

WILL GIVE HEARING ON YANTIC RIVER IMPROVEMENT

A hearing on the proposed improvement of the Yantic river will be held Sept. 16, at 11 a. m., in the common council chamber, by Major Charles J. Taylor, U. S. engineering office, of Providence. The hearing is public, being open to all interested in the project. A report with recommendations will be made later by Major Taylor to the rivers and harbors committee of congress.

The improvement of the river is urged by local concerns who have facilities along the river banks and who wish to have the river made navigable. A bridge on the West Side and the general shallowness and width of the river make it unnavigable.

Extent of the improvement desired; what increases in present traffic tonnages are possible if the desired improvement is obtained; what new water freight traffic would result from the further improvement; what specific savings or other material benefits could be effected by reason of further improvement; to what tonnages would these benefits apply; the possibility of cooperation by the local interests financially or otherwise.

All interested parties are invited to be present or to be represented at the above time and place, particularly navigation interests and the officials of the city, town, or local associations.

Oral statements will be heard, but for accuracy of record all important facts and arguments should be submitted in writing, as the record of the hearing will be forwarded for consideration by the war department. Written statements may be handed to the undersigned at the hearing or mailed to him beforehand. It will assist if such statements are submitted in triplicate (1 original and 2 carbon copies.)

RAINBOW LOBSTER PUZZLES EVEN THE OLD SEA-SALTS

Capt. Irving Hopkins, of the boat June, went out the Race to haul his pots, but his luck to catch lobsters was off, he getting not enough to pay for gasoline. He did not have a mate to pay off each week so that was in his favor. While waiting for the tide to change he thought he would try for blue fish, that is making a hit among the lobstermen. A smile came on his face when the blues were coming in fast. He had a fine catch of big fish. Looking at the clock in the cabin, the hands read time to get the fast slack and to call it a day.

The first few pots Capt. Hopkins hauled in he found sand crabs and eel grass, that gave him the lobsterman's blues. But he was not giving up, for there were plenty of pots to be hauled before the day went out of sight.

Capt. Hopkins had been out since 3 a. m. when the beach crabs were giving their morning calls. Soon the lobsters came good—the best luck the old salt had had this season. In the last pot of the day he found seven, one so large that he had to take off two laths of the pot. It weighed three pounds. One claw was yellow and black, the other ones brown, with a lemon color body, and it crawled funny. This would be a good one for Floyd Gibbons, the radio news finder to tell what the name of that shell fish is. It had the lobstermen guessing and everybody that saw the rainbow lobster and even the fisherman's book of 1,000 pages, couldn't tell the name. So a $5 prize will be given to the lobsterman who tells the correct name of the colorful shell fish. It has a name, for there is a name for anything that swims in the ocean from England to China and back again.

Hopkins had 150 pounds of lobsters and 170 blue fish—that was 500 pounds, yet, with a smile, he claimed it was not a good day for fishing.

One lobsterman spoke up in a gruff voice, "What do you want, captain? All the shell fish and the blue fish in the ocean?" That drew a laugh from the rest of the men. "Well," pulling his whiskers that were on his pointed chin; "son, there are enough out there for us all, to last for the next 1,000 years—and you might be there to catch them!" That was a wise crack from the sea-going captain.

The next day many people came from different places to see the pretty nameless shell fish that has them all guessing so far in the fishing village where old whalermen are scratching the few hairs on their heads trying to guess the name of the shell fish without a country. The other lobsters try to fight him but he doesn't let them get near. Captain Hopkins thought it was a good plan to keep his colored lobster away from the rest. The lone shell fish will be kept in a car until its name is guessed. If not it will be shipped to the captain's uncle out in Columbus, Ohio.

CENTRAL VILLAGE

FUNERAL

Charles Roper

The sudden death of Charles Roper, oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Roper, saddened his many school mates. He was a graduate of the local high school and was very popular. The cause of his death, after a few days illness, probably infantile paralysis, was the reason. A private funeral had to be held at his home.

John Kendall has finished work for the Yantic Grain Co. in Moosup.

James Kelleher and daughter Ruth, of Meriden, formerly of this village, were local visitors Friday.

Miss Hazel Edgerton and Miss Lois Stetson have returned from a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Walker at Southampton, L. I.

The Central Fire company was called out Friday noon for a burned-out transformer on the Green Hollow road, but was not needed. A short circuit caused the alarm. The firemen arrived soon and remedied the trouble in a short time.

WESTERLY

ST. LOUIS BOY FINED FOR DRUNKEN DRIVING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, Aug. 31.—Richard K Moll, aged 19 of St. Louis, Mo., and summer resident at Misquamicut with his father, was before Judge Oliver H Williams on Sunday noon in a special session of third district court, charged with the operation of an automobile on the Nooseneck Hill road while under the influence of liquor. He was apprehended on Sunday about 1:40 a. m., by Corp. Albert R. Taylor of the Hope Valley barracks of the Rhode Island state police department, who was engaged, with Trooper Sherwood F. Healey, in stopping all motor traffic to warn operators to observe caution in their driving.

When Trooper Healey, stationed some 300 or 400 feet on the north side of the Meeting House bridge over the Pawcatuck river, swung a red warning light, the defendant in putting on brakes swerved so that his car, in which were a man and woman companions, struck the side wall of the bridge and came back into the highway so as to strike an auto ahead which had been stopped by the warning light at the same time a car coming in the opposite direction was stopped. As a result the car struck received a broken right rear fender, a torn off hub cap and a broken rear bumper. None of the occupants of either car were injured.

As Moll stepped into the highway he was observed to stagger and the odor of alcohol was detected on his breath. He was brought to Westerly where he was examined by Dr Michael H. Scanlon, who pronounced him under the influence of liquor, as testified by Corporal Taylor.

The young man's father, who appeared in court with his son, said that the young man was worried and excited at the time, and he desired to have withdrawn the plea of guilty as entered by his son and one of nolo entered. Richard K. Moll told the court that he had been to the Misquamicut Country club at Watch Hill where he had taken some gin, a glass of ginger ale and had partaken of three glasses of punch at the club in which there was also some liquor.

Judge Williams carefully reviewed the case, even inquiring why defendant had not secured counsel, given bond for his court appearance, and then been in a position to have some "political drag" brought to bear to have the case kept from the court, as it was understood had been the case of a recent law violator at Misquamicut avenue where the young man's father was a lawyer. He said this was not directed against the state police department. Appearing in court were the young man's mother and grandmother, and Judge Williams stated that for him to be confronted by such relatives in court was almost punishment enough and should make a lasting impression. In finding the young man guilty and sentencing him to pay a fine of $50 and costs, Judge Williams declared that he could almost hear another case on the way to come before him. The telephone bell rang and the state police officer returned to the courtroom to say that a trooper was on his way to the courthouse to secure a warrant for a woman who had departed the scene of an automobile accident and it was desired to go over into Connecticut to see if she would not voluntarily return to the Rhode Island jurisdiction.

Westerly grange will hold a meeting in the Grange hall, Avondale, Tuesday evening, at which "Parcel Post" will be the subject for discussion with current events and singing. Some stunts and contests have also been arranged. Each one attending is expected to bring lunch for one wrapped as for mailing.

Miss Ruth F. Wilcox, daughter of Frank N. and Almira M. (Vaughn) Wilcox, stenographer at the Washington Trust Co., of 38 Grove avenue, was the guest of honor at a shower party held at the Chasanba lodge, Fort Hill, on Friday evening. The occasion, attended by some 15 of her associates, was in anticipation of her coming marriage in October to Frank Joseph Robertson, son of the late David and Catherine (Bloeser) Robertson, formerly in the employ of the United Fruit Co. in Central America. Mr. Robertson at the present time is connected with the export department of the New York office of the General Motors Corp.

Mrs. William A. Mills, wife of Dr W. A. Mills, of Danielson, former summer cottager at Pleasant View, with her parents and a sister of Charles O. Treat, of Norwich, was a Westerly week-end visitor. She was en route to her summer home at Matunuck Beach.

Miss Margaret I. Crockett, teller at the Washington Trust Co., has returned to her Pawcatuck home from a vacation motor trip in Maine.

The Misses Rachel E. and Lucinda Barber returned to their Westerly home the past week-end, from a vacation visit in the White Mountains during the past two weeks.

Miss Frances Dutton, safety deposit clerk in the Washington Trust Co., was the Labor day holiday visitor at her home in St Johnsbury, Vt.

Bourdon A. Babcock, of Pawcatuck, has been a vacation visitor the past week at his summer cottage at Charlestown Beach.

C. DeLoss Maxson, Jr., and Miss Dorothy Clark, of Pawcatuck, are Labor day visitors from Westerly on Block Island.

An east-bound freight of some 70 or 80 loaded cars was "frozen" near the Westerly station about 7 a. m. Sunday, when the locomotive, at the curve near the Coduri Granite Works was unable to move the train, the end of which was on the Pawcatuck river railroad bridge.

Miss Mary C. Wilcox, stenographer for the C. A. Morgan Co., Inc., and sister, Miss Ruth F. Wilcox, stenographer at the Washington Trust Co., are visitors in New York city.

Friends have heard from Arthur E. Thompson on a motor vacation trip with Pawcatuck residents through the Blue Ridge Mountains that on Saturday they were at Mint Springs, Va., and had visited the beautiful Lace Waterfalls, Natural Bridge, Va.

Horace G. Lewis and son, Harry Lewis, on Sunday morning received at the freight yard a freight car load of 22 head of cows from Columbia Cross Roads, Pa. Westerly Motorcycle Officer Robert M. Kessell of the Westerly police force acted as convoy for the cattle over Boom bridge to Mr. Lewis' North Stonington farm.

Joseph T. Crowley, of New York, was a Sunday visitor with relatives in Pawcatuck.

A notable addition to the Watch Hill summer fleet of pleasure craft based in Little Narragansett bay, was the Westerly-built and Westerly-owned "Sea Scoot," launched Saturday. The syndicate of builder-navigator was headed by Letter Carrier Edward W. Murphy, of the Westerly postoffice.

The launching from the Dunham boatyards below Avondale on the Pawcatuck river, which occurred at 3 p. m., was followed by the serving of a buffet lunch. The boat when placed in commission will be fully manned and equipped with a powerful outboard motor. The length overall is 16 feet with a beam of five feet. The builders were waiting until after the launching to see where the water line would come so that they might know the ship's draft.

The regular pre-holiday liquor raids of the Westerly police department were staged on Saturday evening about 4:30 p. m., by two raiding bands armed with search warrants. One, headed by Westerly Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown, went to Bradford and the second band, in charge of Police Lieutenant George H. Champlin, visited a West street apartment house next door to the police lieutenant's home.

The Ebenezer Burns farm in Bradford was visited by Chief Brown, who was accompanied by Westerly Police Officers George L. Madison and Charles E. Button. In Bradford the raiders seized a quantity of alleged beer which they took to the Westerly police station. The warrant for the search and seizure of liquors served upon Burns was returnable at the regular session of third district court on Friday next, before Judge Oliver H. Williams.

James Gingerella, alias "Jimmy the Wise Guy," residing in the middle-floor apartment at 14 West street, was raided by Lieutenant Champlin, who had with him Police Officers [illegible] M. Kessel and Frank E. [illegible]. On their arrival Gingerella was found not to be at home. Search of the kitchen, the ice box, a closet in the room adjoining the kitchen, and the [illegible] showed results, for a complete distilling outfit was found. There were many bottle stoppers, bottles of used ingredients, almost a thousand empty bottles and about 130 bottles of alleged beer, which were taken to the police station, together with a quantity of alleged whiskey found on the shelves of an open cupboard.

The Groton & Stonington bus terminal and the confectionery store of Arthur L. Lebrecque, at 2 Mechanic street, Pawcatuck, was broken and entered some time between the closing time on Friday night and the opening on Saturday morning. Among the various articles taken by the burglars was a nickel slot machine, Old Gold cigarettes, cigars and candy.

Entrance was gained by the forcing of a rear window and crawling through into the store. The rear door was used to carry away the slot machine, which was thought to have held nearly a hundred dollars. The till used to hold the coin was later found floating down the Pawcatuck river, upon which the yard from the rear door leads. The first known of the break was when Mr. Lebrecque opened the store for business on Saturday morning and the report was made to Pawcatuck Police Patrolman George L. Seidel, who has been making investigations as yet unfruitful. He was of the opinion that parties familiar with the premises were responsible for the burglary, and as he had access to the waiting room, in which he kept a rain coat, that the entrance was made after 5 a. m., when he completed his night tour of duty, as he was certain the slot machine was in the store at that time.

C. J. Smith, former agent at Georgiaville and Bradford, R. I., for the New Haven railroad, is acting as clerk at the freight office of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. On their return north they will stop over at Washington, D. C., and Atlantic City, N. J.

'DREAM' WALTZ TOUTED AS NEW DANCE STEP

Here are two steps of the "Dream" waltz, which won first place at the convention of the Dancing Masters of America, as danced by Betty Wheeler of Galveston, Tex., and Thomas M. Sheehy of Chicago, president of the masters. Left is the "swing" and (right) the cross-step.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31—Parents who had their doubts when Joe and Susie came home from college with the Charleston may feel better about the higher learning this fall.

The Dancing Masters of America—who ought to know—say Joe and Susie College are going to be docile in the ballroom as soon as they learn the new dances.

"The new clothes have done it," according to Thomas M. Sheehy, president of the dance teachers.

"You can't kick your feet in all directions without kicking a girl's skirt full of holes."

So the dancing masters look for the waltz to glide into a comeback.

"The feet aren't important now," says Edna Rothard Passapae, Newark N. J., dancing teacher whose "Dream" waltz won first place at the dancing masters' convention as the one they'll push, "you can't see them."

Here are the steps for the "Dream": First run three, then waltz forward, do a left waltz turn, then two steps through crossing feet; then waltz, step forward, swing foot forward, then twinkle (two steps back to a stop with heels together).

Waltz forward, then pivot, drawing foot behind. Repeat that to complete turn.

Then do a "wave waltz" swaying entire body in line—not just the hips!

Guiding Your Child

By Mrs. Agnes Lyne

His School

The school to which your child is going this fall is not perfect. It is perhaps not even all you think it should be.

But as long as your child is going there, it should get from you the best that you have to give in cooperation and loyalty.

It is unfair to a child to hear his school spoken of critically by those to whom he looks for the stamp of approval. We cannot expect him to put forth his efforts in a school which he knows we do not consider a very good one.

Sometimes we are disappointed in a particular teacher in whose class the child is placed. Here again, our open or implied criticism will provide an all-too-easy excuse for poor class work, misbehavior and homework left undone.

When difficulties or misunderstandings arise between home and school we should go to the school authorities and straighten things out without allowing our child to feel that there has been any friction.

Help your child at the very outset to think of his school as a place where he will have a happy, busy time—where there will be opportunities to do all sorts of interesting things, where he should properly feel that it is a privilege to go.

Teach him to regard seriously the little responsibilities which he assumes with regard to his school life. See to it that he starts the term with the expectancy that there are all sorts of fine times ahead of him if he will only do his part.

When he finds fault with his school, impress him with the fact that it is good sportsmanship to learn to make the most of the situation in which one finds one's self, no matter how far from ideal it may be.

LET THE BABY CRY, SAYS CHILD BUREAU

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31—(AP)—Crying is not harmful for a baby, and it even gives him some exercise.

This is the conclusion of the United States children's bureau, which has issued a baby's daily time card that covers the infant's daily life from the time he is born until he is two years old.

Parents are urged not to spoil their babies by picking them up whenever they cry.

"Find out whether he is uncomfortable, but do not rock him nor pick him up before his regular time just to stop his crying," advises the time card.

FAMILIES GO TO SCHOOL EN MASSE IN ARKANSAS

RUSSELLVILLE, Ark., Aug. 31—(AP)—"Bring the family, too," seems to be a motto at Arkansas schools.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Carter of Scranton, their son, Jack, and their daughter, Hilda, all were enrolled as summer students in Arkansas Polytechnic college here.

At the University of Arkansas in Fayetteville, eight members of the family of W. M. Smith were summer students in the school of education. They include five children, two grandchildren and a son-in-law.

Green Lace Dress

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31—(AP)—A long green lace dress was worn at a recent dance by Miss Catherine Carr, daughter of Colonel Carr.

Long crystal earrings with matching necklace gave a cool effect to the pretty costume.

At the same dance Maria Medina, daughter of the Bolivian minister, wore a black chiffon dress embroidered in gold figures. She carried a large painted fan.

Lingerie Blouses

PARIS, Aug. 31—(AP)— Lingerie blouses are going right on being chic throughout the autumn and winter months. Dozens of new models are being turned out.

But whereas most of the summer blouses were sleeveless the autumn crop has long sleeves.

Fine narrow lace and much hand tucking continue to trim the wash blouses.

Dressmaker Jewelry

PARIS, Aug. 31—(AP)—Instead of a choker collar of beads Paris suggests a tight ruching of stiff silver lace mounted on soft velvet ribbon and tied in back with a small bowknot.

PROBLEMS OF GIRL AWAY FROM HOME TO BE STUDIED

CHICAGO, Aug. 31—(AP)—Social and economic conditions of young women are to be studied by the Girls' Friendly Society, an Episcopal church organization.

The study will continue three years, and a $25,000 fund is being raised to carry on the work.

"The problem of the young woman away from home in the large city has become coupled with a puzzling housing problem," said Miss E. Winifred Dunkle, field secretary of the society.

"Hundreds of young women in business are turning from the women's clubs and the carefully supervised hotels and apartment dwellings, sponsored by social groups, to more independent, and from the social viewpoint, less satisfactory living conditions."

The Girls' Friendly Society maintains 28 vacation houses and 13 lodges in large cities.

Woman Aids Reforestation

FORT VALLEY, Ga., Aug. 31—(AP)—Georgia's first woman to engage in reforestation work is Mrs. Mattie Flournoy, of Fort Valley. She has planted 6,000 loblolly pines on her farm this year in cooperation with the forestry department of the state college of agriculture.

Slippers Heels

PARIS, Aug. 31—(AP)—Lame evening ensembles should be accompanied by slippers of the darkest color in the fabric, set off with lame heels and insets, according to ideas of one dressmaking specialist in metal brocades.

The same dressmaker puts heels of printed taffeta on slippers of plain color for wear with a dress of printed taffeta.

Eyelet Embroidery for Winter Dresses

PARIS, Aug. 31—(AP)—Eyelet embroidery revived for summer dresses, continues right into winter.

Dressmakers show punch embroidery on wool crepe dresses and trim chiffon blouses for afternoon wear with all-over embroidery of the eyelet variety.

There also are some taffeta evening dresses which employ eyelet embroidery done in gold or silver thread.

Evening Caps Copy Berets

PARIS, Aug. 31—(AP)—Many evening ensembles for restaurant or theatre wear have matching caps of fabric or sequins, as shown by a dressmaker whose evening styles are considered of first importance.

The little caps are round and unpretentious and are worn like tight fitting berets, over one ear.

Black Crepe Suit

WASHINGTON, Aug 31—(AP)—Cora Jahncke, daughter of the assistant secretary of the navy, wears black crepe suit with flower design of beige and blue.

The blouse is of beige crepe and the scarf collar of the coat faced with the same material. With this she wears a small, closely fitting beige hat.

Transparent Coats

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31—(AP)—Mrs. Herbert Hoover has been partial to long coats of transparent material for summer wear.

She often wears a black chiffon coat with her light dresses. It has a chiffon collar which is loosely knotted on the shoulder.

Daisy-orchid Net

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31—(AP)—Mrs. Franklin King, in whose honor a dancing party was recently given at the Manor Country club, wore a long dress of orchid embroidered net.

Long pearl ear rings, pearl necklace and pearl ring matched the white daisies with which the net was embroidered.

Beret Takes to Yachting

NEW YORK, Aug. 31—(AP)—The popular beret has added yachting to its summer activities. A blue duvetyn beret tops off a sailing outfit of white crepe frock and double-breasted short blue coat studded with brass buttons.

Monkey Fur Cape

PARIS, Aug. 31—(AP)—A cape of monkey fur is the three-quarter length wrap which accompanies a black and white afternoon dress at a dress-making house which likes to be different.

Bind the edges of oil cloth used for table coverings with bias tape. This will keep the edges from tearing or becoming ragged.

COED JOINS SAMOA TRIBE: THERE TO STUDY CULTURE

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31—(AP)—"These things are just dreams: they never happen."

This is the title which introduces all American "slapstick" movies in American Samoa.

The reason, Miss Dorr Bothwell, Oregon university co-ed, explains after having spent two years studying Uncle Sam's wards in the South Seas, is that the less educated of the native population think it quite proper to imitate the roughhouse actions.

Miss Bothwell went to Samoa as an investigator for the Bishop museum of Honolulu and studied island culture.

She became the adopted daughter of a chief and was the official hostess of the village.

"PIGEON GRAY" SMART FOR HAT OR DRESS

PARIS, Aug 31—(AP)—Paris is kindly disposed toward a shade of gray best described as pigeon gray.

It should not be confused with dove-gray, for it has a blue cast in it more like the blue-gray of ordinary pigeons' wings.

Pigeon gray is used in millinery as well as dressmaking. Two-color silk velour hats frequently combine black and soft gray.

Decolletes with Velvet Gardenias

PARIS, Aug. 31—(AP)—The garlanded decollete is growing in favor for evening dresses.

Most of the flower trims appear at the back, but there are also many versions of the shoulder garland which extends front and back with the longer end in the back.

Pink velvet gardenias are favored for evening dresses.

Acting as postmistress for 54 years is a record held by "Aunt" Cindia Harvey, now 87 years of age. She is in charge of the postoffice at Rock Camp, a West Virginia village of 100 inhabitants.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

The flavor of cocoa is improved by a little cinnamon sprinkled over the top just before serving.

Toasted cubes, or croutons, afford an excellent variation from the customary crackers served with soup.

When the copper or brass ash-trays have become stained with tobacco, apply a little denatured alcohol with a small brush.

Sweeping grass rugs with a broom splinters them. Use a cotton cloth, dampened slightly, on the broom and rub over lightly.

If you will cover jam jars with some grease-proof paper and seal it on with paraffin, you will find that your jam never mildews.

Never turn baby's milk bottle upside down to dry. Any bottle will keep sweet and fresh if the air is allowed to circulate in it after washing.

Throw away the dishcloth when it is worn to the raveling stage, as the lint it sheds will make a tangled webbing in the drain pipe.

When peeling carrots try using a coarse grater instead of a knife. It will take the skins off much quicker and easier than any other tool.

Blackberry vines and grape vines planted along the back fence are not only valuable for their product, but add to the beauty of the yard.

Keep lettuce in a cloth, or paper bag, and then place in a tight pail. Set this pail in a cool place and the lettuce will keep fresh and crisp for a week.

To pack eggs for keeping, dip them into a solution of two ounces gum arabic to a pint of cold water. Let them dry and then pack in powdered, well burned charcoal.

If the food chopper slips when screwed on the table, place a piece of coarse sand paper, coarse side up, under the clamp, and it will not work loose.

POCKETS

Sew a pocket on the inside of the kitchen apron instead of on the outside. This is more convenient, as the pocket cannot catch on anything and tear.

CHEAP CURTAINS

If you watch the sales in dress goods departments you may be able to get attractive prints that will make ideal curtains for your apartment or house this fall.

TO STOP DISH LOSSES

Dishes on which cakes or other food is taken to church or other social affairs often become misplaced or lost. Write your name on a piece of adhesive tape and paste this on the bottom. It can't be easily washed off.

TEA FOR PLANTS

Cold tea poured over the soil in which house ferns are planted acts as a tonic and revives even dying ferns.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

When particles become lodged in the throat, they can be carried down by swallowing an unbeaten raw egg.

Lemon juice is all that is needed for loosening the cuticle and for brightening and cleaning the fingernails.

When troubled with dry skin, a very good remedy is to rub the parts thoroughly with almond oil.

When the day has been an unusually trying one, wonderful relief will result from a hot bath to which has been added one cup of Epsom salts and two tablespoonfuls of mustard. All aching muscles will feel renewed the following morning.

LEATHER NECKLACES

For sports there are blue and black, pink and white and other colorful necklaces made of six or eight small strands of shining colored leather. They have jeweled clasps and are arrestingly attractive.

PERSPIRATION

An excellent treatment for underarm perspiration is the application of a solution of three parts distilled water to one part aluminum chloride. This solution should be applied once every three days for the first two weeks. Thereafter, once a week will be sufficient. Be careful not to use the solution too frequently. If you do, it may result in a skin irritation. Always wash under the arms before applying the solution, and allow it to dry on the skin before putting on your gown.

RUBBER

Tiny tubes of colored rubber, many strands of which are caught together with black wooden beads, make unusual necklaces and bracelets.

GREEN TOILE

A picturesque quilt is made of cream colored toile de Jouays, with a gay hunting scene in soft green upon it. The quilt is lined with pink, scalloped around the edge and quilted in pink thread.

SHIRRED TURBANS

Speaking of heads, they need to be covered smartly when the country costume goes to town. If you are the piquant type on whom a plain flannel beret is a positive adornment, this saucy type of headgear will do of course. But we think of something else. Of a new shirred turban by Reboux which is indeed a pleasure after a panic of panamas. This comes in jersey, and also in a velvet and canton crepe combination.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Circular flared skirts are much used but pleats are newer.

A smart little one-piece knitted frock of blue has a snug-fitting beret made of the same material.

One well cut jacket of lightweight wool, and one of plain or printed silk will add much to the ensemble in dress.

A violet chiffon evening dress has a girdle made of two padded and twisted bands that end in rosettes of the padded chiffon.

The sports suit or frock of mesh now is matched to a little cloche of mesh, stitched as are other fabric hats and with its narrow face-framing brim.

A medium blue and black printed chiffon frock has a circular double flounced skirt and a shallow, very wide square neckline that is charming.

A bit of advance news about autumn colors—we are to wear greens, reds, copper browns, rusts, soft blues and violets, all dark shades with a certain intensity of tone that gives them their name of Dark-Bright colors.

TAFFETA COATS

The fashion of having the little wrap match the frock is a most important one. These short youthful models of black taffeta have the identical design that appears on the printed black chiffon frock worn underneath it.

FROCKS ABLOOM

Tiny flecks of white on blue or black crepes offer variety from the much seen polka and pin dot. Another quaint motif is the small rosebud in shades of pink and rose which blooms all over frocks of blue or black silk. To further the note of pink, collars, ruffles at sleeve edges and vestees are of pink batiste, organdies, georgette or chiffon.

AUTUMN HOSIERY

Sheer to the point of seeming perishability, the silk stockings now being made for autumn are much deeper in color. With black first as a costume and coat color, what will be worn in the realm of stockings? Black in the lightest of gossamer weights is the high style note. But it must be an expensive stocking if it is to appear perfect. Next in importance is gun-metal, deepened to a neutral and blackish tone. Very, very smart will be the dark gun-metal in the sheerest of chiffon hose.

Neutral shades also will be worn, with blue, red and green authentically indorsed for autumn costumes. The beige shades will have mauve undertones darker than those worn during the spring and at the present time. Inasmuch as the newer stockings have that attractive dull surface which makes for sheerness, colors can reasonably and effectively be deeper and darker.

LAUNDRY HINTS

Clothes hampers and bags should be washed regularly.

Use bluing water at once, for if allowed to stand it may streak the clothes.

Chocolate stains may be removed from linen by washing in tepid soapy water.

The delicate-hued hats so popular these days will clean beautifully if the soiled parts are rubbed with fine sandpaper and then the entire hat rubbed with French chalk and magnesia.

WHITER SHEETS

Sheets very quickly lose their whiteness unless care is taken. About every third time they are washed it would be well to soak them over night in warm water containing a little borax. Launder as usual in the morning and dry in strong sunlight.

IRREGULAR HOURS

Irregular hours should not exist for children. They should be taught to arise at a specified time, and there should be a schedule for their day. Tardiness should not be tolerated. Without effort, no child can accomplish the highest purpose of life. Punctuality should be made a part of the child's existence.

ARTIFICIAL FLOWERS

Artificial flowers can be freshened by trimming off all ragged edges and shaking over the steam from a boiling tea-kettle, taking care not to get the flowers wet. If faded, they can be retouched with dye, or with oil paints.

BAG FOR IRONING BOARD

Having a bag which can be attached to the ironing board is a most convenient accessory, and prevents ends of large pieces from dropping to the floor when being pressed. The bag is made on a draw string and has a ring at each end which attaches it to two hooks on the under side of the board.

BABY-TALK IS BAD FOR THE BABY

The mother who talks baby-talk to her young child is really forcing him to perform the difficult task of learning two languages. We should welcome every chance to help the child in his struggle to communicate with people. Instead, we seem to delight in retarding his efforts to communicate with other people intelligently by imitating his mispronunciations. Many children are slowed up in entering kindergarten by bringing with them a long memory of garbled words. Baby-talk is cute, but we are not doing anything commendable when we allow the baby to continue using it, or when we use it ourselves just for our own amusement. Talk English to the baby. One language is hard enough to learn, as you will admit if you've ever tried to master a foreign tongue. Then why burden a small child with two languages?

CONCERNING WOMEN.

A barber shop in Huntington, W. Va., is operated for men, but solely by women barbers.

Mrs. William G. Dwight, of Holyoke, Mass., is believed to be New England's only woman editor and publisher of a daily newspaper.

A movement in favor of the economic independence of women is under way in Brazil.

Many women are now wearing their wedding rings on the third finger of the right hand, instead of the left.

The first graduate "flying nurse" in the United States is Miss Inez Keller, aged 24, of San Francisco, Calif. She acts as nurse and hostess aboard a 12-passenger transport plane flying between San Francisco and Cheyenne.

A little more than half of the women in France are engaged in work outside their own homes.

Master Teddy Bear, 4-year-old son of Mrs. James Bear, has flown 4,000 miles in airplanes in America.

The first census enumerator to complete work in the Atlanta district in Georgia was the oldest woman on the staff, Mrs. R. Battenfield, aged 75.

Upwards of 40 important industries in France now have women superintendents who act as intermediary between the owner or general manager and the men and women who do the actual work.

Russian women who show special aptitude for soldiery are to be admitted to military academies in Moscow, Leningrad and Kiev for courses in military topography, communications, artillery and other such branches.

SAVE THE SCRAPS

If you have a good many odd pieces and scraps of bleached and unbleached domestic, outing cloth, checked nainsook and other material and can find no use for them, here is a way in which to use them: Get a package of dye and dye them your favorite color, then iron them while they are a little damp. You will then have some handsome quilt pieces to use with flowered scraps. Dye some of these red, some blue and then combine the two waters and make a lovely shade of lavender. The large pieces may be torn into strips to set the squares together with, and the smaller ones may be used for piecing the squares together. They make lovely quilts.

A VISION.

A lovely scarf that is large enough to cover the dress as far as the knees is of cream chiffon with a very wide border of cream lace, exquisitely fine and sheer.

BORROWED WISDOM.

For the girl or woman who likes to cut out and keep stray bits of wisdom or humor that cross her path, there is a stunning scrap book bound in hand made paper.

RECIPES.

Gingerbread Sandwiches: Bake your favorite gingerbread in a loaf pan. When cold, cut into one-eighth-inch slices. Butter the slices and on one-half of them spread a thin layer of cottage cheese which has been mixed with a small quantity of mayonnaise dressing and a few chopped nuts. Put together in sandwich style and cut in triangles.

Caramel Custard Pudding: Two-thirds cup sugar, one-half cup water, four tablespoons flour, two egg yolks, two cups milk, two tablespoons butter, one teaspoon vanilla, two egg whites, stiffly beaten, and three tablespoons confectioner's sugar. Place sugar in frying pan, heat slowly and stir constantly with wooden spoon until light brown (caramel) colored sirup forms. Add water and boil two minutes. Beat egg yolks and add flour. Mix well and add sirup mixture and milk. Cook in double boiler until mixture thickens. Stir often. Add butter, vanilla and pour into buttered baking dish. Beat egg white until stiff, add confectioner's sugar and beat until creamy. Pile roughly on custard mixture. Bake 20 minutes in slow oven. Cool, chill and serve.

ZIPPER BLOUSE

A tricky new blouse of lightweight jersey that may be worn inside the belt or over as one desires, is easy to don and doff because it is closed down the front by a zipper fastening.

THIS BEDROOM EXPRESSES RESTFULNESS

There's effective arrangement and design here.

By Elsie Drew Kennedy

Perhaps the most essential quality of the bedroom is restfulness, expressed in color and in line.

Its very privacy constitutes the reason why simple, natural lines are necessary.

There are several elements to be considered of almost equal importance. First, there is the selection of furniture, which should have a common spirit without monotonously similar details. Then there is the arrangement of it in a comfortable-looking, well-balanced design, and finally there is the use of color and fabric.

The furniture in this room, which mingles the sincerity of pieces derived from the Colonial with the rather stimulating femininity of a French chaise-longue of fruitwood and a commode more French than English, contains no superfluous pieces and is well arranged.

Two small night tables stand on either side of the bed, a balanced arrangement, holding glazed pottery lamps with pleated paper shades.

In front of the window and near the chaise-longue is an occasional table which may be used as an impromptu desk, and against the far wall is a commode, its height supplemented by a picture so the eye does not fall too abruptly from the high window drapery. This falls in a heavy, lovely line, is caught back by bands to glass rosettes, and cascades from there to the floor.

The color scheme maintains the same unity and relationship. The walls are papered in a plain, rich parchment shade for a background, and blue and a deep orchid which is almost purple, appear in varying tones throughout the room.

The curtains are of a soft medium blue silk poplin, lined to give them weight, and outlined, as it were, by the short glass curtains of pale peach celanese, through which the sun sends a rosy glow; the valance is bound in orchid.

The bedspread is a mauvish orchid linen, with blue binding edging its voluminous and charming ruffle; and the comfortable chaise-longue is upholstered in blue silk, the color of the draperies, with cushions of peach and orchid.

AT HOME OF ATTORNEY GENERAL AND MRS. MITCHELL

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31—Mrs. William DeWitt Mitchell, wife of the United States attorney general, is far from having a one track mind. She delves into social philanthropic work, the every day tasks of womenkind, the bringing up of two sons, seeing to it that her distinguished husband finds a pleasant home and a pleasant homecoming, after his day at the department of justice; and yet she finds time to enjoy the things in way of diversion that are most to her taste. And best of all she is cheerful and happy in all she does, so say those who know her best.

So popular are the Mitchells in Washington administration circles, that unless they limit the number of evenings they will accept invitations they would have but little quiet home life. So they set apart certain evenings each week to give family life some showing.

Fond of the Outdoors.

The Mitchell family are out door folk: They tramp the woods, for their beautiful home is in the Rock Creek park section of the capital city, so they are near forest and stream. They love trees and flowers and although Mrs. Mitchell has no chance to have a big garden, and confesses she misses the one in their St. Paul home, she carries on in a small way, making peonies her specialty. The house overlooks Rock Creek park, and by the way, if you want to pronounce it "as is" you must say Rock "Crick." That is what all Washington calls it. General and Mrs. Mitchell and the two sons are devoted to horse back riding, and use the park for that purpose.

Mrs. Mitchell has dark brown hair and brown eyes, she dresses well and looks far too young to be the mother of two grown up sons, whose ages are round 24 or 25. William, the older of the two, is following in his father's foot-steps and is practicing law in St. Paul, their home city; the younger son, Bancroft, is a Princeton graduate and is now taking a business course at Harvard. The Mitchell family is fond of hunting big game, Mrs. Mitchell joining the party in the trip but not taking part in the hunt. Their house is filled with trophies they have brought back from the Canadian Rockies. Mrs. Mitchell loves camp life but does not care for hunting.

She is a trained musician and the neighbors tell how, both in Washington and St. Paul, when "the boys" come home, how the Mitchells have a family "sing," with Mrs. Mitchell at the piano and the general and the two sons making up the chorus.

When the Coolidges Played.

That suggests something Mrs. Coolidge once told us when Mr. Coolidge was vice president, about the way she and the two little Coolidge boys made an orchestra of their own. As she told it, she "plays only a little bit—just enough to help out the boys." One son played the fiddle, the other the cornet or something of that sort. "We made funny noises," said Mrs. Coolidge with a chuckle. "Why didn't you get Mr. Coolidge into it? we asked. "So to make it a Coolidge quartette"? Then Mrs. Coolidge laughed right out aloud. "Well I'll tell you," she said, "in strict confidence. When we begin to play Mr. Coolidge sneaks out of the room just as fast as he can go, and we never see him again till after we stop playing," and again she laughed merrily as she recalled some of those "musical evenings," down in the little seven-room cottage in Northampton.

Good Golfers.

To hark back to the family of the attorney general, we learn they are fond of golf and play an excellent game. Sometimes they make up a father-mother-sons game to the admiration of other players out on the links.

Mrs. Mitchell is especially interested in the work of the Y. W. C. A. and also in several charitable organizations and girls' welfare clubs, both in St. Paul and here in Washington, where they will live during the attorney general's term of service in the Hoover cabinet.

Apple Hearing

On Wednesday, September 3, at 2:00 p. m., daylight saving time, a hearing will be held at the office of the commissioner of agriculture, 30 Oak street, Hartford, for the purpose of discussing proposed changes in the apple grades. It is proposed to slightly lower "A" grade requirements and raise "B" grade requirements.

In addition it has been proposed to add a new grade which would be a combination of "A" and "B" grades mixed. A grade of this type would include the bulk of apples produced and could be designed to meet the favor of the trade. All those who are interested in the Connecticut apple industry, especially producers and wholesalers, are urged to attend this important meeting.

Sweet corn and string beans were in very light offerings on the local morning's market and demand active. Tomatoes were very liberal and selling at the low mark of the season. Otherwise market conditions were practically unchanged.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

"Common Clay" now playing at the Palace theatre where it will be shown through Wednesday of this week, is the story of a girl who, never given a chance to prove her worth, is trampled on and dragged down until it would seem impossible to rise again from her depths.

Beautiful Constance Bennett is the able person who portrays the character of Ellen Neal, speakeasy hostess, in this remarkable film. "Common Clay" is the screen version of the Harvard prize play in which Jane Cowl starred and had an outstanding triumph.

"Common Clay" tells the story of a night club hostess who loses her job when the place is raided. She finds employment in the home of a society family and here, after attentions galore have been forced upon her, she falls in love with the son. Unfortunately she loves too well.

After a while she is forced to leave the place and the scenes shift. A year later we find her in the office of a lawyer where she has come with her baby. She asks that the child be recognized by its father and spurns the offers of money made to her.

"Common Clay" teaches a never-to-be-forgotten lesson and should be seen by all theatre goers who recognize the best productions and the finest art that the stage can produce.

Kingston Fair

The Washington County Agricultural society opens the annual Kingston fair at West Kingston, R. I., Sept. 3rd and lasts until the 6th.

There are over 4,000 entries in the various departments. Cattle, foods, domestic and farm products of all kinds, fancy work, and many others have been entered.

There will be an especially large horse show, as 125 pure-bred horses are entered by some of the finest stables of the east. Running and trotting races will also be a feature.

Vaudeville on the grandstand will take place three times daily. William G. Hill, crack shot of the world, tops the list of performers. With a .22 repeating rifle he will hit thrown objects as small as beans and peas before they reach the ground.

This year as last, there will be a mammoth display of fireworks every evening.

On Governor's day, which is Friday, there will be many special features. Addresses will be made by governmental officers of the state and nation. On this day there will be girl jockeys.

Everything points to the greatest fair ever held by the Washington County Agricultural society.

Girls Sew Way Through College In Kentucky School's Dress Shop

MARYVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 31—(AP)—Out of the failure of a cotton crop an idea developed that has opened the door to a college education for hundreds of ambitious girls.

In the spring of 1921, ten girls, students of Maryville college, told school authorities they could not return the next year because their father's cotton crop had failed.

Mrs. Kathryn McMurray, head of the home economics department, set about to find a way for them to continue their education. The idea for the "college maid shop" came to her and a tiny factory was started.

Ten sewing machines were all the equipment the college had. Arrangements were made with a New York store to handle plain dresses made by the girls.

The ten students came back—and with them came 103 others who were not expected.

All stayed and the work grew from year to year, until now the "college maid shop" sends out hundreds of neat uniforms each year. The uniforms are sold principally to girl workers in industrial plants.

Mrs. McMurray points out the college girls help the mill girls to obtain pretty uniforms at a low cost, while the mill girls are helping the college maids to obtain an education.

Girls are paid by the piece and earn from 15 cents to 45 cents an hour, according to ability. Factory methods are not followed, because one purpose is to teach girls to make the whole garment.

In addition to garments made at Maryville, the "college maid shop" cuts out materials and sends them to the College of the Ozarks, Clarksville, Ark., Parson college, Iowa, and Berea college, Kentucky. These are made by girls and returned to Maryville for marketing.

2,556 AUTO FATALITIES IN STATE IN SEVEN YEARS

In making a study of motor vehicle accident statistics Professor Richard Shelton Kirby of Yale university finds that during the past seven years automobiles in Connecticut killed 2,556 persons, a total equal to the population of Newtown, or Canton or East Lyme. The number of persons injured in such accidents during the period, 68,214, he says compares approximately with the combined population of Norwalk and Norwich, or that of Danbury, Naugatuck and New London. Of those killed, 1,404 were pedestrians and 1,152 occupants of cars. The majority of those injured were occupants of cars.

Professor Kirby's study of Connecticut accidents is the sixth of a series made annually under the auspices of the Hartley corporation. The conclusions and results of the study, presenting a graphic and composite picture of the accident situation in this state, are to be published in pamphlet form by the Yale University press and distributed this week by the state motor vehicle department.

Comparison of statistics, says Professor Kirby, makes it possible to say that for each person in Connecticut who dies from typhoid fever, four die from diphtheria and thirty are killed in motor vehicle accidents. The Connecticut automobile accident death rate in 1929, he also finds was higher than that of any of the three adjoining states. It did drop, however, last year and is now only slightly higher than the New York rate. Rates per 100,000 population were: Connecticut, 27.5; New York, 25.4; Massachusetts, 17.9; and Rhode Island, 17.6.

The ratio of persons killed to cars registered dropped slightly last year. While higher than in 1926 and 1927, it is 45 per cent below the figure for 1916. Last year the death rate was 1.33 per 1,000 cars, and in 1916 it was 3.18.

The death and accident rates for 1929, according to mileage of cars, showed considerable decrease. Professor Kirby uses the amount of gasoline consumed in Connecticut as a rough measure of total mileage. On this basis the death rate per million gallons of gasoline was 23, as compared with 2.7, in 1928 and 3.3 in 1922. The number of accidents per million gallons used was 125, as compared with 149, in 1928 and 157 in 1922.

"For persons past middle life," says Professor Kirby, "the death rate continues to increase rapidly. During 1929 it was about three times as high as for children. There were 196 persons past 45 killed by autos in 1929, and 82 children under 15. The annual average for 1927, 1928 and 1929 was 91 children under 15 and 164 persons over 45. The death rates for all ages of children and youths showed a decrease for 1929 over 1928, with 26 fewer fatalities.

"The analysis of the 1929 accidents shows that three and one-half times as many males as females were killed; this preponderance of males is not nearly so striking however, among the young children as among the adults. The male victims outnumbered the females as operators 26 to 1; as pedestrians, 3 1-2 to 1, and as passengers, 2 to 1."

Ten primary causes of personal injury and fatal accidents in which the operator was blamed are listed in the study. They are inattention, carelessness, intoxication, inexperience, failure to grant right of way, skidding, operating too fast for conditions, driving on the wrong side of the road, violating other rules and improper equipment. The main faults of pedestrians were inattention, stepping from behind object carelessly, and intoxication.

WORCESTER MAN SUICIDES AFTER SHOOTING WIFE AT NORWICH TOWN

A double tragedy which resulted in the death of one person and the wounding of another took place Saturday afternoon shortly after 3:30 at 5 Town street, Norwich Town, when Catherine Reichert, was shot by her divorced husband, Augustus A. Polachi, 51, of 69 Millbury street, Worcester, Mass., who then committed suicide.

According to reports Polachi had been prowling around the neighborhood for several days and had made threats that he would shoot his former wife. The couple was divorced in Worcester last November upon the wife's petition and she resumed her maiden name.

Polachi picked out a time for the attack when he would find the woman alone as the other members of the household where she lived have been on a trip to Canada the past week. Saturday afternoon as Mrs. Reichert was dressing to go out of town she heard an intruder in the house, and when she opened the door of her room saw Polachi standing there. Slamming the door shut and fastening it with a wooden block, she made her escape from the room by getting out of a rear window and onto a roof from which she jumped to the ground 18 feet below. Mrs. Reichert broke one of her ankles in the jump and her screams were heard by a near-by neighbor, Harold D. Boynton of 8 Town street, who went to her rescue and picking her up in his arms was confronted by Polachi with revolver in hand, aiming at the woman. Polachi shot while Boynton was still holding the woman and the bullet struck her in the chest and lodged in one side of her neck.

Polachi then shot himself in the head, and died almost instantly, although the Backus hospital ambulance was called and the two were removed, both lying in the yard when the ambulance arrived.

Medical Examiner Dr. C. C. Gildersleeve arrived shortly after and made an investigation. He notified Lucius A. Fenton, constable, who was given charge of the house and the woman's belongings. Later Dr. Gildersleeve and Coroner Edward G. McKay made an investigation and with Constable Fenton in making a survey of the yard discovered that the woman had dropped 18 1-2 feet in her desperate jump for liberty. At the hospital Sunday night Mrs. Reichert's condition was reported as generally good and her recovery is hoped for.

The body of Polachi was taken in charge by J. J. Lyons and Co., undertakers, and will be conveyed to Worcester for burial after private services have been held here.

Mrs. Reichert has resided here for some time with her aunt's family, having been employed for several months at the Johnson home and of late at the Troy laundry. The couple are parents of a little girl about nine years old, who upon arriving in Norwich Town with other relatives who had been sent for was seriously overcome when given the details.

According to Polachi's sister, Miss Lillian Polachi of Worcester, the couple was married about 10 years ago. They have one daughter, Rita, 9, who lives with Miss Reichert's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Reichert of 598 Millbury street, Worcester.

The couple separated about a year ago, she said, and last November Mrs. Polachi was granted a divorce on the grounds of cruelty and permitted to assume her maiden name. Since that time she lived with her parents until coming to Norwich to work about a month ago.

Augustus Polachi was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Polachi of 69 Millbury street, Worcester. For many years his father has conducted a bakery at 71 Millbury street. At one time Augustus worked for his father-in-law on a Grafton, Mass., farm and more recently was said to have been a salesman for a yeast company.

John Reichert, father of Mrs. Polachi, is treasurer of the George Boepple Co., of 600 Millbury street, Worcester.

An aftermath of the tragic events of the afternon came about midnight Saturday, when Boynton appeared at the hospital to see Mrs. Reichert. Denied admission at that hour, he climbed a fire escape and got into a vacant room adjoining that where Mrs. Reichert was a patient. He was found crouched in one corner of the room and a telephone call was sent to police headquarters and to Constable Lucius Fenton, who arrested the man, and he was taken to police headquarters in the motor patrol wagon which had been driven to the hospital by Officer Patrick Shahan. Charges of intoxication and breach of the peace were made against Boynton, who was released on bonds Sunday noon and will appear in the city court.

ROCKS, REDS, LEGHORNS LEAD IN STORRS WEEK

Egg production in the 43rd week of the Storrs laying contest totalled 3618 or a yield of 51.7 per cent. This is 7 eggs more than for the corresponding week a year ago.

The 1,000 birds have a grand total to date of 182,605 eggs thus bringing the average individual production up to 182.6 eggs per hen as compared with 183.2 eggs in the preceding contest.

Three of the leading varieties were represented in this week's final roundup for first places. Pratt Experiment farm's pen of Barred Rocks from Morton, Pa., set the pace with a mark of 59 eggs. Edward N. Larrabee's pen of Reds hailing from Peterboro, N. H., followed close behind with a lay of 57 eggs.

Third honors were divided between a pen of Barred Rocks and White Leghorns owned respectively by R. C. Cobb of Littleton, Mass., and Hollywood Poultry farm of Woodinville, Wash. These pens each brought in 56 eggs. A pen of Reds entered by Geo. B. Treadwell of Spencer, Mass., took fourth place with 55 eggs to their credit.

During the past week there were three shifts in three of the different breeds. In the Barred Rock group Spring Brook Poultry farm of South Wethersfield, Conn., replaces R. Walter Bishop's pen from Guilford, Conn. One notes that in the White Rock field, the pen entered by Davidson Bros., has again worked up into second place thus relegating Kalerok Farm into third position. Among the Rhode Island Reds, fourth place is captured by W. Otis Day of Westford, Mass., who replaces F. S. Chapin from Longmeadow, Mass.

The leading pens to date in each of the principal varieties are as follows:

White Wyandottes—The Locusts, West Cornwall, Conn., 2092. Jack Wrennal, Barton, Nr. Preston, Eng., 1928.

Barred Rocks—R. C. Cobb Littleton, Mass., 2265; Pratt Experiment Farm, Morton, Pa., 2151; Spring Brook P. Farm, So. Wethersfield, Conn., 2047.

White Rocks—E. H. Rucker, Ottumwa, Iowa, 1986; Davidson Bros., Upton, Mass., 1703; Kalerok Farm, Westford, Mass., 1692.

Rhode Island Reds—Edward N. Larrabee, Peterboro, N. H., 2386; F. S. Chapin, Longmeadow, Mass., 2244; Homestead Farms, Newton, Conn., 2215; W. Otis Day, Westford, Mass., 2171.

FIVE FAIRS IN TWO EASTERN CONN. COUNTIES

Automobile races for the first time at any fair in eastern Connecticut will be witnessed this year at Woodstock fair. The usual horse races, cattle parade and grand stand attractions which have been carried on at this fair during its 72 years of operation will still be a feature of the afternoon program. This society which annually expends approximately $4,000 is paying special attention to 4-H club exhibitors this year and is offering prizes for those junior farmers in nearly every class.

Windham and New London counties have five fairs, one of which is the oldest in the state and another, one of the youngest. The Windham County fair at Brooklyn, has been in operation at its present location for 80 years. The society was organized as the Pomfret United Agricultural society in 1809 and held fairs in Pomfret, Woodstock and Brooklyn. The Norwich Grange fair is among the youngest fairs, holding its exhibition this year for the first time in Norwich.

North Stonington Grange fair in New London county will hold its 20th annual exhibition. The fair shows stability and has steadily grown each year and the management is proud of the fact that there is no indebtedness. The second day of the fair like Woodstock is an "Old Home Day" when everybody has a good time visiting old friends they have not seen since last year and making new friends to meet again next year.

Pachaug fair is another New London county event in this line. Each fair in eastern Connecticut has a particular charm and attraction all its own. Although Pachaug fair is only ten years old it has made rapid strides to operate a fair that will appeal to a large and discriminating public. Permanent buildings to house exhibits have been put up as rapidly as possible and a large field purchased so that the present race track can be enlarged and improved. The fair pays approximately $1,000 in premiums and has a variety of exhibits and amusements equalled at few grange fairs.

MRS. GEORGE SPOFFORD NOW IN WEST BROOKFIELD, MASS.

Mrs. George L. Spofford, widow of the veteran Central Vermont passenger conductor, moved last week from Montague, Mass., to West Brookfield, in the same state, where she will, in all probability, locate permanently. She had been in Montague three years. For 55 years her husband, who died six years ago, stopped at the little flag station, now abandoned, in a lonely spot on the side of a hill two miles out of Montague Centre. He was the last of the old-time passenger conductors plying between New London and White River Junction, Vermont, the former Gateway of the North, a hamlet of 700, to be of less importance now the Central Vermont repair shops have been ordered to another location.

A. Gaston, of the Central Vermont railway.

First Mate Larsen has had 29 years of continuous service on Long Island sound freight boats of the Central Vermont Transportation Co., subsidiary of the Central Vermont railway, having entered service in 1901.

After service as a deck hand, First Mate Larsen was promoted to seaman, bow watch and to second officer in 1909. This was followed by his promotion to first officer, the grade he holds upon retirement.

Larsen comes from a seafaring family, his father and grandfather before him having followed the sea for their livelihood.

GIRL SCOUTS CAMP HAD SPECIAL CLOSING PROGRAMME

The Girl Scouts day camp, Sacajawea, which has been held for the past eight weeks under the direction of Miss Catherine Sullivan, closed with a special programme last Friday at Fort Shantok. The scouts, equipped with basket lunches, left the city on the 8:15 trolley Friday afternoon and hiked into camp.

The meeting opened with a salute to the flag, singing of the songs, America the Beautiful and Whene'er You Make a Promise, and the repeating of the Scout motto, promise and laws. The scouts were then started on a treasure hunt. After a long and arduous search the treasures, boxes of candy, were discovered by Margaret LaRochelle, Nicholette Demico and Lillian Kyle.

Next the scouts were divided into two teams, the members of one team being equipped with four pieces of newspaper and six pins and were given 15 minutes in which to devise and dress another scout in a suitable costume. So quaint and original were the costumes that it was most difficult for the judges to pick the best costumes. The prizes, crystal necklaces, were awarded to Dorothy Bell, Virginia Meech, Betty Buckley and Caroline Hamil.

After such an exciting afternoon, the scouts were then ready for supper and, at the given signal, formed their circle and sang grace. Then each group went to its particular station to discuss the coming events and enjoy lunch. For some few days the scouts had been preparing stunts for the next part of the programme, which was arranged and planned for by them.

On the broad, grassy field with the river and trees for a background, the stage was set for a three-act play, Modern Cinderella. This play was put on by representatives from each patrol and was certainly modern, humorous, well-costumed, and delightful entertainment. Patrol 1 gave as its stunt the dramatization of the Girl Scout laws and its splendid work in bringing out the importance of each law and its application to every girl in her daily life was most impressive. Patrol 2 dramatized the Wedding of the Painted Dolls in original and striking costumes and gave a splendid performance. Patrol 3 called its stunt The Wondering Adventurers and had as adventurers girls and boys costumed to represent the different countries of the world who send people to become American citizens. So splendid in character and costume were those taking part that one looking on could hardly realize that young girls wrote and dramatized this stunt.

Patrol 4, in a short and merry stunt, The Merry Wedding, brought the stunts to a close.

The prize for the best stunt was awarded to Patrol 3, the members of which will be entertained at a theatre party. The judges for the event were Mrs. Marcus Leith, Mrs. James J. Dutton and Mrs. Roderick Sullivan. One of the surprises of the evening was the presentation of a gift to the leader, Miss Sullivan, by the girls of Patrol 3 in appreciation of the happy days they have enjoyed in camp this summer.

As dusk was creeping on, the scouts circled the camp fire to enjoy a last sing and toast marshmallows. About 8:30 the scouts returned home reluctantly, but firm in a purpose to work hard that they may enjoy camp again next summer. Camp Sacajawea, which was opened July 15, and has continued two days a week for eight weeks was under the personal direction of Miss Catherine Sullivan, assisted by Mrs. Frank Grieve.

As this was an innovation in Girl Scout work in Norwich and as the work had to be carried on entirely by voluntary assistants, there was a tremendous undertaking. In each day's programme the girls had learned new games, songs, swimming and handcraft and had prepared to pass tests at the future scout meetings. The handcraft, which consisted of the popular silhouettes, beads, etc., was under the direction of Miss Catherine Dutton. The attendance registered was 128 girls, many of whom did not miss a day.

The camp staff was Miss Sullivan, Mrs. Grieve, Miss Dutton and Miss Virginia Freeman. The camp was sponsored by Miss Marion Lee Bishop and Mrs. James J. Dutton.

AUTOPSY FINDING QUIETS REPORT OF KILLING

NEW LONDON, Aug. 31.—Acting upon a report that a man had been killed in North Westchester, town of Colchester, last Tuesday and that no action had been taken by the prosecuting authorities of the town, State Police Officer John Smith and Coroner Edward G. McKay, Norwich, went to Simons Brothers undertaking rooms Friday afternoon, for it had been said that the body would be taken from there and buried during the day. Officer Smith determined that the body awaiting burial was that of Jacob Maseus and Coroner McKay ordered an autopsy performed. This was done by Dr. Silas Pendleton, Colchester, and Dr. C. C. Gildersleeve, Norwich. The autopsy revealed that Maseus died of acute alcoholism and not foul play. A bruise existed on the man's head, but was not of a nature to produce death and undoubtedly was received by the man falling in his home. The report of Maseus having met with foul play was made to the New London police by a woman, who talked from Willimantic and who refused to make known her identity. Being outside the jurisdiction of the New London police, the report was turned over to the state police.

Mystery of the Disappearance 33 Years Ago of the Andree Aerial Polar Expedition Was Solved By Two Harpooners In Quest of Drinking Water—Tin Can Was the Clue—Remains Were Found Near a Canvas Boat Half Buried In Snow—Cold Had Killed the Men, Not Starvation

(By the Associated Press)

(Copyright 1930 and all rights reserved in North and South America and Japan by the Associated Press)

Associated Press-Aftenposten Boat Heimen at Skjaer Island, Norway—(By wireless)—Sept. 1—Dr. Gunnar Horn told the Associated Press today how two harpooners, seeking drinking water on bleak White Island, stumbled on the grim solution to the mysterious disappearance 33 years ago of the Andree Aerial Polar expedition.

Leader of a Norwegian exploration mission, Dr. Horn reached this Arctic ocean port today in his expedition ship Bratvaag with the bodies of Salomon August Andree and one of the two men with whom he set out to fly over the North Pole in a balloon.

When the Bratvaag reached White Island last month and dropped anchor among the icebergs under its bare stone mountains and its great white peak walruses were seen disporting in the frigid seas and harpooners were at once put to work. Taking their catch ashore, the majority set about preparing the walruses for food and two were assigned to search out a stream of drinking water.

Discarded Tin Can the Clue

These two walked along the great white silence until their eyes fell on a discarded tin can that seemed so foreign to the desolate landscape that they looked farther and saw a brown mound. They investigated and found the mound to be a canvas boat, half buried in the snow. In the boat was a boat hook which they picked up and examined. On the shaft of the hook they read the inscription "Andree Polar Expedition, 1896."

And so, awed and almost unbelieving, they knew that they had found the belated answer to one of the most spectacular riddles in the history of exploration.

"It was with strange feelings," Dr. Horn said in a statement to the Associated Press and the Oslo Aftenposten today, "We stood on the beach where the brave Andree and his men 33 years ago ended their last polar wandering."

As soon as he was apprised of the harpooners' discovery Dr. Horn and the other officers of his expedition went to the place where the boat lay, a worn sledge beside it, and then they let their eyes circle about for what they must have both hoped and dreaded to find.

Their search was not long. Not many yards from the boat and sledge was found a body, if indeed a skeleton in the fur garb of an Arctic explorer may be called a body, laid between two mounds of earth and partially covered with small stones. So had the last rites been observed by the survivor or survivors for one member of that gallant crew.

Clothed Skeleton

And somewhat farther on, leaning against the mountain slope, feet buried in the snow, was a second clothed skeleton. It was headless, this one, and yet identifiable as Andree himself by a monogram on the jacket.

In the boat were a few bones, but Dr. Horn and his fellow scientists were not able to determine whether they were human and represented all that was left of the third member of the expedition. He expressed the hope that study of the teeth of the whole skeleton would reveal whether it was the remains of Nils Strindberg or Knut Frankel.

All that they found, all the physical and material remnants of the expedition which set out from Spitsbergen in high hope so many years ago, were taken reverently to the Bratvaag. Last Tuesday an attempt was made to land on the island again for further search, but high waves prevented.

And so the Bratvaag turned back toward civilization, from its deck the last view of the frozen island which had held so grimly to its secret was the somehow eerie sight of a great white bear dancing about the cairn of stones that Horn and his men had raised to mark the spot where so much gallantry came at last to nought.

From evidence he found on the island, navigation books, the condition of the lost explorers' fur boots and such matters, Horn estimated that they had struggled southward for about 180 miles before they reached the towering island and knew at last that their long battle was done.

The Andree party left Spitzbergen in their balloon on July 7, 1897 and Horn believed that they could not have stayed alive longer than the first part of September.

The Cold Killed Them

"The cold killed them," he said. "Their end must have been easy. They slept into death."

It must have been the deadening cold, increasing with the approach of the winter night, and not starvation, that finally conquered them, although exhaustion from their terrible trek across the broken ice may well have been a contributing factor. For at Andree's side was found his gun and in the boat was ammunition. There were feathers, too, indicating that birds had been shot, and near Andree, also, was a stove with oil still in its tank.

The cold must have crept over them, slowly but surely sapping their vitality until death itself must have seemed to their numbed minds like a happy destination to their long hard journey, and so they waited for death, and it came. First to one, and his friends protected his body as best they could. Then to another and the few bones in the boat may mean that he chose that as his bier when he knew the end was close and laid himself down in the frail craft, prepared for death.

Resigned to His Fate

Andree himself, to judge from the position in which his body was found, had resigned himself to inevitable fate. He sat down in the snow and leaned back against the mountain slope, relaxed, knowing that any effort would be vain, waiting for eternal release from suffering.

The way the discovery of the camp was made seemed as though nature itself had decided that the secret had been held long enough from humanity and for that reason eased its usual barriers about the bleak island.

Dr. Horn said it would have been impossible to get the bodies and the boat and the other camp equipment to the Bratvaag had it not been for the unusually calm weather which set in just at the right moment and lasted just long enough to permit the work to be done.

Everything had to be dug laboriously from the ice that had set a grip of years on the remains of the balloon expedition and so, of necessity the work was slow. Had the weather roughened before it was done the whole attempt would have had to be abandoned, for it is impossible for boats to land on the island except in exceptional calm. There are many peninsulas and, on these, icebergs are stranded. Between these the boats had to pass.

Nature was kind in another way. Dr. Horn said, in that there had been little snow in the past season and so the camp and bodies were made visible. He expressed the opinion that in the years that have passed since Andree and his men died the snow has often piled so high above them that searchers could have walked directly over the camp and never even suspected the grim secret shrouded beneath their feet.

AMERICAN WOMAN WAS RELEASED IN CUBA

Captain Page was heading full speed for the home pylon on the 150th lap. He cut over suddenly, missing the pylon, appearing to be making a forced landing cross wind. However, before he was 100 feet from the ground he lost control of his speedy ship, which was traveling 205 miles an hour.

BELIEVE VANDALS TO BLAME FOR FATAL TRAIN WRECK

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 1—(AP)—Investigation of the wrecking of the fast Frisco "Texas Special" just outside St. Louis last night with the death of six persons and injury of 58, eleven seriously, proceeded tonight on the theory that vandals were to blame.

Railroad officials said they had definite evidence that the twelve-coach train carrying about 200 passengers, was wrecked by the placing of one or more large stones on one of the rails on a long curve.

One theory they advanced was that the deed might be traceable to boys who wanted to see a train wreck. They revealed that recently a stone was hurled into the cab of another locomotive at the same place where last night's wreck occurred.

No arrests were made today but reports were that investigators were questioning persons residing in the vicinity.

Evidence will be submitted at a coroner's inquest Wednesday.

The workers shouted "down with the bourgeoisie" as they swarmed into the principal streets, and at one time became so menacing that police opened fire to break up the demonstration.

Sticks and stones were thrown at street cars and automobiles.

When police found they could not handle the mob by swords and revolvers, they called for reinforcements in armored cars and the demonstrators soon were dispersed.

CAPT. COSTE IS IN FLIGHT FROM PARIS TO NEW YORK

With Maurice Bellonte As Companion, Coste Is Guiding the Famous Plane, "Question Mark," Along the Lower Edge of the Great Circle, Retracing the Route Taken By Lindbergh in 1927—Took Off At Le Bourget Yesterday At 4:54 A. M., E. S. T.—Passed Over Ireland Five Hours Later

PARIS, Sept. 1—(AP)—Far out over the Atlantic ocean tonight, winging toward America, Captain Dieudonne Coste and his flying companion, Maurice Bellonte, in the famous "Question Mark" sped along the lower edge of the great circle to repay the visit of the Lone Eagle of 1927, Charles A. Lindbergh.

The valiant Frenchmen bore with them as they raced through the darkness the hopes of millions of French people who prayed for their success and believed that they would complete without disaster the westward voyage upon which Coli and Nungesser went to their untold fate one month after the Lindbergh flight in 1927.

Steamships' wireless operators were alert for messages from the radio-equipped plane which took off at 4:54 a. m. (EST), LeBourget, passed over Ireland some five hours later and was lost to sight in the heavy skies beyond Valentia, projecting far into the Atlantic on the northern point at the mouth of the River Shannon, which evidently the birdmen had followed from Limerick. Before nightfall two liners had been in contact with the fliers, the Ile De France and the St. Therese. In France tonight there was supreme confidence that tomorrow evening at the appointed hour, just as the dauntless Lindbergh kept to his schedule, Coste and Bellonte would sweep down to receive the welcome New York so well knows how to accord heroes.

Their countrymen were no more confident, however, than were the two French aces when they hurled themselves into the mists that hung over the flying field and took to the air trail that leads into the depths of silence. They were serene in their belief that they had done all possible and that the great adventure would end well and safely.

This does not mean that they had not counted the risks. The westward crossing of the Atlantic, with its phantoms of tragedy, contrary winds, dangerous fogs and difficulty of predicting weather has cost the lives of many who have attempted it.

Coste, cool and calculating, had awaited the moment when he would be favored by that rare combination of wind and sky that spells perfect flying weather over the North Atlantic. Today these conditions were approximated, although it was gloomy at home. Frequently Coste, hesitating to depart, was accused of lacking nerve. His reply was always that this was not a gambling expedition. The tiniest part of his great machine had been tested until the pilot knew it as well as he knew his own body and his companion voyager, Bellonte, was equally familiar with the fast plane.

The fliers knew what kind of weather they wanted and they kept right on waiting until it came.

Late yesterday Coste made it known that the weather report was so good and held such promise for at least 48 hours that we had decided to start. He took his plane to Le Bourget then, knowing that all was well as he went to bed and slept like a child until the hour for departure had come.

When the morning broke, however, it was seen that conditions over Le Bourget field were so bad that a safe take-off under heavy load seemed impossible.

Coste, cautious as ever, decided to wait, realizing all the time that every moment of delay cut down the precious hours of daylight for his arrival on the other side of the Atlantic.

To the hundreds who stood by to wave their farewells it seemed again that Coste had been too cautious, but his views were supported when just after midforenoon conditions improved so rapidly that a take-off was possible.

The ace, who in war chalked up his quota of enemy aircraft without turning a hair, saw his advantage and knew that his hour of endeavor had arrived. He bade a farewell to Mme. Coste, hopped into the cockpit of the Question Mark, and, with a smile and no trace of "nerves" started the powerful motors whirring. Fifteen minutes later he had make a take-off of smooth and effortless as Le Bourget ever saw.

Ten more minutes elapsed while the huge plane winged its way to the horizon and vanished in the west. As the mists closed about the ship the little white clad Mme. Coste stood still, staring at the distant empty sky, waved a faltering "Bon voyage" and turned away.

A $25,000 PRIZE AWAITS COSTE AT DALLAS, TEX.

DALLAS, Tex., Sept. 1— (AP)— A prize of $25,000 awaits Captain Dieudonne Coste and his navigator, Maurice Bellonte, if they succeed in their trans-Atlantic flight to New York and then hop on to Dallas.

Colonel William E. Easterwood of Dallas recently contracted with the fliers to pay them $25,000 for a successful Paris-New York-Dallas flight.

FLYING CONDITIONS FAVORABLE FOR COSTE

NEW YORK, Sept. 1—(AP)—Generally favorable flying conditions for Captain Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte on the first half of their trans-Atlantic flight were described today by Dr. James H. Kimball, U. S. meteorologist. He predicted less favorable conditions over the western half of their route.

"Easterly winds will enable the fliers to make a very fast flight this afternoon and well into the night," Dr Kimball said. They will probably fly at the relatively low altitude of 2,000 feet to take full advantage of the following winds, he said.

Some cloudy weather and rain were indicated on the weather map of the eastern half of the Atlantic, he said but no storms were likely.

The western half will also be free of storms, but westerly winds and some likelihood of fog may impede their progress somewhat by morning. He estimated the fliers would be over Cape Race in the morning

MEETS CLOUDBANKS AND VEERS TOWARD THE NORTH

PARIS, Sept. 1—(AP)—The liner Rochambeau tonight wirelessed the air ministry that at 7:20 p. m., G. M. T. (2:20 p. m., E. S. T.), Captain Dieudonne Coste radioed that he had run between two cloudbanks and was going to veer toward the north for better weather.

A previous report at about this time caused some excitement here. The Ile de France radioed the Associated Press that it had intercepted a message from the Rochambeau saying the flier, who is bound for New York, had been caught between two storms and was turning northward. After receipt of the air ministry message it was believed that the plane was in no danger.

REPORTED ABOUT IN MIDDLE OF ATLANTIC

S. S. BREMEN, Sept. 1—(AP)—(By wireless to The Associated Press)—Captain Dieudonne Coste's "Question Mark" was at latitude 48.30 north and longitude 32.00 west at 11 o'clock tonight (6 p. m., E. S. T.).

The position given by the Bremen for the French airplane which is bound for the United States places it out in the middle of the Atlantic, a trifle more than halfway between Cape Race, Newfoundland, and Fastnet Light, the southernmost tip of Ireland.

REPORTED 600 MILES WEST OF THE COAST OF IRELAND

MONTREAL, Sept. 1—(AP)—The Marconi station here today picked up a message giving the position of the Coste trans-Atlantic plane as 51 north 24 west at 2:45 p. m., (E. S. T.) the message presumably came from a ship at sea, although the name of the vessel was not given.

The position given is about 600 miles out over the ocean, west of Loop Head, on the west coast of Ireland.

The message indicated the Question Mark had covered more than 300 miles since her position was reported at 12:30 p. m., (E. S. T.) by the liner Rochambeau. The plane apparently had increased its speed over the 100-mile clip at which the first part of her journey was covered.

MAY START FLIGHT TODAY FROM MONTREAL TO ENGLAND

NEW YORK, Sept. 1—(AP)—Tomorrow may see three Atlantic fliers in progress at the same time. Dieudonne Coste took off from France today for New York.

Erroll Boyd was hoping tonight to get away from Montreal in the morning for England.

And there was a strong possibility that morning would see the start of a flight around the world by Ted Lundgren and Roger Q. Williams who, when they leave Roosevelt field, plan to make stops for fuel at Old Orchard Beach, Me., and Newfoundland before starting out across the Atlantic.

SIX BALLOONS COMPETING FOR GORDON BENNETT CUP

CLEVELAND, Sept. 1— (AP)— Six balloons, representing four nations, floated away from Cleveland airport into a leaden sky late today to compete for the Gordon Bennett cup in the eighteenth renewal of the international classic.

Carried by gentle air currents, five of the huge bags, the French, German and Belgian entries, the Goodyear VII, and the City of Cleveland tonight were reported drifting in an easterly direction over Ohio.

The City of Detroit, the sixth entry and the first balloon to weigh off, struck an air current from the start that blew it due northeast toward Lake Erie in the direction of Toronto.

A crowd estimated from 50,000 to 100,000, some in the grandstand and others lining the spacious airport for miles around, watched the 80,000 cubic feet bags drift into the late afternoon sky.

If the predictions of aerologists and the hopes of the pilots come true 48 hours will elapse before the winner will be known and the distances traveled may exceed 900 miles.

AIRPLANE JOURNEY FOR 12-DAY OLD TWINS

CANAAN, Sept. 1—(AP)—The youngest flying twins known in aviation are the 12 day old twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Grannan, the former being managing editor of the Connecticut Western News of Canaan. The twins, their parents and a nurse, Margaret Heany, flew from the hospital at Great Barrington, Mass., today to Canaan, landing at the Canaan airport during the progress of the three day air circus staged by the American Legion post of this town. They occupied a cabin plane piloted by Lieut Ross Owen.

FEW CHANGES IN STAFF OF PUBLIC SCHOOL TEACHERS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 1—What is indicated as being the smallest "turnover" of teachers for any town of proportionate size in the state as well as for a majority of the larger municipalities, is being experienced in Windham for the fall term of school beginning Wednesday. Superintendent of Schools Egbert A. Case announced today that he had notice of but one replacement in the teaching staff for the entire list of schools under town supervision, that being at the high school where Miss Marjorie Woodington of Worcester, Mass., a graduate of Massachusetts Normal Art school, will replace Miss Marion Atkins as teacher of the art department. Miss Atkins resigned following announcement of her engagement to be married. There are no changes in the faculties of the grammar schools. Mrs. Ruth T. Welles of South Coventry, who was instructor of music last year, has resigned her position to accept another in East Orange, N. J. Her work in the grammar schools will be taken up by Principal Harry K. Viner of the Natchaug school. Vocal instructions at the high school will be in charge of Miss Hazel Brackett of South Willington who has been engaged to substitute this year for Miss Myrtice Tryon as high school librarian. Miss Tryon is on leave for a year's study at Columbia university. Miss Elizabeth F. Hunt, member of the high school faculty, will continue as supervisor of instrumental music. Miss Brackett is a graduate of the high school and of Connecticut College for Women. The average tenure of position at the school is seven years, considered a most beneficial condition.

Increased High School Registration

A pre-school registration of 740, about 100 more than the pre-school enrollment last year, was announced today by Principal Egbert A. Case of Windham high school. The figure is expected to increase somewhat as the term gets underway. The recent completion of the spacious study-room addition on the third floor of the high school building, accommodating 91 pupils for study, has made possible the acceptance of the unusually high registration as well as the establishment of two new teacher-stations in rooms otherwise occupied as study-rooms. The new stations will be occupied by a commercial teacher, Miss Mildred Atwell, graduate of Bay Path institute, who has been teaching in Brattleboro, Vt., and a home science teacher, Miss Florence M. Kyes, graduates of Bates college and former teacher in Canton, Me. The additional teachers brings the total number of faculty members at the high school to 26.

But for the building of the one-room addition during the summer months, the school authorities would have been forced to reject the entrance applications of 72 tuition pupils having justifiable preference. Other than the probable loss of a high school education to these pupils, the town would have suffered a financial loss of somewhat over $8,000 per year had it been impossible to accept them. This loss for one year is less than $1,000 under the cost of the additional room, fully furnished.

WEDDINGS

Bousquet-Ouellette

Miss Antoinette Ouellette of Chestnut street, and Armand Bousquet of Southbridge, Mass., were united in marriage this morning at 7 o'clock during a nuptial high mass in St. Mary's church. Rev. E. A. Mathieu performed the ceremony and was celebrant of the mass. The attendants were Miss Rose Bousquet, sister of the groom and Antole Ouellette, brother of the bride. The wedding took place within the sanctuary rails and was attended by many relatives and friends.

In a pretty wedding solemnized during a nuptial mass in St. Mary's church, South Coventry at 9 o'clock this morning, Miss Anna C. Barno, daughter of Joseph Barno of South Coventry became the bride of Thomas J. Kelley, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Kelley of 120 Hope street, this city. The pastor, Rev. Dennis F. Moran officiated. The bride and groom are employed at the American Thread company plant here.

A police investigation is being conducted into two small breaks reported this morning as having taken place sometime during the night at the filling stations operated on upper Main street by Harry Lester and Morris Sussman. At the Lester place the loot secured amounted to one dollar in small change while at the Sussman station the thieves profited to the amount of $1.40. A silver dollar in the Lester station was left untouched. Entrance to both places was gained by smashing a pane of glass directly over a window catch, allowing the catch to be released. Police Chief Thomas F. Grady, working in the belief that the breaks were perpertrated by boys, assigned Officer Arthur Hurley to conduct the investigation.

At Hartford this morning Thomas O'Brien of 132 Oak street, well known local insurance agent, and Miss Elizabeth Leroux, a school supervisor of Hartford, were united in marriage.

Poor luck today continued to follow the plans of the local post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars to stage an elaborate air meet over the week end and holiday, in conjunction with the Elks' Country fair, when threatening weather caused a withdrawal of the Labor day program at Weir field. Eleventh hour difficulties in securing an adequate field, an agreement not to run the meet Sunday provided Weir field could be used, followed by a bad break in the weather today brought about a virtual cancellation of all plans for the meet. Whether the meet will be conducted on a future date had not been determined today.

MYSTIC

LAMBTOWN SCHOOL REUNION HELD FOR SIXTH YEAR

The sixth annual meeting at the little red school house, Lambtown district, Ledyard was held Sunday afternoon. Miss Gertrude Watrous acting president, presided. Dr. Clara Hammond McGuigan, of Philadelphia, a Mystic summer resident, was elected secretary. She outlined the historical work which she thought the association should take up, also spoke of the need of sending out notices. Timothy J. Whipple, of Mystic, and Amos M. Gallup, of Pawcatuck, made several helpful suggestions. Next year it was thought best to have the meeting take the form of a picnic, have a constitution and by-laws adopted, and elect a full set of officers. There are many who attended the school, also taught in it who are living in other states and a good program and notices sent out, it is thought, will increase the interest and attract them to the annual meeting as with automobiles it is easy to come for the day. The attendance of over fifty was smaller than usual owing to no notices having been sent out or given to the press. August 16, 1883, a big celebration was held at this school house, in honor of Samuel S. Lamb teaching for fifty years. The older generation remembers well the event. Six years ago, some of the young married people in the town and other places had a reunion and a more vigorous effort will be made to have a regular organization effected at the meeting in 1931.

TWO MINOR ACCIDENTS IN LABOR DAY TRAFFIC

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 1.—Two automobile accidents, neither of them very serious, occurred this afternoon, one between Wauregan and Brooklyn on the state highway and the other on the state highway between Wauregan and Central Village. In the first accident, which happened near the home of Frank Harris in Brooklyn, a car operated by George W. Herr of that town turned over on its side when it ran off the traveled part of the highway onto a soft shoulder while passing another machine. Gordon Miller of Salona, Pa., who was riding with Mr. Herr, was pinned under the machine by one arm as he lay on the turf beside the road.

Mr. Miller received a cut over the left eye, three stitches being required to close the wound, and also a cut on the left cheek. Mr. Herr escaped with a shaking up. The accident was investigated by State Officer James Carmody.

In the accident between Wauregan and Central Village, a car operated by Thomas Poulos of Marlboro, Mass., was in collision with another car operated by Vincenzo Masucci, 43 Pierce street, Westerly. Poulos was traveling towards Central Village, the other car in the opposite direction. A car ahead of the Poulos machine turned out to pass a man who was walking along the highway and Poulos did the same, swinging over a bit too far, according to State Officer Royal Scranton, who checked the accident. There were no personal injuries though both machines were considerably damaged. Poulos was ordered to appear in the town court of Plainfield next Saturday morning to answer to a charge of failing to grant half the traveled right of way.

So. Killingly Celebrates

Rain today marred in some degree the plans for the annual Old Home day at South Killingly, but the storm was not sufficient to lessen the ardor or enthusiasm of those who gathered there to enjoy a day that is outstanding with them, because of the setting on the grounds of the historic church, the opportunities for reunion with friends of the days of yore, the fine dinner and the formal program, as outstanding features. Some were kept away by the rain that fell steadily during the morning hours. Many others braved the discomforts of travel in the storm to be on hand. The Community house afforded ample shelter from the storm and also for the serving of the dinner.

Old Home Day at Ekonk

Another Old Home day that attracted attendance from Danielson today was that held at the church in Ekonk. John W. Gallup of Danielson was one of the committee of arrangements for this event, which was first held a year ago today. Rev. M. J. Twomey of Philadelphia, formerly a pastor of the Danielson Baptist church, was the speaker of the day. Various Gallups of families of Danielson and other communities in this section were represented among those in attendance.

Schools Open Tuesday

Following an influx of out-of-town teachers who arrived today to take up their work in the schools of Killingly Tuesday morning, a number of them with prior records of teaching service here, there was a conference of the members of the high school faculty with Supt. W. E. Parker and Principal Ernest R. Warren at the high school building. On Wednesday afternoon at 3:20, there will be a similar conference for teachers in the graded schools.

There is one change in the personnel of the high school faculty from that announced a number of weeks ago. Miss Velma Vincent, a resident of Kansas, will come here to teach in the home economics department, in the place of Miss Esther Bales, originally scheduled for the position during the new school year. Miss Vincent, who is sent here by the state, will be in charge of instruction relative to foods.

Miss Rubenna Hickey, who taught at the Valley school during the past year, will replace Mrs. Earle N. Bassett, nee Miss Beatrice Lindner, who taught one of the grades at the Goodyear school last year. Mrs. Emily Davis Gaudreau, formerly a teacher in Brooklyn, will temporarily teach at the Valley school, for which no regular appointment had been made up to this afternoon.

Miss Micholine Jaworski, a graduate of Killingly high school two years ago, and later a student at a business college in Worcester, has been named as stenographer and typist for Superintendent Parker's office and will begin her duties Tuesday morning. Miss Jaworski is a resident of Danielson.

Frederick Smith of East Killingly has been awarded the contract for transporting the children of school age from the Sparks district of the town to East Killingly. There are about eight of these children, the district being one of the sparsely settled ones of the town.

There will be no delay in organizing the schools on Tuesday, the first session day of the new school year, and by Wednesday the work in all of the schools of the town is expected to be proceeding as though the interruption of a long summer vacation never had occurred.

Bernier Home Raided

State officers of the Danielson barracks staged a home town raid early this afternoon at the home of Elphire Bernier, resident in that section of Water street in the rear of the Keystone block. State Officers Elton Nolan, Lionel Poirier and H. Theodore Strand were the raiding officers. Searching about a bit, they uncovered a cache in a partition, and the hideout yielded 13 cases of alleged home brew beer. Bernier, a second offender, was placed under arrest and later released under bonds of $1,000. He is scheduled for an appearance in the town court on Tuesday.

E. F. GIRARD IS CHAIRMAN OF DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE

PUTNAM, Sept. 1.—Following the caucus of the democrats of the town which was held Thursday evening, a party committee election was held and Edward F. Girard, democratic member of the board of selectmen, was given the chairmanship. Others named to serve on the committee were City Clerk Thomas P. Pepin, Frank Vadnais, Alfred Bonneville, Thomas Light, Armand Montville, Leon A. Talbot.

Following the adjournment of the caucus the committee at an informal gathering discussed plans for the coming fall campaign. Unless any unforeseen developments arise, Leon A. Talbot and J. Otis Fox, Putnam representatives at the last session of general assembly, in all probability, will be the party's standard bearers again this year. During the meeting, Frederick Dumas, a member of the committee, said that his party is planning to stage a vigorous campaign again this year to repeat their sensational victory of two years ago. The drafting of a strong ticket and the conducting of the campaign in a systematic and well balanced manner will be factors on which the party is to concentrate its efforts.

OBITUARY

Eugene Page

Eugene Page, for many years a resident of the north end of the city, died last evening at his home on Battey street, after an illness of four years. Mr. Page was 46 years of age. His death was caused by a paralytic stroke. For the past four years paralysis crippled the use of his legs and caused him pain and suffering. Mr. Page was born in Canada, but came to the United States with his family when a young man. He worked in the mills in this section of the county, being employed as a millwright. He was married to Miss Mary Durand, a sister of Patrolman Benoni Durand of the local police, who together with a son, Andre Page, survives him. Mr. Page came to Putnam about 15 years ago. Previous to that he resided in Attawaugan. Following the liquidation activities of the Manhansett Manufacturing company, Mr. Page retired from his active pursuits and soon afterwards was stricken with an illness that brought about his death yesterday.

Mr. Page was a member of St. Mary's church and fraternally he was associated with the Putnam aerie of Eagles and the Loyal Order of Moose. Besides his wife and son, he is survived by his mother who resides in Attawaugan and three brothers who live in Danielson, Dayville and New Bedford, Mass.

Police Search For Missing Boy

Police forces of eastern Connecticut were engaged in a search today for John Andrews, 16 years old son of Mr. and Mrs. B. N. Andrews of this city, who has been missing from his home since Saturday. Lieut. R. V. Urquhart, commanding officer at the state police barracks at Danielson, said this afternoon that police alarms containing a description of the youth have been sent to every city in the state. The police have also enlisted the cooperation of the naval and coast guard bases at New London in an effort to prevent Andrews from joining either branch of the service. It was said today that the boy was not in accord with his parents' wishes, which were that he should return to Putnam high school at the opening of the year Wednesday, where he will be enrolled in the senior class. Andrews is regarded by the school authorities as an unusual student. At commencement in June he was promoted from the junior to the senior class with high rating, a distinction which few students of his tender years have achieved. Although the boy was last seen in Norwich, on Saturday afternoon, a combing of that city by Norwich police and a careful search of the territory between that city and New London by state officers of Groton barracks, until a late hour this afternoon, had revealed no clues as to his whereabouts.

A student enrollment of over 800 pupils is expected to be registered at St. Mary's school on Wednesday morning at the re-opening of the institution. Rev. Ernest Bolleau, principal, said this afternoon that arrangements for the fall semester are now complete. Father Bolleau stated that the secondary grades were so greatly overtaxed last year that the faculty was forced to create a second division for pupils of the eighth grade.

WESTERLY

CABIN CRUISER BLOWS UP AT WATCH HILL

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Sept. 1—The Labor day season end this year was not without its seashore major accident in Westerly—a large cabin cruising boat being blown up on Monday morning in Little Narragansett bay, at Watch Hill. Last year it was an aeroplane crash at Misquamicut with double fatality. The explosion which wrecked, set fire and sank the motor cruiser moored at the Plimpton House dock, so-called on Bay street, was accompanied by a single loud report. Debris was sent hurtling over a hundred feet into the air and escaping gasoline became ignited on the waters of the bay causing a fire menace which threatened thousands of dollars damage.

The danger from the threatening fire was quickly realized and in addition to the sounding of the fire alarm of the Watch Hill Fire District, fire alarm No. 332, on the whistle alarm of the Westerly Fire district's central station on Union street in Westerly was sounded to notify Westerly property owners at Watch Hill and for members of the Watch Hill department in Westerly that their presence was demanded at the Hill. This alarm sounded a few minutes after 10 a. m., was the result of a telephone call less than five minutes after the explosion had occurred. Watch Hill Department Fire Chief George W. Hoxie was in Westerly so Assistant Engineer Reginald E. Peck at Watch Hill was called upon to fight his second large threatening fire of the season. In response to the word received that the Watch Hill fire was at the Plimpton dock, Second Assistant Engineer Columbus J. Pasetti, who was at the Westerly fire station had the Ahrens-Fox motor pumper manned and went to Watch Hill, but the assistance of the Westerly firemen was not required. The Watch Hill firemen fought the blazing oil on the water and the burning woodwork of the boat to best advantage with chemicals, their pumper being stationed at the head of the dock on Bay street and lines of fire hose were laid from the fire hydrants.

Four Men on Board

The destroyed craft was the "Mist Chief" of Boston, a fifty-foot cabin cruiser of about 18 net tons equipped with two Swift engines, which came into the bay on Sunday night and was bound to Stamford where it had been sold to parties in Connecticut. At the time of the explosion four men were on board below deck, the owner, Albert J. Knight, 31, of 817 Albany street, Boston; Capt. Ray M. Skielton of Saybrook, Conn.; Seaman Henry Savage, 29, of Maple avenue, Saybrook, Conn.; and Roland H. Peacock of Cambridge, Mass. All these men were practically blown out of the boat, Knight suffering from bad burns about the face, neck, arms and chest; Savage, numerous cuts and bruises and Skielton from bruises and slight burns. Knight and Savage were placed in a truck and started for the Westerly hospital, but being overtaken by the ambulance of the Westerly Sanitary corps which had been called the two men were transferred and continued the trip to the hospital in the ambulance. At the Westerly hospital they were treated by Dr. Henry L. Johnson of Watch Hill. At the hospital the condition of the men was not thought serious enough to have them placed on the danger list.

Loud Explosion

The report from the explosion was so loud as to attract attention all over Watch Hill and Capt. George W. Streeter, keeper of the Watch Hill Coast Guard station rushed over to the bay with members of the coast guard crew. Westerly Town Council President Horace E. Burdick, an official of the Watch Hill Fire district stationed himself at the junction of Wauwinnet avenue near Bay street and turned the hundreds of autos which rushed to the scene from the cottage section of Watch Hill to give the firemen an opportunity to work in putting out the blaze. Officer Fred Wheeler at the Plimpton road junction of Bay street and Special Officer Alexander Mitchell at the head of the Plimpton dock to prevent all but firemen going upon the dock until the danger from the spreading gasoline was obviated some time even after the fire had been put out. Captain Streeter had men in men in boats and boats from other yachts searched the wreckage which spread out on the water for a fifty-foot radius.

Man Blown onto Dock

Capt. Roger Dunha mon duty in his boathouse gas station on the south side of the dock was in his office at the time of the explosion and rushed out to observe as he described "debris 100 feet in the air and still going higher." He started for the end of the dock and then went back to keep clear of the showering glass and debris which "rained down" but did see one of the crew crawling onto the dock from the stern of the boat which was moored to the end of the dock with the bow pointed towards the Watch Hill Yacht club wharf. In the air was another man of the crew who landed on the dock. On the south side of the dock was the cruising yacht "Malobi" of Pittsburgh, Pa., Capt. Skat, and owned by Rex Flint. One of its crew was in Dunham's office with him and he helped to cut the mooring lines of this boat so that it could be moved inshore and out of reach of the leaping flames, but not before the force of the explosion on the other boat had blown off its flagstaff.

Complained of Fumes

It was reported that one of the Mist Chief's crew, Peacock, was at the Watch Hill Yacht club dock at the time of the blast and that just before it exploded had left the boat complaining that fumes had made him ill. A gasoline tank truck driven by Frank W. Mills had just put 250 gallons of gasoline on board the boat and at the time it was stated that engine trouble had developed and Mechanic Fritz Reithal of a Westerly garage was on his way to look over the engine. Capt. Dunham said the gas or gas fumes had been set off by a spark and possibly from the engine which resulted in the explosion of the forward tank of the cruiser. The rear tanks were not exploded, most fortunately and a further fortunate co-incidence was that the cabin was blown off and the debris mostly outward toward the bay side of the dock. The bow of the wrecked craft rested on the harbor bottom but the stern was just below the water level and gasoline continued to leak dangerously from the wrenched rear tank. So powerful was the force of the explosion that the bow of the boat was blown out and cracked practically the entire length of the boat.

Guests at the Plimpton hotel, both on the verandas and in the dining room, after hearing the report, rushed to the windows with the hotel employes and described the boat material as apparently going several hundred feet into the air. Estimates of the value of the boat ranged from $6,000 to $20,000.

A number of motor traffic law violators will appear this Tuesday morning in the regular session of Stonington town court, before Judge William A. Wilcox. Among them is Miss Katherine Shinkle, 16, daughter of a Watch Hill summer cottage owner, who was given a court summons by Connecticut State Police Officer Arthur Whitmarsh for speeding on the Boston Post road.

LUMBER STOREHOUSE IS THREATENED BY FIRE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Sept. 1—The cypress storehouse on Main street of the Walter C. Hiscox Lumber Co., was threatened with destruction when a fire of undetermined origin broke out in the rear about 12:25 p. m. Labor day. Fire alarm No. 52, corner of Main and Union streets was sounded and all the apparatus of the Westerly fire department was called to the scene. The force of firemen was directed by First and Second Assistant Engineers George A. McKenzie and Columbus Pasetti. When flames, accompanied by dense black smoke broke through the wooden shingle rof near the ridgepole both the Ahrens Fox and Seagraves motor pumpers were taken down Vincent lane and there was just sufficient width between lumber piles for them to drop their suctions into the Pawcatuck river.

Before this was done fire hose was laid from Main street hydrants and three lines were taken down the south side of the large two-story and a half wooden frame building, the lower floor of which was recently occupied by the Buick Auto as a service station. The antique furniture shop of William Davidson occupied the second floor and to the north-east and adjoining this large wooden frame building is the Hiscox company office.

When the firemen first arrived the blaze seemed to have started at the south-west rear corner and apparently beneath a flight of outside stairs leading to the second floor at one time occupied as a carriage painting shop by the late William Green.

Ladders were placed on the building and holes cut in the sides through which fire streams were directed from all sides and the flames were drowned out, but not before the building was flooded with water.

Employes of the company began the work of salvaging the lumber in the building under direction of Walter C. Hiscox and Raymond E. Hiscox of the company. Rolls of tar paper were broken open and spread on the piles of finished lumber to keep off the water which poured down from above and the holes in the roof.

There was a large pile of fir piled high on the Hisco company docks on the Pawcatuck rive rand f set afire by falling sparks a fire of such proportions might have followed as to sweep the water front. It was a stubborn afternoon fight for the firemen to keep down the flames which had swept up through the building and out of the roof. The central location caused a large crowd of spectators to assemble on both sides of the Pawcatuck river.

The Westerly town council will hold its September session Tuesday morning in the council chamber of the Westerly town hall. The postponement from Monday was due to the Labor day holiday. There is reported to be a large amount of business to come before the town fathers at this session.

PERMANENT SCOUT CAMP

Norwich has hundreds of boys, and we dare say as many girls, who are interested in camping. Many of them, as Scouts, have attended the camps endorsed by the local Scout organization and they, their parents and friends, are certain to be interested in the recent suggestion that was advanced by President Larrabee of the Scout council in which the acquisition of a permanent camp for the local Scouts was urged.

A person is always more interested in the home he owns than the one he hires. It is reasonable to suppose that the same would be true of a camp. When camping facilities are hired there are necessarily restrictions and limits which would not be necessary if the camp were owned. Developments can be accomplished and added facilities obtained for the accommodation of all who are interested where the camp site is the property of the organization.

With Scout camps a fixed feature, with greater interest than ever in Scouting and with the expectation that this interest will continue to increase, the need of a camp which the council can call its own is easily recognized. With the Scouts striving for such a goal there are good reasons for believing that they will be successful. This part of the state abounds in attractive camp sites and it will be wise to make choice of an adequate location before the best of them have been taken.

The thought that with the knowledge of the need of such a site someone interested in Scouts, or the future citizens, will be inspired to provide the site is a happy one. Such would prove to be a great boon to Scouting and to the annual summer Scout camp. It is action which has been taken by individuals in connection with this and similar movements elsewhere with fine results. But whether the goal of a permanent camp for the Scouts in Norwich and vicinity is realized by gift or purchase, the desirability of meeting the requirements of the 700 Scouts cannot be overlooked any more than there can be disregarded the advantages to the organization of having its own camp over one which is hired, and where limitations must of necessity prevail. If a Boy Scout camp is to be a fixture, and everything points that way, a permanent site should be had.

PERIODICAL INSPECTIONS HELP

"It might be well to make mandatory a thorough inspection of every car that figures in an accident and empower the proper authorities to destroy all machines found unsafe for further travel."

Such is a view expressed by the Philadelphia Public Ledger, following the death of a boy in Jersey City who had been struck when the steering knuckle broke on a car which a youth had bought for $2.

It followed the opinion handed down by the coroner in holding the youth for grand jury action and in whose decision was found the statement that "dealers who sell old, broken-down cars to irresponsible persons are partly at fault for such accidents as these."

Such cases as this demonstrate the value of just such a campaign as has been conducted throughout the New England states during the past month. It is highly probable that all such cars that may be considered a menace to the highway have not been removed as the result of the Save-a-Life campaign. All of them have not been put in a state of repair which will make them safer for all concerned, but there can be little doubt but what a decided benefit has been contributed to highway safety by the inspections which have been made and by the adjustments and repairs which have followed the disclosure of their need.

It isn't always the dilapidated auto that provides the greatest menace for those riding in it or other users of the highway. It is possible for the neglected machine to become a decided danger. This doesn't necessarily mean that the drivers of all cars which are in bad condition actually know it, but that there is the failure in too many instances on the part of those involved in the ownership or driving of cars to make the inspections which are called for in the insurance of the highest degree of safety.

Possibly certain of the adjustments that were made in the autos during the past month were minor and would not have resulted in an accident, but the campaign has sent home full recognition of the fact that if there was more careful attention paid to the condition of all autos, and their equipment, not only once but several times a year, there would be caught and eliminated many of those defects which frequently contribute needless highway troubles and accidents.

GETTING FARM RELIEF

For a considerable time the federal farm board has been urging the wheat growers of the country to reduce their acreage. Instead of trying to see how much wheat can be produced, they are being asked to keep more nearly within the bounds of requirements for the beneficial effect which it will have upon the price.

Whenever huge amounts of wheat are raised it is with the thought that it can be disposed of at a good price. Experience has taught the fallacy of such a view. There are times when such may be possible, provided the wheat yield in other countries has been poor, but with big crops everywhere the prospects of getting rid of a big crop of United States wheat, a crop far outside of the usual production, are discouraging. Too much wheat has produced low wheat prices, in spite of all the board has been able to do in the way of stabilization by the purchase of wheat.

What the board has been trying to impress upon the wheat growers, and other agriculturists in a similar position, is that they must give more consideration to the law of supply and demand. If it is impossible to sell the wheat at home and abroad, the natural reaction should be to grow less wheat. If more wheat is raised than is needed for domestic use and foreign markets are not seeking it because they have enough of their own, we should grow less instead of more. No manufacturer would manufacture more goods this year if he had not been able to get rid of his last year's production and there was no demand for an increased output.

That the wheat growers are listening to the farm board's plea is indicated in a government report which indicates a substantial reduction in the acreage planted to wheat. The decrease in some states is put at 13 per cent. In others the decrease runs from 8 to 5 per cent, and the expectation is that the wheat acreage will be the lowest since 1923.

This indicates that the wheat growers are going to do something to help themselves. They are listening to those who are endeavoring to help them in their predicament and through cooperation in such a movement and recognition of the law of supply and demand the relief that is sought will be secured. It is folly to think of picking it out of thin air.

FAIRS

Fairs are not what they used to be. There are a few of the old timers serving public requirements in such a manner that they are making ends meet and able to keep going, but for the most part they have given way to smaller exhibitions.

The state department of agriculture is pointing to the fact that New London and Windham counties will have five fairs this month. Two of those have attracted the people for years. The others are much younger and quite different in size and character.

Eastern Connecticut lost its largest fair when the New London Agricultural society decided to go out of business. Windham county still maintains its fairs at Woodstock and Brooklyn but with those exceptions all the fairs in this part of the state will be conducted on a much smaller scale. But in these counties, as elsewhere, the grange fairs are catering to the requirements and an effort is being made to retain the semblance of the larger attractions, but with particular attention being paid to the agricultural side.

It is well that such a feature is not to be allowed to pass. If the big fairs cannot furnish enough attractions to secure a paying crowd it is possible that the grange fairs, the roadside exhibitions and the community gatherings will succeed. If they meet the requirements it can be expected that they will develop from year to year with more and better attractions.

It is to be hoped that they will succeed. There is always a charm to a fair which is bound to appeal to a certain number. It affords a gathering place for the many and sociability and entertainment to be had by so many in few other places. If the bigger fairs are not desired, by all means give the right support and encouragement to the smaller ones.

SOUTH AMERICAN UNREST

These are parlous times in South America. Beginning first in Bolivia, the spirit of revolt was not long in spreading to Peru, and before adjustment of the condition was effected in that republic trouble was disclosed in Argentina and the southern part of Brazil.

Perhaps the most surprising of these outbreaks is that in Argentina, where President Irigoyen was supposed to be so firmly supported as to eliminate any such trouble. When he was up for reelection he encountered much opposition, but he was able to overcome it with plenty to spare. His style and method have made their appeal to the people of that republic in spite of his radical tendencies. But with conditions in Argentina no better than elsewhere there appears to be a feeling that a change might accomplish some good. Whether there is any justification for such a view, determined provisions have been made for keeping abreast, and perhaps a bit ahead, of revolutionary activities. It is evident, however, that the Irigoyen government is being put to a hard and unusual test at a time when uncertainty prevails among neighboring republics.

South American republics are still disposed to resort to revolutions instead of elections for the correction of what they consider undesirable conditions. Dependence is placed upon the military forces under such conditions and the government stays or falls, in accordance with the influence it is able to wield.

Whether conditions in the South American countries will experience any "improvements because of the changes that have taken place, the trouble that has been fomented or the evidence of unrest, lies with the future to determine. It is one of the ways, nevertheless, of learning what the opposition elements are demanding and doing, where the weak spots are and what is back of them.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.— No one except chairmen of the two great rival national committees venture to predict what the majority of the house will be in the next congress, for which the elections are held in November, but few expect it will change from republican to democratic control, though the present large majority will probably be reduced, as it came about through the Hoover landslide.

One thing is certain, there will be at least 26 new members of the house when the congress opens after March 4th, 1931. Fifteen republicans and seven democrats have refused to stand for re-election; 13 republicans and one democrat have been defeated as primary candidates. Four republican members of the house are candidates for the senate. They are Mrs. McCormick of Illinois, Wallace White of Maine, Dickinson of Iowa, republicans, and Cordell Hull of Tennessee, democrat. Pritchard of North Carolina left the house to be a candidate for governor in his state. More changes are certain for a number of primaries are still to be held.

The one veteran of the Civil war, Major Stedman of North Carolina, has reached the age of 90 and having served with distinction for 20 years. He thinks it high time "to go home and settle down." Mrs. Oldfield leaves because she "likes home life best." The most prominent republican to leave the house is undoubtedly Franklin Fort of New Jersey, who lost out in his primary run for the senate. He is former secretary of the republican national committee and a brilliant speaker. Fort will be greatly missed in floor debate.

If the Davis home folks could do all the voting in the coming Pennsylvania election, the secretary of labor would go into the senate without a discenting vote. This is based on the royal welcome they gave Mr. Davis when he and Vice President Curtis were the speakers at the Sharon Old Home day celebration last week.

Secretary Davis proudly referred to the fact that he came to Sharon when a small boy and that his first paying job was shining shoes "down at John Williams' barber shop." He also told, with gratification and pride, that when the Davis family settled in Sharon, just after they came over from Wales, they paid $3.50 a month ren for the house they lived in.

And those Sharon folks cheered Davis to the echo. Not because he is secretary of labor and a millionaire; not because he rose from a little shoe-shine boy to membership in the Harding cabinet; not because he served so successfully in that position that Coolidge and Hoover asked him to remain in their cabinets. Oh no, they cheered him because he is unspoiled by prosperity; because he is just as proud today to "be one of them" as when he was a puddler in the great steel mills helping support his mother and the young small fry of the Davis family; because he played the clarinet in the town band, that Old Home day, when all the town had turned out to do him honor. He played just as he did in those humble early days. That's the sort of man Davis is.

If any one boasts he has the pen with which President Hoover signed the London naval treaty, somebody will be just mean enough to ask "who got the other 22?" For it was recently stated that 22 souvenir pens of that event were given friends and persons who put in applications far in advance. That is said to be a common practice when great treaties are signed, but must be taken second hand, for all we know about it is, like Will Rogers "What I read in the papers."

But it is a fact that it is customary to give the pen with which a president actually signed an original treaty, to the ambassador or minister representing the nation with which the treaty is made. The two pens used in signing the pact in London were given as historic treasures to Sir Ronal Lindsay, and the ambassador from Japan. Of course, they would not be procurable by collectors, but we are told "souvenir" pens, which are genuine, command a good price, if they can be purchased.

We don't hear much about pen collectors, as we do postage stamps and coins, but understand they are to be found in considerable number, and are not to be outdone in persistency by other collectors.

Many minor treaties are signed during an administration, such as those relating to the prohibition law, drugs, smuggling and other matter dealing with foreign nations.

For a long time Washington was uncertain whether or not the present ornate post office department building would be retained under the "make Washington beautiful" building project now under way, or whether it would give way to a building more in keeping with the more classic designs of new structures.

It has been suggested the old building might be treated to "a hair cut and shave," as the proposed alterations on the state and war department building are derisively called, as its frills and furbelows are to be removed. But now it has been decided to take down the old post office building in completing the triangle improvements in that section where the building stands.

The post office department building was originally the city post office, but when the handsome new building was erected next to the Union station, the old building was turned over to the department for use by the postmaster general, the assistant post master generals and other departmental offices.

One of its chief features is an immense inner court, which extends practically the entire length of the building, and rises from street floor to the top. In the court hangs one of the largest American flags in the country. Another notable feature, besides the flag, is the great clock in the tower. That clock has the reputation of failing, with extraordinary persistence, to keep time, although it is within hailing distance of the U. S. naval observatory, from which standard time is cabled twice daily, flashed, phoned, radioed and wired to the entire United States, and all its outlying territory an dependencies.

Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owens, member of congress from Florida, is nothing, if not resourceful. Mrs. Owen is said to have one eye for re-election in November and the other on the senate where she hopes to follow Senator Fletcher, whose term expires two years hence. Mrs. Owen seems to have the 1930 re-election safe in the hollow of her hand, but is taking no chances.

Mrs. Owen makes it a practice each year to "cover" the state, getting in touch not only with constituents who are of voting age, but those who will be voters, for she devotes a lot of attention to boys and girls in their teens, and does many pleasant and instructive things for their benefit.

To travel in comfort Mrs. Owen uses a big car which hauls a still bigger trailer, which is much the style of a large motor bus, as you view it from the outside, but folks who have been in it say it is equipped with all the comforts of home. It has sleeping rooms, a well furnished kitchenette "an' everything" as the comic strips say. In this Mrs. Owen travels and actually lives for weeks at a time. Mrs. Owen likes to drive her own car, and does so during most of her campaign trips, with the trailer trailing behind.

STATION XYZ

Michael McLaren was a young man whose life, like a tassel, frayed in many directions, with no particular point of significance. One thing of consequence he possessed, a voice, which he sold to the XYZ broadcasting station and which netted him a certain amount of fame and distinction as an announcer.

Old ladies tendered him letters of praise; young women sent him poetry and flowers.

Michael dismissed these tributes with easy unconcern and proceeded along a happy-go-lucky bachelor existence. Only two people of his acquaintance did he take seriously—Mr. Wescott, the studio director, and his boss, and Amy Arnold, the continuity writer.

In a vague way Amy had always disturbed Michael. There was a quiet distinction about her beauty, her talent, her efficiency. She it was who wrote the clever little stories that he sandwiched between announcements. She gave them substance, he gave them voice. He had never been able to enlist her personal attention. She completely ignored him that way.

"Mr. Wescott is going to introduce a children's story hour," Amy said to Michael one day. "Ever talk to children?"

Michael shook his head. "No reason why I couldn't, though."

"Oh, you'll make it," Amy assured him. "Everything's written from beginning to end."

Michael stood before the microphone with Amys manuscript in hand. "I'm just a lonely sort of fellow," he began, "with no little boy or girl of my own to make me happy, and so I am going to pretend that all of you boys and girls belong to me'."

On the following morning Michael came into the office late. "There's a kid over there," said the girl at the desk, "who's been waiting to see you for about an hour."

"A kid?" Michael's voice signified confusion. His eyes caught a small nook at the far side of the studio which served as a waiting room. A stiff settee. His face was as bright as his clothing was drab. Awkwardly Michael crossed the room. The boy bounced to his feet.

"You're the guy who tells what's gonna be next on XYZ, ain't yuh? I heard what you said last night about feelin' lonely and not havin' a kid o' your own, and I thought maybe I might fill the bill."

The perplexity on Michael's face augmented. "Who said I wanted a kid?" he fairly growled.

Disappointment withered the child's smile. "Why—why, you said it, yourself, mister. I heard you in front of a radio store where they gotta loud speaker settin' up over the door. I don't belong to nobody no more, and I thought maybe, if you wanted somebody——" His voice faltered. "I ain't so dumb. I kin work.——"

The immaculately groomed announcer and the ragged urchin stared at one another. Michael felt ashamed, guilty, aggravated. Letters, poems, even geese, he could manage, but a living tribute, a kid, on his hands. A kid needed a kind and clever woman to manage him. In some respects Michael felt like a kid himself, just then. It was Amy Arnold's fault that he was in such a pickle. Amy should not have used that line about his feeling lonely. "Come on, sonny," he said, suddenly taking the boy by the hand. "I guess you don't understand this broadcasting business. But there's a pretty lady down the hall here who'll help me explain."

Amy listened with genuine interest and interrupted Michael in the middle of his story. "I think it is perfectly wonderful of you, Mr. McClaren, to take this little fellow under your wing. I'd no idea that you were that kind of person." She regarded him earnestly, unmistakably admiration gleaming in her eyes. "You'll be a kind of godfather to him, won't you? And I'm sure Mr. Wescott will be glad. Only yesterday he was talking about getting a boy to do small errands."

Michael, who had tried for so long to make a favorable impression on Amy, was baffled, but not unmindful of his unexpected inning. "Sure," he replied rather grandly. "Sure thing. I'm going to keep sonny here under my wing. What did you suppose I'd do? But, you see, I may need some assistance."

"Ill do anything that I can," agreed Amy.

"Maybe—oh, I wish she would be my godmother," piped the urchin.—Chicago News.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1—Now that all the din over supreme court nominations is over and the court itself gone a-vacationing until Octover, experienced observers in Washington are speculating as to what the upshot of it all will be.

Owen Roberts of Pennsylvania was confirmed to the seat denied Judge Parker of North Carolina just in time to get installed before the court ended its work. He has no judicial backgound of experience to which to look as indicating his probable natural alignment with the so-called conservative or liberal groups among the justices.

Hard To Tell

The Bystander does not know Justice Roberts. He does know, however, men who have been rather intimate with that distinguished Pennsylvanian ever since the prosecution of the oil cases brought him so sharply to the front in national affairs.

And some of these who have a decided "liberal" bent in political philosophy are prompt to predict that Justice Roberts will be found much of a mind with that patriarch of dissenters, Justice Holmes, and with Justices Brandeis and Stone when he comes to cast his vote at the conference table of the court.

On the other side it might be argued that senators and others who lean more to the conservative view of things made no objection to Roberts' appointment. Was that because they expected him to go along with the conservative group once he was seated on the bench?

Or did it merely reflect a sort of silent object lesson towards the senate liberals who assailed the nominations of Chief Justice Hughes and Judge Parker?

First Test

Whatever the facts may be, close observers of the tribunal and its members are awaiting with much interest the first opinion to be rendered by it, Justice Roberts participating, which may involve a question touching upon this line of philosophical cleavage.

For it is estimated that should he in fact join Holmes, Brondeis and Stone in their frequent dissents from the majority view, five to four decisions might be frequent. And there is always the possibility that in any specific case one of the justices of the conservative group might join the other side.

Chief Justice Hughes and Justices Stone and Sutherland went abroad at the close of the term. Hughes and Stone in southern Europe to give Mrs. Stone's bent for painting picturesque subjects. Justice Sutherland, however, long in frail health, sought the aid of famous spas.

YOUR HEALTH

Mistaken Notions About Halitosis
By V. A. Funk, M. D., Vincennes, Indiana.

Frequently we hear people say that they are victims of Halitosis or foul breath because they have stomach trouble. Many such people fill their innocent stomachs with all sorts of patent remedies in an attempt to sweeten the breath. The truth is that in the majority of cases of foul breath the trouble lies not in the stomach but either in the mouth or nose or both. True, in some disorders of the stomach in children or grown-ups, the breath may have an unpleasant odor, but not foul.

Knowing where to look for the trouble, what shall we find? Pyorrhea is the most common cause for foul breath in middle-aged people. Decayed teeth also cause this affliction. Chronic tonsillitis, when the small glands and ducts of the tonsils are filled with a thick, decayed substance frequently give off an offensive odor. Infected adenoids will also cause foul breath. Inflammation and chronic infection of the nose and sinuses may be present without enough symptoms to cause suspicion but sufficient to cause foul breath.

In the doctor's office we see many patients who apply for stomach medication because of their foul breath. To be sure there are some stomach symptoms present because secretions from an infected mouth or nose reach the stomach and derange it. However, the trouble with most of us is that we draw our own conclusions or allow our friends and neighbors to diagnose and treat our case.

So, with a case of foul breath, as in all other ailments, do not jump at hasty and erroneous conclusions but obtain the advice of men who will serve you scientifically. Let your dentist examine your mouth at least twice a year, and x-ray the teeth if he thinks it is necessary. Your doctor will no doubt refer you to an ear, eye, nose and throat man for a thorough examination of the nose and throat. If the cause of foul breath is not found through such an examination, then the chest, stomach and intestines should be investigated.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Striped Chipmunk Gives Advice.

Experience gives sound advice
You could not buy at any price.
—Old Mother Nature.

Impy, the black Chipmunk, was just completing his bedroom when he was startled by the sound of some one in his long hall. He stopped to listen. "Some one is coming," thought Impy. "Oh dear, who can it be? I hope it isn't an enemy. For, if it is, I am caught. There is no way for me to escape. Oh dear, oh dear, I wish I had a back door!"

And then Impy experienced great relief. His nose brought him that relief. You see, his nose picked up the scent of the one who was coming down that long hall. Impy knew it was his father, Striped Chipmunk. Sure enough, a second lated Striped Chipmunk appeared in the little bedroom.

"So," said Striped Chipmunk, "you have seen all of the Great World you want to see and are settling down."

"Yes," replied Impy. "But how did you find me?"

"Oh," replied Striped Chipmunk, "I had an idea you wouldn't go very far, and so this morning as I had nothing else in particular to do I thought I would look you up. You came farther than I thought you would and I might not have found you but that I remembered the pile of stone outside. You see, I have been over here before. When I found the pile of stones it didn't take me long to find the entrance to your home. That pile of sand out there gives it away If Shadow the Weasel should come along, you wouldn't have a chance in the world. He would find that entrance right away and follow you in here. If you will take my advice you will have a carefully hidden entrance with no telltale sand around it."

"That's what I am planning," said Impy. "If you'll come outside, I'll show you where my entrance is to be."

So they went outside and Impy took Striped Chipmunk over to a hollow log in which was a knothole on the lower side. "There," said Impy, with some pride, "is where my entrance is going to be. What do you think of that?"

Striped Chipmunk shook his head. "It won't do," said he.

"Why won't it do?" demanded Impy, looking very much surprised.

"Because it would be found right away," replied Striped Chipmunk.

"Who would find it right away, I'd like to know!" cried Impy.

"What I mean is," exclaimed Striped Chipmunk, "that, if a certain one of your enemies should come looking for you he would find it right away. He may not come around this way, but if he does, one of the first places he will go will be inside this hollow log. I am talking about Shadow the Weasel. If you should have your entrance here, and Shadow should come to examine this old log, he naturally would find that opening right away. It was very clever of you, Impy, to think of this thing, but it won't do. You must look around for some other place."

"Where would you make it if you were in my place?" inquired Impy.

"That's a question I'm not going to answer," replied Striped Chipmunk. "You must find a place for yourself. But let me give you a bit of advice. Don't leave so much as a telltale grain of sand around it, and see that it is where no one is likely to look for it. One of the safest doorways I ever had was right out in the open where any one could see it, but no one did see it, because no one thought of looking for it there. One more thing. Get that entrance right away. Don't waste any time. You will then have a way of escape from any one who enters the back door."

CANNED MUSIC IN THEATRES

IS ART TO HAVE A TYRANT?

THO' the Robot can make no music of himself, he can and does arrest the efforts of those who can.

Manners mean nothing to this monstrous offspring of modern industrialism, as IT crowds Living Music out of the theatre spotlight.

Though "music has charms to soothe the savage beast, to soften rocks or bend a knotted oak," it has no power to appease the Robot of Canned Music. Only the theatre-going public can do that.

Hence the swift growth of the Music Defense League, formed to demand Living Music in the theatre.

Every lover of music should join in this rescue of Art from debasement. Sign and mail the coupon.

FIVE CARS IN CRASH ON STONINGTON ROAD, WITH OVER 20 PEOPLE INJURED

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Sept. 1.— About 9 o'clock tonight, on the Stonington-Westerly state road near the old White House inn, five automobiles were in collision. A Chevrolet car, in which were riding ten Negroes, was steered in such an erratic course as to strike the other cars, which were proceeding along the highway, some east and some west. The driver was Benjamin Sebastian, 29, residing at Bilven's point, Mystic, and the car was returning to Mystic after a trip to Boston. Sebastian is badly injured, having a fracture of the hip with a very bad cut on the chest. He was taken to Westerly hospital by Warren D. Sheffield of 80 Cross street, Westerly, who was passing at the time of the accident. X-rays were made and stitches were taken in his chest to close the wound by Dr. John E. Ruisi.

The investigating officers were Pawcatuck Patrolman George L. Seidel and State Trooper Arthur Whitmarsh from the Groton barracks. Sebastian will be held for operating while under the influence of liquor. Another patient at the hospital was one of Sebastian's companions, George Johnson, colored, residing at Narragansett Pier. He went to visit Sebastian on Saturday and when questioned by the officers, admitted that he drank a gallon of liquor. Johnson has a bad cut over his eye that required two stitches to close. He was attended by Dr. Walter Grenolds and was taken to the hospital by Howard Wusick, of George Street extension, Westerly.

He will be discharged by the hospital tonight and will be held by the police.

The first car struck was the sedan of James A. Fahey, who comes from 79 Edwin street, Dorchester, Mass., and had with him his wife and three small children. They were more or less shaken up and Fahey was found to be driving a New York registered car and had a Massachusetts operator's license. He was given a court summons and put up a cash bail. Fahey's car, after being struck, went along and hit the car driven by Donald Whaley, of Mayflower avenue, Pawcatuck. Mr. Whaley was accompanied by his wife. The car had damaged mudguards and fenders. The next car struck was a Buick car going east, driven by Henry Dean, of 14 Cherry street, Medford, Mass. In that car was his wife and another woman. NOLLE CHARGES AGAINST MAN WHO ENTERED HOSPITAL

At the Monday morning session of the city court Harold Boynton was presented on a charge of intoxication and breach of the peace, but the charges were nolled by the court. Deputy Judge H. H. Pettis was on the bench and Attorney Josiah Greenstein was the acting prosecutor.

Boynton, who lives at No. 8 Town street, was arrested as the aftermath of a double tragedy at No. 6 Town street, late Saturday afternoon, when Augustus A. Polachi, 51, of No. 69 Millbury street, Worcester, Mass., shot and wounded his divorced wife, Catherine Reichert, and then committed suicide.

Boynton was attracted to the scene when the woman tried to escape from Polachi by climbing out of a window in the house and onto a roof, from where she jumped to the ground 18 feet below. Boynton picked the woman up in his arms and was holding her when Polachi confronted him and shot her, the bullet striking her chest and lodging in the neck. The woman was taken to the W. W. Backus hospital.

About midnight Saturday Boynton appeared at the hospital in an alleged intoxicated condition, to see Mrs. Reichert. Permission was denied him to enter the hospital, but he was determined to get in and did so by climbing a fire escape. He got into a vacant room adjoining that in which the woman was a patient and was found by hospital attendants, who were attracted by the noise he made. On their complaint he was arrested. Hospital authorities did not press the charges against him, however, when his case was called Monday morning, with the result that the case was nolled.

Two other men were presented on intoxication charges. One was fined $10 and costs and went to jail and the other was fined $10 and costs.

OBITUARY

Joseph Mackey

The death of Joseph Mackey, 63, occurred Monday afternoon about 1:30, at his home on Mohegan hill, following a long and painful illness.

Mr. Mackey had been a resident of this section for many years and had been employed at the United States Finishing company for 16 years. As long as his health permitted he had been an interested and active worker in the First Spiritual union in this city. He is survived by his wife.

Grace Mahoney Allyn.

(Contributed.)

Early last Tuesday morning the choice spirit of Grace (Mahoney) Allyn winged its flight through the unknown back to its maker.

From human standpoint it seemed she had every reason to live. Her life was short, rosy, and beautiful, yet ready for its home going. In her removal from life, one of Christ's choicest blossoms has been transplanted with tenderest care to the garden of our God safe from life's storms and temptations, leaving a broken hearted mother, father, husband, a brother, Walter, twin sisters, Alice Geisthardt and Lillian Case, five nieces and nephews, Barbara and Charles Geisthardt, Robert, Gloria, and Mary Case. These grieve with countless friends, made not only in her profession as a registered nurse, but with anyone who knew her. An older brother, Arthur, died in 1918.

Born in Colchester, July 30, 1904, Grace attended the local school, graduated with honor from Bacon academy in 1922, and from Backus Hospital Training school in 1926, where she was the senior nurse of her class and to this profession she gave herself soulfully until her marriage on Oct. 26, 1929, to E. Grosvenor Allyn, of Fitchville, making her home at 35 Garden street, Norwich.

Her funeral services were held at her parents' home, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mahoney, in Colchester, Thursday afternoon. Sweet and pure in her bridal gown which graced her just 10 months ago, she lay amid a bed of flowers to hear her friends and dear ones say, "Good night."

Among those present was a delegation of about 25 members of the Wm. W. Backus Hospital Alumnae association assembled in a body to pay a final tribute to one dear to them in the profession of registered nurses.

NEW MAPLE LEAF DISEASE STUDIED IN NEW HAVEN

A maple leaf disease never before known in Connecticut and possibly new in the United States, is described by Paul R. Bowen in a recent technical bulletin of the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment station at New Haven. The disease, formerly known only in Europe, is caused by the fungus Cristularlella depraedans.

Leaves injured by the fungus appear to be affected by a sun-scorch wilt. Trey show soft areas, as if scalded, but miscropic examination reveals tiny white fruiting bodies on the under surface.

The disease was first found in early September, 1928, in the woods across the road from the High Ridge Country club in North Stamford, and the attack had been sudden, for no yellowing or gradual decomposition had occurred. Wilting was already so severe at the base of many of the leaf blades that they hung limp and a slight shaking of the trees caused the infected leaves to fall freely. Later that year this same condition was observed on maples in Hurd park, the Cathedral Pines and the Tunxis orest in Hartford, but so far as is known, the fungus has not reappeared in Connecticut.

LOSING WEIGHT? MAYBE IT'S WORMS

MYSTERIOUS loss of weight may mean that your little one is harboring worms which are robbing her of nourishment. Worms are much more common than most mothers think.

Look also for the following symptoms: grinding of teeth, picking the nose, crossness, crying in sleep, offensive breath, loss of appetite, nausea or general restlessness. Any one of these signs may be your warning that worms are present.

Wise mothers take no chances with these dangerous and disgusting childhood pests. Even if worms are only suspected they give the child

Dependable Treatment for Constipation

Millions of people have welcomed a new discovery of modern science that assures a safe dependable treatment for constipation. It is no longer necessary to shift laxatives or to suffer irregular, uncomfortable bowel action.

Science now knows that the success of any laxative depends on uniform internal distribution—that unless it is thoroughly and evenly distributed throughout the intestinal tract irregular and unsatisfactory action will result.

This explains the success of the modern chewing gum laxative known as Feen-a-mint. As you chew this delicious gum, the tasteless laxative it contains is mixed with the saliva and carried to the intestinal tract evenly, smoothly, without shock to the system.

Because of its thorough distribution you will find Feen-a-mint effective in milder doses than ordinary laxatives. With the proper dosage it is not necessary to increase the amount of Feen-a-mint you take nor to switch to another laxative for a change. Feen-a-mint is harmless and contains no habit-forming drugs. Truly the health laxative. Ask for a package at any drug store.—Adv.

THE LAXATIVE WITH HIGHEST ENDORSEMENT

When you get out of bed feeling headachy, sluggish, weak, half-sick, here's a simple measure that will have you feeling yourself again in a jiffy.

Take a little Phillips Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water—or lemonade. Two to four tablespoonfuls is the usual adult dose. Taken in lemonade, Phillips Milk of Magnesia acts like citrate of magnesia. Take it like this an hour before breakfast. By the time you leave home, you'll be surprised by your improvement.

As a mild, safe, pleasant laxative, Phillips Milk of Magnesia has the highest medical endorsement. As an anti-acid to correct sour stomach, gas, indigestion, biliousness, it has been standard with doctors for over fifty years. To know its quick relief in digestive and eliminative troubles of men, women, children—and babies—is to keep a bottle always handy.

Full directions for all its uses come with every bottle. All drug stores have the generous 25 and 50c sizes.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of the Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessor, Chas. H. Phillips, since 1875.

POLISH CITIZENS WIN FIRST GAME FROM N. L. KACEYS IN NINTH INNING

The local Polish Citizens put the first game of their inter-city series with the New London Kaceys safely away Monday afternoon at the Academy campus but before they were able to defeat the Whalers, something few other teams have done this year, the Cits were forced through a series of exciting events that kept a small but enthusiastic crowd on edge throughout the nine snappy innings of play. The score was 2 to 1 and it was not until there were two out in the last inning that a beautiful pitching duel between Johnny Greene, local speedball artist, and Joe McGuinniss, slight right-hander of the Kacey forces, was broken up and decided in favor of the home forces.

Greene in Top Form

Greene was having one of the best days of his career on the mound. He set the Kaceys down with four hits, two of which came in the eighth for the lone Kacey run and he fanned six while walking just one man. McGuinniss was touched up for hits a bit more freely but was almost invincible with men on the bases. He walked two men.

The teams played scoreless ball for seven innings with Greene holding the New London champs in complete subjection, allowing them but a solitary bingle and only three men to first base, the other two on a pass and a case of bat-tipping on Barry. The last two came in succession to open the seventh but a snappy double killed off the threat. The Cits put enough men on the paths to win easily in these first seven stanzas but the final wallop was lacking. They had seven men stranded during this time.

Then, things began to happen in the eighth. Tilly Daniels, first batter for the visitors, slammed a single into right and he was promptly sacrificed to second by Ham, Sr., the father of the Ham-father-and-son pair. Ham, Jr., followed with a liner to center that was good for a single and which scored Daniels. The McGuinniss brothers were strike-out victims.

Citizens Tie Count

The Cits promptly evened matters in their half of the inning. With one away, Tony West singled over the first bag and took second while Lloyd Jarvis was being retired on a fine play by Bill Barry in short right. Then, Finn raised a high pop back of third which was just out of everybody's reach and as there were two out, West started with the wallop and scored easily while Finn got credit for a double. Greene lined to Barry.

The Knights went scoreless in the ninth and then came the blow-off. Gaudette was the first Cits batter in the last half of the inning and he fanned. Labenski rolled to the pitcher and it began to look like extra innings in this first game of this important series between the rival cities.

That Eventful Ninth

But succeeding events proved otherwise. Cimikoski was safe on Tuneski's bad throw and this brought Leo Jarvis to bat. Leo waited out a couple and then pasted one to center on which Whiton attempted to make a shoestring catch. He came tearing in after the ball, made a dive for the ball and rolled in a complete somersault. As he regained his feet, he evidently was under the impression that he had caught the ball and the side was retired.

Cimikoski was of a different frame of mind, however, for with the crack of the bat he started hoofing it from first and was rounding the bases while Whiton, assisted by Ham, Jr., was trying to decide whether Whiton had caught the ball or not. When they finally came to, they made a throw to the plate, but Cimmy scored with the winning run.

There was much commotion after the game, the New London fans claiming that Whiton had held the ball long enough for a putout on his dive, while the umpires ruled that it was not caught. It went for a two-base hit for Leo Jarvis and the first game of the series was on Norwich's side.

The second game will be played Saturday at Mercer field, New London.

ROTARIANS CLASH WITH DUWELLS THIS EVENING

Tonight, at the Academy campus, the Rotary club and the Duwells clash in a Junior league contest which promises to be of great importance to both teams. The Duwells are at present at the top of the league by the scant margin of one-half a game and a defeat tonight will put them into a tie for second place with the Elks, while the Rotary will move into first place.

At the last meeting between the two teams, a 1 to 1 tie score was the result. Both teams appeared about equal at that time and there was considerable variance of opinion as to which team was best. Tonight, they will have a chance to settle the question once and for all. If the Rotary is defeated, they will be eliminated in the race for the pennant, leaving the field only to the Duwells and Elks, as the Elks will still be able to tie the Duwells, provided they defeat them on Thursday.

Stephanik, one of the best twirlers in the circuit, has been groomed to pitch for the Duwells, while the Rotary will probably rely on either Caron, who is also one of the league's leading hurlers, or Deschamps.

The game is scheduled for 6:15 p. m. sharp.

ARNOLD CLINCHES NATIONAL AUTO TITLE AT ALTOONA

ALTOONA, Pa., Sept. 1.—(AP)—Billy Arnold, young Chicago speed king, won the Labor day race on the board oval here today, finishing ahead of Deacon Litz, of Dubois, Pa., after a thrilling duel. The event was scheduled for 200 miles, but was stopped after 116 1-4 miles because of rain.

Arnold completed 116 1-3 miles in one hour and one minute. An average of 113 miles an hour. The victory gave him 139 points and increased his season total to 1027. Shorty Cantlon, of Akron, Ohio, his nearest rival for the 1930 A. A. A. championship, won 104 points by placing third today and increased his season total to 584.

Ted Allen, secretary of the A. A. A. contest board said Arnold's triumph today guaranteed him the 1930 title since Cantlon, by winning the remaining official event at Syracuse next Saturday, could add only 120 points and could not overtake Arnold.

The cup of happiness usually springs a leak just before it begins to run over.

MCKAY MEDALIST IN HOLIDAY TOURNEY

Edward G. McKay with a card of 40-37—77 led a field of 55 in the qualifying round of the annual Labor day tournament at the Norwich Golf club. McKay had four birdies on the round, one on the first nine and three on the incoming nine which helped to bring him down to six over par after taking sixes on two par three holes. The playing conditions were not of the best, a heavy rain during the morning making the course soggy and the greens slow. As a result the qualifying scores ran very high. The new first green was opened for play for the first time during the tournament.

C. A. Gager won the low net prize with a 98 which with his 28 handicap gave him a net 70. Four were tied for second low net with net scores that equal par for the course. They were P. A. Streeter 84-13—71, A. H. Payson 93-22—71, W. E. Turner 88-17—71 and H. C. Noyes 91-20—71.

The field has been divided into three sixteens and play will start in the first round matches immediately. The tournament committee announces that all first round matches must be completed within a week or the offending player will be disqualified.

The qualifying score of Mr. McKay is as follows:

Out— 4 6 3 4 5 4 6 4 4—40

In— 3 6 4 3 4 3 6 4 4—37—77

The other qualifying scores were: D. W. Morton 78; J. C. Sayles 80; John Fontaine 83; F. R. Smith 83; A. P. Streeter 84; J. D. Moulton 86; E. P. Hyde 87; W. E. Turner 88; Ted Noble 89; N. C. ROBINS DROP TO FOURTH PLACE IN SPLIT WITH BRAVES

BOSTON, Sept. 1—(AP)—The fast slipping Robins tumbled into fourth place in the National league standing today, breaking even in a double header with the Boston Braves while the Cards were taking two from Pittsburgh. Boston accounted for the first battle 5 to 3 after rain had delayed the start but the Robins took a 4 to 2 decision in the second game.

Wally Berger's thirty-second home run off Ray Phelps drove in three of the Braves' five runs in the first game while Lopez's homer off Sherdel accounted for all of the Robins' tallies.

Hollis Thurston opposed Bob Smith in the nightcap and won his own game, when he doubled in the seventh, scoring two base runners. The scores:

GIANTS HIT WELL BUT BREAK EVEN WITH PHILLIES

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 1—(AP)—The Giants did plenty of slugging today but the best they could get was an even break with the Phillies, New York taking the opener, 8 to 4, and Philadelphia the second, 4 to 3.

Carl Hubbell held the Phillies to seven hits in the first game while his teammates were banging away at three Phillies' hurlers for fourteen safeties, including homers by Fred Leach and Frank Hogan and a triple, double and two singles by Bill Terry.

In the second encounter the Giants hung up 13 hits but could not bunch them, and the wildness of Bill Walker let the Phillies get away to an early 4 to 1 lead. The McGraw men sent Ray Benge to the showers in the ninth but Collins stopped the rally by disposing of O'Farrell for the third out. The scores:

FAST BOUTS SLATED FOR DANIELSON TONIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 1—Eight fast amateur boxing bouts are scheduled to be held at the North Street arena here Tuesday evening. On the records of the men who are to take part and the careful manner in which they have been matched the card promises to be one of the best of the open air season here. Promoter Louis Peloquin feels particularly sure that the four boxers who are coming here from Taunton, Mass., to battle with Eastern Connecticut boys will do a great deal to insure the success of the show, which is one of the series that have been held here during the past few weeks.

If it is stormy Tuesday night the bouts will be held the following evening.

JOHN ANGELES OF NEW LONDON WINS EASTERN CONN. TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP

John Angeles, bronzed little Filipino of New London, is the new Eastern Connecticut tennis champion. Angeles battled his way through five hard sets against Norcross Tilney of East Orange, N. J., to win the finals yesterday afternoon at the Norwich Golf club courts. The closeness of the play can be seen from the scores which were 2-6, 6-3, 9-7, 3-6, 6-2. Play was under adverse conditions part of the match being played in a drizzling rain and on courts that were far from fast due to the soaking rain of Sunday night and the morning.

Angeles advanced to the finals when he beat John B. Wilkinson of East Orange 3-6, 6-3, 6-3, while Tilney won from Allan Lebourveau of Hanover 8-6, 6-1, the first set being hard fought. Lebourveau, one of the promising young players of Eastern Connecticut played hard tennis during the first set and completely ran himself off his feet so that when he came to the second set he was pretty well tired out. Angeles found trouble in the first set of his match in solving the hard and fast service of Wilkinson and before he could get started Wilkinson had taken the set. Fighting an uphill battle in the second set Angeles had little trouble in passing the New Jersey boy and romping away with the final set and match.

In the final match Angeles was hard pressed by Tilney, a slim spectacled youth who ran away with the first set by playing to Angeles backhand with a slow twisting ball. Angeles is sure death on a fast traveling ball but he is apt to net the slow balls. Angeles took the second set while Tilney rested. In the third set Angeles was forced to extend himself to win 9-7 in a set that was marked by brilliant volleying and rallying. Tilney made a strong bid for the match when he evened the match by taking the fourth set only to have Angeles romp away with the match and title in the fifth. Tilney was hampered a good deal though his glasses becoming fogged during the play. He was forced to halt the match several times in order that they might be cleaned.

Play in the doubles was postponed until today with a semi-final match being played this morning at 10 o'clock and the finals at 5 this afternoon.

REDS HAND CUBS TELLING BLOW BY WINNING TWO GAMES

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 1—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds dealt a stunning blow to Chicago's hope of tightly sewing up the National league race soon by taking a Labor day double header and leaving the Cubs only four games ahead of the field. Scores were 5 to 0 and 2 to 1.

The Cubs had the second game won, 1 to 0 with two down in the ninth inning when one of baseball's worst breaks went against Hack Wilson. Sukeforth's hit to center bounced wierdly over Wilson's head and went for a triple, scoring Stripp and Crawford who had walked.

The first game was a victory for Red Lucas who gave the Cubs only three hits and shut them out. His teammate, Frey, did almost as well in the second game, letting the Cubs down with five hits although Osborn did just as well for Chicago. The Reds could not find him from the first inning to the sixth. The scores:

WOOD WINS WHEN BRITISH BOAT'S FUEL TANKS COLLAPSE

DETROIT, Sept. 1.—(AP)—The third and final attempt of Marion Barbara Carstairs, courageous young English sportswoman to beat Gar Wood in a Harmsworthy trophy race, ended in failure when Wood piloted his Miss America IX to an easy victory in the final heat of that classic today. As was the case in the first heat of the race Saturday, the British challenger, Estelle IV, came to grief when its fuel tanks collapsed and Wood was not even pressed by the British boat.

Wood, heading a team of three boats, covered the 30 mile course at an average speed of 77.390 miles an hour, which betters his former record for the Harmsworth of 75.287 made last year.

Estelle IV, with Bert Hawker at the wheel, performed well for four laps and then suddenly dropped out. Accepting a tow to his boat house, Hawker reported that Estelle IV's tanks had collapsed just as did those of Estelle V in the third lap Saturday.

Miss America VIII, driven by George Wood, finished second today and took the credit of having made today's fastest lap, traveling at a speed of 79.185 miles an hour.

Before the second heat today, Miss Carstairs, who has spent approximately $500,000 in her effort during the last three years to recapture for England the trophy that symbolizes the world's speed boat championship, announced definitely that she would not again challange for the Harmsworth trophy.

In a last heroic effort to beat Wood, Miss Carstairs surrendered any personal ambition she may have had and gave her place at the wheel of Estelle IV to Bert Hawker, with instructions to force the Wood brothers to the utmost, or "crack up Estelle IV if necessary to do it." Apparently Hawker followed orders for the crackup came in the fifth lap and it was the same kind of a breakdown that befell the Estelle V when Hawker had it wide open in the first heat Saturday.

INDIANS TAKE TWO SCALPS FROM BROWNS

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 1—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians celebrated Labor day here today by winning a double header from the St. Louis Browns, the first game 13 to 8 and the night cap 9 to 5. The second game was called at the end of the eighth inning because of darkness.

In winning the second game, Wesley Ferrell of the Indians chalked up his 24th victory of the season and his 13th triumph in a row. Willis Hudlin, the Indians' third pitcher, was the winning hurler in the first encounter.

Porter hit a home run for the Indians in the first game and Hodapp, also of the Indians, hit for the circuit in the nightcap. The score:

OVER 72,000 SEE YANKS DIVIDE WITH ATHLETICS

NEW YORK, Sept. 1—(AP)—A Labor day crowd of 72,000 fans packed its way into the Yankee stadium today to see the World Champion Athletics, making their first local appearance, break even in a double header with New York. The A's took the opener 3 to 2 but the Yanks came back to win the second 2 to 0.

Charlie Ruffin set the champions down with two hits in the nightcap, striking out Al Simmons, whose home run in the first game defeated the Yankees, three times in a row. George Earnshaw, striving for his twenty-second victory, allowed only six hits but a wild pitch let one run cross the plate and Babe Ruth drove in the other with a single.

In the opener, Lefty Grove was rushed to the rescue after Walberg and Mahaffey had failed and the Athletics' ace stopped the Yankees by striking out Ruth in ninth with two men on base. Al Simmons' thirty-second homer of the season with Cochrane on base proved to be the winning margin.

George Pipgras, who went the route for the Yanks, allowed only five hits but the champions bunched four of them in the first and third frames. The scores:

SCHULTZ AGAIN WINS PIKES PEAK HILL CLIMB

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Sept. 1.—(AP)—Glen Shultz again has led other conquerors of the steep and tortuous road which leads 14,109 feet into the clouds to the summit of famed Pikes Peak.

He roared up the 12 miles of precipitous grades in 18 minutes 8.5 seconds today to win the 12th annual Labor day automobile hill climb.

Shultz averaged better than 40 miles an hour. Despite excellent road conditions he failed to break the course record, set by himself in 1928, of 17 minutes 41.6 seconds.

Riding with the 14 drivers who flashed over the course was the handicap of heavy grades, sharp curves and rarified air which robs the motors of power. The racing cars flashed around hairpin curves where a skid would have meant a drop of hundreds of feet.

Louis Unser came in behind the leader in 18:37.4. Robert Mason was third, Angelo Cimino, fourth, and Ed McConglogne, fifth.

Shultz's victory today was his sixth and he was placed in the money three other times since starting his hill climbing career in 1921.

In the light stock car class W. F. Shepherd was first in 24:18.8, L. L. Bowser was second in 25.15.

Edward Phillips had no competition in the heavy stock class and took his time to finish in 29:18.4.

Shultz won $1,250 cash for first place. The Penrose trophy was awarded to Shepherd for the best time in the stock car class.

The Black Hawks challenge any team in the city or vicinity averaging 16 years of age. They would especially like to hear from the Y. M. C. A., Taftville American Legion Jrs or L. Y. M. C. Jrs. If any one of these challenges are accepted answer through this paper.

WASHINGTON GAINS BY BEATING RED SOX TWICE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1—(AP)—The Washington Senators gained a game on Philadelphia by winning two hard fought contests from Boston today, 2 to 1 and 6 to 3.

Joe Cronin and Lloyd Brown bulked large in the two victories. Brown relieved Marberry in the second contest with two men on and no one out. He retired the side without further scoring and then drove out a home run in the seventh to put the Senators in the lead.

In the first game with the tying run on third and two out, Cronin leaped high in the air to check Reeves' line drive and then made the catch as he and the ball were falling. Cronin also stole home in the seventh inning of the second game.

Philadelphia's lead is now five and one-half games. The scores:

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

J. & J. Cash, Incorporated, South Norwalk.

In the "old days," ribbon manufacturing in England was done in the homes of the working people. The "company" maintained warehouses or sales rooms. In these warehouses, the silk was given out on bobbins to men who, in their homes, ran a foot or hand power loom. When the silk was converted into the ribbon, it was brought back to the warehouse and the workman was paid his price for the job. Mr. John Cash, realizing the inadequacy of this process, built a square of houses, three stories high, the top floor so arranged to hold two looms. He then gathered his weavers together from all parts of the city of Coventry and installed them in this weaving centre. His action at the time was considered as being too socialistic, pampering the working classes too much, and created considerable furore in industry. About the only person who gave him a word of encouragement was the late A. T. Stewart, the then merchant prince of America, and he substantiated his endorsement by sending over large orders for ribbon. These hundred houses are still in existence and are the attractive part of the present large plant of J. & J. Cash, Ltd, Coventry, England.

Again, when that great international mode of communication was first installed, Mr. Cash came to the front. The first commercial message, which read "Go to Chicago," was cabled by John Cash to John Matthews, the American representative of the company.

A few years pass on when the world began to wake up to the utility of advertising. Again, in the old days, advertising was a black and white proposition. In 1871, the ribbon business was practically killed due to the French treaty which flooded England with ribbons made in France. Manufacturer after manufacturer "went under," but the Cash company saw another opening for their looms and brought out the famous Coventry frillings and to advertise these frillings, they had printed in colors, the first of their kind, some very handsome display cards, so attractive in those days that they got into the homes of the buyers instead of the stores, but we have registered that the first colored lithograph advertising was put out by J. & J. Cash of Coventry, England.

Following the frilling business, the company made a lot of colored embroidery. A buyer in a jobbing house in New York city suggested to the New York representative, "If you can make an embroidery design, why can't you weave an initial?" That was the beginning of the initial and name business which is so well known today. The business grew and the company in England began to realize if they could give quicker deliveries in America, their business would continue on the up grade.

In 1905, it was decide to build a plant at South Norwalk, and in October 1906, the plant was completed and put into operation. When the building was erected, it was considered by the directors at Coventry, England, it being a branch of this firm, that ample provision had been made for 20 years.

In 1912, a large addition was added to the plant that was to last for twenty years. When the new structure was added, it was decided to make woven labels for shirts, etc. Up to that time the business had been confined to the woven name tape industry alone. In 1919, it was decided to put the American branch on its own feet by incorporating it as an American company, with a capital of $300,000. The new company started manufacturing in Canada, having leased property at Brantford, Ontario.

It was deemed advisable to select Los Angeles as headquarters for the western business and in 1921 the first narrow textile plant was installed by J. & J. Cash, Inc., on the Pacific coast.

In 1922 the Norwalk plant doubled its capacity by a large addition and in 1923 the Brantford, Ont., factory was moved to larger quarters in Belleville, Ont., and in 1926 a large building, a plant in itself, was erected at South Norwalk. This was no sooner completed than it was voted to erect a new plant in Los Angeles to take care of the increased business. A location was found and in 1927 Los Angeles plant was the property of the company.

Having taken care of the western business, the Canadian business was, in the meantime, going so strongly ahead that in 1928 it was decided to build a new plant along lines of the western plant, and in 1929 this was finished. The company then realizing it was on a safe, sound and progressive basis, voted to make it one of Connecticut's million dollar corporations.

The present officers are: Sidney Cash, president; Frank Goodchild, vice-president and general manager; Arthur Lole, secretary and treasurer; W. R. Cartwright, superintendent of plant. English directors: Reginald J. Cash and Harold Kirby.

POETRY

A Few Well-Chosen Words

We shall not write this simple lay,
Because, pray understand,
It's far more dignified to say
We take our pen in hand.

We went to work reluctantly,
Upon the sole condition
We should not take the job, when we Accepted the position.

We learned the wisdom long ago,
When other men were fired,
Of never being likewise, though
We've often been retired.

And now we feel constrained to teach
These rules to all success:
Don't ever fail to call a speech
A well-prepared address.

Remember that the wedding guest
Was very much admired,
Don't ever say the bride was dressed
But tastefully attired.

Allude unfailingly to fright
As pallid consternation.
For ev'ry sort of fire write
Appalling conflagration.

Incision is the term for cut
And of some local Cheats
Don't say his stock of stories, but
His fund of anecdote.

And if stump-speakers soar away
On crimson clouds of glory,
For hifalutin' language, say
Impassioned oratory.

When of some petty thief's arrest
You happen to make mention,
You'll find that it is always best
To call it apprehension.

Success means these few rules obeyed:
Great masters of the pencil
Will never call a spade a spade,
But a subsoil utensil.

James J. Montague.

An Autumn Road

Down a hill, then up a hill
And then a vast of sea!
A wedge of wild geese crying
Passes over me—
And now my dreams are flyin
Where I may never be * * *

Down a hill and up a hill,
Then level lands again!
Far off the sea is speaking
A longing that is pain—
My eyes are weary seeking
For my lost ship from Spain.

Down a hill and up a hill
Oh, so long ago,
There was a princess singing—
Where. I do not known * * *
There were arms that clinging,
Would not let me go.

—Glenn Ward Dresbaach.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

"Who is that fellow with the long hair?"

"He's a fellow from Yale."

"Oh, I've often heard of those Yale locks."—Boston Transcript.

Ronald—And is $10 all you are offering for the return of your wife? Why, no one will bring her back for that small amount.

Edward—Don't I know it!—The Pathfinder.

Father (during the course of a lecture)—You forget that you are twenty-three. Twenty-one is supposed to be the age of discretion.

Modern Daughter—Then thank heaven I've passed it.—London Opinion.

Xydas—I hear that Sweig stopped on the steps of the church and wouldn't go in while his mother was getting married.

Yazge—Yes, he couldn't go a step-father.—Exchange.

Artist—Yes, the other day I was offered 5,000 marks for this picture, by an American!

Visiting Citizen—Is that so? The most I'll give you will be about 50 marks!

Artist—Take it, my friend. German art must stay at home!—Exchange.

A young barrister, taking his first case, had been retained by a farmer to prosecute a railway company for killing twenty-four pigs.

He wanted to impress the jury with the magnitude of the injury. "Twenty-four pigs, gentlemen. Twenty-four; twice the number in the jury box."—Boston Transcript.

The late Lord Balfour, who, as is well known, was a confirmed bachelor, was once sitting in the drawing room of a friend who was happily married. Before them on the hearth-rug were a cat and dog lying together. Said the friend: "Why do people speak of a cat-and-dog life? See how happy these are." Lord Balfour paused for a moment, smiled, and then said: "Tie them together."—London Sketch.

Mrs. James Duke

Mrs. James Duke died suddenly Sunday afternoon at her home on Elm street, from heart disease. She is survived by her husband and two sons, William and Ernest, and by a daughter, Violet Duke, all of Stonington.

Irving K. Pond, Chicago architect, likes to shock the youngsters with his athletic prowess. Despite his white hair and his seventy-two years, Pond showed fellow city clubmen how to do a dry back-flip from a springboard and a forward somersault in the air and how to juggle a volley ball, to say nothing of plain and fancy standing on his head.

CONSIDERABLE PROGRESS MADE ON LOCAL BUILDINGS DURING PAST WEEK

August proved to be one of the best building months of the year and contractors made rapid progress on local work during the month. Ideal weather for building favored the work which was rushed along toward completion in anticipation of cold weather and the advent of the slack building season. Permits issued for local building operations set a record for the year, there being well over 30 issued by Fire Marshal Henry E. Taft.

This week will see the completion of the Norton Memorial gymnasium building at the Norwich Free Academy by Contractor W. S. Spencer. The work is practically done with the exception of some of the small minor details.

At the new county home the Providence contractors completed the exterior work on the main building with the exception of the cement and stone stairways in the front of the building and parts of the sunporches in the rear. The copper gutters and flashings have been put on by the tin-smiths.

The new house in the rear of 208 Broadway being built by George Lambert has been boarded in and the roof covered with composition shingles. The clapboard finish on the outside is also being put on and the interior is being made ready for the plasterers.

George E. Boucher has practically completed the remodeling of the six-apartment building on Broadway owned by Daniel T. Shea. The entire interior of the building has been changed. Partitions have been removed and rooms made larger in some cases and the stairways and entrance have been changed. Many of the rooms have been replastered and redecorated.

Contractor P. F. Sweeney has completed the house for Oscar Main at North Stonington and is now engaged in erecting a three car garage at the house. Mr. Sweeney has almost completed the new house on Broadway for Harry Diachyshyn.

Henry Montie who is building a new house on Boswell avenue has the building well along and it will be completed long before the cold weather sets in.

Many of the other local building projects in the city have been brought along at a rapid rate.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

During the past week there were eleven sales of real estate in Norwich as compared to five sales for the corresponding week in 1929. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $40,854 and $25,412.

In New London there were only two sales of real estate recorded during the past week, a decrease of three sales from the same week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $38,886 and $38,000.

NEW LONDON

The new $40,000 heating plant in the rear of the Lawrence and Memorial Associated hospitals was finished up this week and will be in use soon.

The building is of concrete, brick and steel construction one story high with a large skylight window in the roof.

The basement contains the boiler room which is 30 by 40 feet in dimension, a transformer room for electrical equipment, a pump room which is 11 by 20 feet and the coal bins. An underground passage runs from the basement of the hospital proper to the basement of the boiler house.

The first floor contains a garage 25 by 32 feet with plaster ceiling and concrete floor sloping toward the center. There are also a chauffeur's room 20 by 10 feet and two toilets, lavatory and shower rooms besides a storage and garbage room.

The exterior is ornamated with art stone coping and copper gutters and leaders. All windows have steel sash. The H. Wales Lines company had the general contract which included the construction of a large circular brick chimney.

The new heating plant will furnish heat and hot water for all of the Lawrence and Memorial Associated hospitals buildings consisting of the hospital proper, the maternity ward, the Manwaring children's ward, the Pond nurses home and the new laundry addition now under construction.

The interior of the Zion Evangelical Lutheran church was about ready for plastering today. Work of nailing the plaster board base has been practically completed. The exterior of the church has been finished off and is being painted white. The church is an attractive structure one and one half stories high of colonial design and frame construction with the front entrance in Cedar Grove avenue. It is 39 by 79 feet.

Broad concrete steps will lead to the beautiful colonial front entrance. The sides are of colonial clapboard and the roof is finished with wooden shingles. On top of the roof is located a lantern structure with copper sheathing. A cross is located over the front of the edifice.

The basement is being arranged with a large Sunday school room in the center with a platform at one end and a smaller class room on one side. There is also to be a large kitchen in the basement with a gas range, gas water heater, sink and cupboards.

The main floor will have a main auditorium, 48 by 21 feet, in which will be located 34 pews. At the entrance there will be a large lobby and at the far end of the auditorium will be located the chancel with choir rooms on each side, a pulpit and an altar in the rear of the chancel. Adjoining the church a parsonage of frame construction is being built. The interior of this house is now being finished.

MODERN KITCHENS OFFER PROBLEMS

Bringing the home up to date brings its problems with it. Often the kitchen is the most difficult of all to solve, for large kitchens were the vogue not so long ago, while small kitchens are necessities today.

Sometimes it is possible to utilise the broad expanse of space taken up by a butler's pantry and an old type kitchen by dividing it into several rooms. One of these forms the small modern kitchen, of course. In that case the various built-in kitchen units which come in a great variety of sizes and shapes to fit any given space will be found most helpful. Whether the housewife desires a vegetable bin or a storage space for silver, she will find it available in these built-in units.

BEAUTY, DURABILITY GO WITH SLATE ROOFS

The selection of the material for the roof and sidewalls in home building is an important one. After all, the roof and sidewalls are the dominant part of the house—they are what people see when they look at the house and they measure the comfort and fuel economy enjoyed by those who live within.

Several roofing materials combine beauty and durability. Blue-gray slate, for example, is made from natural fine-grained, compact rock. Its resistance to extreme weather conditions and fire are important factors.

Particularly on a building of brick, fieldstone, red sandstone or other rich-colored materials are the cool colors of blue-gray slate harmonious. When sidewalls are lighter in color, a deeper shade of slate supplies an attractive contrast.

PUBLIC SHOWS FONDNESS FOR TINTED BATHTUB

Bathrooms this year will be in gay colors. This is the fashion hint that comes from Boston where at the annual convention of the National Association of Master Plumbers the styles in tubs, lavatories and sinks that will prevail for the next 12 months were shown.

Scarcely a white fixture appeared at the plumbing show. Tubs, washstands, dressing tables to match, bidets, dental lavatories, towel bars, soap dishes, sinks—all were in colors. And such a variety of colors! There were tubs in brown, blue and red. Lavatories in green, tan and black. Sinks with their iron sides gayly bedecked in coats of lavender, green or ivory acid-resisting enamel. The exhibit was a sea of color offset by the bright flash of chromium and the dull gleam of pipes and tools.

The fixtures on display showed the definite trend toward luxury in American bathroom equipment. There is scarcely a limit to the amount of money one may spend today on this room to make it the acme of luxury and lavish decoration and furnishing.

For instance, there was on display a 2100-pound tub cut out of translucent, rose-tinted and gold-veined Mexican Pedrara onyx. The tub is equipped with gold-plated faucets and fittings, hand chased by French artists, and it may be picked up for the ridiculously low figure of $7500. One may buy a wash basin to match, also with gold-plated fittings, for $1500. The water closet to match costs $500. A built-in shower stall, with similar fittings, costs $1000. The walls and floor, with ceilings and mirrors and additional furnishings of dressing tables, chaise longue, chairs, bidets, dental lavatory, towel warmers etc., may cost as much as one wants to pay. People who buy this type of onyx tub with a lavatory and closet combination to match usually spend about $30,000 on the entire bathroom, master plumbers at the convention declared.

Side by side with the fixtures reflecting the current mode in plumbing for bungalow and mansion were displays showing the obsolete fixtures of only a decade or two ago—tubs on legs, water closets with wooden tanks under the ceiling, and wall-hung lavatories with their supply pipes and waste pipes exposed.

MANY WAYS TO INSTALL SHOWER IN OLD BATHROOM

Many persons who are living in houses built before the shower era would like to have a shower in the house but don't know what type to buy or where to put it.

To these persons the Plumbing and Heating Industries bureau affers the following suggestions:

There are two kinds of showers; stall showers and over-the-tub showers.

The shower stall may be put almost anywhere in the house. It is usually placed in the bathroom, but if the bathroom is too smmall, it may be placed in a closet, in a corner of a bedroom, in a waste space at the end of a hall, in the basement, or even in the attic. A location near the drain pipes and supply pipes is most economical.

As a matter of fact, there is often a decided advantage in not having the shower stall in the bathroom. The capacity of the bathroom is doubled if the shower stall is in another room, for then one person may use the shower while another uses the tub.

Shower stalls are made of steel, marble, slate or glass. The receptor or bottom of the shower stall may be made of enameled iron, vitreous china, porcelain or marble.

REINFORCING PLASTER.

Wherever gypsum or clay tile partitions abut, and where tile partitions or walls join ceilings constructed of tile or concrete, strips of metal lath 12 inches wide should be bent into such joints before plaster is applied to reinforce the plaster and prevent corner cracks.

In case wood lath or plasterboard is used as a plaster base in the corners of living room, dining room or stair hall, an 8 by 12 strip of metal lath bent in the shape of an L will help, too, in checking cracks.

WRONG TYPE OF OIL BURNER IS CAUSE OF WASTE

"I have been burning coal. I want to burn oil. Can I use the same boiler?"

This is a question which home-owners often ask of the heating contractor. The answer depends on the type of oil burner the home-owner intends to buy, the kind of a boiler he has, and the number of sections.

There are two general types of oil burners. One throws a horizontal flame into the firepot. For this kind the long sectional type boiler will be most efficient. Another type of oil burner distributes the flames in either vertical or whirlpool manner all around the firebox. This type of burner is well suited for the round boiler.

It is highly advantageous in burning oil to have a boiler with the longest possible fire-travel. On the contrary, in burning coal, too long a fire-travel may cause a sluggish fire because the chimney may not pull the load. Since oil is forced into the boiler it should be given all possible opportunity to touch the maximum amount of boiler and flue surface.

The use of the wrong type of oil burner with certain kinds of boilers has caused considerable grief, not only for the home-owner, but for oil burner manufacturers and distributors as well as for heating contractors. For instance, if an oil burner shooting flames straight back is used with a round boiler, the rear part of the boiler will be intensely heated while the front part of the boiler will get relatively little heat. Home-owners may have blamed the oil burner or the heating contractor when fuel consumption has been excessive while the real difficulty may have been due to the use of the incorrect type of oil burner.

There are many good types of oil burners on the market and heating contractors who specialize in the installation of radiator heating systems will be glad to advise home-owners on the selection of the proper burner.

Heating contractors usually have no preference as between the various types of fuel. Their object is to see that every radiator heating plant functions to the satisfaction of the home-owner and gives the family clean heat and healthful heat as well as the utmost in convenience.

A CHANCE FOR HOMEMAKER TO DO FINISH WORK

Within recent months a couple moved into a new home. Having agreed that an oil burning heater was the thing to instal, they took the advice of the builder and fixed up one section of the basement as a knockabout livingroom or den, where they could spend many leisure hours in what might be termed unconventional ease and where their three growing youngsters might sprawl and carry on their pet activities without fear of doing material harm.

The question of furniture quite naturally engaged their attention and caused some worry on the score of expense. Then a friend suggested that they might be able to secure just the furnishings they wanted in an unfinished state. With that in mind they instituted inquiries and were quite surprised to find that such furnishings were available and at prices considerably below the figures they expected.

Accordingly, they purchased several chairs, a table, a magazine rack, a wall cabinet and two or three sets of hanging shelves—all of them complete so far as workmanship was concerned but entirely barren of paint, enamel or other finish. Then they secured enamel and did the finishing work themselves, in colors which harmonized perfectly with the color plan of the room itself.

A STRIKING BATHROOM

Very bright and gay is a modern Mandarian bath done in Chinese red and citrous yellow. Walls of red and gold lacquered wood are painnted in Oriental designs and medicine shelves and make-up compartments are cunningly built into the wall. Gold and black tile lines the tub niche and the tub sides and shower curtains are of yellow with red borders.

PLUMBING FIXTURES.

Plumbing fixtures, once they are purchased and installed, become a part of the house and cannot be removed without subjecting the family to considerable expense and inconvenience. For this reason, plumbing fixtures should be purchased only from contractors who sell the materials of reputable manufacturers who back their fixtures with their unqualified guarantee.

COTTAGE BUILDING AT NEW COUNTRY HOME

Two of the three brick buildings of the New London County home on the Norwich-Groton road have been completed by the contractors. One of the cottages where children are quartered for a few weeks before being admitted to the home is completed and is shown in the above photograph. The building is of brick construction and of early colonial design. It is erected on a concrete and stone foundation and is two stories high. The roof is slate covered and the gutters and flashings are of copper. The windows are of the colonial type, the lower windows being of the six-over-nine design.

The interior is all in hardwood and plaster and is very attractively arranged and conveniently laid out.

OLD HOME CHARM IS EASILY ENHANCED

Old homes have for many persons a charm wholly lacking in a new dwelling. It is the quality found only in the house through which the breath of life has passed, one which has sheltered a generation or more of people and been an intimate part of their joys and sorrows.

For this reason many persons are reluctant to give up the old home for a new one. Modern home designers, though, appreciative of this indefinable appeal that clings to old homes, have devised ways of transforming old homes into beautiful modern dwellings and yet retaining in them that which is an essential part of their treasured charm.

These old homes can be given a new roof, new siding, additional rooms, an attractive porch and other features which improve their appearance and value without detracting from the qualities which may endear them to the owners. Extensive improvements can be made inside and out without loss of the lived-in feeling of the old home.

This is true especially if the old home is of wood. Because of the flexibility of this kind of construction any desired change in various parts of the house may be made without disturbing other parts. And the new may be joined to the old so smoothly that when the whole is painted there will be no indication of where the change was made.

HUMIDIFIER USING WICK FOUND VERY EFFICIENT

Did you ever make this simple evaporation test? Place a soaked sponge and a full glass of water on the radiator. How rapidly the sponge dries up while the water in the glass has scarcely evaporated. This explains the difference between a humidifier using a wick and the ordinary flat can type. One is said to evaporate a gallon of water while the second has evaporated only a pint.

A humidifier of this type is attached to the top of the radiator by means of picture coils and fastening at the back of the humidifier. Wicks are hung down from slots at the sides into the water container which runs through the middle. When cover is placed over it, the humidifier is in operation.

ALL BURNED CLAY BRICK.

Six thousand or more years ago, when some ingenious forerunner of the present legion of architects and builders, fashioned a rude block of clay, and dried it to a lasting hardness in the sun, he dubbed it a brick, and the name stuck. Even since that time the unit of burned clay has been recognized for what its inventor first named it, a brick, no more, no less.

ENSEMBLE IN HARDWARE MODERN NOTE FOR HOME

Ensemble fashions rule the year. Even the locks which guard our doors have felt their effect. For it is now the style to match the design of door-knob, push-button, key-plate, door-knocker, and cylinder lock collar. If the architectural design of the house is Spanish, then hardware designed in the spirit of old Spain or of the Mission houses of southern California is appropriate. The stately colonial home is finished in the brass or bronze designs with a wrought iron finish which in material and in simplicity duplicates the work of the old-time blacksmith.

Rust-proof metals have proved the reason for their popularity during centuries of use, brass being a favorite with the home builder who builds for permanence. Cast bronze is much used, too, and is presented by one manufacturer in a large variety of designs suitable for numerous types of architecture.

FIREPLACE IS USEFUL TO HEAT PLAYROOM

Heating the basement play room, even in this era of super-effective heating equipment, is sometimes a problem, for radiators in this room must often be suspended from the ceiling. Therefor the fireplace produces something more necessary than a mere picturesque effect. On damp days in off-seasons when the furnace is not in full swing, it may even be pressed into service to "take the chill off the house."

A particularly effective fireplace is one equipped to apply the principle of the hot air furnace to the open hearth by a special unit which heats and circulates fresh air. This unit which can be installed in any fireplace is said to increase heating efficiency 50 per cent.

BUYING WALLPAPER.

In buying wallpaper 25 cents more a roll would only make an average room cost three dollars and seventy-five cents more.

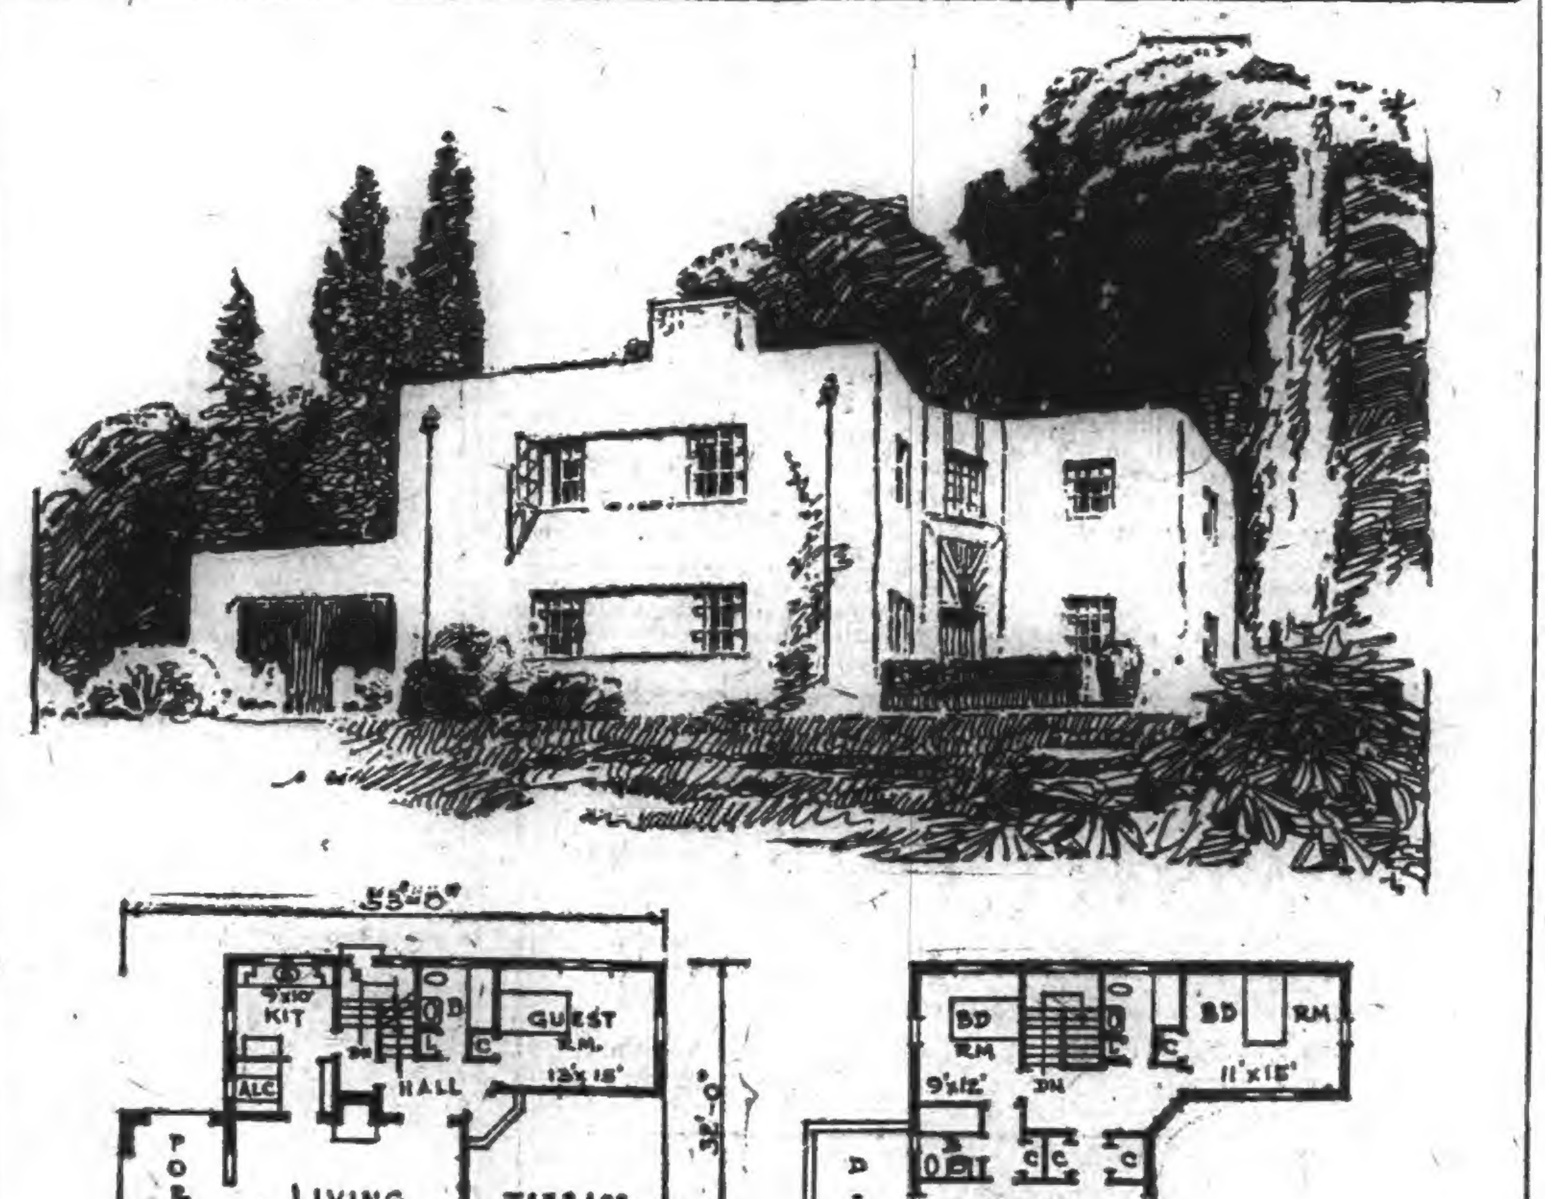
The cheaper papers have exactly the same value as cheap cloth, no more, no less. They have their part to play in dressing and decoration. They offer change and freshness. They are suitable in some rooms and places. But it is unreasonable to expect them to wear and give an air of distinction.

PAINTING TOOLS.

Painting the handle of your fly swatter a bright color will make it easy to locate when needed in a hurry. This is also a good treatment for garden tools since a rake or hoe with a gaudy handle will seldom be overlooked and left out overnight.

Tools with gay blue, yellow or red handles could not be lost easily in the dark green of the lawn.

SIX-ROOM HOUSE HAS SMART, MODERN LINES



Built of brick and painted white, this modern house has its charm accentuated when placed on a lot that is not lacking in foliage.

Because water and snow are removed easily from flat roofs nowadays, this style of house may be built in any section of the country.

It could be erected on a lot 40 by 100 feet, but a large plot up to 100 by 150 feet naturally would provide a more effective setting.

Here it is shown with the narrow side facing the street, and in districts where land is expensive this doubtless is the better arrangement. With the long side of the living room facing the street, however, the setting is improved.

The plan is most convenient. The kitchen adjoins stairs which lead to the cellar and rear entrance. There is no dining room, but an alcove is conveniently located so it may be entered from either the kitchen or living room.

The porch which faces the rear garden is off the living room, and is easily accessible from the kitchen. This is an advantage for warm days when it is desirable to eat outdoors.

There are four bedrooms, three master bedrooms on the second floor and a guest room on the first. Cross ventilation is provided in all these rooms.

Outside the terrace adds a note of welcome with its large pot or jar and box of flowers.

Cost of construction, which naturally varies in different parts of the country, is estimated at between $10,000 and $12,000.

GREENEVILLE

Kalodziej—Tercyak

A very pretty wedding took place at St. Joseph's church Monday morning at 9 o'clock when Miss Stella Kalodziej, daughter of Mrs. Tillie Kubat, of 26 Lafayette street, was united in marriage with Benjamin Tercyak, son of Mrs. Stella Kempistry, of Westfield, Mass., by Rev. S. A. Iciek, the pastor. Miss Sophie Kalodziej, a sister of the bride, was maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Blanche Zahaba, of Westfield, Mass., and Miss Stella Kubat. Vincent Tercyak, brother of the groom, acted as best man, while the ushers at the church were Anthony Tercyak and Vincent Pokorniaty, of New London. The bride was beautifully attired in a white satin gown covered with Spanish lace and she wore a tulle veil, caught up with orange blossoms and had a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and white roses. Miss Kalodziej, the maid of honor, was charmingly gowned in green crepe de chine and carried an arm bouquet of pink tea roses. Miss Zahaba and Miss Kubat, bridesmaids, were neatly attired in orchid and blue crepe de chine gowns and carried bouquets of tea roses. They wore picture hats to match their gowns.

Following the church ceremony, a wedding breakfast and reception was held at the Pulaski hall on North Main street with 200 guests present. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts, namely, cut glass, pieces of furniture, checks for substantial amounts, linen, floor lamps and gold pieces. Among the large attendance guests were present from New Britain, Meriden, Willimantic, Springfield, Westfield, Mass., Boston, Worcester, New London, New York and Plainfield.

The groom presented his bride with a beautiful necklace and she in return gave him a set of gold cuff buttons. To her attendants the bride's gift was beautiful finger rings and the groom gave his attendant a silver automatic cigarette lighter. Dancing was enjoyed until a late hour in the evening.

During the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Tercyak left on an automobile tour which will take them to New York city, Albany and Atlantic City. Upon their return in about ten days they will be at home to their many friends in a newly furnished home at 17 Lafayette street. The couple have a large circle of friends who wish them happiness and prosperity.

Samuel Dilworth, of Bridgeport, is spending a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Dilworth, on Mowry avenue.

John Barrows has returned to his home on Tyler avenue, after spending a few weeks' vacation at the home of his grandparents, on North Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Eaton have changed their residence from Fourth street to Central avenue.

Horace Woolley, Louis Geer, Maurice Piche, Wallace Atterbury and Wilby Sutthill have returned to their homes, after spending a few days at Pleasant View.

Mrs. R. Brittin, of New Jersey, is spending a few days with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond C. Brittin, of Boswell avenue.

Formerly of Norwich

Mrs. Isabelle Schofield Harris, of New London, died suddenly Friday at Bryants Pond, Me. The body was brought to New London Saturday night and funeral services were held there Monday afternoon, with burial in Comstock cemetery, Uncasville. Mrs. Harris was a native of Norwich, the widow of Dr. Harris. While at the Freeman summer home at Bryants Pond she stumbled and fell on the stairs, the injuries she sustained, combined with the great shock, resulting in her death.

SUES FOR PROPERTY WHICH SHE SAYS SHE DEEDED AWAY THROUGH FEAR

On the claim that she gave a deed to real estate on Shapley street, New London, through fear, Genevieve Maria Mason of New Haven has brought suit in the superior court for this county against Sadie A. Christian of New London, seeking to recover the property. The suit is returnable in September.

The New Haven plaintiff claims that she conveyed the property to Mrs. Christian on Dec. 17, 1929, by a quit claim deed and she alleges that the transaction was made because she had been put in great fear of Mrs. Christian and was in an agitated state of mind when she signed the deed. The plaintiff asks for $5,000 damages and for a court decree declaring the quit claim deed null and void and for a re-conveyance of the property with an accounting for rents which have been received.

On Ocean Beach Property

Damages of $6,000 are sought in a suit brought in the superior court by the Atlas Realty company of Hartford against Joseph Sigal, Harry Sigal, Charles N. Sigal and Aaron Lurie, of Hartford, and the Commodore Realty company of New London and there is also a suit to cancel transfers of property which are alleged to have been made to avoid payment of mortgages held by the plaintiff Hartford corporation. The debt to the Atlas company was originally owed by Joseph Sigal, owner of property at Ocean Beach, and the claim is made that the transfers of this property were made to the Commodore Realty company, composed of the defendants, to avoid payment of mortgages. Aaron Lurie is named as a defendant because it is claimed that a mortgage for $9,500 was given to him without consideration and that Lurie was able to bring foreclosure proceedings and get possession of the Ocean Beach property. In the suit brought the Atlas company asks that the mortgage and foreclosure be cancelled, that a receiver of the Commodore Realty company be appointed and the property be sold to satisfy the claims of the plaintiff.

Asking Name Change

Other suits brought in the superior court are the following:

Mr. and Mrs. Moses Seleanitzky, of Groton, ask for change of name to Stone.

Divorce From Wife In Italy

Marco Masciana, of Stonington, seeks divorce from his wife, Pietrina (Branca) Masciana, who is now in Italy. He also asks custody of a child. The marriage of the couple took place on April 20, 1902, and he asks the divorce for desertion since January, 1921, and adultery.

Suits On Note

Daniel Moore, of Lyme, is the defendant in a suit brought by David Jacobson, of Newark, N. J., on two notes for a total of $2,000, dated Jan. 30, 1930. The notes were given to the Pioneer Lumber company, by which they were endorsed to Jacobson.

Stanley Leno, of New London, is the plaintiff in a suit against John Shellow of New London, for $3,600 damages for non-payment of a loan of $2,900 and goods amounting to $700.

A fee of $25 a semester will be required of each student living in the dormitories to support the dining hall. A decrease in the cost of meal tickets will also be made, but Raymond I. Longley, comptroller, would not state what the reduction would be. All meals will be served cafeteria style.

HARVARD STUDENT CRASHES INTO TREE AT THOMPSON

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 1.—In an accident which occurred at midnight Sunday on Nichols hill in Thompson, Dukk G Carleton, a student at Harvard university, miraculously escaped serious injury and possible death when his car, a Packard sport model roadster, skidded on the slippery pavement, crashed into a pine tree and came to a halt after it had smashed into a telephone pole nearby. The car was reduced to a mass of wreckage and was towed to a local garage this morning. Carleton was uninjured and after his wrecked car had been cleared from the road he continued to Pomfret, where he is visiting with his parents.

The accident was investigated by State Officer Royal Scranton of the Danielson barracks, but the driver was not arrested. In describing the accident, Carleton stated that he was traveling at a moderate rate of speed when his car suddenly went from control. The impact of the car striking the telephone pole was so great that it cut the pole at its base, knocking it over. Mechanics at a local garage, overhauling the car, discovered a large purse of money which was the property of Carleton. He said it dropped from his clothes at the moment of the accident. It was returned to him. The amount of the purse was $1,700 in currency.

NORWICH TOWN

Rev. Frank Adams, of Norwich, occupied the pulpit at Norwich Town Methodist Episcopal church Sunday morning in the absence of the pastor, Rev. Mr. Potter, who is on vacation. "Sowing and Reaping" was the theme of Rev. Mr. Adams' interesting sermon. Miss Virginia Ward played the organ in place of the regular organist, Mrs. Lewis Aldrich. Members of the Junior choir furnished the singing. The district superintendent, Rev. Myron E. Genter, who was in the congregation, pronounced the benediction. Rev. Mr. Genter is to preach at this church Sunday next. The floral decorations were by Miss Marion Miller and Misses Jane and Mary Waters.

The Congregational Young People's C. E. service Sunday evening in the chapel had for its theme, Industrial Missions. The mid-week service of conference and prayer at this church Thursday evening is to be omitted this week.

The informal reception to the retiring pastor Friday evening is to be from eight to ten o'clock.

Mrs. Wilfrid Sabourin returned Friday, after several days' visit in New York city and at Freeport, L. I.

Thomas H. Bacheler and his sisters, the Misses Bacheler, for many years residents of East Town street, until their home was destroyed by fire during one of the coldest days last winter, and who spent several weeks thereafter at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Hough, of West Town street, took up their residence at 92 Williams street, during June. Sunday, they had as brief callers their niece and other members of her family, Mrs. Edgar Dawkins, the former Miss Muriel Bacheler, of Rockville. Mr. and Mrs. Dawkins and five children were included in the large congregation at the First church Sunday morning.

Mrs. Charles F. Geer, of 78 West Town street, has been entertaining for a week her granddaughter, Mrs. Vinnie Mouillet, of Waterbury. One day recently Mrs. Geer, with her granddaughter and a party of friends, motored to Rocky Point and had a fine shore dinner, later continuing the trip to Narragansett Pier and Point Judith.

Merton W. Harvey, with his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Harvey, and daughters, Ruby and Thelma Harvey, of Courtland City, N. Y., motored Saturday from their home, a distance of nearly 300 miles, to visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Griffin of Hartford, parents of Mrs. Benjamin Harvey. They were callers Sunday afternoon in Norwich Town. They were specially anxious to locate Mrs. Thurston B. Barber, which they did by telephone, later calling at Mrs. Barber's home on Canterbury road. Mrs. Merton Harvey, who was not in the family party, and Mrs. Barber are cousins.

At the home of Mrs. Elizabeth R. Kinney, Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. William E. House had as guests, the former's relatives, Mrs. Olive Isbell, Mr. and Mrs. William Tilson and little son, William, Jr., and Miss Hazel Kallian, who motored from Bridgeport. But one other person in that locality, particularly on Town street, has resided in that section of Norwich Town longer than she has.

They were accompanied by Dr. and Mrs. Charles H. Lamb, of Town street. Marshal Bitgood, the latter having just returned from a week's trip to New Hampshire. Dr. Bitgood is much improved in health, following a period of eight months serious illness. FAIRGROUND RACES MAKE FEATURE EVENTS FOR LABOR DAY PROGRAMME

Under the auspices of Nemrod Grotto, a programme of saddle horse racing, with trick riding, roping and high scaling dogs, made a fine Labor day entertainment at the fair grounds at East Great Plain and had patronage of something over 500 or 600, which would doubtless have been much larger if the weather had been more favorable, but the rain of the morning had put the track in excellent condition. There was keen rivalry in the races, which were hotly contested, the trick riding by the Morgan R. Chaney outfit from C-Lazy-Y ranch at Waterford was as good as any western plainsman could show, and the home dog won in the high fence scaling contest when Chase Cliff's Balto of this city won this contest from the challenger, Zipf von Douxcoeur, owned by C. E. Goodrich of Chestnut Hill.

For the track events the judges were John H. Wilson, George O. Hathaway and Edmund S. Smith, with Mr. Wilson as starter, R. Rankin as timekeeper and Sterrill Chase as master of ceremonies.

Swahn's band was stationed in the grand stand and the programme opened at about 1:30 with the grand march around the track, which was led by the two Norwich Town cowboys, Fred Miller and Harold Jordan, with about 75 horses in line, as well as the mule-drawn covered wagon from the Chaney outfit and a motor truck carrying a herd of goats.

Among those riding from Circle B ranch, the official stable of the Norwich Inn, owned by Arthur Brailsford, were Miss Ruth Hart, who has been a guest at the Inn, and the Princess Alferoff-Alferief, who is the charming hostess of the Inn. English riding was demonstrated by these two ladies. Miss Hart, who has hunted in Ireland, rode astride in an English hunting saddle, while the Princess Alferoff rode side saddle and is a leader in reviving this fashion of riding for women.

The racing events were decided as follows:

Open A—First prize, $10, one heat, won by Gray Eagle, Chase Cliff, Norwich; second, Happy Go Lucky, Chapman Riding school, Norwich; third, Tony, Tom Mullens, Norwich. Time, 1 1-5 min. for half mile.

Match race—Best two out of three, $15 first, $5 second prize, both heats and race won by Lady Etta, ridden by Miss Pendleton, Norwich; second, Blazeworthy, Chase Cliff, ridden by Lucy Culver, Norwich. Blazeworthy was practically left at the post in each heat, refusing to run when the word "go" was given.

Open B—First prize $10, one heat, won by Flax, Trading Cove Riding club, Norwich; second Happy Go Lucky, Chapman's school, Norwich; third, Golden Glow, Culver Farms, Pachaug. Time, 1:01 1-2.

Match pony race—Best two out of three, first prize $15, second $5, both heats and race won by Bucky, Chapman Riding school, Norwich; second, Tessie, Culver Farms, Pachaug. Time, 1:13 and 1:10.

Special pony race—Quarter mile, won by Margaret Brailsford with Dorothy Brailsford second.

Best of winners in Open A and Open B—One heat, first prize $15, second prize $5, won by Gray Eagle with Happy Go Lucky second and Flax not finishing, as this horse bolted for the stable at the turn, just as it seemed he was about to beat out Gray Eagle in the run down the stretch.

Final event—Open to all horses having raced previously, first prize $25, second $15, third $5, four entries, won by Lady Etta, Flax second, Gray Eagle third, Blazeworthy again refusing to go off with the other horses. Time, 59 seconds.

High Scaling Dogs

The contest for high scaling dogs was a novel feature that caught the fancy of the crowd, which cheered its favorites among the three entries, two of which were by Chase Cliff of Norwich and the other, by C. E. Goodrich of Chestnut Hill. The Norwich dogs were Chase Cliff's Balto and Brunolf of Pine Tree and the Chestnut Hill dog was Zipf von Douxcoeur, with prizes of $10 and $5 for first and second place.

All three scaled the six-foot fence with ease and did the same when it was raised eight inches higher. At 8 feet, 4 inches, Brunolf refused to try any farther and the contest went on with the other two dogs both clearing up to ten feet. When the height went up eight inches more Zipf made three brave tries at it but failed and Balto went ahead and won the event by scaling the 10 foot, 8 inch height.

Trick Riding and Roping

The Morgan Chaney outfit put on a fine exhibit of trick riding and fancy roping by half a dozen men, with Morgan Chaney showing off his bridleless riding horse, Yellow Hammer, and one of the riders mounted an "outlaw" and clung to him as he plunged up the track toward the stables.

Their exhibit closed with a demonstration of roping from horseback when a number of long-horned billy goats were let out in the area in the center of the track where the cowboys chased them and cleverly swung their lariats over the plunging goats, which at times sent the crowd scattering in their dashes to escape the horsemen.

FRENCH FLIERS, COSTE AND BELLONTE, MAKE FLIGHT FROM PARIS TO NEW YORK IN 37 HOURS, 18 MINUTES, 30 SECONDS

A Little Less Than Four Hours More Than It Took Lindbergh to Fly From New York to Paris—Coste Made a Perfect Landing With the Question Mark At 6:12.30 E. S. T. Last Night—First Non-Stop Flight Ever Made From Paris to New York—Col. Lindbergh Was At Curtiss Airport and Extended Congratulations VALLEY STREAM, N. Y., Sept. 2—(AP)—The first westward airplane flight across the north Atlantic from Europe to New York was completed today, completed by countrymen of the first to attempt such a venture.

Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte landed at Curtiss field on the edge of this Long Island village at 6:12:30 o'clock E. S. T. this afternoon, their scarlet sesquiplane streaking out of the gathering dusk just 37 hours, 18 minutes and 30 seconds after it took off from Paris yesterday.

Three years ago Charles Nungesser and Francis Coli attempted a similar flight and flew instead into eternity. Since then six other men and two women have tried to fly non-stop from Europe to New York, and have died in the attempt.

But Coste and Bellonte were not halted by this tragic record of valiant failure. They wanted to bring true the dream of Nungesser and Coli and nothing could stop them. Last year they tried but were turned back by a wall of wind off the Azores. This year they tried again and today victory was theirs.

By their achievement today the French fliers flew the Lindbergh trail between the chief cities of the United States and France, and flew it in the more difficult direction. Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was here to greet them and was among the first to offer congratulations.

Landing Full of Color

The landing here today was full of color and quick action. Coming over Roosevelt field, Coste dropped low and waggled his wings in signal that the Lindbergh trail had been back-tracked at last, for it was from Roosevelt field that Colonel Lindbergh, then an unknown mail flier, took off on the flight that made him famous three years ago.

Then the French plane, named the Question Mark, headed straight for its destination here and six minutes after it was sighted it settled lightly to the ground made muddy by recent rains. Appearing suddenly among a score of naval and civilian planes awaiting him in air, Coste swung in a great half-circle about the field, tipped in one vertical bank, and surged down to a three-point landing.

The landing was the signal for the crowd of about 5,000 penned behind high wire enclosures to attempt a rush onto the field such as marked the Lindbergh reception in France and several long flights here. Most of them were held by the wire and the police, but some scaled the parapet and, augmented by a couple of hundred who had been given special passes, surrounded the plane before its propeller stopped whirling.

Coste had been instructed by radio to taxi directly to the hangar containing the field offices but, apparently fearing that harm might thus come to some members of the crowd, he climbed out, followed by Bellonte, while they were still a hundred yards away.

Fliers Were Tired

As they slid from the open cockpits to the ground it was plain that the fliers were tired. Their feet fumbled clumsily at the rungs of the little ladder and they almost staggered when first they walked. But they didn't get much chance to walk, for the crowd was on them, pressing in, trying to shake hands, slapping the aviators on the back, almost bearing them to the ground.

Police pushed among the crowd to little avail and so at last Coste and Bellonte had to be carried to the safety of the hangar offices on the backs of two stalwart mechanics, carried, "pig-a-back" like tired children borne to bed after a day's hard play.

In the office Coste and Bellonte were presented to Colonel Lindbergh, who had watched the arrival from a balcony. They spoke briefly in French over two radio networks and then went upstairs in an adjoining hangar to meet various reception committees.

The crowd pressed so close that police had the greatest difficulty keeping unauthorized persons out and one zealous policeman even refused entrance to Colonel Lindbergh. The colonel whispered his name.

Cop Didn't Recognize Lindbergh

"Go on," said the policeman, "don't give me that Lindbergh stuff."

But other policemen knew him and so he was ushered in after due apologies.

It was dark by then and the broad field was ringed with the red lights to mark its haven to fliers of the night. But the crowd wouldn't go home, cheering outside and demanding to see the famous Frenchmen. And so the lights were darkened in the room where they were being greeted and the report was circulated that they had gone to New York.

At direction of Rene Rasover, American manager of the French fliers, reporters were herded into one downstairs room and sound reel men told to install their cameras in one adjoining.

"Stay here," they were told. "Coste and Bellonte will see you before they go."

And then shortly field officials came to those rooms and said that the French fliers had gone, wishing to escape the crowds and get some rest after their arduous journey. And gone they had, slipping quietly from a rear door and entering a car that bore them safely away.

So there was no interview at the field, except for the few words gleaned from Coste by a couple of enterprising reporters who would not wait for the promised interview and succeeded in getting into the room where the fliers were broadcasting.

Coste is a small man, considerably smaller than Bellonte, and is known to the birdmen of France as "Dou," a diminutive contraction of the first part of his first name.

ACHIEVEMENT OF COSTE CELEBRATED IN PARIS

PARIS, Sept. 2—(AP)—The greatest celebration since the armistice was staged by Paris tonight as loud speakers bellowed the announcement to anxious multitudes that Captain Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte had conquered the treacherous Atlantic, completing the hazardous western crossing from Paris to New York.

The explosion of delight was almost unprecedented as the pent-up enthusiasm, restrained for hours in fear that the fliers might meet the fate of Nungesser and Coli three years ago, vanished with the official word that victory had been achieved.

Then the loud speakers opened up with the voice of an announcer at Curtiss field, and the crowds became simply delirious as the radio man described the landing of France's greatest aviator.

The reception was clear and the words came through almost as well as if the Parisians had been standing on the landing field itself.

BANK ROBBER "ARMED" WITH CIGARETTE CASE

CHICAGO, Sept. 2—(AP)—Grasping a cigarette case which he said was filled with nitro-glycerine, Walter J. French, 31, threatened to hurl it to the floor of the First National bank today unless an employe turned over $10,000 to him. The employe darted from his desk, called a bank guard and French was overpowered. The cigarette case was empty.

The bank was filled with noon-day customers when French approached a desk in the real estate department.

"I'm desperate," he told a clerk. "This is full of nitro-glycerine and unless you hand me $10,000 without a fuss I'll smash it to the floor."

The clerk jumped from his chair and summoned the policeman while crowds of customers looked on curiously.

FIVE OF SIX BALLOONS IN BENNETT RACE DOWN

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 2—(AP)—Five of the six balloons that started from the Cleveland municipal airport yesterday afternoon to compete in the Nineteenth Gordon Bennett International race were down in New York and Massachusetts, while the Goodyear VIII was believed over Vermont tonight.

A balloon, believed to be the Goodyear entry, piloted by the veteran aeronaut, Ward T. Orman, of Akron passed over Bennington, Vt., at 4 p. m. eastern standard time, and was moving northeastward. The Goodyear VIII was heard from at 9:50 a. m. over Norwich, Chenango county, New York.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2—(AP)—Police Commissioner Mulrooney reiterated today that the New York police do not want Jack (Legs) Diamond, New York racketeer under arrest in Germany, and that there is no charge against him here.

The commissioner said the police department had notified European capitals of Diamond's impending arrival merely to enable foreign police to act, if they wished, to bar him as an undesirable tourist.

School Opened For Prohibition Agents

Student Body Is Made Up Of 24 Specially Selected Enforcement Officers

WASHINGTON, Sept. [illegible] The prohibition bureau's sch[illegible] opened today in a typ[illegible]room setting of blackboa[illegible] pencils and erasers.

Twenty-four [illegible] selected enforcement offi[illegible] from each administrative [illegible]gether with six others wh[illegible] serve as substitutes, ma[illegible] student body. After a mont[illegible]ning, the men are to return to [illegible] field and pass on to the rank and file of the enforcement service the lessons learned here.

Director Amos W. W. Woodcock opened the session with an address in which he urged upon the students the realization that they had been carefully selected to assume an important task.

He outlined the course of training, dividing it into two sections—the technicalities of their work and means of improving the morale of the service generally.

The director set as the first objective of the campaign against illicit liquor the suppression of commercial violators. Later, he said, if the campaign against them is successful, a second goal may be set. He did not say what this would be, adding only the comment it lay in the future.

The law governing enforcement activities is now so well established, Woodcock said, that it should be clear to all. He told the instructors to impress upon the men in the field that they should act only on clear-cut cases. The bureau, he explained, is not interested in border-line or test cases.

The students were gathered in a large room in which desks had been arranged in rows, each bearing notebooks, scratch pads and pencils. A large blackboard had been hung from the wall and Woodcock made frequent use of it in emphasizing certain points of his speech. The school is under the supervision of Harry M. Dengler and Webster Spates who have been engaged in educational work in the bureau for several weeks.

CONNECTICUT F. OF L. IN SESSION IN HARTFORD

HARTFORD, Sept. 2—(AP)—The right of employes to voluntarily organize in the economic field has been destroyed by the twisting of laws and by the application of the "Yellow Dog contract" through which workingmen agree not to affiliate with labor organization, and efforts to compel state legislatures to declare such liberty depriving acts null and void, should be started, John P. Fry, secretary of the metal trades department of the American Federation of Labor told 300 delegates to the Connecticut Federation of Labor convention, assembled at Labor temple, here this afternoon. The convention will continue through Friday, with daily business sessions and various entertainment features in the evening.

Several important resolutions were offered during the opening day's sessions, being immediately referred to the resolutions committee for consideration, to be later acted upon by the delegates.

One of these bills points out that whereas the enactment of the Volstead act "has failed to meet the approval of the people," and the Jones "5 and 10" law has "aroused the people into acts such as no other federal law has ever done," it is resolved "that the Connecticut Federation of Labor endorse the action of the American Federation of Labor" in urging modification to allow sale of 2.75 per cent alcoholic beer.

FLORIDA CONSPIRACY CASE HAS BEEN DISMISSED

JACKSONVILLE, Sept. 2—(AP)—Charges that Fred O. Eberhardt, Tallahassee publisher; Henry Halsema and Frank Ralls conspired to assassinate Governor Doyle E. Carlton were dismissed today.

Justice of the Peace J. C. Madison, who made the decision after listening to a parade of state's witnesses during four days' preliminary hearing, asserted that the state "has failed to make a case that would justify this court in binding these men over."

County Solicitor L. D. Howell objected to the dismissal, inquiring whether the magistrate meant to discharge the defendants under the testimony of Clem Dowling, former roommate of Ralls, and Vincent C. Giblin, Miami attorney for Al Capone. Justice Madison replied that he "did not believe he was warranted in sending this case to the criminal court."

Remains Of Andree And His Mates Ashore

Landed At Tromsoe, Norway, By the Sealer Bratvaag—No Ceremony

(Copyright, 1930, all rights reserved in Japan, by the Associated Press.) North and South America and

TROMSOE, Norway, Sept. 2—(AP)—Most of the population of this far northern port stood with bared heads in silent homage as two ships, with flags at half mast, steamed slowly in to the harbor today with all that remains of the famous balloon exploration party of Salomon August Andree, lost in the Arctic fastnesses since the summer of 1897.

The sealer Bratvaag bore the remains of the Andree expedition homeward. She was escorted by the Norwegian naval vessel Michael Sars. The Michael Sars met her in the early hours of this morning half way between Tromsoe and Skjaer Island where the Bratvaag had stopped on her way back from White Island, on which Andree and his two companions met their fate.

There were many in the great crowd of watchers who had gathered at the same spot upon the shore of Norway 33 years ago to bid farewell to the dauntless Andree and his mates, Stringberg and Frankel, as they started out for Spitzbergen, from which port they went to Danes Island to embark on the disastrous attempt to fly for the first time over the North Pole in an aerial vehicle.

There was no ceremony as the bodies were brought ashore. The crew of the Bratvaag, Dr. Gunnar Horn's Arctic exploration boat, raised the single casket on their shoulders and carried it to the docks where it was placed in a funeral car.

As the car started for the hospital, where the bodies are to be examined by experts, a striking picture was formed in the streets of this old maritime town.

With no prearranged plan whatever, a procession stepped into formation behind the hearse. First came Dr. Horn, with the members of his expedition, who discovered the Andree camp on White Island. Then came the members of the Bratvaag's crew, who had shared the dangers and labors of the Horn party. Still further back marched a company of naval cadets, military and civil authorities and a group of distinguished Norwegian and Swedish scientists who had gathered at Tromsoe to assist the government in establishing beyond question the identity of the evidences of Andree's fate which Dr. Horn had brought to light. It was a drama which will live long in the memory of Tromsoe.

SCIENTISTS SAY BONES WERE OF POLAR BEARS

TROMSOE, Norway, Sept. 2—(AP)—The remains of only two members of the Andree polar expedition were in the casket taken ashore today from the sealer Bratvaag. It had been hoped that the bones found in Andree's boat on White Island were those of the third member, presumably Knut Frankel, but scientists said tonight that these were polar bear bones.

RINGLEADERS ARRESTED BY POLICE IN CALCUTTA

CALCUTTA, India, Sept. 2—(AP)—After a sharp battle police today arrested several men believed to be leaders in the raid on Chittagong last April 18.

The raiders, 100 in number and well armed, killed seven men, burned and looted the Chittagong police armories and escaped into the hills pursued by Gurkha troops under British officers. Several times officials believed capture of the leaders was imminent but not until they received news that the fugitives had taken refuge in Chandernagore, a French possession, did they make definite progress.

Obtaining special permits from the French authorities, the police besieged a house where the men were hiding. Much shooting ensued, but no report of casualties has been received here.

HURRICANE PASSES TO SOUTH OF PORTO RICO

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Sept. 2—(AP)—Porto Rico today was relieved by a weather bureau announcement that the approaching hurricane had passed to the south of the island.

Islanders began preparations last night for the possible coming of a serious storm, the first predicted since the disastrous San Felipe hurricane of Sept. 13, 1928. The government and the Red Cross acted promptly in spreading the news and preparing for a possible emergency.

Some sections reported heavy rains, which were much needed, but up to this afternoon no wind damage had been reported. Many schools failed to open this morning on account of the threatening weather.

ARBITRATION PACT SIGNED BY CHINESE TONGS

NEW YORK, Sept. 2—(AP)—An agreement setting up machinery to arbitrate differences among Chinese tongs throughout the United States with Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney, of New York, as the arbiter with the last word, was signed today by representatives of the Hip Sing, On Leong and four minor tongs. It went into immediate effect.

The pact provides for termination of all hostilities and for an arbitration board. Unwillingness to accept mediation by the board permits a tong to appeal to Commissioner Mulrooney, whose decision is final.

IRE OF SENATE COMMITTEE AROUSED BY ACCUSATIONS OF MRS. M'CORMICK

CHICAGO, Sept. 2—(AP)—Suggestion that the senate campaign funds committee "investigate its own investigators" was made by W. C. Dannenberg, Chicago private detective agency head, in his testimony today at a session of the committee called to inquire into "shadowing" of its chairman, Senator Gerald P. Nye, of North Dakota.

Dannenberg appeared this afternoon voluntarily, saying he had not seen subpoena servers sent out to summon him. He testified that Ruth Hanna McCormick, republican senatorial nominee, had employed him after the ransacking of her Byron, Ill., farm home June 17, the day before the committee concluded its last hearing here.

"Mrs. McCormick was eager to learn if any members of the investigating committee would be the sort of persons to have instigated the search of her files," Dannenberg said. He admitted he had sent an operative to North Dakota to learn what

TAMMANY MEN CONTINUE TO RESIGN OFFICE UNDER FIRE

Thomas T. Tommaney, Charged With Having Been the Go Between in a Questionable $10,000 Transaction, Yesterday Resigned His Post As Sheriff's Clerk—Martin J. Healy, Tammany District Leader, Had Previously Resigned Office—Charges Involving Other Officials Are Impending, As the Outgrowth of the Ewald Case

NEW YORK, Sept. 2—(AP)—Thomas T. Tommaney, the last office-holding principal in the Ewald case, resigned his post as sheriff's clerk today.

A few hours later Attorney General Hamilton Ward, after conferring with leaders of the New York bar, announced he would not personally conduct the state inquiry into charges that George F. Ewald's appointment as a city magistrate in 1927 was purchased. Instead, he indicated, he intends to turn over immediate supervision of the investigation to a prominent New York attorney, whom he will select with the advice of the bar.

Since Ewald's resignation last July after his indictment for mail fraud in connection with sale of stock of the Cotter Butte Mines, Inc., charges involving city officials and others have grown in widening circles.

Martin J. Healy, Tammany district leader and resigned city official was drawn into the case when Mrs. Ewald testified she loaned him $10,000 about the time her husband was appointed to the bench. Healy resigned as deputy commissioner of plant and structures and was indicted for failure to make an income tax return for 1927. United States Attorney Tuttle today continued a grand jury investigation of his income tax in 1928 and 1929.

Tommaney resigned today as chief clerk in Sheriff Farley's office under fire as go-between in transferring the $10,000 from Mrs. Ewald to Healy. Tommaney's letter of resignation to the sheriff said: "I am doing this so as to relieve you of any further embarrassment."

District Attorney Crain opened an inquiry today into charges by Jacob Cash, dismissed city marshal, that Tommaney accepted $100 and an $80 suit of clothes to obtain a rehearing for Cash. Cash also has charged he gave Healy $2,000 before he was appointed and that he presented Mrs. Healy a diamond bracelet. Cash brought a $250,000 slander suit against Mayor Walker because of the mayor's statement of reasons why he was dismissed.

The city records bearing on Cash's removal were sent to the appeals bureau of the district attorney's office today for an opinion as to whether they constitute a felony.

HOOVER REVIEWED MILITARY BIG PARADE IN BALTIMORE

BALTIMORE, Sept. 2—(AP)—For the second time in a year, President Hoover came to Baltimore today to review a military parade and for two hours watched 15,000 or more veterans of the nation's wars, augmented by regular forces, tramp before him.

Under a sultry sky, the parade, the feature of the 31st annual encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, wound its way past the stand in which the president, civil and military dignitaries sat.

Just as the last few marchers filed past, a sudden shower sent the president back from the front of the stand to escape a wetting, and the start of the return trip to Washington by automobile was in the rain.

The president's previous trip here was to review a parade of the veterans of the Rainbow division of the American Expeditionary forces.

Regular army, National guard, marine corps and naval units led today's parade through streets deep lined with spectators. In the downtown sections scraps of paper and ticker tape floated from office windows.

After the military units marched the veterans, now civilians, who fought in Cuba, Mexico, the Philippines and the World war, many straining the uniforms which a few years ago snugly fitted their younger bodies.

One unit from Wisconsin dragged a little wagon in which rested a beer keg and several empty bottles and jugs, bringing applause from the throngs around the reviewing stand.

PUZZLED WITH WHAT TO DO WITH "LEGS" DIAMOND

AIX-LA-CHAPELLE, Germany, Sept. 2—(AP)—The police here were getting plenty of mental exercise here tonight trying to solve the riddle of what to do with a slim, well-dressed young man whom they took off the Vienna express last night under the belief that he was Jack ("Legs") Diamond, eagerly sought by the American authorities in connection with some serious law infractions in New York city.

After a day of puzzling developments the authorities still are convinced the man they are holding is Jack Diamond. But now that he has been found and properly taken into custody nobody over here seems to want him for anything—least of all the American embassy at Berlin, which in a statement today declared emphatically, "We're through with the case."

Meanwhile the unwelcome visitor keeps talking about pains in his stomach and complaining at the interference of the authorities with a "peaceful American's attempt to take a cure."

WITHIN FEW FATHOMS OF $8,000,000 IN GOLD INGOTS

BREST, France, Sept. 2—(AP)—Divers today succeeded in getting within a few fathoms of the $8,000,000 in gold ingots aboard the sunken treasure ship Egypt.

In a calm sea the divers penetrated to the top deck of the ship, 400 feet beneath the waves, and prepared to salvage the gold which lies under the third deck, six meters below. They said upon emerging that should the present fine weather continue they may be able to place explosives around the purser's room before the end of the week and blow it apart to gain access to the ingots.

The Egypt, a Peninsular & Oriental liner, went down in 1922. The Italian salvage experts striving to recover the gold are trying to complete the task before the September storms.

$8,000 BANK ROBBERY AT LYONS FALLS, N. Y.

LYONS FALLS, N. Y., Sept. 2—(AP)—The Lyons Falls National bank was robbed of $8,000 by two robbers tonight. Everett Hughes an employe, returning to work, was locked in a vault while the robbers rifled the vault. Hughes was held captive for two hours before his cries for help were heard. The men escaped in an automobile.

FIVE INCHES OF SNOW IN SECTIONS OF ALBERTA

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST EXPELLED FROM FRANCE

PARIS, Sept. 2—(AP)—French officials announced today that William Randolph Hearst, American publisher, had been expelled from France because one of his agents obtained and published a secret document relative to Franco-British naval negotiations in 1928.

Mr. Hearst arrived in Paris yesterday for his first visit since publication of the document. Agents of the government called on him and requested him to leave within 36 hours. He departed for London last night without waiting for the period of grace to expire.

"The French government has always expelled foreigners who are consistently hostile to France," the police told the Associated Press. "Mr. Hearst is a Francophobe and we prefer that he should do his criticizing outside of France. The Horan affair of 1928 formed only a part of the reasons why Mr. Hearst was asked to leave."

Mr. Horan was the Hearst correspondent who got possession of the secret document.

TWO MEN ASPHYXIATED BY ILLUMINATING GAS

TORRINGTON, Sept. 2—(AP)—Two men were asphyxiated and a third was overcome by illuminating gas today in a two-room apartment here.

The dead are: Frank Hart, 35, and Patrick Madden, 40. Nelson Hart, a brother of one of the victims, was found unconscious, but was revived.

Police expressed the opinion that the men had been drinking and that they had accidentally turned on the gas jet of a kitchen stove. Two bottles partly filled with liquor were found in the apartment, which was occupied by the Hart brothers.

Mrs. Hattie Field, a sister of the Harts, discovered the three men when she came to visit her brothers. The bodies of Frank Hart and Madden were in the kitchen, while Nelson Hart was found unconscious in the other room.

CHICAGO, Sept. 2—(AP)—Discovery of carbon monoxide in the blood of Captain Arthur Page, Jr., led Health Commissioner Arnold Kegel to express belief tonight that the gas may have been responsible for the marine corps flier's fatal crash at the national air races.

Dr. Kegel bases his opinion on the report of Dr. William D. McNally, health department toxicologist, that a sample of the captain's blood, taken before he died and about three hours after the accident, contained 0.47 per cent of carbon monoxide.

"Our tests show that there was not enough of the gas to kill a man," Dr. Kegel said, "but a pilot flying a plane at 207 miles an hour and turning posts would not have to be very dizzy or sick to have a serious accident."

GERMAN MANUFACTURERS OUT FOR INDIAN MARKETS

LEIPZIG, Germany, Sept. 2—(AP)—Authorities on international trade said here today that the time is ripe for German manufacturers to seize Indian markets closed to the British as an outcome of Mahatma Gandhi's boycott movement.

Spokesmen said Germany enjoys the unique advantage in the orient because she has no colonies there and so avoids the racial frictions hampering other nations. Admitting that the Indian boycott for the time being affects German beer as well as British alcoholic beverages, they said numerous trade inquiries furnished ample evidence that India is willing to do business with Germany in lines of merchandise hitherto monopolized by the British.

FLIER DROWNED WHEN PLANE CRASHED INTO LAKE

Activities at Elks' park were at high pitch throughout the afternoon and evening performances, indicating a substantial financial success for the fair. BLUE HERONS STAG PARTY ON SIDE OF TADPOLE POND

Another sign of fall is noted in the regular appearance of the blue herons over on the cedar swamp side of the eastern Tadpole pond. These birds do not nest here and the late summer visitors are all male birds. They often stand five feet tall, mostly neck and legs. When in flight their slim yellow legs trail out an astonishing distance behind. The blue heron is protected by law now, and few of these visitors from the north fall victims of the hunter's gun.

"MY boy was taken sick when I was miles away from my doctor and I decided to try Dr. True's Elixir on my boy. Well, within a day's time he was just as well as ever—apparently a good laxative and worm expeller was all he needed. I am free from the worry of sickness in my family. I gladly recommend Dr. True's Elixir as [illegible]."

DANIELSON

FIRE DAMAGES FISH MARKET TO EXTENT OF $500

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 2.— Fire damaged the Birch fish market in Railroad square to the extent of about $500 this afternoon. The lost is total to Joseph Birch, the owner, who said after the fire that he is without insurance. Mr. Birch has no idea what started the fire, which originated under a counter that runs across the front part of the market. The big icebox and the rear part of the market were practically undamaged.

An alarm from Box 24 called out the firemen at 5 o'clock and they were back at quarters in a little more than 20 minutes. Water poured into the market ruined much of Mr. Birch's stock and fire did added damage.

The fire endangered the 2 1-2-story frame dwelling, in which the market occupies the basement, but there was no damage to the structure, used on the upper floors as tenements. Mr. Birch, with his customary optimism, said after the fire that he would clean the place up and continue to do business without interruption.

Long Court Session

The town court was in session today longer than for any day in months. As a matter of fact, there were sessions this morning and again this afternoon. A liquor case, violations of the automobile laws, breach of the peace, resisting an officer and intoxication were among the charges that brought a group of accused in for hearings of their cases.

Judge W. Fenner Woodward presided for the first time since last spring, having recovered in some degree from a long period of illness. A stuffy court room, with the temperature hovering around the 100 degree mark, was as packed with people as a New York subway car.

Edward Nason, Attawaugan, charged with operating a motor vehicle while he was under the influence of an intoxicant, was acquitted after trial of his case. He was represented by Attorney Harry E. Back. Nason was arrested here by Night Officer Laird Winchell, who took him immediately before Dr. F. P. Todd for examination as to his condition, and received a certificate from the physician indicating that Nason was intoxicated at the time. Both Dr. Todd and Officer Winchell appeared as witnesses for the state this morning.

At the close of the state's side of the case Attorney Back, addressing the court, cited a supreme court decision to the effect that the state must establish that a man in such cases as that in which Nason was involved, is unfit to operate a car. Atty. Back contended that the state had not done this, and an acquittal followed.

Samuel Castena, a Westerly young man arrested here during the early hours of Monday morning by Officer Winchell, was presented to answer to a charge of reckless driving, the officer asserting that Castena had been driving through the business section at 50 miles an hour. The accused was found guilty and a fine of $10 and costs imposed, $9 of the fine being remitted.

Robert Malley, School street, Putnam, whose car Edward Nason of Attawaugan was driving when the latter was arrested, was fined $2.00 for having been intoxicated. He was riding in the car with Nason.

A brawl at a home in Dayville over the holiday period resulted in the appearance in court of Lucien Regis, 18, of Danielson, and Zepherin Fortin of Dayville. It appears that Regis has been calling on Miss Phyllis Piette of Dayville for some time. For several weeks past while the Piette girl's parents have been held at Brooklyn jail to await trial in the superior court on criminal charges alleged against them, Fortin, a son-in-law of Mr and Mrs. Piette's, has, by their direction, been living at the Piette home and looking out for Phyllis and other younger members of the household.

Fortin forbid Regis to call at the home anymore, whereupon Regis consulted the state officers at the Danielson barracks and claims he was told that he could call upon the girl so long as he caused no disturbance. The last time Regis called during the holiday period, Regis struck Fortin in the face when, he claims, he thought he was about to be assaulted by Fortin, who had a screw driver in his hand. The row resulted in a trip to the home by State Officer Royal V. Scranton, who arrested both Regis and Fortin on charges of breach of the peace. This morning the case against Fortin, who was represented by Attorney Irving H. Miron of Putnam, was nolled. Regis was fined $1.00 and costs.

Raymond Saucier of this town drew a sentence of 30 days in jail, which he must serve, and a 30 days suspended sentence, with costs of $27.27, on charges preferred against him for starting a brawl at a dance hall and then attacking Constable Louis O. Stone. This affair happened early Monday morning. It was charged that Saucier has tried to edge his way into the dance on a pass that an officer saw handed to him by another young man. When he was refused admission without paying he became unruly and was escorted away by Constable Stone. When the constable started to leave Saucier and had turned his back Saucier unexpectedly attacked him. Saucier was subdued and locked up here to await trial today. He was charged with breach of the peace and resisting an officer.

Elphire Bernier, at whose home on Water street, in the rear of the Keystone block, state officers seized several cases of home brew in a raid Monday afternoon, was fined $50 and costs and given a sentence of 30 days in jail, suspended for one year.

The regiment of children who attend the public schools in the town of Killingly trooped back to their studies this morning in all districts of the town where teaching organizations are maintained. The same was true in the town of Brooklyn, which is also within the jurisdiction of Supt. W. H. Parker of the schools of this town.

No time was lost in getting each and every school organized, and routine work will be going on Wednesday much the same as though there had been no long summer vacation. Registration figures were not available from all sections of the town, but it is expected will be on Wednesday. Today was a trying one for the young people who have largely had full liberty since early June. With a temperature hovering in the upper 90's it was not an easy thing for them to concentrate on their studies, but they appeared to make the most of it.

Milligan, Mrs. Arthur G. Bill, Mrs. A. L. Cundall, Mrs. Herbert Williams, Miss Amelia Hutchins, Miss Marion D. Chollar, Miss May Young.

Effective next Thursday morning the Connecticut company will discontinue operation of its busses on the Danielson-Norwich route via Brooklyn to Wauregan and will resume operation of this line via the direct route between the two places over the Killingly-Plainfield route direct. The busses have been routed via Brooklyn to Wauregan and vice versa for several weeks past, due to the highway construction work on the direct trunk line route between Danielson and Wauregan. Though the shoulders of the nearly three miles of new concrete highway between Wauregan and Danielson are not completed, the roadbed is and is now passable for traffic.

This afternoon, at 2 o'clock, at the home in the Christian Corners section of the town of Brooklyn, funeral services for Mrs. Mary E. Hueston were conducted by Rev. Albert Abbott of the Danielson Methodist Episcopal church. Burial was in the South cemetery at Brooklyn. Friends acted as bearers. L. E. Kennedy was in charge of the arrangements.

PUTNAM

LAPIERRE-GUY WEDDING IS BRILLIANT AFFAIR

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Sept. 2.—An early September wedding took place this morning at 9:30 o'clock at St. Mary's church on Providence street, when Miss Edmaer Frederica Guy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Zito Guy of Mechanics street, was married to Valmore M. LaPierre of Boston, son of Mrs. Josephine LaPierre of South Meadow street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. U. O. Bellerose, pastor of the church, who was also celebrant of the nuptial high mass.

In the sanctuary of the church, palms combined with garden flowers made an effective and colorful setting for the bridal party. A quartet, in which Miss Anna Paulhus, soprano; P. Edgar Lucier, tenor; Miss Rose Metras, alto, and Henry Vadnais, bass, took part, rendered a specially arranged program of music as the guests were assembling.

To the music of the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin, played by the organist, Miss Metras, the bride entered with her father, who gave her in marriage. She was attended by Miss Frances Risso of Newport, as maid of honor, and bridesmaids, Miss Vera Musso of Providence and Miss Valerie LaPierre of Putnam, a sister of groom. The best man was Arthur Pominville of this city and the ushers were Seconda Rovero and George A. Winterburn, both of Putnam.

Miss Guy was charming in a gown of white Elizabeth crepe of princess model with dipping hemline in the back. A bolero graced her shoulders underneath a sweeping train which was affixed to her veil of plain tulle, arranged in Juliette cap effect and fastened with clusters of orange blossoms. For flowers she carried white Easter lilies. The maid of honor's gown was of blue net. She wore a horse hair hat and gloves and slippers of matching color. Her bouquet consisted of pink gladioli. The gowns of the bridesmaids were princess models. Miss Musso's was pink-dotted net and Miss LaPierre's was of a Nile green hue. Both wore horse hair hats, slippers and gloves of colors harmonizing with their gowns. For flowers they carried pink gladioli.

At the offertory Miss Paulhus was heard in Gounod's "Ave Maria," accompanied by Miss Metras at the organ, and Leo Pominville, violinist. At the conclusion of the church ceremony a reception was held in the auditorium of the Elks' home, on Main street. After a wedding trip to Canada and New York, the couple will make their home at 172 Mechanic street.

The former Miss Guy was graduated from Putnam high school, class of 1926. She is an ardent student of music and a talented pianist and organist. The bridegroom, well known in this city, is a radio technician in Boston. For traveling, the bride wore an attractive ensemble of rose beige, with brown accessories. Mr. and Mrs. LaPierre will be at home after September 15.

With writs concerning cases to be tried at the September civil and criminal terms of court returnable to the office of Clerk Curtis N. Dean today, it was announced that the initial sessions of the present term will convene on Tuesday morning, September 23, at Putnam. Judge Newell Jennings, of Bristol, will occupy the bench. Miss Marjorie C. Bradford, assistant clerk of courts, said this morning that the criminal docket lists only minor cases and it is expected business for the term will be disposed of shortly after the opening. The civil trial list however, is made up of several cases, although only a few of the suits are of unusual interest.

A government post card, postmarked from the Grand Central station annex in New York city, received this morning by his almost frantic parents, announced the arrival in New York city on Saturday of John N. Andrews, 15 years old son of Mr. and Mrs. B. N. Andrews of Farrows street, who ran away from home early Saturday afternoon. Other than serving to inform his heartbroken mother that he reached the metropolis and "that everything is O. K., and don't worry," the missive disclosed nothing that would aid police to pick the boy out of Gotham's multitudes. It is quite evident that the missing boy does not intend to return home and to high school, inasmuch as he wrote that a kind benefactor had promised him work and that he would begin his career this week. The message which came in this morning's mail greatly consoled Mr. and Mrs. Andrews who are hopeful that New York police will be successful in a search for the son who strayed away last week after being unable to resist the temptation of wanderlust.

FUNERAL

John McBrierty

The funeral of John McBrierty of Pomfret, who died Friday after a long illness, was held this morning in the church of the Most Holy Trinity at nine o'clock. Rev. Frederick Coholan was celebrant at a requiem high mass. The service was largely attended by relatives and friends of Mr. McBrierty, who had been a resident of Pomfret for many years. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery in this city.

Mr. McBrierty was born in Scotland, on December 6, 1858, the son of Thomas McBrierty and Agnes Farrell. He came to this country when a young man and eventually settled in Pomfret, where he worked as a houseman at a number of the estates in the town where he lived. Mr. McBrierty is survived by a niece Mrs. George MacKenzie, who lives in Pomfret.

COSTE WINS

Captain Dieudonne Coste was confident that he could make the westward crossing of the Atlantic and he has succeeded.

Coste is not a stranger in this country, having received a rousing welcome when he arrived here from South America after crossing the South Atlantic, but he is due for a greater welcome this year because he has accomplished what so many have attempted and failed to do. Others have crossed the Atlantic westward from Ireland to Newfoundland but the French fliers are the first to have flown from Paris to New York without a stop. They have, in fact, made the Lindbergh trip in reverse with the only exception that it was made by two men while Lindbergh flew alone.

Coste has long been a noted French flier. He got much of his training during the war. Since then he has done much more, flying long distances and proving his ability to stay in the air for long hours. He has experienced failures as well as successes. His first westward flight was a failure because of unfavorable weather conditions which forced him to return to Paris. He recognized the perils of such a flight but he was by no means discouraged. The previous experience simply put him on his guard. He was confident of his ability, studied the stories of others, watched the weather conditions carefully and when everything looked favorable set forth and made good. He has demonstrated for the first time that the Paris-New York non-stop flight is possible. He has made an important contribution to trans-Atlantic flying. He has done what many others gave up their lives in attempting.

This doesn't mean that the dangers of the westward flight have been eliminated, or that any and all others can expect to repeat his performance. It proves chiefly that under favorable conditions the great circle route will land the flier at his destination in whichever direction he is flying, provided he has fortified himself with a good machine and is skilful in handling it. Thus another contribution is made to aviation and ocean flying.

AUTO ACCIDENTS

Southeastern Connecticut has witnessed a series of deplorable automobile accidents which go to prove that two cars cannot occupy the same space at the same time and do it safely, and that reasonable use of the highways is all that any driver should undertake.

Speed appears to have figured conspicuously in two fatal accidents on the Norwich-Westerly highway. They did not occur when the road was congested, but when it was deserted, when all that was necessary was to drive at such a speed that the car could be kept in the highway. We shudder to think what might have happened to machines which might have been approaching those particular points from the opposite direction when those fatalities were about to occur.

What not to do when driving an automobile appears to have been emphatically illustrated in those crashes which occurred in the vicinity of Westerly. It is by no means new for those who drive cars while under the influence of liquor or those who cut out of line to cause serious trouble for themselves and others. They can easily become a highway menace of the worst kind because it is impossible to tell what they are going to do or for even a careful driver to keep out of their way.

The past week has not produced the freedom from accidents that was expected as the result of the Save-a-Life campaign. It doesn't appear, however, that any of the accidents or fatalities were the result of faulty equipment, the elimination of which was one of the important objectives of that movement. The series of accidents and the deaths point unmistakably to the part which each driver is expected to play if safer conditions are going to be experienced on the highways. There is a warning involved in each one of them. It is to be expected that those responsible for them, if alive, will refrain from such driving in the future, but there is no good reason why other drivers should insist upon personal experience of that kind before taking home to themselves the real lessons of those regrettable affairs. The best way to make the highways safe is to drive safely. With everyone doing that, a marked change would be experienced.

PROTECT GOVERNMENT RECORDS

Repeated efforts have been made to secure proper facilities for housing the records of the various departments of the government at Washington. It has been pointed out under what flimsy conditions many of them have been kept and attention directed to the serious menace from fire.

The fire in the federal trade commission building doesn't appear to have been as serious as was at first thought, but it serves to demonstrate quite as effectively as if the records had all been destroyed, how inadequate the protection is for records which have cost the government large sums of money.

Fires do not occur very often in government buildings, and it is always possible to think that there will be no more of them, but such chance-taking is simply flirting with serious danger. When we stop to think of the vast amount of money that is spent each year by the government in securing data and in learning about matters which will figure in future inquiries, they may seem like only so much old paper. In some instances that may prove to be the case, but if the records are worth securing they are worth preserving.

There are those cases where the records are invaluable and it ought to need no repeated urgings to properly provide for their protection against fire. The expense of replacing those records which can be replaced may involve no great sum but when it comes to records which cannot be replaced at any price the situation is a serious one. It makes it clear that the place for them is in a fireproof structure, not a tinder box.

It is impossible to tell when fire is going to break out. There are buildings where the combination of a firebrand and carelessness endangers the whole structure and the contents and, no matter whether it is privately owned or government property, the wisdom of providing safeguards cannot be overlooked. It is well that the federal trade commission's records will suffer no great loss. There is, nevertheless, the warning which cannot be disregarded.

THE FINDING OF ANDREE

Things happen in fiction no more opportunely than they did for Dr. Gunnar Horn and his companions on the Norwegian exploration expedition in the finding of the bodies of the three balloonists who set out 33 years ago to sail over the pole.

They were not in search of the long-lost explorers, had no hunch that they might have died in the region to which they had headed and only for the favorable weather conditions would they have been able to reach and remain in the locality where the discovery was made. It is in a desolate part of the northern area that White island is located. Conditions are invariably unfavorable, but, as if they had been guided by an invisible hand, they were favored by open water in approaching the island and later were able to make their discovery because the unusually hot sun had kept down the thickness of the ice and snow. To have gone to the island under normal conditions would have meant finding the spot where the bodies rested so covered with ice as to cover up and easily observed evidence of the former explorers.

But such is only what explorers have reason to expect. They go with the hopes of finding certain things and often are rewarded by discovering much more, sometimes less. From all accounts the trip of the Bratvaag would have been successful in many respects had members of the crew not happened upon the camp of Andree and his companions. They had already found certain islands improperly located, but the finding of the bodies of the intrepid aeronauts from whom no tidings had ever come clears up one of the many mysteries of the far north. It could not have been accomplished any more cleverly or satisfactorily had it been the product of a writer of fiction.

WET VOTES IN CONGRESS

Indications in certain states are that even though there is an effort to keep it out of the campaign, prohibition is bound to play an important part.

There are states where it is being made the issue and the claim is being advanced that the wet forces in congress will be much larger as the result of the election in November. There will be certain changes in the next congress that will reflect the will of the voters in the fall. Even the dry forces admit that these changes are likely to bring increased wet representation to Washington. Some of this they attribute to the fact that certain dry support was swept in with the last presidential election. Possibly some more of it will be due to the fact that there has been a change in sentiment.

Certain of the states have given expression to their views on the question. Instead of dry representatives they have returned wet in filling vacancies. In others they have chosen wet candidates for the coming election and are displaying a strong sentiment against enforcement laws. This all helps to strengthen the claim that there will be more wets in congress, even though they do not outnumber the drys.

Another means of determining the sentiment in the representative states and, therefore, the attitude of representatives is provided in the plan to get an expression from the people concerning repeal of the amendment. When a state indicates its sentiment in that manner it is to be expected that its representatives will be governed thereby, regardless as to what their personal attitude may be. This also may make it possible for an increase in the wet votes, since candidates are already declaring they will abide by any referendum, provided, of course, the states show a wet preference.

EDITORIAL NOTES

School days again, good old golden rule days.

September started in wet enough to make up for some of the dryness of the summer.

The man on the corner says: With the baseball days coming to an end, the call for the snow shovel can't be far away.

Those who have to don't appreciate the fact that all those who would like to cannot respond to the call of the schoolbell.

It is denied that the Aroostooks want 5,000 men to dig potatoes. But how many would they get if they did want such a number?

Those youngsters who have been interested in tree sitting will soon have a chance to display real endurance in perfect and non-tardy attendance at school.

MUSIC HATH CHARMS

It wasn't that Alice May Cathart did not like music. She was, as a matter of fact, so passionately fond of it that she spent much more than she should on symphony concert tickets. But she maintained wearily three days after moving into her cozy one-room apartment, everything has its place, and in her opinion the bleating of a saxophone far into the night—particularly when the bleats rise from a room directly beneath one's own—is decidedly out of place.

It did not add to her equanimity to discover after a week of long suffering that the tortured notes of the saxophone had finally settled down to a rendition, of sorts, of one of her favorite melodies, Bag's "Oh Dear! What Can the Matter Be?"

"The matter is," groaned Alice May audibly, though to herself, as she unhysterically pulled the blankets over her head in an endeavor to go to sleep, "that some one doesn't break into 324 and throw that saxophone out of the window."

"What does he look like?" gasped Georgia after the shrieks of laughter had subsided. It was the night of Alice May's little dinner party. The girls at the office had been told of the fly in her ointment and when the expected strains of "Oh Dear! What Can the Matter Be?" began to shatter the air hysteria loomed close in 424.

"I haven't the faintest idea," replied Alice May, "and it's to be devoutly hoped that I never find out."

"Whatever would you do?" asked one of the girls curiously, as Alice May accompanied her guests to the lobby, "if this trick elevator got stuck sometime?"

"It never misbehaves that way," said Alice May gayly, "but if it should take a notion to, that top button is the call bell. I'd just push that and presto! Help would come."

"Suppose the bell was out of commission."

"Suppose an earthquake shook your mother's house down," laughed Alice May, holding back the folding grill of the elevator cage for the girls to pass out. A few moments later she rose to her own floor and to an unwonted silence. The saxophone had ceased. "Maybe," thought Alice May, hopefully, "the girl relented at last and telephoned."

It was Monday evening. True to accepted form, it had been a blue day. Not one thing only, but a dozen had gone wrong at the office. The manager had blamed her for a mistake he had made himself; an important shipment had gone astray; a wire had arrived too late to prove of use, etc., ad infinitum.

As the last straw Alice May stood up all the way out on the L and then walked from the station to the Collingham apartments through slush and snow which even soaked through her galoshes—and that, she reflected, gloomily, never did suede pumps any good.

The large young man who stood waiting for the elevator to descend as Alice May entered the lobby carried a case which obviously held a musical instrument. The sight of it proved another irritation to Alice May. She even forgot the probable state of her suede shoes. The quick interest in the young man's blue eyes and the pleasant cadence in his voice when he asked which floor she wished failed to placate her. Her tone was frosty as she said shortly, "Fourth, please." Obligingly he pushed button four, only to have the elevator wabble slowly—unwillingly, as it were, to a spot somewhere between the third and fourth floors. There it stopped despite violent pokes at various buttons.

"Why don't you push the call bell button?" inquired Alice May coldly?

"I've pushed the darned thing nearly through the wall. I don't believe it rings."

"Well, do something, for heaven's sake!" cried Alice May, feeling a hysterical desire to laugh. "We can't very well stay here forever."

"I know what I'll do," said the large young man, beginning to unfasten the case which had so fatally prejudiced Alice May at first sight. Hastily bringing the saxophone to position, he blew into it mightily, and throughout the elevator shaft, the halls and the lobby reverberated the strains of "Oh Dear! What Can the Matter Be?"

"Swell concert, I'll tell the world," remarked the large young man who stood with Alice May at the curb in front of Orchestra Hall waiting for a taxi.

"It was wonderful," enthused Alice May joyously, "but do you know, Brack, I don't think that saxophone player modulates his tones as delicately as you do."—Chicago News.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept 2—If the 71st congress didn't do right by the farmer—and post session outgivings by members seem to disagree radically as to what it did do, for or to him—it could not have been for lack of farm-reared legislators on its rolls.

One out of every four members of house or senate proudly claims farm birth in official accounts of himself.

That phrase "born on a farm" or "raised on a farm" or "grew up on a farm" smacks you in the eye over and over again when you look 'em over. The Bystander counted up over 90 times it appears directly, with a score or two indirect mentions of farm origins.

Now and then a southerner allows he saw the light of day on a "plantation." That has a fine aristocratic sound about it—too aristocratic, perhaps, to be good politics. Most of the southerners say "farm" instead.

Didn't Stay

It also is to be noted that most of the farm-born future legislators made haste to get away from farm life when they passed their teens. They felt, it is easy to see, just as soon as they could and most of 'em went into the law. That's their business now.

There are not so many senators or representatives who set themselves down today as farmers unless as a sideline, intermixed with banking or something like that.

Not many do as does blunt Peter Norbeck of South Dakota, the only "Roosevelt republican" on the books. He still claims professional connection with the business of agriculture.

He sets out that he's a "well-driller by occupation," although he can hardly have been working personally at that for some years what with service in state and national senate, two terms as governor, etc.

Log Cabin, Too

Smith Brookhart of Iowa, not a Roosevelt but a "progressive republican" by the books, varies the farm birth announcement in pleasing fashion. He, it appears, is a native son of Missouri and was "born in a log cabin on a farm."

Coming eastward now to New York's regiment of federal legislators, Senator Copeland, nee Iowa, seems to be the only farm boy, although he also made haste to quit that way of life for medicine and politics combined.

New York is a big farming state, but like Pennsylvania, it has mighty few farmer-legislators still working at the farm part of the job.

YOUR HEALTH

Summer Colds, Preventive Measures And Common-Sense Remedies

By Bertha V. Thomson, M. D.
Oshkosh, Wisc.
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

A cold is the fore-runner of so many serious complaints that it should receive prompt attention as soon as symptoms appear. This is certainly a case where "an ounce of prevention is worth many pounds of cure." A cold, properly treated in the early stages, may prevent many cases of throat, nose, eye or ear troubles.

Do many people take cold in the summertime? Fortunately, the prevalence of colds, grippe etc., is much less during this season than at other periods of the year. This is true because an increasingly large number of people appreciate the importance of observing preventive measures against colds in this season as well as in the winter time.

Well-known regular health precepts should certainly be employed as preventive measures. These include plenty of fresh air, frequent tepid baths, plenty of pure drinking water, regular sleep, rest and exercise. The habit of taking several long deep breaths of fresh air the first thing each morning should be continued during the summer months as we need the purifying oxygen in our systems then as much or more than we do in cold weather. A glass of pure water before breakfast is also helpful. And here we must not overlook the importance of cheerful, kindly, constructive thoughts as aids to health.

If in spite of the precautions, you fall victim to a cold, the first thing to do is to let up on all activities and be at complete rest, either in bed or on a couch.

If simple remedies fail to check the progress of a simple cold, do not delay in consulting your family physician. Neglected summer colds if allowed to progress, often result in pleurisy, bronchitis or pneumonia.

LITTLE TALKS ON THRIFT

School Room Logical Place for Encouragement of Thrift Among Young

We are at the beginning of a new school year. Parents, teachers and all others directly interested in sound educational progress are urged to join the great work of introducing the teaching of thrift in the schools of this country.

This work has for sometime been making steady progress and there is every reason to believe that the ensuing school year will mark the attainment of new heights in thrift education. The introduction of the school savings bank by a Belgian school master in a Long Island village many years ago has today grown to gigantic proportions and a splendid work is being accomplished. Millions of children have learned lessons of priceless value in saving money. Many successful men today owe some portion of their progress in life to the inspiration of the little school savings bank which they learned to love in the days of their childhood.

But teaching children just to save money is not quite enough in the interest of a well-rounded thrift conception. There is, in fact, some danger of warping the child's appreciation of life's many values by the constant stressing of money. It is important that the child should learn that thrift means in every sense of the word to thrive and be successful in a fine, noble way.

For a number of years the American Society for Thrift has been working on this problem and two years ago brought out a text book in which the subject of thrift is co-related with several of the common branches. The book can be used by any school teacher in the second and eighth grades, inclusive. A copy of this book will be sent without charge to any school teacher or other school official desirous of joining this great thrift educational movement. Letters should be sent to the society's office, 9 East 46th street, New York city.

It should be quite obvious to any fair minded person that the logical place to concentrate thrift educational effort is in the school room.—By S. W. Straus, President American Society for Thrift.

Stories That Recall Others

Not Guilty as Charged

Mary's mother had some candy hidden in the drawer of the kitchen cabinet. When she went to get it the candy was gone. Mary was the first to fall under suspicion.

"Did you take the candy I had hidden in the kitchen cabinet?" she asked Mary.

"No I didn't take it," replied Mary with dignity. "I ate it!"

All's Well

Two young married couples live side by side. The other day one housewife went to spend the day with her parents. While there it occurred to her that she had left her electric iron turned on in the basement.

She called her bride neighbor by phone to see whether the iron had set the house afire. The neighbor found the doors locked, but in plain view was the iron, seen through the open basement window.

Using her ingenuity she turned the lawn hose on the iron through the window. There was no splutter, so word was flashed back over the phone, "All's well."

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

The Driscoll Wire Company, Shelton.

The Driscoll Wire company of Shelton was started early in the present century by two brothers, for the purpose of supplying wire to local pin and hair pin manufacturers. The original equipment was set up in a single small room, now a part of the fine wire department. Partly drawn wire was the raw material then used.

The business was a success from the start, and in 1917 it was incorporated under the laws of Connecticut. In 1919, the present owners took over the concern, and during the next ten years, its growth was very rapid. Production was increased 1,000% in the first ten years.

The present product is round, low carbon wire of various analyses, finishes and tempers, which is used as a raw material by wire workers for rivets, screws, pins, hair pins, buckles, and innumerable other articles. One product in which they excel is free turning clock and clock pinion wire. They have also established a reputation for free turning screw stock in sizes 7-16 inch and smaller. They specialize in furnishing highest quality in all products and also quick deliveries, which are so necessary in these days of hand to mouth buying.

The present officers are: J. Howard Marlin, president; Geo. S. Watrous, Jr., vice president; Geo. E. Barber treasurer; Philip E. French, secretary and general manager.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Impy Makes His Doorway

Who works and strives to do his part
Will find a song down in his heart.
—Impy the Chipmunk.

Striped Chipmunk had gone back to his home, leaving Impy the black Chipmunk to go on with the building of his own home. Impy was disappointed. He had thought himself very clever when he planned to have his doorway a knothole in a hollow log that lay on the ground. He had been very proud when he told his father, Striped Chipmunk, how he had planned that doorway. So he was quite upset when Striped Chipmunk did not approve of it all. Yes, sir, he was quite upset. He just didn't like to give up that idea. However, when he saw Jimmy Skunk come along and poke his head in that hollow log, he realized just what would happen if he had his doorway there and Shadow the Weasel came in. So he went hunting for another place for that doorway. He went all about in every direction around that stone pile, looking carefully at this place and carefully at that place, finding fault with every place. Finally, he came to an old stump that was not very far from where he had dug the present entrance to his home. Some ferns were growing around this old stump and right between two of the old roots was just the place for a hole. It would be hidden by the ferns and it could be reached under cover nearly all the way from the fence. Impy went back to his new bedroom and thought it over. Then he once more resumed work.

He would dig till he got tired; then he would go outside to get something to eat and to rest. Whenever he did this he would look over the ground so as to see that he was getting the direction of his new passage right. Then he would go back to work. Little by little that passage was pushed in the right direction. It passed straight under the pile of stones. All the sand had to be pushed back out of the doorway. It seemed to Impy that he never would get to that stump.

You know if you keep at a thing long enough you will in time reach the end. So there came a time when, as Impy dug, he came to some roots. He knew they were the roots of the old stump. He knew then that his direction had been right. He became quite excited. Carefully he dug up between the roots and presently he saw light. Then he worked more carefully than ever. He made his doorway just big enough for him to pass through easily. There it was, right where he wanted it, between the roots of the old stump under the ferns, and there wasn't a grain of sand to show that it had just been dug.

There was a song in the heart of Impy the black Chipmunk for now he felt that he had a real home. To be sure, he had only one room—one nice bedroom—and two long passages, one leading from the back door and one leading from the front door. He would want more rooms by and by, but for the present he was nicely situated.

"Now," said Impy, "I'll close my back door. I'll close it, but in such a way that I can open it when I want to. Then, if any one notices that pile of sand and comes to look it over, there will be no open door inviting them to come in. They won't know just where the door is."

So Impy went back and he pushed a lot of sand into the doorway of his house, until he had quite filled it. He would use that doorway no more for going in and out. He would use his front door. He really felt quite safe—very much safer than he had felt since he first began work on his new home. The next thing to do would be to make a bed. He wanted a comfortable bed in that nice bedroom of his. So Impy went out to look for material for a bed.

POETRY

A Name in the Sand

Alone I walked the ocean strand;
A pearly shell was in my hand;
I stooped and wrote upon the sand
My name—the year—the day.
As onward from the spot I passed,
One lingering look behind I cast;
A wave came rolling high and fast,
And washed my lines away.

And so, methought, 'twill shortly be
With every mark on earth from me;
A wave of dark oblivion's sea
Will sweep across the place
Where I have trod the sandy shore
Of time, and been, to be no more,
Of me—my day—the name I bore,
To leave no track nor trace.

And yet, with Him who counts the sands
And holds the waters in His hands,
I know a lasting record stands
Inscribed against my name,
Of all this mortal part has wrought,
Of all this thinking soul has thought,
And from these fleeting moments caught
For glory or for shame.
—Hannah Flagg Gould.

Stanzas

My life is like the summer rose
That opens to the morning sky,
But ere the shades of evening close,
Is scattered on the ground to die!
Yet on the rose's humble bed
The sweetest dews of night are shed,
As if she wept the waste to see—
But none shall weep a tear for me!

My life is like the autumn leaf
That trembles in the moon's pale ray!
Its hold is frail—its date is brief,
Restless—and soon to pass away!
Yet ere that leaf shall fall and fade,
The parent tree will mourn its shade,
The winds bewail the leafless tree—
But none shall breathe a sigh for me!

My life is like the prints which feet
Have left on Tampa's desert strand;
Soon as the rising tide shall beat,
All trace will vanish from the sand;
Yet, as if grieving to efface
All vestige of the human race,
On that lone shore loud moans the sea—
But none, alas! shall mourn for me!
—Richard Henry Wilde.

Norwich Produce Market

Furnished by Bureau of Markets Conn. Dept. of Agriculture

The market was very dull following the week end and holiday and market men were generally cleaning up stock on hand. Offerings of sweet corn and string beans were light and good stock scarce. Demand was active for both. Other vegetables were mostly liberal and moving slow.

Peaches were more liberal and will probably increase considerably during the week with good stock available. Apples were moving rather slow, but graded stock was holding firm in price.

Live poultry continued liberal and slow of disposal. The closing of the summer season and the increase in offerings of pullet eggs had a tendency to slightly ease the egg market.

PAINTED FLOORS SHOW GAIN IN POPULARITY

In finishing floors the wood and the type of room should govern the selection of the finish. Painted floors are growing more and more popular as the vogue for color in the home increases. Paint, in addition to giving individuality to a room, will conceal a marred or discolored floor and it may be used on a rough as well as on a smooth surface.

Varnish, which is an appropriate finish for any style of room, is generally used on hardwood floors to show their natural beauty to the best advantage. For a softwood floor, where the color and grain is poor, stain is often called upon, with one or two coats of varnish applied over it for durability.

COUNCIL'S SEPTEMBER MEETING HAS MINOR MATTERS OF CITY BUSINESS

On recommendation of the board of police commissioners, the court of common council, at its September meeting, Tuesday evening, voted to change the name of the short street leading from Boswell avenue to Division street to Clairemont avenue, thus making it an extension of Clairemont avenue.

The meeting, called to order at 8 o'clock by Mayor Lee Roy Robbins, had been adjourned from Monday night. Mayor Robbins called the meeting to order at 8 o'clock Monday evening, but as the day was Labor day, there was no quorum. Because of this fact the mayor adjourned the meeting until Tuesday evening.

After a half hour recess the meeting was reconvened. A petition was received from William H. Shields, asking for the removal of a maple tree in front of his property on Church street. According to the petition the tree is in a dangerous condition and Mr. Shields requests that it be cut down. The petition was referred to the public works committee with power.

Another petition was received from St. Patrick's Church corporation, signed by Rt. Rev. Msgr. Michael H. May, pastor of the church, asking for the installation of an electric light on Broadway between St. Patrick's church and the parish rectory, adjoining. The petition was referred to the police committee.

Claim is Disallowed

The council received notice from the Auto Underwriters and Lumbermen's Mutual Casualty Co., of Boston, that they would claim damages from the city because of damage sustained by a machine owned by Raymond G. Camp, July 24th, on Washington street. The claim was referred to the finance committee and corporation counsel. Later in the meeting, on recommendation of the finance committee and corporation counsel, the council voted to disallow the claim. Mayor Robbins explained that Mr. Camp's machine ran into a pile of sand by the side of the highway on Washington street.

The public works committee reported that Platt avenue had been repaired and oiled recently and that the street will receive another coating of oil. The report was accepted. On recommendation of the police committee W. F. Noyes was given leave to withdraw his petition for an electric light on Garfield avenue.

The police committee recommended that Frank B. Disco be given leave to withdraw his petition, asking that the name of Ann street, leading from Boswell avenue to Division street, be re-named Locust street. The committee recommended that the street be named Clairemont avenue, as an extension of Clairemont avenue. The recommendation to withdraw was adopted as was the recommendation changing the name of the short street to Clairemont avenue.

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 2.— The postponed September meeting of the Westerly chamber of commerce, following a lengthy executive committee meeting, was called to order by President Dr. John Champlin, Sr., tonight. The meeting voted to join the New England council with an associate membership at a cost of $50 and also the chamber of commerce of the United States at $10. It was voted to have the president appoint delegates to the sixth annual New England conference in Boston, Nov. 20 and 21, the chamber being entitled to three delegates.

A letter was read from the New England council in which J. Franklin Babb was to be the speaker assigned to Westerly for a New England day programme on Oct. 21. Chamber Secretary Trainer reported the receipt of a United States hydrographic chart showing the location of Charlestown airport, the nearest to Westerly. A copy of a letter sent by the Misquamicut Golf club, signed by Nelson E. Perrin, requested the Rhode Island state board of public roads to re-construct the shore road.

Membership Committeeman Wells R. Fowler reported a total membership of 89; the following being voted in at this session: Ralph Segar, William Clarke, F. Samuel Nardone and Robert F. Burnett.

Harry R. Milner, chairman of the municipal improvement committee, reported progress on the plans for securing a new Pawcatuck river bridge and also at his request a vote was passed asking the Westerly highway commission to have rubbish and litter cleaned up from the Westerly-Watch Hill road every Monday morning until Oct. 1. Frank A. Sullivan, of the publicity committee, said that the New Haven railroad would resort to condemnation proceedings to secure property owned by Angelo Cappuccio between the New Haven railroad and High street on a ten-foot strip, the former property of the Westerly and Ashaway Electric railroad. At the request of Treasurer H. Russell Burdick $1,000 of the board funds were voted into a savings account.

President Champlin, for his son, Dr. John Champlin, Jr., presented a map of the Watch Hill mosquito survey showing the breeding places in and about Watch Hill, on which in 1928 the estimated cost for eradication was $28,000. Since that time, he said that filling and ditching had reduced the necessary cost to a considerable extent. The chamber voted to recommend that the state of Rhode Island make sufficient appropriation for eradication of mosquitoes in the campaign being staged in this section of the state.

Rogers E. Trainer, secretary, and a former commander of Merrill post, No. 16, American Legion, asked for assistance in the post activity for the coming 12th national convention to be held in Boston, Oct. 6 to 9, stating that there were over 17,000 posts in the country, with a membership of over a million and a quarter. He suggested information booths and the securing of the state armory or other camping sites for through-conventioners. The matter was voted referred to the executive committee.

WHAT A CHINAMAN THINKS OF THE Y. M. C. A

The local Young Men's Christian association, which has given support to the work in China, finds much of interest in a letter from a Chinese young man giving his estimate of what the Y. M. C. A. has done for him.

The letter follows:

"Whenever I think of the work of the Y. M. C. A., a picture of my early days always rises in my mind. I can remember well what a poor and stupid boy I was when I first came to know it.

"I was sixteen years old when my father went blind. I stopped school and went to work at once. I had only studied nine years of Chinese and sixteen months of English. I had a fair command of Chinese but, unfortunately, my handwriting was exceedingly poor and penmanship counts most according to Chinese custom. My English, needles to say, was limited to the smallest degree.

"Six months after the beginning of my employment I came across an advertisement one day in the daily paper. It was for students to study the newly invented shorthand in the Young Men's Christian association. Really, I had not the least idea what the Y. M. C. A. was because I had neither a friend nor a relative who was a member of that institution.

"Following the address given, I came to a fine big building where smartly dressed men were moving up and down the staircases. I had not courage to go upstairs at first. But I plucked up courage to go up and meet one of the secretaries there. He received me with greatest cordiality. After answering my inquiries about the shorthand class, he asked me to become a member. I was informed that the annual membership campaign was going on and the membership fee was ten dollars. Of course this sounded large to me at that time but I liked the idea, so I signed up.

"Within a week I became one of the members and was present at all of the activities, no matter whether it was a lecture or a social meeting or what not. My loneliness had been alleviated by the social gatherings; my ignorance was gradually reduced; my mind was greatly enriched by the lectures; my body became stronger; greatest of all my soul was comforted by the words of Jesus. In short, I had walked step by step into the garden of life, where I tasted its sweetness and felt its joy. I had found its meaning and the grace and light which was being bestowed upon us freely by the Great One.

"I always count that particular evening a turning point in my life. If I had not passed through these experiences I would have remained ignorant and physically weak. I would have lived meaninglessly through my life. I would never have had the joy of friendship and enlightenment of those early days nor would I have had religion as my comforter in later years.

"Who else could have transformed me so much and have given me an abundant life as had the Y. M. C. A.? No matter what society may curse it, what name the unjust world may give it, I will stand by it forever, for I believe I know it better than do all its irresponsible critics.

DUWELLS PUT ROTARY OUT OF PENNANT RACE IN JUNIOR TWILIGHT LEAGUE

The Duwells moved a step closer to the Junior league pennant, Tuesday evening, when they defeated the Rotary club at the Academy campus, 5 to 1.

The game was hard-fought and furnished plenty of excitement for the fans who turned out to see the contest. The victory gives the Duwells 8 wins and but one loss, while the Rotary has won 7 and lost 3. The Elks are now the only team in the running as a win for them over the Duwells later in the week will give them a tie for first place.

The game was even closer than the score would indicate. Both teams went scoreless until the fourth, when the Duwells counted twice. The Rotary came back with a single counter in the fifth, but the Duwells added three more in their half of the same frame, making it 5 to 1. The Rotary staged a rally in the sixth but were stopped after scoring a single tally.

Veronick, leading off for the Rotary in the first, hit to the manual training building in right field for a double, but a couple of great stops by Sydlo, Duwell shortstop, cut off any chance for a score.

In the fourth, the Duwells, who had been held down completely by Alex, launched their first real attack and scored two runs. Koe, leading off, got a hit off Alex's glove. Chick hit to Veronick and when the latter fumbled, Koe was on second and Chick safe at first. Debarros bunted to Alex, the Rotary pitcher fumbling and the bases were filled. Sydlo and Stephanik both popped to Charron, the latter making wonderful catches on both plays, and the danger seemed averted, but Slonsky singled to left, scoring both Koe and Chick. Sadusky flied to Austin for the third out.

In the fifth, the Rotary scored once without a hit. With one out, O'Neil hit to Slounsky, and when the latter threw wild over first, O'Neil took second. Deschamps popped to Willem. Alex hit to Debarros who fumbled and on the play at first, O'Neil scored. Veronick grounded out, ending the frame.

The Duwells added three more in the fifth bringing their total to five. Walks to Willem and Debarros, and singles by Zavistosky and Sydlo, the latter's coming with the bases full, accounted for the scoring.

In the sixth, the Rotary made a last stand but were stopped after pushing across a single tally. After Austin had fanned, Sabrowski drew a pass. Stephanik at this juncture committed a balk and Sabrowski went to second. Charron singled sharply to right, scoring Sabrowski. Charron stole second. Dickenman was safe at first on a dropped third strike by Koe. Nylen hit to Willem at short, and Dickenman was caught going into second, Charron taking third, with Nylen safe at first. With O'Neil batting, Stephanik made another balk. Umpire Tombari called the balk at once, but Stephanik in the middle of his pitch delivered the ball, and O'Neil hit it to center for a potential double. This hit of course did not count, but Nylen was given his base on the balk. Charron was caught a moment later when he tried to steal home, ending the game.

Stephanik, Duwell twirler, was in rare form, holding the hard-hitting Rotarians without a hit in the five innings he pitched. Pizzo pitched the first part of the game for the Duwells and was touched for a double by Veronick.

Alex, also pitched some nice ball for the Rotary, but started to weaken in the fourth and fifth, after pitching himself out of several tight places in the opening part of the game. The score:

FLYNN BEATS MARTIN IN DANIELSON FEATURE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Sept. 2.—Duplicating his feat of a week ago, Patsy Flynn, 176 1-2, of Worcester, defeated Russell Martin, 167, of Webster, in a slashing three-round battle that was the star bout on the amateur card at the North Street arena this evening. Martin made a splendid showing but was shaded by the Worcester boxer. The bout had the crowd in a high state of excitement.

Young Yelle, 128, of Taunton, won a fast bout by decision from Kid Frisco, clever 127-pound Webster boxer. Yelle jabbed his way to victory over Frisco, who put Yelle down for a nine count in the first round with a right to the jaw. This was one of the best bouts here in weeks.

Eddie Shea, 124 1-2 pound Taunton boy, lost by decision to Ray Lantry, of Danielson. There were times during this bout when Shea flashed some speed and punished Lantry considerably, but the local boy piled up too much of a lead to be overcome.

Though Kid Casavant of Webster gained a decision over Benny Salinski, of Jewett City, he absorbed plenty of punishment in doing so. Likewise Salinski was punished to such an extent as to slow him down almost to a walk at one stage of the bout, which went the limit. Each boy weighed 183 pounds.

Anselem Bernier, 128, a rapidly improving local boy, had an easy time of it tonight, putting away Gus Martelle, 137, of Webster, after 1 minute and 47 seconds of the first round. Martelle was counted out but easily got to his feet as Referee Portelle finished the count.

William Leo, a local youth who has never drawn much publicity for his boxing ability, apparently has been overlooked or rather kept under cover. He looked a victim for slaughter as he sat in his corner before the opening of his bout with Kid Dempsey, a hard boy from Taunton, but sympathy for him was wasted. He took considerable of a pasting for the first two minutes of the bout and then started shooting rights and lefts. He sprawled Dempsey under the ropes with one right swing just at the bell in the first round. Dempsey was helped to his corner. The second round opened furiously but Leo had the edge throughout and when time came for the third round Dempsey's seconds announced that their boy had hurt his hand and could not continue. Leo weighed 139 and Dempsey 134.

In the preliminaries Kid Step, 104, Taunton, won over Paul Jones, 104, Worcester, and Kid Brouillard, 103, Danielson, won a hard bout from Billy Burns, 106, Taunton. Both bouts went the three rounds to a decision. The next card of amateur bouts here will be on Wednesday evening of next week.

GIANTS SLAUGHTER PHILLIES WITH BARRAGE OF HITS

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 2—(AP)—Smashing out 25 hits, including six doubles, a triple and two home runs, the New York Giants slaughtered the Phillies today in the series final. The victory allowed the Giants to keep pace with the Chicago Cubs and to gain a half game on the third place St. Louis Cardinals, who were idle.

The Phillies banged out 6 doubles, making a total for the two teams just one short of the league record of 13, set by the Giants and Brooklyn in 1914.

Fred Fitzsimmons hurled the entire game for New York and breezed along to victory behind the big lead the Giants gave him in the early innings. Earl Collard started for the Phillies but Sweetland, Elliott and Phillips were called in before the end. The score:

BRANDT SHUTS OUT ROBINS WITH FOUR HITS

BOSTON, Sept. 2—(AP)—The Braves took advantage of every Brooklyn mistake today while Ed Brandt did not make any in his pitching and the result was that Boston gave the Robins a 6 to 0 shutout in the final appearance of the flock here this season.

Boston made only six hits for its six runs and only hit the ball outside the infield once. Brandt allowed the Robins only four scattered singles.

The Braves won the game in the first inning, scoring three runs off Dazzy Vance without getting the ball past the infielders. Scratch singles by Richbourg and Neun, a bad throw by Finn and a steal of home by Neun were the items of this first inning splurge. Boston scored two more runs in the seventh and one in the eighth while Brooklyn got only one man as far as second. The score:

CUBS WIN FIRST GAME IN CINCINNATI SINCE APRIL

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 2—(AP)—The Chicago Cubs today accomplished something they had been unable to do since last April—win a baseball game in Cincinnati—Charlie Root pitching a three hit performance which subjected the Reds to an eight to two defeat. The game closed the National league season here and the Reds won eight of the 11 games on their home grounds against the champions.

Chicago scored three runs on only one hit in the first inning. Two errors, a walk, and Taylor's triple figured in the scoring. Hartnett and Cuccinello hit home runs, the former's being his 29th circuit blow of the year which scored Wilson ahead of him in the fifth. Not a man reached first off Root until the fifth inning. CITY LEAGUE CLOSES WITH BANQUET AT WHICH ALL STAR TEAM IS NAMED

ALL STAR TEAM

Boots Greene, pitch
Henry Lucier, pitch
Tony West, first base
Leo Normandin, second base (Capt)
Cimmy, short stop
Nap Liberty, third base
Johnny Greene, center field
Fred Fagan, right field
Doc Gaudette, utility outfielder
Hal Cummings, utility infielder

The above men were named members of the 1930 City league All-Star club at the annual banquet of the circuit, held at the Norwich Inn last night. The twelve men were honored with all-star berths by the governors of the league and each received a baseball statuette, emblematic of the honor.

The naming of the all-star club was listened to by a gathering of nearly 200, each of whom was unanimous in his opinion that the banquet was the best yet. A well balanced program of entertainment, featured by an eloquent talk by Rev. George Donohue, pastor of St. Mary's parish, on "Sportsmanship" held the interest of the gathering for nearly three hours, and, as expected a "great feed" was stowed away by everyone concerned.

The program opened at about 8 o'clock with the singing of America and invocation by Herbert Cary.

Ed Connelly, able and efficient toastmaster, then took over the reins and while the boys were adjusting the "feed bags" he led in group singing. Between songs, Thumm's orchestra provided music and several of the players of the various clubs, together with some of the guests entertained with solo selections.

Some of the soloists were Bill Liberty, Boots Greene, Mike De Fronzo, Tommy Simcox, Mike Nickerson, Frank Murdy and Ed Connelly. In addition Tony Bernard's youngster featured with banjo selections.

With the disposal of a hearty meal, Hank Morin, officially opened the game, or rather the main part of the program with a few well chosen remarks. He addressed his audience as "Toastmaster, president, members of the board of governors, members of the recreation commission, baseball players, rooters and 'razzers'" and thanked them for the manner in which they received the efforts of the board of umpires during the season past. Hank admitted that possibly the umpires did slip up once in awhile but emphasized the fact that every decision was made as it was seen.

Al Bliven, president of the league governing board, was then called upon and he gave a brief resume of the 1930 season. He paid tribute to the champion Polish Citizens, thanked the players of the various clubs in the circuit for their splendid cooperation during the year and in conclusion quoted a few figures regarding individual and team honors.

He read the following figures:

Leading scorer, Lloyd Jarvis, 19 runs. Leading base stealers, Nap Liberty and Johnny Greene, 10 each. Leading home run hitters, Cimmy, Finn, West, Pheno Tombari and Nap Liberty, 2 each.

The toastmaster then introduced the leader of recreation in Norwich, whose work has been largely responsible for the success of the work here as "hard working," "fighting" Billy Fitzgerald.

Mr. Fitzgerald dwelt briefly on the work of the commission in the city since it was organized eight years ago, he thanked the league governors for the efficient manner in which they conducted the affairs of the league and congratulated the members of the various clubs on their play and conduct during the year past. He also expressed the appreciation of the commission to the Academy trustees for allowing the league to play its games on the campus. In conclusion he urged that a movement be started to preserve the fairgrounds as a public recreation center.

Again Toastmaster Connelly took the floor, this time introducing Father Donahue as the speaker of the evening. Father Donohue in his usual eloquent and effective manner held the undivided attention of the entire gathering with a stirring address on "Sportsmanship."

He stressed the importance of the word, quoting several instances where it was really observed and others where the meaning in his opinion meant little.

Father Donahue also emphasized the value of play and recreation, stating during the course of his talk that there are very few cities in the country that are as thoughtful of the children as Norwich is.

This splendid banquet is really dedicated to the spirit of youth and Peter Pan should be the after-dinner speaker. To some the thought of games is just something childish and yet we know on excellent authority that unless we become as little children we cannot enter the kingdom of heaven.

Play or sports has a philosophy all its own and when all things are equal games contribute to character formation, to breed self-denial, teach self-control and instill courage. Who does not know the saying that Waterloo was won on the playgrounds at Eton! The spirit of play is so essential to nations as well as individuals that I sometimes think that Europe would have fewer wars and correspondingly more peace if it had a few twilight leagues.

My own love for sports is not exactly the result of personal taste but the result rather of the attitude and discipline of the Catholic church. In her scheme of things she has a time and place for recreation. She is never a joy-killer and hence Chesterton could safely and truly say—"Catholic faith and discipline may be walls but they are the walls of a playground." Even when she trains her young men and maidens for the religious life she watches and studies them at play rather than in chapel. Her saints she loves to "tag" Athletae Christi (Athletes of Christ).

The city of Norwich then, it seems to me, through her recreational board, is doing an excellent work in interesting herself in the play and games of her sons and daughters. Age here makes no difference for the aged, after all, are children of older growth. Legitimate sports make men and upon men, not money, must city and nation build and rest.

Father Donahue's talk was received with enthusiasm, the members of the gathering applauding for several minutes after he had finished.

Dr. Clarence Thompson, a member of the governing board, then announced the members of the league's all-star club, calling the honored members to the center of the banquet hall. As mentioned, each was presented with an attractive trophy.

Pinch-hitting for Mayor Lee Roy Robbins, who was unable to be present, Mr. Fitzgerald then presented the manager of the Polish Citizens with a large loving cup, emblematic of the baseball championship of the city of Norwich. In making the presentation he made mention of the fact that the Cits played as one during the entire season and that it was their consistent team play that won the pennant for them.

The managers, or representatives, of the various clubs in the league were then called upon and they responded in the following order: Thermos, Daniel Driscoll, assistant manager; Ideals, Tony Bernard, manager; Smoke Shop, Artie Couillard, captain; Italian club, Mike De Fronzo, manager; Royals, Mike Panek, manager; Polish Citizens, Boots Greene.

Tokens, in the form of Thermos kits, were then presented to the league governors, Al Bliven, chairman, James Sheridan, Ed Gleason, Earle E. Brigham and Dr. Clarence Thompson. In presenting the gifts Mr. Fitzgerald again thanked the men for their faithful services and made mention of the fact that they would be asked to serve again in 1931.

The program was finally brought to a close with the singing of Auld Lang Syne and the Star Spangled Banner.

The management of the Norwich Inn very thoughtfully arranged a real baseball setting for the affair. The banquet tables were laid out in the shape of a baseball diamond and ice cream, moulded into the shapes of baseballs and baseball bats were served as the final dish on the menu.

CITY LEAGUE CHAMPS TO BE GUESTS OF PALACE THEATRE

Manager R. B. Hamilton of the Palace theatre has extended an invitation to the Polish Citizens, champions of the City Twilight league, to be his guests on Thursday evening at the theatre when the baseball comedy romance, "Hot Curves" will be shown. It is a picture with the plot woven around big league baseball and the southern training camps and the world series. Many of the members of the Pittsburgh Pirates and Cincinnati Reds appear in the baseball scenes.

The members of the Polish Citizens are asked to be at the theatre at 7 o'clock so that they may see the entire evening's entertainment.

WALLBOARD GOOD FOR SOME USES BUT NOT OTHERS

Several people have asked recently if, actually, there are wallboard materials which serve fully as well as plaster. Builders say that for certain purposes, no wallboard regardless of its sterling qualities, can equal plaster. Few of them are as soundproof as plaster, and few of them absorb the natural expansion and contraction in walls as perfectly as good plaster efficiently applied.

However, wallboard has its uses and it enjoys advantages over plaster in certain situations. It is cheaper to install for one thing—certain effects can be achieved at a fraction of the cost involved in doing the same things with plaster. Take paneling for example. Several reputable manufacturers of wallboard turn out types intended solely for use in paneling. They even manufacture the molding and the dividing strips, so that all one need to do is to install it.

Then there are wallboards intended for other purposes—for outside walls, for example, which one firm, at least, turns out in surprisingly wide strips and manufactured of materials which make it virtually unnecessary to cover with stucco or other weather-resisting materials, provided it is properly protected with weatherproof paint.

It is vital, however, that anyone who plans to carry out building operations with wallboard should secure exactly the proper materials. Just any wallboard will not do, for some serve one purpose but not others. Some appear to be fire-resisting but are even more inflammable than wood.

Others are anything but warp-proof and some are all but useless as insulating material. There are several kinds, of course, which enjoy all the virtues claimed for them and it is not altogether difficult to learn what these may be. The reputable dealer refuses consistently to use anything, or to sell anything, which is not what it is claimed to be. One firm in particular has sought to get a foothold in Springfield, but so far few if any dealers will carry the stuff because they know it enjoys none of the virtues ordinarily associated with high-grade wallboard.

FINAL AVERAGES IN MONTVILLE LEAGUE

With only one more postponed game to be played in the Montville Industrial Twilight league for the 1930 season the board of directors held a meeting Thursday evening after the Owl-Textile game at Gair field and decided not to play the one remaining game, which does not have any bearing on the league's pennant winning. The directors and the officials of the league will hold a meeting Wednesday evening at 6:45 at Gair's field to make plans for the coming banquet for all the members of the four teams that represented the Twilight league and the Independents' ball club. This will include the umpires, officials of the league and directors. Treasurer Armand Plouffe has also extended to the local fans an invitation to attend this banquet, the place to be named at Wednesday's meeting. Tickets would be provided at actual cost. The committee will also award five silver loving cups at this meeting; one for the leading hitter, one for the player with the most stolen bases, leading pitcher, runs scored and the most valuable player. These trophies will be presented on the evening of the banquet to all of the members who have played ten games or more of the 1930 season.

The Robert Gair Owls hold first place, winning 11 games and losing 3; percentage .786. The Eastern Connecticut Power Co. is second, winning 10 and losing 5; .667. Robertson's Paper Box Co. stands third, winning 5 and losing 10; percentage .333. The Textiles are at the foot of the list, winning 4 and losing 10; percentage .286. Six players are tied for home run honors—Kiley, Awezec and Ryan of the Owls, Ski and Rioux of the Textiles and J. Morosky of the Powermen, each having one to his credit. Kiley leads in three-baggers, collecting 3; Dugas of the Power Co. leads in two-baggers, credited with 5. P. Morosky leads the hitters with an average of .415. Welchell leads in stolen bases, with a total of 37; he is also tied with Paddy Ryan, his team mate for runs scored, each having 20. Shahan leads the pitchers by winning 9 out of 11 games.

WESTERLY

HEALTH OFFICER GIVES SCANLON CLEAN BILL

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Sept. 3—The postponed September meeting of the Westerly town council was held on Tuesday morning in the council chambers of the town hall with absentee members being Councilmen Isaac G. Smith and James Naccarato.

Dr. Michael H. Scanlon accompanied by Westerly Health Officer Dr. Samuel C. Webster appeared before the council with reference to a complaint made to the council fathers a month ago by Mrs. Blanche DeRocco, wife of Peter A. DeRocco, owner of the Alba Inn property and residing in a house located near the rear property line of the Scanlon property concerning a stinking garbage can located under the windows of her home.

Health Officer Webster told the council that he had made his examination following the council's reference of the matter to him and had "found everything there all right and consistent with the law." He said that they had expected another appeal today and the doctors were ready to show that conditions were within the law and sanitary and comported with common sense on the side of Dr. Scanlon, and added that Dr. Scanlon had even purchased a new garbage can which was not really necessary. Then Dr. Scanlon said that he had received a "sweet write-up" by the newspapers a month ago and concerning the real situation the DeRocco house had been moved to be re-located very close to his rear property line, whether or not legally so he did not care to discuss. With the two garbage cans which were emptied every Tuesday, being water tight, they would never be filled. Dr. Scanlon said he did not want to make life miserable for his neighbors, neither did he want his garbage cans under his own window and now they are placed some 5 or 6 feet from his rear property line and would be glad to have the council come up and see conditions for themselves. Dr. Webster declared that prevailing winds were not toward the DeRocco property.

A letter was received and read by Clerk Whipple from the school committee stating that by the copy of the letter enclosed it could be seen that the Westerly highway commission had been informed that building conditions at the new Westerly junior high school structure on Highland avenue were so far ahead of schedule that it was desired to have the re-building of Highland and Park avenues completed by March 15th, 1931, when it was announced that the school would be ready for occupancy, two months ahead of schedule. The co-operation of council and commission was requested although such request had been made on July 9th of the highway authorities, nothing had been done by them.

Councilman Archie Meikle said that the council should devise some ways and means so that the necessary funds would be available for the highway department which had said it was without funds to carry on such work as its engineer, A. L. Leon had estimated would cost from $20,000 to $25,000. Council President Burdick said the council stood ready to show that it was desirous of showing that it would give full co-operation. Solicitor John Ferguson said that Treasurer James M. Pendleton had been of the opinion that the town had reached the limit of its indebtedness, but on examination of the recently enacted legislation of last year's general assembly it was found that cities and towns would be allowed to deduct from any total the amount of notes issued in anticipation of the receipt of taxes, under which law the town could borrow $375,000 without exceeding the limit. Councilman Broughton inquired how much it would take to build some 200 yards of highway and Councilman Meikle explained that the present time water and sewer pipes were being laid and to do so required a low level to be below the final grade of the lawn and if the streets were not lowered there would be a pocket left where water would collect and the lawn on which work had already been started would have to be re-graded at an additional cost. At Councilman Meikle's request a vote was passed for the town council, the school and building committee on the new high school and the highway commission to meet in private session on Thursday evening, Sept. 4th in the council chamber in a conference to see if means could not be devised to have the highway work done at this time.

Approval was voted by the council of the following reports for August:

Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown, showing a total of 9 arrests, and 8 being for the operation of automobiles at a rate of speed greater than reasonable and proper. Two liquor raids were made and four store doors were found unsecured and fastened.

Health Officer Dr. Samuel C. Webster, showing one contagious case of typhoid fever. The officer reported property of the estate of Emma J. Doust, corner of Wells street and Beach street to be using well water without connection with city water and not connected with the sewer. The council ordered a ten days' legal notice to be given.

Building Inspector Thomas Willa. Thirty-two applications for building permits received and 10 granted for wooden frame buildings and 22 for additions and alterations. There were made 20 inspections and expenses were $33.70, fees collected, amounting to $69 were voted into the treasury.

On recommendation of Milk Inspector Dr. Thomas E. Robinson the following permits were granted for 53 Main street, 13 Hobart street, and First National Stores at corner High and Oak streets and on High street.

Solicitor Ferguson reported the receipt of a letter from the municipal improvement committee of the Westerly chamber of commerce in which the council and New Haven railroad were asked to co-operate to have a second sidewalk crossing on the High street railroad dry bridge. Mr. Ferguson said he had consulted the town council records and in March 14, 1907, found recorded an agreement between the town of Westerly and the New Haven railroad whereby both High and West streets railroad bridges were to have a 40 foot width and but one 8 foot sidewalk, the railroad making all the improvements and changes about the Westerly station and the town of Westerly making an appropriation of $30,000 for its part share of the work. He said that on consultation with railroad authorities it had been requested for the time at least the matter be held in abeyance with the idea that with increased income the railroad would make its extra bridge sidewalk requested.

An ordinance amendment was presented by Solicitor Ferguson and voted by the council whereby the assemblage for private or public gatherings in the town's highways or public lands could not be held without the sanction of the chief of police.

At the request of Treasurer James M. Pendleton the entering into a deed for lands for the town of Westerly at Misquamicut, was continued until after Nov. 1st when the town's fiscal condition would be more favorable financially.

Airplane Pilot Alexander Raymond Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander G. Thompson, of 34 Chester avenue, was a Labor day week end guest of his Westerly parents, his first visit to his Westerly home in some 15 years. Pilot Thompson resides in Salt Lake City, Utah, and besides conducting his own flying school is a regular U. S. mail pilot, flying from Salt Lake City on the route to Cheyenne, Wyoming, which is about a four hour trip although it has been done in something over two hours by the former Westerly boy. Thompson, from his numerous air exploits, with air thrills that would fill many newspaper columns, is very well known on the Pacific coast. It was while visiting his former Westerly high school instructer, George W. Woodward, who called him by his schoolboy nickname 'Red' from the color of the shirt worn by him in Westerly athletics, that he stated it was the first time he had been called by this one-time familiar nickname since leaving Westerly. Before leaving Westerly on Monday he found time to fix the engine in his father's boat in the Pawcatuck river and to visit the Charlestown, R. I., flying field to secure a ship to take his father, a draughtsman in New York city, for a spin in the air which the heavy fog rendered impracticable.

MANY IMPORTANT STOCKS SHOWED A SLIGHT GAIN AT CLOSE OF MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 2—(AP)—Wall Street went back to work today, but the stock market was still in a vacation mood.

The Labor day respite, and the turn into a month for which brighter times have been predicted, failed to engender much speculative enthusiasm and share prices displayed considerable raggedness. Bullish demonstrations in the main were inconclusive and entirely professional. Many important stocks showed small net losses, although final quotations, as measured by the averages, were a shade higher.

The opening was marked by uncertainty but by the middle of the forenoon pools were bidding up several sections of the list, notably the merchandise, chain store, motion picture, rail and office equipment groups. The advance was unspectacular, however, and profit taking tended to follow the rallies, for traders had an eye on the Chicago grain market where both wheat and corn weakened. Nevertheless, the pool managers were able to keep most of the favorites higher.

Declaration of the regular dividend by Mack Truck, although the payment was not earned, stimulated the motor group in that the action of the directors seemed to be a gesture of confidence in the future. Decreases in the August sales of Montgomery Ward and National Bellas Hess, were disregarded by a market which appeared eager to discount a fall upturn in business. This attitude was especially evident in the action of such stocks as National Cash Register, International Business Machines, Sears Roebuck, and Atlas Stores, which closed a point or two higher.

Most of the leading industrials traded narrowly, emphasizing the professional character of the day's activities. U. S. Steel touched 172, but reacted for a small net loss. There were also nominal declines in General Electric, Radio and Standard Oil of New Jersey. Westinghouse Electric, American Can, American Telephone and Gillette, were heavy, closing one to two points lower.

Utility shares showed only intermittent activity, and were inclined to ease. North American, with a two point rise, was an exception. The strength of the rails was a continuation of last week's movement, based on the expectation of better earnings during the final quarter. Union Pacific, up 4 points, and Missouri Pacific, up 3, were features.

Strength of the specialties brought gains of one to three points to Warner Brothers Pictures, Fox, Electric Autolite, Allied Chemical and American Tobacco "B". General Motors advanced a point and Auburn Auto rallied 8.

The firmer undertone of the money markets, due to the combination of which cash withdrawals, which will not find their way back to the New York banks until later in the week, and the month-end settlements, was not apparent in quoted rates, all of which were unchanged.

Call funds were available unofficially at 1 1-2 per cent.

Wheat finished 3 to 3 3-8 cents lower, reflecting a large increase in the visible supply and heavy receipts from the northwest. The September future sold down to [illegible] cents, a new low for the season. Corn was depressed about a cent and a half in response to favorable crop and weather news. Cotton moved irregularly, closing 8 to 17 points lower.

Foreign exchanges eased. Latin American currencies were generally weak, the Argentine paper peso making a new 1930 low. Sterling cables eased 3-16 to 4.86 11-16.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.— (AP)—Commercial failures reported to R. G. Dun and company in August fell below the 2,000 mark for the first time this year. The total of 1913 was 5.7 per cent lower than the 2028 insolvencies reported in July and more than 30 per cent below the 2759 defaults in January, which was the maximum for a single month this year. The August figures, however, showed an increase of 8.6 per cent above the 1762 defaults reported in August last year and 3 per cent above those for August, 1928.

Sinclair Consolidated Oil corporation has retired $15,400,000 three-year first lien collateral six per cent bonds out of current funds.

The daily gold statement of the New York Federal Reserve bank showed imports of $950,000 from Brazil. There were no exports.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 2—(AP)— Curb market shares failed to find clear sailing in either direction at the start of the new month in this exchange today.

Trading was in fair volume, total sales aggregating 401,900 shares.

Electric Bond and Share lost more than a point, and American Super Power, one of the day's active features, lost nearly a point. American Gas slipped back 1 1-2, and American and Foreign Power warrants, 1 3-4. On the other hand, Central States Electric gained more than a point in sympathy with North American, and United Light A and Middle West Utilities were well supported, closing fractionally higher.

Oils and natural gas shares were largely under pressure although some of Cities Service group made fair progress in active trading. Cities Service sold up a fraction to 29, and Arkansas Natural Gas advanced more than a point, getting above 10. Humble, Standard of Ohio and United Gas new lost about a point. Dixie Gas was a firm spot, gaining more than a point.

Chain stores failed to develop strength of that group on the big board, but Walgreen shot up 4 points. The theatre issues were well taken. Fox Theatres A, and Loew's warrants each advanced about a point. Ford, Ltd., was active and steady, but Ford of Canada A and B shares lost 2 and 6 points, respectively. Allied Motors dropped 4 1-2 to a new low at 9, and Polymet Manufacturing sagged about 2 to a new low, close to 5.

In the investment trust group, National Investors rose a point, and Prince and Whiteley, 1-2, but other active issues moved very narrowly.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Sept. 2— (AP)— Heavy selling of wheat future deliveries, induced by extreme weakness at Liverpool, sent Chicago wheat prices reeling today and all deliveries struck new bottom prices for the year. Declines were 3c or more a bushel, with little support for the market noted. Liverpool prices collapsed before the Chicago market opened weakened by anticipated bearish news from this side of the Atlantic. This was borne out by private unofficial crop estimates which placed the 1930 spring wheat yield at 237,000,000 bushels or 14,000,000 bushels greater than the official government forecast in August and compared with 228,000,000 bushels actually harvested last year. The visible supply of wheat also showed an increase of 5,230,000 bushels for the week and is now 137,505,000 bushels against 132,400,000 bushels last year.

Wheat closed weak, 3c to 3 3-8c a bushel lower than Friday's finish. Corn closed 3-4a1 3-4c off, oats 1a1 3-8c down, and provisions from 5a-18c advanced.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE-AWAKES

No Luck

A fella my size never does have any luck at all!
I went an' had the flu before school opened up last Fall,
And didn't git to stay out sane, not even just one day;
I had it all on my own time, that always is the way!
And now the high school's gone an'
burnt, an' high school kids won't go
To school an' have to study none for p'r'aps a week or so;
My school ain't ever burned down yet
—we oughta had our turn
Before the high school, but I bet our school'll never burn!

I had the mumps an' chicken pox—
both in the Summer time,
An' I had measles an' I couldn't go outdoors an' climb
Up to the mockin' bird's nest where it was up in the tree—
When its young ones was flyin' I was sick as I could be,
An' so I didn't get a one, the nest was empty when
My measles was all gone from me, an'
my school started then;
An' our school's standin' there till yet!
We oughta have a turn
An' have a holiday or two when there is schools to burn.

The big high school kids likes to go to school, but kids like me
Has got so many things to do that they would ruther be Outdoors an' doin' things, or else a-goin' to some place,
And now the high school's gone an'
burned! An' I expect my face
Looks grouchy, like my mother says,
but I just think "Today
Them high school fellars are out doors," an' they don't like to play
Like fellas do when they're my size, an' I'll be double derned
If I kin see why it could not have been my school that burned!
—Judd Mortimer Lewis.

The Road to Kindness.

If I can make the path of one dumb creature
A way of kindness and good cheer,
If I can see that God's immortal glory
Drew every living creature to Him very near,
If every move for those who suffer sorrow
Were actuated by kind motives from above,
And every deed of ours, however trifling,
Were labeled by the golden rule of love,
If all Life's bitter gall and all its rancor,
Were buried in a sea of kindness rare,
And all the trials of our progress, in the future,
Were entrusted to the Master's kind and loving care,
If every nation held aloft the flag of kindness,
So man, dumb beasts could see and understand,
There'd be a world indeed, we could rejoice in
And know, at last, the kindly humanness of Man.
—Mary C. McEnroe.

A Plea

If all dumb creatures in the world
Did to their Maker raise their eyes
And pray Him send His Vengeance down
On those who mocked their dying cries—
Then singing-bird would beat its wings
Against the gate of the heaven high;
The timid rabbit show its wounds:
Its brimming eyes would question
Why?"
The noble stag would turn at bay
And pant, "Oh God! how can it be?
Why must we flee unto the death
From him Thou madest like to Thee?"
And what a storm would sweep the land,
If vengeance fell at God's Command!
—Elizabeth Bell.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE-AWAKES

Gray squirrels are plentiful in certain parts of eastern Connecticut and are usually found living in regions covered with a good growth of oak trees, since one of their chief foods is the acorn, but they also like hickory nuts, walnuts, hazelnuts and a number of other things, nice yellow corn, for example.

Sometimes these little animals make their homes in hollow trees, but more often they live in nests near their tops. The nests are made of twigs and small leafy branchlets, and they usually are built in forks or crotches where they may be safely anchored. Sometimes a nest is built in a hollow tree so that the owner can scurry into it when safety so demands.

Squirrels often climb trees quite a distance from the home tree and make their way from one tree to another until they reach their nests. They seem to know just what trees will enable them to reach their nests by the branch route, for they seldom unless hard pressed, climb one from which they cannot reach another. Apparently they have well defined highways through the tree-tops, by means of which they do considerable traveling. Still, when not frightened, or looking for food, they also travel on the ground, from the base of one tree to that of another. Unless on the verge of starvation they never go far from trees. When chased by a dog they at once take to a tree, running up and around it in such a way as not only to get up out of reach, but to get the trunk between them and the enemy.

Gray squirrels bark, queer little growling barks, when angry, frightened or excited. They are very playful and are often to be seen playing tag and chasing one another up and around the trunks and branches of trees.

Squirrels have their troubles. In the fall of the year they are hunted by men, and all year long they are preyed upon by dogs, foxes, weasles, other animals and birds of prey.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE-AWAKES

Only a Dream

Dear Uncle Jed: I have written to the Wide-Awake Circle before and enjoy writing. The name of my story today is "How We Earned a Ride on the Graf Zeppelin."

One day as I was taking a walk with my friend, Beatrice, we noticed a little boy sitting on the train track and playing with a pail and shovel. We also noticed a woman in the house cleaning the windows, but she did not seem to pay attention to the little boy sitting on the track. The train was coming along full speed. The both of us ran quickly and pulled the little boy off the track.

The woman that was cleaning the window ran out of the house and asked us what was the matter. We told her the whole story. She said that she would not let us go home until her husband came. She said he would come home at six o'clock. She made us come into the house and eat supper. She asked us our names and we told them. She said her name was Mrs. Eckener and that her husband's name was Dr. Eckener. I asked the little boy his name. He said his name was Billy Eckener.

Then we saw a man standing at the door and looking at us. He said that his wife had told him how we saved Billy. He asked us what we would like for a reward. We said we didn't want anything. He said that he would take us to Germany tomorrow morning and that we should be waiting at the hangar of the Graf Zeppelin. We said we would let him know as soon as we arrived home. When we got home we told our mothers the whole story.

We called up Dr. Eckener and told him we could go and that we would meet him at the hangar at nine o'clock the next morning. We met him that morning. He dressed us in fur clothes; we looked just like little Eskimos. Then we started off for Germany. We felt ourselves flying. All of a sudden we awoke and found ourselves jumping in bed. And it was only a dream.

Visits Roger Williams Park

Dear Uncle Jed: About three months ago while I was on my vacation in Providence, I took a ride with two other girls to Roger Williams park.

It was a ten cent ride from Providence. We started for the park at 12 o'clock, and reached the park about half past one.

When we reached the park we walked around to see the place. There were many beautiful flowers of all kinds. After we had been all over the park we sat down on a bench and ate our lunch. After we had finished we went down and took a ride on the hobby horses.

When we came off the horses we went in a steamboat all around the pond where we saw many ducks and other things. After we returned to shore we went in the museum, which was very interesting. After we left the museum we went through Betsy Williams' house, which was one of the most interesting things I had seen for a long time.

When we had been through the house we went down near the bandstand and listened to the band, which was one of the best I ever heard. When the band concert was over we started home.

Went Berrying

Dear Uncle Jed: I have not written for a long time, so I am going to write about going after blueberries.

One day my mother said she was going berrying. She asked me if I would like to go. I said I would. My mother said we would take a lunch. I called up my cousin to see if she would like to go. She said she would like to. We went up and got her, then we were off for Rhode Island. When we got to Rhode Island we went out in a swamp. My father and mother got five quarts together and my cousin and I got about two and a half quarts apiece. Then we came in for our lunch. After lunch my mother and father went out in the swamp while my cousin and I went after water. When we came back my cousin and I went around the edge of the swamp. My cousin got about two quarts and I about the same. About half past five we went home. We had quite a few berries. On our way home I asked my cousin to come down home with me, then I would go house with her and stay all night. She did and we all had a very fine time.

The Lost Girl

Dear Uncle Jed: I am writing a story hoping you and the Wide-Awake circle will enjoy it. The name of it is The Lost Girl.

One day in summer as Helen was playing in the yard with her doll, she saw the woods and thought it would be a nice place to play. She wandered through the woods singing and was very happy. Suddenly she saw two black men, one an Indian and the other a Negro. Helen started to cry and said she didn't know how to get home. The Indian took Helen in his arms and set her on his knee, then the Negro told her a story that made her look rather puzzled. They brought Helen home and said she would never go into the woods alone again.

Turns Down Invitation

Dear Uncle Jed: One day Sir William Napier was out walking and he met a little girl who was sobbing over a broken pitcher. When he tried to comfort her she wanted him to mend it.

He said he could not mend it, but he would give her a sixpence to buy a new one.

On looking in his purse he saw that he had no money, so he told her to meet him at the same place and same hour next day.

When he got home he found an invitation from a friend to come and dine with him the next day. He wrote back and said, "I do not want to disappoint the little girl because she trusted me."

Farmer Jones Rewarded

One day Farmer Jones was walking through the woods. He was rather tired and sat down on a tree stump to rest and laid his axe down. When he got up he bent down and saw a bag on the ground. He picked it up and saw that it was a bag of gold. He was very happy and started on his way home. He met an old man with a cane. The old man told him that he had lost a bag of gold. Farmer Jones told the man that he found the gold. Because Farmer Jones was so truthful, the old man gave him a reward. So Farmer Jones took the reward and went home. Farmer Jones lived happily ever after with his wife and children.

Wolf Never Returns

Dear Uncle Jed: Once upon a time there was a cat and three kittens. One day the mother said:

"I will go to the store and buy some cake and candy."

They all were very happy to hear that.

She said: "You must stay at home, for there is a wolf around here."

When the mother had been gone for about a half hour the wolf came on tiptoe to knock at the door.

One of the kittens came to the door to open it. She said:

"Who is it?"

The wolf said: "It's mother."

The kitten said: "No! No! That is not mother's voice!"

The wolf was so angry that he went back in the woods and ate a half bag of sugar to make his voice sweet like mother's. Then he went to the house again and knocked at the door, and another kitten came to open the door. She said:

"Who is it?"

The wolf said:

"It's mother."

The kitten said:

"Let me see your paw!"

The wolf did and the kitten said:

"That isn't mother's paw. Yours is black and mother's is white," so she shut the door.

The wolf went back to the woods and put his paw into a bag of flour to make it white like mother's. Then he went back to the house and knocked again at the door.

Then the last kitten came to open the door and she said:

"Is that mother?"

He said: "Yes, yes! This is mother. Let me in quick!"

She did, and just as soon as the door opened the wolf went into the house and went for the kittens; but they all found a place to hide. One went in back of a picture, the other one got on the shelf, and the other one got behind the clock.

Then the wolf went to the woods and never came back again. The kittens were safe at home.

The Open Door.

Dear Uncle Jed: Poor Mrs. Van Loon was a widow. She had four little children. The eldest was Dirk, a boy of eight years.

One evening she had no bread, and her children were hungry. She folded her hands and prayed to God, for she served the Lord, and she believed that He loved and could help her.

When she had finished her prayer, Dirk said to her:

"Mother, don't we read in the Bible that God sent ravens to a pious man to bring him bread?"

"Yes," said the mother, "but that was long ago, my dear."

"Perhaps the Lord will send ravens now," said Dirk.

He got up and opened the door to let the light shine out. Soon after a pastor went by and saw the clean room. He went in and asked Mrs. Van Loon why her door was open. She told him that Dirk had opened it to let the ravens fly in.

The man knew what they meant, so he took Dirk with him and ordered his servant to put two loaves and a small pot of butter into a basket.

When he got home the mother gave the children each a thick slice of bread and butter.

After they had finished eating, Dirk went to the door and said:

"Many thanks, good Lord."

He then shut the door.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Resumption of trading in the bond market today was enlivened by wide movements in the Latin American issues, strength of the Mexican issues and some of the Argentine loans, contrasting with weakness in some of the Brazilians.

The advance of last week appeared to have lost some of its vigor, but there was again a good demand for high grade domestic rails, telephone, electric power and industrial liens. The day's turnover of $8,078,000, par value, however, was somewhat below the levels reached during the previous week.

A slightly firmer undertone in the money market, in addition to preliminary reports indicating a considerable volume of new offerings during the next week or two, may have tended to check the flow of funds into the listed fixed income securities. The only notable offering today was an issue of $1,500,000 State of New Hampshire 4s. A new issue of $3,000,000 Province of Saskatchewan 4 1-2s is being placed on the market, and a $40,000,000 Portland Electric issue will appear shortly. Several substantial offerings are expected to appear during the month.

Most of the Mexican government issues mounted 1 to 3 points to new highs, and National Railways of Mexico 4 1-2s, which fell due four years ago, rose 2 3-4 to 16 3-4. Speculation in these issues appeared to be based on private advices from Mexico indicating that the recently negotiated Mexican debt agreement is meeting with approval in Mexico City. The Mexican congress will convene to consider it shortly.

In the Brazilians, State of Sao Paulo 7s of 1940, sank a point, and the sixes of 1968 more than 2 points, to new lows. Rio Grande Do Sul 8s, however, rallied a point in a fair turnover, and some of the Brazilian government issues firmed, the 6 1-2s of 1927-57 gaining more than a point. Brazilian Central Railway 7s, dropped 2 1-2. Most of the Argentine governments, however, rallied, closing steady to one point higher. Chileans largely sagged, although the Consolidated municipal 7s gained 2 3-4. European dollar bonds for the most part moved narrowly. Swiss government 5 1-2s were an active feature, closing off 3-8. French government 7s rose 1-4 to a new high, while the German republic government 7s sagged about as much to a new low.

In the domestic convertibles, the Warner Brothers debentures were well bought, in sympathy with the stock, and moved up 3-4. American Telephone convertible 4 1-2s, of 1939, lost 3 1-2. Northwestern Telephone 4 1-2s, rose more than a point to a new high, as Bell Telephone of Pennsylvania 5s C, and Cumberland Telephone 5s were among others reaching new high ground. Elsewhere in the utility group, Portland Railway Light and Power 5s gained 2 3-4.

High grade issues mostly showed small gains. The oils were inclined to ease, but Texas Corporation 5s were firm. Dold Packing 6s were weak, dropping 4 to a new low at 59, Container Corporation sagged more than a point to a new low at 73 7-8.

Irving Hurlbutt was chairman of the affair, which was a pleasing success, about $45 being cleared for the work of the chapter. A baked bean and salad supper was served at 5:30, under direction of Mrs. Courtland E. Colver, Mrs. Rufus W. Hurlbutt and Mrs. Parker. A parcel box sale was conducted by Miss Gertrude D. GORDON SIMS' WIDOW, OF NORWICH SUES NEW LONDON POLICE SERGEANT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 2.—As a result of the slaying of her husband, Gordon Sims, estranged mate of Mrs. Narcissa Sims, formerly of New London, now of Norwich, by Police Sergeant Nelson S. Smith several months ago the widow of the slain man today brought suit against Smith, claiming damages of $10,000. Property belonging to the police sergeant was attached. The case is returnable before the next term of the civil superior court.

Smith will also defend a charge of manslaughter when his case is called in the criminal term of the superior court, which will convene in New London on the 16th inst. This charge also results from the killing of Sims, who was felled by the officer's bullet when the former, after having been arrested on a charge of breach of the peace, attacked and beat the officer and then fled in the darkness.

Sims was arrested at the instigation of one Burhoe, who was beaten on two occasions by Sims when Burhoe remonstrated with the former for paying too much attention to Mrs. Burhoe. A warrant for Sims' arrest was issued by Prosecuting Attorney Max Boyer when he was informed of the assault, but before it could be served, Sims and Mrs. Burhoe left the city. When Sims returned several weeks later Sergt. Smith ascertained that Sims was in a garage off Crystal avenue. The officer went there and arrested Sims, who was taken to a waiting automobile to be driven to police headquarters. When it was believed Sims would enter the car he turned upon the officer and attacked him, one of the blows knocking Smith down. As Smith went to the ground, Sims ran toward the garage, Smith firing his .45 calibre revolver. Two of the bullets found their mark and one of the leaden missles entered Sims' skull, the man dropping in his tracks, dead. Smith was arrested later on a manslaughter charge after Coroner Edward G. McKay, of Norwich, had rendered a finding, holding Smith responsible for Sims' death.

Samuel Krishnit, 152 Hartford avenue, New Britain, reported to the police last night that a woman's wrist watch had been stolen from his room at [illegible] Beach.

Officer To Be Retired

Patrolman James McKenna has concluded the performance of duties as a police officer of the New London department. His physical condition is such that the officer will shortly submit to an operation in the hope that a disease of the hip bone will be cured, but no matter how successful the operation, it is understood that the former officer will be incapacitated for he will be compelled to walk with the assistance of a cane. The officer will, it is reported, be pensioned and will retire within a few days. Patrolman McKenna, who has been a member of the department about 25 years, has long suffered from the bone disease, which at the start caused a slight limp. Within a few months the officer has become perceptibly lame. He will enter Lawrence Memorial hospital this week. Patrolman McKenna had performed duty on practically every beat of the city and for several years had been on duty at Ocean Beach.

TENTATIVE BUDGET CALLS FOR SUM OF $1,712,842

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 2.—Appropriations and taxes were the paramount topics for consideration before the city council this evening. The tentative budget offered by the city manager was given its first reading. It calls for appropriations of $1,712,842 and showed a reduction of $1400 from last year. Councilor Miner objected and pointed out that the council had agreed to cut the appropriation $100,000 and told where the cuts could be made — namely, the city's portion of the county home building, the school of commerce and the grade school appropriation. He said the taxpayers are those upon whom the burden falls, and that no increase should be recommended but cut instead. He said the taxes were now a burden on the people.

Councilor Fox asked why the grade school appropriation was only $3400 less, when the committee had cut off $12,000. He asked for an explanation. What chance was there, to discuss matters when the school board had already signed contracts for things which the council said should not be paid? The playground director was getting $4000 when the work could be done for $200. He also objected to the city paying $3000 for the small claims court, when the receipts were only $1000. He advocated the abolishment of this court.

Mayor Toomey was of the same opinion.

At a recess, Director of Law Cronin explained the method of tax collection and the requirements as of law. The session lasted until after ten o'clock.

The veterans' organizations asked for an increase of appropriation of $150. Referred to finance committee.

Graham Hislop asked for a zoning change to permit an apartment house on Vauxhall street.

Thirteen building permits were granted for garages and alterations.

Thomas L. Martin was awarded the contract for repairs to the Harbor school.

Notice was given that application for portion of the state road appropriation must be made by Oct. 15. The city will ask for $8,000.

Dr. Walter L. Douglass resumed the controversy over the use of land owned by his mother, Mrs. Annabel Douglas at Truman and Blackhall streets. He said that in regard to the suit of Mrs. Douglass against Holt and others to clear title to land, it had been denied by the council on a claim based on a city plan, called the Myers' survey. He said Mrs. Douglass had brought suit and the council had not dared to defend on the so-called survey of the year 1850, but prevented a preposterous plea based on a legally useless survey of the year 1709.

He said, in the matter of the city of New London suing to evict trespassers on a city highway known as Pequot avenue at a sharp curve, this highway was needed for the city at a width of 60 feet and he claimed that the narrowing of this highway may cost many lives. He petitioned for a thorough investigation of this matter and that the former city surveyors, Messrs. Crandall and Daboll, be questioned and when evidence of neglect or conspiracy may be found in the conduct of this proper representation be made to the supreme court of errors, before whom this protest lies. He claimed that if an investigation of this affair may appear to him to be half-hearted, he will carry the matter to the attention of the attorney-general of the state.

COMMUNIST MEETING TAME AND SLIMLY ATTENDED

A meeting of the communist party, the second to be held in this city, this evening at Williams' park, was attended by only a handful of members and curiosity-seekers for less than 100 men gathered to listen to an out-of-town speaker. Three patrolmen were stationed at the park, but there was not a semblance of disturbance. The meeting was supposed to start at 7:30, and at that time but three men were on hand as listeners; not until 8 o'clock did the speaker and a half dozen members of the party put in an appearance. The speaker dwelt principally with the advocacy of the abolishing of the navy and the army, a shorter working day and week for the working man, it being announced that a five-day week with but six hours a day for labor was the object of the party. The permit for the meeting was granted by City Manager William A. Holt to Arne Dahlgren, 21 Huntington street. The fee was $5.

Keeney, Dayton road, Waterford, was slightly injured this evening when attempting to board a Connecticut company trolley car on Montauk avenue for while she was about to step to the running board, a bicycle ridden by Fred Vogt, Truman street youth, struck her. Seek Crooks In Power Boat

The Westchester county police at Rye, N. Y., this afternoon requested the New London police to make a check-up of two men who were on a small power boat, the H-298, which was seized in Long Island sound yesterday as a suspected rum-runner, for it is believed that the men are two hold-up crooks. The request is being investigated by Detective Sergeant Nelson Smith. Two hold-ups were staged in Westchester Monday when the two crooks held up two autoists and after compelling the occupants of the cars to alight, entered the autos and speeded away.

Richard K. Griffith, a member of U. S. S. Camden, at anchor in the lower harbor, was arrested by Patrolman Carlos Stone this afternoon, charged with parking overtime on the municipal pier. The cars of navy men are parked by the day on the pier, and the law provides that parking there shall not be longer than 30 minutes, the same as is allowed on State street.

In Good Cause, But Unwise

Frank and Joseph Lasky, 22 and 19, respectively, painters residing at 31 Shapley street, were arrested this evening by Patrolmen Frank Philopena, Ernest Opperman and Michael Dorsey, charged with breach of the peace, upon complaint of Irving Heller. The brothers furnished a surety on their respective bonds of $50 and will be in court tomorrow. The row between the Laskeys and the peddler was precipitated by a grievance of a child and a brother of the former. The boy complained that Heller deliberately spat in his face. The brothers remonstrated with Heller for his alleged act and harsh words were used. In a short time the brothers lost their temper and attacked and beat Heller. The latter, bruised and sore, went to police headquarters and complained against the brothers, who were arrested.

Ire of Senate Aroused By Mrs. M'Cormick

he could of Senator Nye. Dannenberg then charged that the committee was not aware of methods employed by its investigators and urged them to look closely into their activities.

This last statement brought a heated reply from Senator Porter H. Dale, of Vermont, a committee member, who declared that the committee was fully aware of what its investigators were doing and where they were. He complained vigorously of what he said had been efforts to misrepresent the committee's actions and motives and said the members had been pictured as "a bunch of contemptible crooks."

The committee had issued subpoenaes for eight men and one woman employe of the Dannenberg agency after Mrs. McCormick had issued a statement last night saying she had employed the detectives "in self-defense" and asking: "What is Senator Nye going to do about it."

Dannenberg testified that Mrs. McCormick had paid him $1,500, as the installment for a biography of Senator Nye. Asked by the senator why he was singled out from all the committee members, Dannenberg answered:

"Because you were the only committee member in Chicago when the annoyances of which she complained occurred."

He said that John and Earl Dannenberg, C. Clyde Albers and Kenneth Wilson had been assigned by him to the work and added that a man known as David Groh had approached Wilson frequently. Dannenberg said he believed Groh to be an agent employed by the committee. He stated Groh met Wilson three weeks ago, arranged to get records from the latter, and put Wilson on his payroll for $42.00 a week. Wilson, Dannenberg continued, then turned over valueless material to Groh.

Senator Nye denied that Groh had been employed by the committee.

Dannenberg caused something of a sensation when he testified that after the ransacking of Mrs. McCormick's Byron home, she had found a strange woman in her apartment at the Drake hotel here and that "it was her (Mrs. McCormick's) opinion then and is now that the woman represented this committee."

Angered, Senator Dale shouted: "That's a serious charge."

Senator Nye pressed Dannenberg to reveal the type of information collected concerning him.

"It would be unfair to give it now, since I don't have it complete," Dannenberg said. "After my men have gathered it and I have gone over it I might form a judgment as to whether it would reflect on you."

"Isn't it strange," Senator Nye said, "that in all the calls your representatives have made to obtain this so-called 'biography' of me, not a one has visited a close political friend—that all have gone to political enemies."

"My men didn't know whether they were your friends or your enemies," Dannenberg replied. "They had tried to get all the information they could about you. Up to the present time I would not be in a position to charge you with anything, and I don't mean to infer anything."

Senator Dale frequently broke into the questioning.

"This committee has never endeavored, in any way, to reflect on Mrs. McCormick," he said. "It has made no charges whatever, directly, indirectly, in the public print or in conversations.

"But if it is all that has been charged against it and as bad as some of the deeds credited to it, then it must be composed of first class, contemptible—and I should like to use even a stronger word—crooks.

"If it has employed thieves, crooks and scamps to pry into files, pilfer private papers and break into houses, then we're just crooks, that's all—she's right.

"I want to say for myself and for the other members of this committee, however, that it has employed no such agents and that it has no intention of employing them or permitting such tactics in its work.

"The night Mrs. McCormick says her office was entered and her records stolen—July 17, the night before the final day of the campaign expense hearing, I know what every member of this committee was doing," Senator Nye declared. "I know because I sat up with them all night—and we worked all night preparing for the next day's hearing."

The hearing will be resumed at 10 o'clock tomorrow. The first witness will be J. M. Watts, private detective of Washington, D. C., who was subpoenaed today.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

A double-feature bill that is snappy and full of life comes to the Palace theatre tomorrow where it will be shown through Saturday of this week. Combined on this bill are "Hot Curves," a baseball drama with music, starring Benny Rubin, and "Women Everywhere," a musical romance with J. Harold Murray and Fifi Dorsay.

"Hot Curves" is the story of a big league baseball team on its way south. A scout is sent along to sign up Benny Goldberg but he is too late and loses him to a rival team. A candy butcher comes through the train and the scout discovers that his name is Benny Goldberg so he signs him up. At first it looks as if he were a dud but he proves his worth and further complications make the entire production a scream from beginning to end.

"Women Everywhere" is a thrilling romance based on the adventures of Charlie Jackson, American rum-runner who agrees to send a load of guns to the Arabs. Betrayed by his Greek pilot he and his crew are taken by the French and are landed as prisoners at Casablanca.

Over two hundred people were used in the cast of "Women Everywhere" which is well worth seeing.

"Common Clay," the Harvard prize play which has been popular on the stage ever since it was written and is now in talking pictures for the first time, will be shown at the Palace theatre for the last times today. In this picture Constance Bennett, supported by Lew Ayres, does the most spectacular acting of her career.

Broadway Theatre

Principals engaged in the filming of "The Dawn Patrol," the First National-Vitaphone production, now showing at Warner's Broadway theatre, starring Richard Barthelmess, had a wild scramble for a strange kind of souvenir.

That souvenir was a broken propeller salvaged from a plane that had crashed. This rather goulish-sounding hobby took place during the making of this dramatic airplane story of "The Dawn Patrol." Barthelmess started the whole thing by asking for the first broken propeller, a souvenir of another production to add to his interesting collection which already includes the rifle from "Tol'able David," the sword from "The Bright Shawl," the boxing gloves from "The Patent Leather Kid," and numerous others.

These propellers are the result of thrilling and, needless to say, daring crashes made by stunt men such as Lieutenants E. H. Robinson, Leo Nomic, Jack MacAllister, Frank Tommy and others.

FRENCH TRANSATLANTIC FLIERS WENT OVER NORWICH ON WAY TO NEW YORK

The two intrepid French fliers, Captain Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte, who successfully completed an east-to-west crossing of the Atlantic from Paris to New York, put Norwich on the trans-Atlantic air line route by flying over this city a few minutes before 6 o'clock on Tuesday evening on their way to New York.

Festus W. Shaller of 115 Golden street was the first to report to The Bulletin the sighting of the Frenchmen's plane, telephoning to the editorial rooms at 5:50 that he had seen the big plane flying so high that he could not make out any marks on it but could hear the hum of the motors. Through Mr. Shaller's timely message The Bulletin was enabled to be the first to report through the Associated Press the arrival of the Question Mark over Connecticut territory.

Shortly after the message from Mr. Shaller a telephone message was received from John W. Cunningham of the Thayer building that he also had seen the plane, which he believed was the Question Mark.

Seen Over Jewett City

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Sept. 2.—Mrs. F. H. Gilbert sighted a big airplane at 5:45 Tuesday afternoon, flying high and fast, bound south. A mere speck in the sky, no distinguishing mark or number could be made out. All indications are that it was the French plane, Question Mark. The air line route from Halifax to New York is directly over the town of Griswold, as has been proven by the route of other airships. The Southern Cross, flying between these two points a few weeks ago, passed right above the town and was seen by many who watched from the borough streets. Mrs. Charles Russenas also sighted the plane today and after checking up on radio reports which were heard at 6 p. m. decided it must have been the Question Mark.

A second airplane at 6:05 p. m. following the same route as the first one, flew over the borough. Flying at a much lower altitude than the one which is believed to have been the Question Mark, the letters C N could be made out on the horizontal elevation rudder. This last one is believed to have been a U. S. convoy.

As he crossed the first track, he stumbled on one of the rails and fell, striking his head on the other rail, this blow probably causing the fracture, attended by lacerations in the temple region.

Dr. John W. Callahan was summoned and Mrs. Gibbs was also called from the Gibbs home in Yantic, nearby. Upon the arrival of the doctor, he had the ambulance called and Mr. Gibbs was taken to the hospital, where his condition continued much the same through the night.

ROUSING RECEPTION IN NEW YORK FOR FRENCH AIRMEN

Coste and Bellonte Were Greeted As the Latest Giants Of Aviation—They Were Given a Tumultuous Ovation As They Proceeded Up Broadway to the City Hall, Where Mayor Walker Welcomed Them—They Are to Take Off Today On a Non-Stop Flight to Dallas, Tex., For a $25,000 Prize

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—(AP)— Two little men of modest manner were hailed by all New York today as the latest giants of aviation.

At a luncheon in their honor, on a ride around the harbor, in a parade through the streets, and at city hall, Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte were given tumultuous greeting that might have turned any head.

But it didn't turn theirs. They smiled. They waved. They said they were having a grand time, but quite evidently they remained from their own viewpoint just a couple of fellows who had tackled a tough job and had the good fortune to succeed.

Perhaps the most impressive of the day's ceremonies was the official welcome at city hall, for there they were reminded that their flight, the first ever to be made non-stop from Paris to New York, compensated—in so far as was possible— for the loss of Charles Nungesser and Francois Coli, the first to make the attempt.

"You may be especially proud," Mayor Walker told the French fliers in the aldermanic chamber at city hall, "that your great achievement is not only a wonderful accomplishment in itself but also is the final justification of the ill-fated attempt of your countrymen, Nungesser and Coli."

The luncheon was in the Advertising club but even before that the fliers had by no means had a quiet day. Reporters and cameramen were camped in their hotel, eager for pictures and details of the non-stop flight to Dallas for a $25,000 prize tomorrow and the aviators were almost continuously under fire. They gave interviews, posed for pictures, and made a little speech for the sound reels which reached its climax with the customary salutation, an exchange of hearty kisses on both cheeks.

Coste spoke briefly at the luncheon, expressing in French his appreciation of the welcome the city had extended to him and his companion, and he spoke again at city hall. Bellonte begged off at the luncheon but Mayor Walker, knowing that he spoke English as well as his own language, insisted that he say a few words.

Coste having had experience with receptions before, was perfectly at ease before the microphones that carried his words all over the country, but Bellonte was plainly stricken with overpowering stage fright. He started a sentence, hesitated, tried to finish it, forgot what he had meant to say, and retired blushing as the crowd thunderously applauded its approval of his modesty.

The fliers were taken to city hall by a tortuous route so that they might be given the same reception that has been tendered other ocean fliers. Taken aboard a yacht at an East river pier they were ferried around the foot of the island to a landing at the Battery. Though it was mid-afternoon, Broadway was packed with crowds on both sides from curb to building line and as the procession moved up the heroes' trail between the skyscrapers of the financial district, ticker tape and torn paper snowed down so that the fliers were soon garlanded with floating streamers.

After the mayor had delivered his welcome and congratulated them on turning the North Atlantic "from a one-way street into a two-way thoroughfare," the procession proceeded uptown and along Fifth avenue to the fliers' hotel. Resting but a few moments they left again for Valley Stream to inspect their scarlet sesquiplane and make sure that it was ready for an early start on its long flight tomorrow.

For the evening their only engagement was a dinner given by the German-American alliance for Capt. Wolfgang Von Gronau, the German flier who, with two companions, preceeded Coste and Bellonte in the westward crossing, taking another route, however, and making several stops along the way.

After the Texas flight, Coste announced today, his famous flying Question Mark will be flown back to France by Paul Codas who holds jointly with him several world records for distance flying.

TO TAKE OFF FOR DALLAS, TEX., AT 5 A. M. TODAY

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Captain Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte announced through their manager tonight that they will take off at 5 a. m. (EST) tomorrow on their non-stop flight to Dallas, Texas, instead of at 8 a. m. (EST) as previously announced. They said the plane was in excellent condition.

VAN ORMAN WINS GORDON BENNETT BALLOON RACE

CLEVELAND, Sept. 3—(AP)—Although Ward T. Van Orman of Akron, O., holds the unofficial recognition as winner of this year's Gordon Bennett balloon race, the official decision tonight was waiting a check of barographs and other records by the National Aeronautical association in Washington.

Piloting the Goodyear VIII, Van Orman, premier American balloonist, finished his flight from Cleveland near Boston last night, a distance of approximately 500 miles. Apparently it gave him his fifth consecutive victory in the Bennett race, and gave the United States the second leg on the third Bennett cup.

FARM HAND A FAILURE AT BANK ROBBERY

ROBERTS, Wis., Sept. 3—(AP)—A farm hand's venture into the bank looting racket went awry today and he lost his freedom and the $12.45 he nearly bagged.

Leo Gulbowski, the 22 year old robber, of Waumandee, forced four persons into the vault of the state bank of Roberts and had gathered up a few coints when a merchant walked in with a rifle and frightened him away. Two hours later he was captured, and, officers said, confessed he had attempted the robbery for "just enough money to pay my fare home."

J. P. MORGAN'S YACHT WAS REFLOATED LAST NIGHT

ISLESBORO, Me., Sept. 3—(AP)—The Corsair, luxurious J. P. Morgan yacht, which went aground on Minot Island in Gilkey's Harbor early last evening, was refloated at 7:55 o'clock E. D. T. tonight.

The coast guard cutter Kickapoo, a sea going tug and other vessels, aided by high tide, pulled the $2,500,000 craft into deep water.

It was believed she had not been seriously damaged during the 48 hours her prow was held fast in the mud although during low tides she had been subjected to severe strains.

FACT REVEALED IN THE DIARY OF ANDREE

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 3.—(AP)— The newspaper Dagens Nyheter tonight said the newly discovered diary of Salomon August Andree reveals that Knut Frankel, third member of the expedition, died while the party was on its way to White Island.

According to the paper, the Andree diary says the three explorers started across the ice after the wreck of their balloon and were still going on September 5.

Nils Strindberg, Andree's scientific worker, it adds, died after arrival on White Island and was buried by Andree.

AMERICAN CHARGED WITH DEFAMING CZECHO-SLOVAKIA

PRAGUE, Czecho-Slovakia, Sept. 3—(AP)—Leon Scharff, New York candy manufacturer, was araigned in court today on a charge of defaming Czecho-Slovakia. His case was remanded for further hearing.

Scharff was arrested yesterday on a charge of assaulting a citizen and making defamatory remarks about the government. Police said the row started when a pedestrian protested because Scharff blew his automobile horn too long and loudly.

ANOTHER ATTACK ON DRY LAW AT LABOR CONVENTION

HARTFORD, Sept. 3—(AP)—Prohibition was again attacked today at the second session of the Connecticut Federation of Labor. The subject had been injected into the deliberations of the organization Tuesday and was again brought to the fore this time by Archie A. Gillis, of Boston, New England organizer of the United Association of Plumbers and Steamfitters, one of the day's speakers.

In his address before the convention, Mr. Gillis said that if labor in all parts of the country joins the growing agitation for repeal, reform can be effected. He expressed the opinion that this end will ultimately result and that every man will again possess the right to determine whether or not he will use alcoholic beverages.

During the afternoon, nominations for the organization's officers for the coming year were made in preparation for balloting tomorrow. Charles J. Moore, of Farmington, the incumbent, and James Donahue, of Waterbury, were nominated for president, while J. J. Egan was named as the only candidate for the office of secretary and treasurer. Daniel A. Gorman, of Danbury; William Steinmiller, of Hartford; Arthur J. Wallace, of Greenwich; Cornelius E. Martin, of Stamford and Harry A. Archer, of New London, were designated as candidates for vice president.

REPORTS OF POLITICAL CONDITIONS IN ARGENTINA

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 3.—(AP) — Rumors that President Yrigoyen had been asked by leaders of his own party to resign, and had refused, were published today by the newspaper La Critica, and served to intensify the excitement in political circles here.

Meanwhile members of the cabinet continued meeting behind closed doors, and radical party leaders held a secret conference. The public hourly expected announcements of major importance, and the silence maintained by the chiefs whetted their curiosity and increased their worries.

Regarding the request that Yrigoyen resign, La Critical said it had the information from "the most reliable source." The paper named Dr. Osvaldo Meabe, Yrigoyen's private physician, as the man who carried to the president the request of his erstwhile adherents. The paper said Yrigoyen refused to retire from office.

Sen. Nye Assails Mrs. McCormick's Agents

For Methods Employed in Investigating Activities of Senate Committee

CHICAGO, Sept. 3—(AP)—Bitterly assailing methods he said were employed by agents engaged by Mrs. Ruth Hannah McCormick to investigate activities of the senate campaign funds committee, Senator Gerald P. Nye, chairman of the committee in a formal statement issued tonight said the body would not be diverted from its course by 'any smoke screen laid down through a will to threaten, intimidate and influence."

In the statement, issued after formal adjournment of the committee's hearing, Senator Nye expressed "amazement" over Mrs. McCormick's admission that she had employed detectives to investigate activities of the committee. He continued:

"What is Nye going to do about it?' is a question contained in the confession by the candidate.

"In the face of vast possibilities in such a program as had apparently been planned by these detectives, and in fear of the great and lasting injury which might be the reward for doing anything other, I presume it was expected that the committee would be prevailed upon by its chairman to retreat from its work in Illinois.

"But, while admitting that there might be truth in one individual's alleged prophecy that when this private investigation of myself was finished and its results were made known 'Nye would be selling papers on the depot platform at Fargo, North Dakota, or grinding a hand organ for a dancing monkey', my answer to the question of the senate candidate as to what I shall do is only this:

"That no matter how unpleasant and distasteful is the responsibility in Illinois, I shall, so far as I am able to do so, continue to guide the investigation in Illinois along those same lines thus far followed by the committee, lines which can be accepted as a credit to the legislative body which we serve and in such a manner as will be ultimately approved by the most severe of honest and unprejudiced critics of the senate, and to follow this course with continuing instructions to our very small staff of assistants to use none but clean and honorable methods in ascertaining facts which have relation to the conduct and expenditures of any campaign for the United States senate.

"The committee will not be diverted from its clearly defined duty by any smoke screen laid down through a will to threaten, intimidate and influence."

BOY CONFESSED THE SLAYING OF EMPLOYER

BALTIMORE, Sept. 3.—(AP)— A 15-year-old boy confessed today, police announced, that he killed his middle-aged employer with a monkey wrench, hid his body in a barrel and then started a month's career of luxury with money he obtained by forging the other's name.

The boy, Kennard Thompson, was arrested yesterday in an automobile he had bought with money obtained by forgery, and last night the body of the employer, Herbert G. Wetters, a chemist, was found in a barrel in the rear of his small establishment in the west end.

Wetters lived alone in an apartment over his shop and the shop, where Wetters made soap and perfume, had been closed for several weeks, but his sister and brother said they thought he had gone to Ocean City, Md., for a vacation at the beach. Kennard had been in Wetters employ for about a year, and lived with him.

Kennard, police said, confessed that he went to the shop about midnight August 1, under the influence of liquor. His entry, he said, aroused Wetters and the employer came downstairs. Then, the boy told officers, he struck the man on the head with a wrench.

Judge Not Missing; Just Disappeared

Mystery Concerning Whereabouts of Supreme Court Justice Crater of New York

NEW YORK, Sept. 3—(AP)—Mystery concerning the whereabouts of Supreme Court Justice Joseph F. Crater, reported missing since August 6, deepened today.

While the New York Evening Post was informed by telephone from the justice's summer home at Belgrade Lake, Me., that he is not missing, it was stated at the office of United States Senator Robert F. Wagner, the justice's former law associate, that Mrs. Crater had been there several times to confer about her husband's disappearance.

The New York police have not been asked to look for the justice, but the office of the attorney general reported efforts to locate him in the past three weeks have been unsuccessful.

The Evening Post's informant, who identified himself as "Mr. Crater," said, "we are not making any search for Justice Crater because he has not disappeared." Inquiry at Senator Wagner's office disclosed the justice has no children and the only "Mr. Crater" would be the jurist's father, who was in Florida at the last report.

Available information set the date of Justice Crater's disappearance as Aug. 6, after purchasing a single theatre seat at a ticket brokerage. The ticket office girl said he seemed in good spirits and spoke of joining his wife the next day at their Maine home.

Examination showed he had drawn $3,500 from two bank accounts on that day. He was believed to have had $1,500 cash previously, making a total of $5,000.

The next day, the Crater chauffeur drove from Maine to take his employer back to the resort. When the justice failed to appear at the appointed time the chauffeur communicated with the jurist's secretary, who joined him in visiting various hospitals, fearing the missing man might have been injured. Then they communicated with Mrs. Crater, who returned to New York. Senator Wagner, travelling in Europe, turned back on being notified and is expected to arrive tomorrow to join in the search.

Relatives and friends expressed the belief the justice may be the victim of foul play or of some accident that caused loss of memory.

Justice Crater has been on the bench since May 1, when he was appointed to fill the unexpired term of former Justice Joseph M. Proskauer, resigned. Justice Crater was scheduled to preside at a term of court beginning Aug. 25. When he failed to appear another justice was directed to preside.

BATTLING FOR CONTROL OF CHINA'S GOVERNMENT

SHANGHAI, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Nationalist armies attacked rebel forces in Honan and Shantung provinces today, renewing the struggle for control of China's government. Tientsin, stronghold of the northern alliance war lords, was the objective.

Telegraphing from field headquarters in northern Kiangsu, President Chiang Kai Shek said his troops which drove northerners out of Tsinan, Shantung capital, August 15, clashed with insurgents north of the Yellow river. The drive toward Tientsin chief port of north China, will be begun soon, Chiang said.

Sharp fighting in Honan, with rebels pushed back slightly, was reported by Chiang. He said a great drive by 400,000 nationalists will start Friday, seeking to hurl rebels led by General Feng Yu-Hsiang out of the province where they have been entrenched since May.

Resumption of fighting followed a lull of ten days during which Chiang Kai-Shek failed to receive a reply to his offer of amnesty and pay to rebels to desert to the government ranks, forsaking their "traitorous" leaders, Feng Yu-Hsiang and Yen Hsi-Shan, governor of Shansi province.

The Enlisted Men's club houses a movie theatre with sound equipment, a library and storage rooms. The commissary was stored with food.

The origin of the blaze was undetermined.

SANTO DOMINGO REPORTED DEVASTATED BY HURRICANE

Radio Corporation of America Announced That the Wind Had Reached a Velocity of 130 Miles An Hour—All Wire, Radio and Cable Communication Is Broken—Disturbance Was More Than 100 Miles South Of Cuba, Headed West by Northwest, With Little Likelihood Of Touching Cuba

HAVANA, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Elpais, a Spanish language newspaper, at 5 p. m. today, reported receiving authentic information that Santo Domingo city was devastated by a hurricane which struck there late this afternoon.

The report to Elpais was partly substantiated in a radiogram received from Trinidad by the Pan-American airways stating observers there had reported a 130-mile hurricane in the direct vicinity of Santo Domingo.

Another report, not of an official nature but generally considered reliable, said that terrific destruction had been visited upon the city of Santo Domingo.

According to this report the wind had reached a velocity of 135 miles an hour and was heading northwestward toward Fisherman's Point, a small island in the Caribbean sea.

Neither the Cuban national observatory nor the observatory at Belen university had definite news concerning the reported arrival of the hurricane at Santo Domingo.

Bulletins issued early in the afternoon by these observatories said the disturbance was more than 100 miles south of Cuba heading west by northwest with little likelihood it would touch Cuba.

Cuba became deeply concerned tonight with the possibility that the westward course of the disturbance might change to a more northerly direction and cut a swath of destruction across the island.

Santiago, lying on a line almost directly between Santo Domingo and Fisherman's Point, was reported preparing for the blow in the belief that the storm might reach that point tomorrow morning.

Santo Domingo, officially the Dominican republic, occupies the eastern two-thirds of the island of Haiti. The republic has an area of 19,300 square miles and a population in excess of a million.

The city of Santo Domingo, capital of the republic in the island of Haiti, West Indies, had a population in 1921 of 40,957. It is situated on the south coast, at the mouth of the river Ozama. Founded in 1496, it is the oldest existing settlement of white men in the new world.

The city stands on a promontory and has a rather poor harbor. The river is navigable only about four miles from its mouth. Most of the houses of Santo Domingo are of stone, with colored walls and huge doors and windows. The city has a cathedral of Spanish renaissance architecture dating to 1512, containing the reputed tomb of Columbus.

ALL COMMUNICATION WITH SANTO DOMINGO DISRUPTED

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—(AP)— Cable and wireless transmission company workers tonight said the hurricane in the region of the Caribbean sea had informed New York late this afternoon of its own arrival at Santo Domingo as one by one the communication lines flicker and went out.

All America cables announced that its line went out of commission despite the fact that it operates a submarine cable. The tremendous gale blew down the aerial equipment of the office and blocked all traffic. The Santo Domingo station personnel presumably waited under cover for the storm to abate sufficiently to get out and make repairs.

The Radio Corporation of America also reported having lost all communication at Santo Domingo, and Pan-American airways lost the use of its private wireless system.

When the hurricane first began causing apprehension Tuesday Santo Domingo reported that the weather bureau there predicted the storm would pass 100 miles to the south of the island.

Wind 150 Miles An Hour

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Sept. 3.—(AP)—With a tropical hurricane centering near Santo Domingo city and reported moving northward into the Atlantic ocean, the last communication received from Santo Domingo at 3:30 p. m., today stated that a wind of 150 or more miles an hour was lifting the roofs off houses, with all communication and pawer lines rapidly going down.

VELOCITY OF WIND TOO GREAT FOR RADIO MESSAGES

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Cessation of radio communication between stations here and in Santo Domingo lent color this afternoon to unofficial reports that winds of terrific velocity had damaged that city.

The last radio message received by Pan-American airways from its station in Santo Domingo was at 2:12 p. m. (EST) when a wind velocity of 136 miles an hour was reported, with a barometer reading of 29.07, a drop of .33 in 42 minutes.

E. F. Bourne, superintendent of communications for the Pan-American, said transmission of radio messages through a wind of 160 miles an hour, such as was reported in Santo Domingo by the San Juan, Porto Rico, office of the Radio Corporation of America later in the afternoon, would be "difficult."

Pan-American airways' reports of winds in the Caribbean were made public by Richard W. Gray, government meteorologist here.

Gray said the tropical disturbance, which has been moving in a generally west-northwest direction for several days and which was reported south of Porto Rico today, apparently had curved sharply and was passing east of Santo Domingo.

Gray recalled but two automatically recorded wind velocities in excess of the 136-mile an hour mark. One of these was the 138 miles an hour during the hurricane that struck Miami in 1926, and the other was of 150 miles an hour recorded in San Juan, Porto Rico, in 1928, before the anemometer blew away.

PRUSSIAN MINISTER ORDERS EXPULSION OF DIAMOND

AIX-LA-CHAPELLE, Ger., Sept. 3 —(AP)—Jack (Legs) Diamond, New York gangster, tonight faced deportation from Germany as an undesirable alien. He was ousted from Belgium Monday.

The Prussian minister of the interior ordered Diamond expelled from the country after examination by physicians failed to disclose ailments requiring treatment at the German Spas, for which the gangster said he came to Europe.

If Diamond had proved in need of medical care, he would have been allowed to stay from four to six weeks, on the grounds that he had committed no crimes in Germany.

New York police wanted to question Diamond about a gangster slaying in that city, but made no effort to extradite him. However, the Germans pronounced him a "troublesome foreigner," and ordered police to escort him "by the shortest route to a vessel sailing for America."

AMERICAN SIX-METER YACHTS OUTDISTANCE THE BRITISH

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Sept. 3—(AP)— With the American six-meter sloop, Lucie, sailed by Briggs S. Cunningham, leading the procession, the United States quartet of yachts won the third successive team match with Great Britain today, scoring 20 1-4 points to 16.

The match gave the United States team a commanding lead for the British-American cup, which is decided on the basis of the best four out of seven matches. Although the total point score has no bearing on the result of the series, the count now stands: United States 60 3-4; Great Britain 40.

CUBAN CABINET INCREASES IMPORT DUTIES ON COFFEE

HAVANA, Sept. 3—(AP)—The Cuban cabinet today approved a measure to increase import duties on coffee from 23.50 to $32 on each hundred kilograms (about 220 pounds) shipped into the country.

President Machado was present at the meeting and was expected to sign the measure as an official decree shortly.

400 STUDENTS HELD MASS MEETING IN BUENOS AIRES

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 3.—(AP) — Four hundred politically minded students held a mass meeting here today, although the police had refused to issue a permit.

The meeting was intended as a reply to radical party orators who this forenoon attempted to address the students of the medical school, a move which was frustrated by the police when rioting was threatened.

SENATE FUNDS COMMITTEE ADJOURNED TILL SEPT. 15

CHICAGO, Sept. 3—(AP)—The senate campaign funds committee, which for two days has been taking testimony concerning Congresswoman Ruth Hanna McCormick's investigation into its activities, adjourned late today until September 15.

Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota, chairman of the committee, and Senator Porter Dale of Vermont who has been sitting with him, immediately went into conference.

"I am confident that September 15 we shall have all the members of the committee here to continue the investigation of this angle of the committee's business," Senator Nye said. "We shall first take up other evidence of this spying, and then continue with the campaign funds investigation.

"I don't suppose the public generally sees the relation between this angle and the campaign of any political candidate, but we shall bide our time and let that phase take care of itself."

FAVOR RECOGNITION OF SOVIET RUSSIA

NEW YORK, Sept. 3—(AP)—From Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana and from S. Stanwood Menken, president of the National Security league, both of whom returned from Europe today, came statements today that Soviet Russia should be recognized by the United States.

Senator Wheeler, who for years has advocated Russian recognition, returned from a visit to that country more convinced than ever, he said, that the United States should recognize the soviet government. Senator Alben W. Barkley, of Kentucky, and Senator Peter Norbeck, of South Dakota, who accompanied him on an unofficial visit to Russia, were less outspoken in their views but said they encountered a friendly reception wherever they went.

Menken, avowed foe of communism who recently advocated deportation laws to oust communists, declared recognition would be "the moral and the sensible thing to do," but that his opinion of communism remained unchanged.

LIEUT.-GOV. OF LOUISIANA IN FIST FIGHT IN NEW ORLEANS

NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 3—(AP)—Lieutenant Governor Paul N Cyr engaged in a fist fight with R. Theriot, New Orleans business man, in a coffee shop here today after Theriot had taunted the lieutenant-governor over betting on the outcome of the senatorial campaign between Governor Huey P. Long and Senator Joseph E. Ransdell.

By-standers separated them but not until after Theriot had a gash on his cheek and Cyr had cut his fist on his antagonist's teeth.

NEW STUDY ROOM AT HIGH SCHOOL NEARLY FILLED

(Special to The Bulltin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 3—The additional study room constructed on the third floor of the Windham high school building during the past summer proved itself a strong asset to the institution as an increase of over 60 was noted in the registration today. The room accommodates 91 pupils for study purposes and as previously stated made possible the establishment of two new teacher stations, one in commercial and one in home science. The addition further made possible the acceptance of some 70 tuition registrations of out-of-town pupils who could not otherwise have been accommodated. At the increased rate of tuition $120 paid by these pupils this year an income of about $8,000 is derived. About one half, or $4,000 of this amount is applied to teaching and maintenance costs while the remaining $4,000 will be applied to the cost of construction which was kept under $9,000, while the appropriation for the work as voted by the town amounted to $12,000. It is indicated then that the additional room will be paid for in about two years by the income of these 70 odd tuitions alone.

Savings Bank Makes Gain

A substantial gain in deposits for the past six months and earnings better than ever were the basis of a report of the financial condition of the Willimantic Savings Institute made by Treasurer S. B. Potter at this week's meeting of the directors. The directors voted a dividend of five per cent. It is expected that the institute's gain for the period ending October 1, when all banks in the state prepare their annual reports, will be considerably over $300,000, the largest in the history of the bank. Nearly all of the gain represents savings of the people of the city and immediate vicinity. The bank was established in 1842 and is one of the oldest and strongest in the state. A five per cent rate of interest is paid on deposits.

GOODS CALLED STOLEN COULD NOT BE IDENTIFIED

In the Griswold town court Wednesday morning, Prosecuting Attorney Richard J. Dudkowski presented Isadore Dumont, of Aspinook street, charged with having stolen goods, knowing they were stolen. Because of lack of evidence, Judge John T. Barry found the accused not guilty. The arrest was made by State Trooper Scranton, of Danielson barracks. Dumont was defended by Attorney Thomas M. Shields, of Norwich. The fabric in court, said to be from Aspinook bleachery, was not positively identified as such. Several witnesses for the defense were not called. The defendant claimed having purchased the goods in other places and as the cloth was all in finished dresses it could not be positively identified as Aspinook bleachery cloth, by all the witnesses.

DANIELSON

BIONDI FOUND RESPONSIBLE FOR DEATH OF REV. MARTIN

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 3—In a finding completed today Coroner Arthur G. Bill finds Joseph V. Biondi of East Hampton, this state, guilty of criminal carelessness and negligence in causing the death of Rev. Theodore D. Martin, aged clergyman of Hebron.

Coroner Bill says in his finding: "The undersigned coroner, within and for Windham county, having received notice that Rev. Theodore D. Martin of Hebron, Conn., had died at St. Joseph's hospital in Willimantic, on August 15, 1930, from injuries received when struck by an automobile on the state highway in Hebron, I viewed the body of said deceased, and on August 25th, I held an inquest as to the cause and manner of such death at the police station in Willimantic.

"From the testimony taken at such inquest, I find that the said Rev. Theodore D. Martin died in St. Joseph's hospital in Willimantic, on the 15th day of August, from surgical shock, compound fracture of both legs below the knee, concussion of the brain, and numerous cuts, contusions and lacerations of the head and left hand.

"I further find that said death was caused by the criminal carelessness and negligence of Joseph V. Biondi, of East Hampton, Conn., in the operation of an automobile on the state highway in the town of Hebron."

Coroner Bill has filed with the finding a copy of the testimony taken at the inquest.

In view of Coroner Bill's finding the situation is particularly complicated for Biondi, who, according to official investigators of the case, rates as a hit and run driver. Mr. Bill made no comment or suggestion as to what action may be taken against Biondi as the result of the finding.

Kittens Cause Fire

Kittens playing with a box of matches from which some had come loose were theoretically regarded today as responsible for the fire that caused damage to the estimated extent of $500 at the Birch fish market yesterday afternoon. Chief A. P. Woodward of the fire department said today that the kittens are known to have been playing about the interior of the market, the matches were found, and one of the kittens was so badly scorched and burned about the face that it was ordered killed.

OBITUARY

Miss Julia Downing

The body of Miss Julia Downing, 64, who died this morning at a Norwich hospital, was brought to the L. E. Kennedy funeral home here this afternoon and later taken to the home of the deceased in Moosup, where she had lived for years.

Miss Downing was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Downing, of Plainfield, where her life was spent. She is survived by her mother, still resident in Plainfield and the following brothers and sisters: Dr. Francis Downing, Norwich; Daniel, New York; James, Jeremiah, and Miss Bridget Downing, all of Plainfield, and Mrs. Mary Smith, Moosup.

Mrs. Bertha Mason

Mrs. Bertha Mason, 42 a resident in the northeastern section of the town of Killingly, died this morning at her home after a long illness. The body was brought to the Kennedy funeral home here. Mrs. Mason was a native of Uxbridge, Mass., a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Embert Greene. She is survived by her father, now a resident of Central Falls, R. I.; by a son Fred H. Pollette, of Cherry Valley Mass., and by a daughter, Mrs. Bertha LaPointe, of this town.

After a visit here with Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Johnson, of East Franklin street, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Geibei and their son, Richard, left today to motor back to their home in Philadelphia. On the return trip they were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Johnson's son, Lawrence, who will visit with them for a time.

Sentenced to 6 Months in Jail

Charged with a statutory offense, Ira Raynsford, a man about 60 years of age, and Viola Hubbard, a girl apparently in her 20's who has been acting as housekeeper for Raynsford at his home in an outlying section of the town, were each sentenced by Judge W. Fenner Woodward in the town court this morning to serve six months in jail. They appealed from the sentence, and their cases will come up later in the superior court. Each was released under bonds of $500.

It developed today that state officers have been conducting a still hunt for the person or persons who burglarized a garage owned by Ray W. Pellett that is located on lower Dyer street, on the state highway route to Wauregan, and stole either nine or ten tires. Mr. Pellett is not certain of the number. Entrance to the garage, which is just below the southern boundary of the borough, was gained through a window. It also develops that two breaks have been made at the W. C. Bacon company store. In each instance at this store entrance was effected by removing a pane of glass from a window fronting a narrow alley between the Bacon building and an adjoining structure. The loss at the Bacon store was very small. These breaks have been kept secret by the police in order that their investigations might not be hampered, it was said today.

First Selectman Charles A. Tillinghast and Selectmen Napoleon P. Gingras and Alcott D. Sayles held their September meeting this afternoon in their offices in the town hall building for the transaction of routine business. No special matter came up for consideration. Final figures in the annual reports for the financial year ending July 31, are not as yet available but will be soon and will be available in the annual printed reports for distribution at the annual business meeting of the town on the first Monday in October

Registration figures pertaining to the schools of Killingly and Brooklyn, which opened for the new school year yesterday, were made available at the office of Supt. W. E. Parker here this afternoon. They show a total of 1355 studying in the schools of this town, divided by buildings and districts as follows: High school building (senior and junior high schools) 446; Danielson grammar school, 266; Dayville, 129; Goodyear, 243; Attawaugan, 70; Ballouville, 65; Valley, 16; Killingly Center, 32; East Killingly, 65; South Killingly, 18. It may be mentioned that many pupils from outlying districts of the town are transported from them to Danielson schools or to schools in other more thickly populated centers of Killingly. In the East Brooklyn school there are 116 pupils registered this year, and 75 in the Brooklyn Center school, a total of 191.

Dynamite Lou Brouillard's sleep-producing left hand is not so seriously injured as was first supposed and he will be able to appear in the big benefit boxing show here later this month. Brouillard, Danielson's outstanding boxer, was hurt in a bout in New Hampshire a few days ago and it was at first believed that he had broken a bone in his hand. An x-ray happily reveals that this is not the case, and that a joint was merely thrown a bit out of position. The injured hand is mending nicely.

All coverings and obstructions are now removed from the new concrete roadway between Danielson and Wauregan and hundreds of cars traveled over it today. Workmen are now engaged in building up the shoulders, so caution still is necessary in negotiating it.

He underwent a surgical operation that was successfully performed at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam.

Chief John McFarland said today that unless the riding of bicycles on sidewalks of the borough ceases, previous warnings about this having done little good, that he will bring the offenders to court. The practice mentioned endangers particularly old and feeble people using the sidewalks and is in violation of a borough ordinance. It has also increased since the new sidewalks have been built.

PUTNAM

ENROLLMENT FIGURES SHOW DECREASE OF 10 CHILDREN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Sept. 3—Enrollment figures released at noon today by Superintendent of Schools Leon M. Ferrin, showed there were to be 895 pupils in attendance at public schools which reopened this morning for the year of 1930-31. This year's figures show a net decrease of 10 students when compared with the enrollment records of last September. The largest single enrollment was scored at the Israel Putnam school, which sent in a list of 402 pupils enrolled in classes ranging from kindergarden to the seventh grade. The attendance here however is 21 children less than the number attending last year.

The second largest student body in the town is enrolled at Putnam high school, where 267 secondary students reported for classes this morning. This figure constitutes an increase of 24 scholars which is an unusually large number. At Putnam junior high school, the eighth grade classes reported an enrollment of 68 pupils, an increase of 18 over the figures of 1925.

The Smith Street school in the north end of the city reported a drop of ten students in submitting an enrollment list of 63 boys and girls in attendance. Seventy-three were registered there a year ago.

The policy of the board of county commissioners in placing inmates of the county home in Sawyer district, in suitable private homes whenever possible, is believed to be the primary factor for the falling off of the enrollment marks at the Sawyer district school. Supt. Farrin said that the attendance there this morning was 67 pupils as compared to the 85 enrolled a year ago. A fall off in the attendance at the East Putnam school was also noted in this morning's report of 19 pupils, when the figures are compared with the record of 22 children at school there a year ago.

Supt. Farrin in commenting on the enrollment for all of the schools, asserted that record is an excellent one and that school officials are pleased with the mark. Although there are fewer pupils registered at some of the schools this year than were enrolled at the same time a year ago, Mr. Farrin said conditions in each school where decreases occurred are chiefly responsible for the fall offs. He also added that it is quite probable that additional enrollments will be made in the various schools during the remaining days of opening week, sufficiently large enough to offset the attendance loss and equal last year's mark.

The fall term opened at the state trade school Tuesday, with a good enrollment in all departments. Throughout the past summer months the faculty have been engaged in preparing instruction materials, especially as related to the academic elements involved in the production work training programme.

The school enrolls students from 15 or 16 towns in this section, with larger portions from Putnam, Pomfret, Killingly and Thompson. The distribution throughout the remainder of the towns varies from year to year. The trade school faculty this year is made up of Ernest Stary and James H. Smith, carpentry department; H. E. Burgess and W. B. Jennings, machine department; W. R. Dagnall and Loid Cutler, electrical department; Thomas Kelly, masonry department; Frederick A. Parker and Ellsworth Rhodes, drafting department, Miss Hannah Pease, and Mrs. Doris M. Champlain, home economics. H. H. Ellis, principal has general supervision over the school.

BONNEVILLE OUT FOR OFFICE OF TAX COLLECTOR

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Sept. 3—His candidacy endorsed by the democratic town committee, Alfred J. Bonneville, town tax collector, in a statement this afternoon, declared that he will seek re-election to this important town post in the October elections. Mr. Bonneville was first elected to this position last year when he received a sizeable majority over his republican opponent, Attorney Irving H. Miron then in office.

Mr. Bonneville is the first town official to openly declare his candidacy for re-election. The announcement of Collector Bonneville, that he will again seek office today created considerable speculation in the republican ranks as to who Bonneville's opponent for this post will be. Attorney A. Macdonald, Jr., chairman of the town republican committee asserted this afternoon no names of likely candidates have come to his attention at this early date although the party however is expected to make a choice soon.

Residents of South Woodstock were the first to sight the balloon, Goodyear VIII, an entrant in the Gordon Bennett international races, since the craft cleared from the southwestern portions of Connecticut yesterday afternoon. As it sailed over the Woodstock community at an unusually low altitude the pilot or a member of the crew, intermittently flashed beams of light on the insignia and name "Goodyear VIII," and called down requesting that newspapers, and particularly the Associated Press be advised of their position. The (AP) office at New Haven said the Putnam report was the first received in several hours and until the report was submitted officials feared for the safety of the craft. The pilot asserted the ship was headed for Boston. At the time it passed over the Woodstocks, reports were sent out to the effect that a cable attached to the basket was nearly touching the ground, and a West Woodstock farmer said that it actually came in contact with trees and farm buildings as it sailed over. Its balloon at this time appeared somewhat deflated, a report said. The balloon according to reports from Boston today landed safely and probably would be declared winner of the race. Ward T. Van Orman was pilot. He declared upon landing, that he settled because of the nearness of the Atlantic ocean.

The fund for the nurses home of the Day Kimball hospital continued to mount this week when Mrs. A. A. Vonsiatsky, chairman of the drive committee announced this afternoon that proceeds received from benefits held during the past week sent the treasury up to the $18,000 mark. A rummage sale held in the old Bartlett store on Main street under the auspices of the Pomfret committee was well attended and a large amount was realized. Many other events are planned for during the coming weeks of the drive which are expected to net substantial amounts.

The condition of Jasper Holmes, well known resident of this city, who is seriously ill at his home on Charles street, was reported late this afternoon as unchanged.

A favorable report was received today from the Fall River hospital, regarding the condition of Fire Chief Ralph E. Thurston, who has been a patient there for the past several days. According to word received Mr. Thurston has improved considerably the first few days this week and continued improvement is looked for. Chief Thurston was stricken with an infected tooth, the inflammation developing, spreading through one side of his face.

Sudden realization of the fact that the society will be unable to procure insurance to protect itself against possible liability and accident likely to develop with automobile racing, the auto racing committee at Woodstock fair following a special meeting Tuesday evening, announced that the proposed auto racing programme to be run off at the fair this year has been definitely eliminated.

Ray C. Bosworth was in Providence today on business.

The weekly luncheon and meeting of the Putnam Rotary club was held today at the Putnam Inn, with a large percentage of the membership in attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Beebe of Whittemore street, and Mr. and Mrs. Iver S. Nelson of Main street, have returned from a two week's vacation spent at Crescent beach, Niantic.

George E. Connell has returned to his home on Putnam Heights after a week's vacation spent in New York city.

Farrows street has been reopened to traffic following the completion of improvement work on the water system, which necessitated partial closing of the thoroughfare.

Miniature golf—America's most popular fad since the introduction of Mah Jong a few years ago—will soon be in everyone's back yard. On Wilkinson street a group of school children have been busy the past few days installing a home made course of sport's latest decree. Merchants have also taken advantage of the thumb nail golf craze and are advertising accessories and hazards for small golf ranges, it was noted in store windows today.

Miss Annie McDonnell has returned to the St. Francis hospital in Hartford, where she is a student nurse, after spending a visit at her home in Pomfret.

YOUTHS DRAW FINES OF $10 FOR LIQUOR VIOLATIONS

Upon entering pleas of nolo contendre to charges of owning and keeping and sale of intoxicating liquors, Walter Kremizen and Edward Noga, North Grosvenordale youths were fined $10 and actual costs, at a session of justice court in North Grosvenordale tonight, presided over by Justice P. P. Tourtellotte. Kremizen was additionally charged with theft of liquor evidence, which state police allege was stolen from their car the night a raid was stated at the Colonial beacon filling station, managed by the two boys.

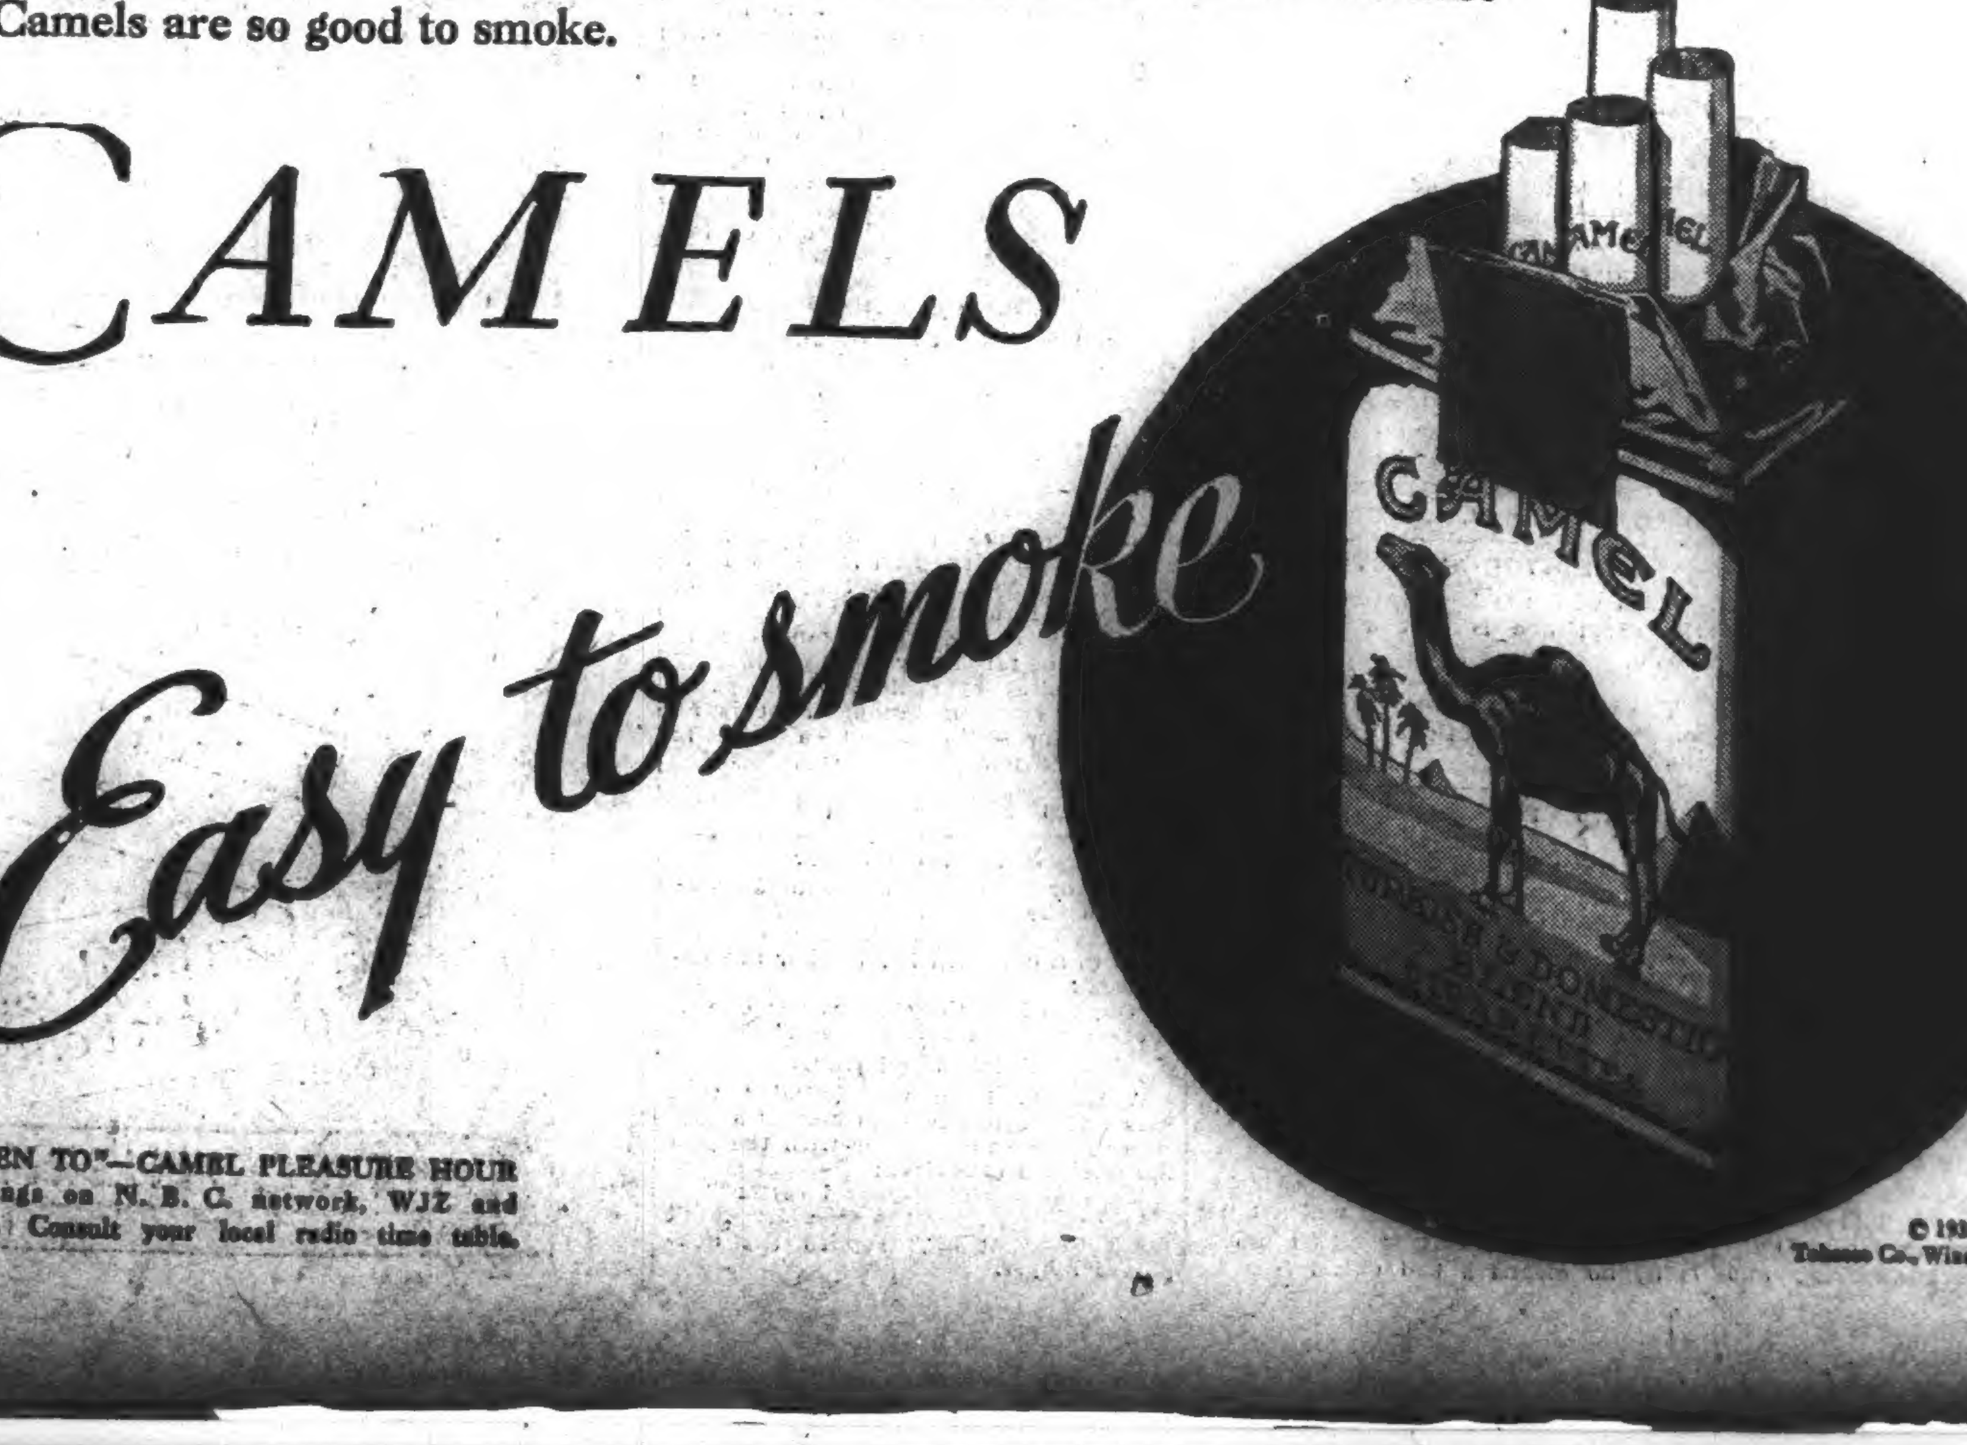
Easy to look at



EASY TO LOOK AT—good to look at—that's your reaction to charm and beauty. Easy to smoke—good to smoke—that's the lure of Camels. Good because of the natural mildness and fragrance of mellow tobaccos, with all the delicacy and aroma preserved by scientific skill in preparation and blending—good because there's no over-processing or doctoring—no flatness of taste.

Easy—because they are so mild and smooth that you can smoke them all the day through with never a suggestion of throat discomfort.

Notice that it's Camels now—your crowd and elsewhere—because Camels are so good to smoke.

WHAT THE PRIMARY DOES

Every new inquiry that is set afoot in connection with primary expenditures serves to direct increased attention to the conditions that have been created by the direct primary law.

While the convention system made it possible for the use of money in obtaining nominations, it never began to approach the vast sums of money that are being spent through the direct primary in obtaining nomination for political office.

It is perfectly evident that the direct primary calls for the spending of much money if a candidate encounters opposition and has the money or can secure it to back his efforts. It is a case today where every candidate is bound to make the best possible showing. He is going to cover his state thoroughly, and attempt to do it a bit more thoroughly and convincingly than his opponent. It is generally supposed that if his expenditures are legitimate there is little to question, but not so with the United States senate. When it dips into primary contests and the expenditures made, something in which it has no direct concern, it undertakes to say who shall be allowed to take his seat in the senate and who shall not, and to make the decision on the basis of the amount of money spent.

It may reasonably be expected that a person seeking a senatorial nomination in the largest state in the country would be called upon for a much larger use of money than one contesting in a primary in the smallest state, provided, of course, that there is a red hot fight. On the other hand, the determination of the man with plenty of money to get the nomination may be the incentive for large expenditures and those expenditures within the legitimate channels. Getting in touch with every voter in the state may easily result in expensive organizations and large outlays.

This situation has been disclosed on many occasions. Even the will of the voters of certain states has been utterly disregarded in the refusal of the senate to abide by results on election day. The direct primary was expected to correct the ills of the convention plan. Instead of that, it appears to have created those if its own, which are so much worse than the convention that there is little comparison. Instead of so much investigating, a return to the convention might improve conditions.

THE LONG VACATION ENDS

The vacation season isn't all over. There are many thousands who are going to continue to enjoy September at the beach, possibly October and a part of November. There are others who are going to find their recreation at other points in the days before the snow begins to fly, and even after that there are always those who delight in vacationing in the big cities and wait for the cold weather in which to do it.

So while the vacation season may be over for many there are some who are making use of other seasons than summer as they roll around, and they can all advance plausible reasons for doing so. And when you come right down to it, it is simply a case of picking the time that suits you best, if that happens to be your privilege.

Nevertheless, Labor day means an exodus from the summer resorts, those in the mountains as well as those at the shore. It signalizes the early approach of the opening of school, and that means that families in which there are children must get back home. For them the long vacation is over. It means a strain upon the facilities of the railroads, the steamboat lines and the busses. It means a crowding of the highways, a steady stream of vehicles in which there can be seen plenty of evidence that furnishings are being retransported. It means that thoughts are being turned in a different direction, that the most has been made of the summer in delightful surroundings and, with a coat of attractive tan, the vacationers are as fit as a fiddle for the home duties. It means getting back again to the hum drum of every-day life, but the better prepared to wrestle with it because of the rest and change.

Thus those who make the most of summer for indulging their vacation desires have concluded their tour of pleasure. A smaller army may be just starting out to satisfy their ambitions, but they will experience no such rush and jam in the succeeding months as featured the transportation lines during the home-going period around Labor day. The places which were crowded the last week-end are next to deserted now, and the answer to it is the ringing of the school bell.

FRIGHTENING THE GANGSTERS

Just how much attention is paid to the warnings given by authorities to criminals to leave certain cities is a question. They may absent themselves for a few days, stay in hiding until they appear to have departed and thus seem to comply with the drastic orders. But whether they go, hide or put on a disguise, it invariably is disclosed that they return. Ordering the criminal class out of town, or even getting promises from them that they will go, is simply trying to turn them off on the next town. It doesn't penalize them for their misdeeds and it doesn't give protection to the public.

This ineffective method of trying to deal with the criminal class has been resorted to in Chicago on various occasions. How many actually follow the advice is never disclosed and it is safe to assume that before any of them are away for what many people would call a vacation the most of them are back again, frequenting the old haunts and playing the same game. In other words, it is difficult to shoo the criminals away and keep them where they have no desire to remain.

Quite recently the order has gone forth from the district attorney that the gangsters must get out of Brooklyn. It would be fine for Brooklyn if they would, but already fear is being expressed that the drive against the gangsters is being abandoned. The gangsters do not have to carry on their operations very long before they become confirmed in the belief that they do not have to respect the authorities. If they do not have to comply with the laws they assume that they do not have to get out of Brooklyn just because they have been told to.

They bask in the belief that they are in sort of a protected position and there are times when it seems as if they are not far wrong. Instead of being put out of business there are efforts to put them out of town. Such a slap-on-the-wrist policy can hardly be expected to convince the gangsters that the authorities hold a superior position, and if the truth were known it probably doesn't.

HEED THE SIGNS

At conspicuous places along the side of the highway, sometimes painted on the surface of the pavement, signs have been established for the purpose of informing the drivers of automobiles that schoolhouses are ahead.

The purpose of such warning signs is to cause the motorists to so govern the speed and control of their cars that accidents involving school-children may be prevented. Signs of a similar character may be found at either side of a railroad crossing that the lives of the motorists may be protected. They are established in the vicinity of schoolhouses to safeguard the children.

For several months now those schoolhouse signs have received no attention. The schoolhouses have not been pouring forth or receiving the youngsters in large or small crowds, according to the size of the district. Consequently the motorists have been paying no attention to the schoolhouse warnings. With the resumption of school there should be care to see that they are heeded.

Impressing children with the importance of being careful in the street is not as easy as it might seem. They are much disposed to dart into the street without giving heed to danger or approaching vehicles. Even the most careful driver finds it impossible to avoid the youngster who jumps in front of an auto, but he can, nevertheless, so reduce the speed of his car and have his eye on the situation ahead as to better meet an emergency by giving heed to the schoolhouse signs when they appear.

The fatalities among children through highway accidents run into large figures. Too many of them are needless. Most of them could easily be prevented. The chance to keep the number down through heeding the school signs is too good to overlook.

CORN BORER CONTROL

According to an announcement made by the Hartford farm bureau, there are to be demonstrations by representatives of the United States department of agriculture of simple and efficient methods of controlling the corn borer next week at Berlin and Granby

These would seem to be demonstrations in which all farmers in that vicinity ought to be interested. It is certain that the raisers of corn are not pleased over the arrival of the corn borer or the possibility that it will soon start raising havoc in their corn fields. At the same time they do not welcome the measures that are being taken in the way of a quarantine. Not liking the corn borer and not liking the quarantine, there would appear to be one grand opportunity for the farmers to put forth every possible effort to keep the ravagers to the minimum and to ward off a quarantine if possible.

There is certainly no excuse for giving a royal welcome to the corn borer and placing no handicap in his way. It is contrary treatment that he requires and in the efforts to combat the spread of the pest the advice of the experts would not seem to be amiss. It is cooperation that is necessary to successfully fight such a nuisance and it is such cooperation that the department of agriculture agents are endeavoring to stimulate. If there is one way more effective than another, it is none too good for the Connecticut farmers. If the experts are prepared to acquaint the farmers with such a method, there should be an eagerness to secure the information. Thus the methods of control which are advised should be put into operation by every corn raiser as a protection to himself and his neighbor. Ignoring such advice and refusal to cooperate means the kind of encouragement which the corn borer, and any other similar pest, likes.

PERSONAL PREFERENSE

They had been engaged about five minutes and certainly no girl who has just realized that she has captured the most marvelous man in the whole world should suddenly stare at him and then burst into laughter. The wrong kind of laughter.

"Well," said the happy young man, a bit huffily. "Have I got egg on my chin or have you just seen the point of a last week's joke?"

"I believe you are going to be sarcastic at breakfast time," the happy young woman meditated aloud. "I am laughing at myself because I just remembered my description some years ago of the sort of man I intended to marry. All of us girls knew definitely the variety we preferred, warranted to make our hearts thump madly, and while I would not change a single hair of your head, darling, I must say that you are not all as you were charted out to be. You're very different."

"Is that so!" the young man wanted to know. His eyebrows were drawn down over his eyes rather fiercely. "Well, if you must know it, Angelica, you are no more like the girl I used to dream about in college than—than—

"Why, Horace Outright!" she exclaimed, drawing back into a corner of the davenport and pounding a pillow unnecessarily hard. "You don't mean to say that I've got to spend the rest of my life looking over every new woman we meet and wondering whether she is your ideal type? What's the matter with me? What made you think you were in love with me if you liked another sort?"

"She was medium height," the young man said dreamily, trying to strike a cigarette and light the match he held between his teeth. "Sort of willowy, you know, and she wore things that floated like—well, like cobwebs. She always smiled alluringly and her hair was pure gold and there never were violet eyes such as she had. She worshiped me."

"She would!" the young woman named Angelica declared hotly. "She would be just such a ninny. I know that kind. They're the yes-dear variety and when they are 40 they trot around like anxious little hens and their faces are wrinkled and they don't curl their hair and their children ignore them.

"Here I've black hair, bobbed, am small, nervous and thin and I never say sweet things and much prefer golf to recipes and tatting. You poor wretch—nobody knows we're engaged and you'd better take it back!

"I might mention that my ideal man was very tall, broad-shouldered, dark and brilliantly handsome. He was to be the sort of man who enters an assemblage and knocks every one over flat like a row of tenpins. Every other girl curled up in envy when he chose me and we went around the world on his private yacht. He had three country houses and lived in an expensive hotel winters. He never lost his temper and he always agreed with me and he adored me."

"Huh!" the young man told her. He now had his cigarette in working order. "He would! Such an imbecile wouldn't have the brains to have any personal opinions. If you have any one like that in view I should advise you to have a try at him right away because it would be a terrible experience for you to come out of your trance and see me for what I am.

"I can afford a three-room flat and I raise Ned when my clothes are mislaid. I'll get two weeks vacation only every year and probably fight most of your views tooth and nail. Have you observed that I am only three inches taller than you are, have red hair, sandy eyebrows, a wide grin and that I could shoot off a gun in a large hall and attract no attention whatever from the crowd? What're you marrying me for?"

The pretty girl laid a placating finger on his sleeve. "Because," she sighed happily, "you're just perfect Horace, and I love you horribly!"

"Well, that goes double," the young man told her promptly. "Why, you're absolutely wonderful!"—Chicago News.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3— During the stormy political days up to the bye elections in November, one little group of Washington politicians will be far, far indeed from the madding crowds at home.

They will spend most of that campaign period under the awnings that shelter the decks of the cruiser Omaha in the langorously lovely setting of Samoan harbors. And they will get back to their homes in Connecticut, Arkansas, Maine and Texas only in time to vote. That will be their share in the 1930 elections.

Bill Of Rights

In association with two Samoan chieftans, it is up to Senators Bingham and Joe Robinson and Representatives Beedy and Guinn Williams to draw up a bill of rights for the Samoans. Bingham says they have none at all now. They are just chattels of Uncle Sam, run by a navy-made government.

Bingham's interest is natural, both as chairman of the senate insular committee and himself born a Pacific islander. He alone of the four ever has been in that part of the world.

Beedy and Williams are respectively republican and democratic members of the house insular committee. Also both have been regularly coming back for more every two years since and including the 67th congress. It looks as though they took re-election as a certainty and could afford to get a summer of combined business and pleasure.

There is another possible aspect to Bingham's part in the trip, and he's the one who put it over. Who does not recall the painful experiences of the Connecticut senator before the senate lobby investigators? Perhaps he thinks it well to stay out of the bye-election campaign fuss in Connecticut.

One Connection

And now we come to Joe Robinson minority leader, not a member of the insular committee, who has not appeared to be greatly concerned about the Samoans.

His place on the senate naval committee is the only tangible connection to be discovered explaining his acceptance of the Samoan job. Also, that naval treaty pilgrimage to London which kept him out of much of the tariff fight.

Now he is going a-summering in Samoa, so far away that he'll only hear meagrey by radio how the party battle at home is going. That is an odd job for so important a cog in democratic party machinery.

Stories That Recall Others

Not For the Laity.

Eleanor had heard much discussion on the general subject of minature golf courses. Passing one of these in a car with her mother she exclaimed:

"Oh, mother, there's another one of those minister's golf courses."

Didn't Mind 'Em.

A poultry farm was infested with rats and the handy man bought a dog. After the first encounter with the pest the mistress inquired:

"Is the new dog a good ratter?"

"He is O. K. for the rats. He didn't mind them at all," replied the nonplused helper.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

In idleness there is no joy
For bird or beast, or girl or boy.
—Old Mother Nature.

Impy, the Black Chipmunk, thought that when he got his bedroom dug and the passageway leading to his front door completed he would stop work. But no sooner did he get these things done than he began to think about a comfortable bed.

"I must have a soft bed right away," said Impy, and forthwith started to look for some soft material to make his bed out of. He took down through the front door and along the long passage some leaves —some dead leaves. Then he found some soft dead grass that was just what he wanted. He took that down inside. He had to make many trips. Yes, indeed, he had to make many trips, and there were times when his legs ached. When he had enough for a bed he was quite satisfied to curl up for a good long nap. Those little legs of his had taken him a long distance in collecting all that material.

"Now," said Impy, "I can spend my time eating and playing. I have a bedroom and a nice soft bed. What more could I ask? I've worked hard and now I will just have a good time."

But Impy had experienced the joy of work. For one whole day he played around and discovered that there was no pleasure in having nothing to do. Then once more he began to think of that home of his.

"I ought to have a storeroom," said he. "A house without a storeroom is a poor kind of a house. Yes, sir, it's a poor kind of a house. My father's house had two or three storerooms. Of course, there isn't much to put in it now, but the thing to do is to have it ready when there is something to put in it. I believe I'll build me a storeroom right away."

So Impy went to work again. First, he opened his back door. You see, he had to push more sand out. Then he started a short passage from his main hall. He made this quite short and then began digging a little room. The sand he pushed out on the pile at the back door. Presently he had a very nice little room, reached by a short passage from the main hall.

"It would be a good thing to be able to close the door of this little room and not a bedroom he didn't looses and. As this was to be a storeroo mand not a bedroom he didn't take any leaves or grass into it. All the time he was at work Impy felt like singing. You see, he was filled with joy—the joy of getting something done; something that was worthwhile. When this little storeroom was finished, Impy actually was sorry. Yes, sir, he was so. He didn't want to stop working. When there was no work to do he was discontented. When he was working hard time seemed to fairly fly.

"It wouldn't do any harm to have another storeroom," said Impy to himself. "Two storerooms would be better than one. I could put one kind of food in one storeroom and another kind of food in another storeroom. I think that's a good idea."

So Impy started in to dig another storeroom. As before, he opened the back door in order to throw the sand out. But when this storeroom was had done Impy once more closed the back door and then he began filling in the passage that led to that back door. He pushed it in tight. You see, he no longer had any use for that passage; so there was no sense in pushing that sand any farther than he had to. Besides, if he filled that passage there would be no danger of any one digging in from the outside.

Care Of The Expectant Mother

By Greer Baughman, M. D., Richmond, Va.

(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

One of the most important reasons for our existance in this world is to reproduce our kind and to try as well as we can to give the little ones a better mind, body and opportunity in life that we have enjoyed.

The expectant mother may look for many hours of discomfort and of danger before she hears the cry of her very own baby. While the baby itself is sufficient compensation for all of the trials and tribulations of carrying the baby and bringing it into the world, it seems right and fair that she should be relieved of as much discomfort and be guarded against danger as best we can.

First comes the "sick stomach," regarded by friends and relatives as a necessary evil. When "sick stomach" is very bad, associated with constant vomiting it can result fatally in spite of the best sort of treatment.

Frequently the sick stomach and the vomiting will respond to eating at intervals of about three hours of such things as fruit, candy, cake, bread or any other starchy food. The quantity of food need not be increased all that is needed is to eat starchy foods at frequent intervals.

In spite of the fact that she is feeding two, no increase in food is necessary at any time because we have found out that carrying the baby makes the expectant mother handle the food that she takes better than before. In fact the only food that she needs to increase is calcium and she can get that best by drinking milk. Shortly before the baby comes it is well to cut out meats because they have a bad effect on her kidneys.

Exercise in moderation is good for the expectant mother because it keeps her in the open air and sunshine.

In the latter part of her carrying period she should look out for kidney trouble. Headaches swollen feet, shortwindedness, loss of sight, are all signs of kidney trouble and need advice from a doctor.

This question of taking care of the expectant mother is of such importance that not only the doctors but the government and the various states have published pamphlets and are giving courses of instruction so that the women who have no doctors can keep themselves well.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Old Age Pensions

An editorial in The Norwich Evening Record entitled, "The Connecticut Old Age Pension Plan," prompts me to answer in part some of the statements made therein. Though I represent the State League of Women Voters showing "sympathetic interest" in the proposed legislation, at the request of John Egan I am also an independent member of the committee.

Section 4 of the proposed bill reads: "The amount of said pension shall be the amount which when added to the income of the applicant will make the total income of an applicant equal to $9 per week."

I can think of no better argument for old age pension than a statement of a former lieutenant governor of Nevada. This is what he said:

"Why an old age pension? First, because it is cheaper in every way and in every way more satisfactory than the ordinary poor house.

"Second, because fear of old age and pauperism tends to despondency and often insanity and suicide.

"Third, because old age pensions make for righteous living and better social and economic conditions.

"Fourth, because it is abnormal for society to throw back upon the community the human wreckage due to its wear and tear, sickness, accident and to involuntary unemployment.

"Fifth, because pensioning keeps intact the home, which is the foundation on which our country is reared.

"Sixth, because a pension is the fulfillment of an acknowledged obligation, a deferred payment for services rendered.

"Seventh, because the working man who has contributed health and strength, vigor and skill, to the creation of wealth, by which taxation is borne, has made his contribution already to the fund which is to give him a pension.

"Eighth, because a state that makes it a crime to turn out an old horse to starve should be ashamed to let old men and old women starve or go to the poor house, which is more feared than starving

"Ninth, because it prevents children from being under-nourished and sent to work earlier in life in order that they may help support a passing generation.

"Tenth, because assistance of a small pension added to wages for part time employment would allow men and women to remain producers instead of non-producers, as they would be as poor house inmates."

Connecticut is not alone in trying to solve this great problem. Oregon, Wyoming, Oklahoma, Minnesota, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Texas and Missouri are wrestling with proposed legislation to be presented at their next legislatures. Many states have already enacted old age pension laws. New York is now operating under an act almost identical to the one to be proposed at our 1931 assembly. I might suggest that a pay-as-you-go state should not be over-anxious as to the method employed to raise sufficient funds for this humane treatment of our indigent aged.

Most of the editorial which I am answering is devoted to England's old age problems. Conditions and problems of England, economic and social, are not comparable to ours of the United States

However, I am grateful to the editor for his last paragraph, "admitting that there should be protection for the dependent aged," and that the "institutional system of protection is neither efficient nor humanitarian."

For these reasons and others which suggest themselves to each of us, I believe that a public plan of old age security will make us socially safe as well as financially and economically secure.

Many times the telephone has played a valiant part in tragic occurrences when life and property have been at stake. At such times its great value is readily recognized and appreciated.

Yet little thought is usually given to its able assistance in solving lesser difficulties—bridging distance, giving instant personal contact, helping to straighten out little vexing troubles. In a countless list of life's minor emergencies, the telephone helps to meet each situation as it arises, turning a possible annoyance into a mere incident—nothing more.

The ability to help you cope with these everyday emergencies is one of the most valuable aids that your telephone service offers you, and it is essential that we strive constantly to increase the scope of this everyday use of telephone service if we are to achieve our goal:

KEEP BOY-SPIRIT ALIVE IS ROTARIAN'S ADVICE

"Putting the "R" in Rotary" was the topic of a very inspiring address by Harry Dodge of Fall River at the meeting of the Norwich Rotary club held Wednesday noon at the Wauregan hotel. Mr. Dodge in speaking of Rotary said that few were able to tell just what Rotary was other than it was a movement that attracted and held the interest of the members, a movement that grew upon the membership as no other thing has grown. He said that there are four questions that are asked about us and the answers to these questions tell just how we stand with our fellow men; What do the folks with whom we buy our raw and finished products think about us; what do they say about us; what do our clients and customers say about us and what does our competitor say about us?

Money is not everything; we can't take it with us and when we die we are soon forgotten if we have made money our chief aim in life. But if we have been square-shooters and been a friend we will be remembered. And another thing, said Mr. Dodge, never let the boy in you die. It is this boyish spirit that gives you a bright outlook on life and keeps you from becoming a cynic.

At the business session President Harold D. Larrabee presided with A. G. Lillibridge and John E. Sellman as song leaders. Matters of routine business were transacted. William G. Park and Alex McNicol were named as the "On-to-Swampscott" committee of the local club for the fall conclave of the 30th Rotary district.

Dr. Hugh B. Campbell urged the support of the local Rotarians in the concert by Henry Brynan, local violinist, which will be sponsored by the Rotary club at Slater hall this month.

The meeting closed with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

THREE INJURED IN BISHOP'S CROSSING CRASH

Three persons were hurt in a collision between two automobiles near Bishop's crossing, at Plainfield, about 10.15 o'clock Wednesday night. Albert J. Blanchon, of Blanchon Bros., proprietors of a filling station at Plainfield, was driving south when a machine driven by Carl Anedo of Canterbury, headed in a northerly direction, suddenly turned to the left in front of his machine. The machines crashed.

Mr. Blanchon pulled Mr. Anedo and the latter's wife from the wreckage of the Anedo machine and they were brought to the W. W. Backus hospital in this city. At the hospital it was found that Mrs. Anedo is suffering from lacerations over the right eye, an injury to the left eye, and a possible fractured skull. Her husband was treated for a fractured rib on the left side and lacerations. He was later discharged. Mr. Blanchon was treated by Dr. George H. Jennings of Jewett City who took four stitches in his forehead. Both machines were damaged. State police from the Danielson barracks investigated the accident.

Mr. Anedo, it is understood, intended to turn into a side road, but through error made the turn about 200 feet south of the highway.

The recent rains did much to help the corn crop, although in some cases the ears may be smaller than normal.

SIX-CHURCH CONFERENCE HEARD PROVIDENCE SPEAKER

The September gathering of the six-church conference was held Wednesday at Pachaug, as usual on the first Wednesday of the month.

The gladiolas from Wm. Palmer, the asters and dahlias from other expert local horiticulturists, banked the pulpit. The sultry weather was tempered by the hill breeze and the shady oaks.

Mrs. Geer opened with an organ prelude. After the doxology Rev. Harold L. Arnold invoked the blessing of God upon the gathering. Mrs. Miriam Beckwith of Franklin gave musical responses to each of the prayers of the assembly, and gave two very beautiful solos at appropriate parts of the service. The responsive reading was led by Rev. W. J. Reynolds of Lisbon. Scripture from I Corinthians 1st chapter, was read by Rev. D. C. Stone of Hanover. Rev. W. C. Prentiss of Plainfield led in prayer.

The congregation sang hymns under the leadership of Mrs. Margaret Geer of Pachaug; and the usual offering was taken by Messrs William and Frank Palmer of Hopeville.

At the taking of the count 104 were found present at some time during the day's programme: Griswold First 30, Griswold Second (at Jewett City) 9, Lisbon 6, Plainfield 5, Preston 21, Hanover 6, visitors 27.

The address of the morning was given by Rev. Robert Moore, D. D., of Providence, R. I. His presentation of his theme was not preceded by a text, but he held one in reserve. He pointed out the struggles we had in expressing our thoughts to others in an intelligible manner and our own floundering with words to fit our ideas. "What do you mean by what you say?" is both a pertinent and an impertinent question. The spread eagle politician, intoxicated by phrases; the positive dogmatist borrowing undigested facts or near facts, but trying to cram them into his listeners' mind without investigation or evidence. These need to be tapped by intelligent questioning until they express the hope that is in them, or show their own shallowness.

"And the disciples were called Christians first in Antioch." They first used it as an opprobrious epithet. It meant ostracism, lynching, being thrown to the lions. It was no fun to be called a Christian then. He believed something. That something was inconvenient. It was a belief in a living God that Roman legions, Roman law couldn't control. That demanded conduct, a morality that didn't accept the easy fashion of the times as a standard,—but demanded of its followers things inconvenient to fit into the social life of the times. Nor were his comforts and promises dependent on human power. Where human power cannot reach, the God Christ showed could reach, simply and effectively. Christianity was a doctrine and a life. A doctrine because what you believe to grow to live; and a life because the Architect of life planned it.

After singing and a benediction by the pastor, the gathering adjourned to the dining rooms of Pachaug grange and were given an excellent dinner. Here Gustave Bochman of Hartford made a brief address.

The afternoon session was opened by a musical selection by Mrs. Margaret Geer, followed by a devotional service of song and scripture led by Rev. G. F. Goodenough of Jewett City.

The afternoon business session consisted of a reading of the Lisbon minutes by G. F. Goodenough, in the absence of Mrs. E. H. Hiscox, who has so long served faithfully as scribe. As Mrs. Hiscox had resigned this duty, the assembly voted on a couple of nominees, who did not choose to run and finally elected G. F. Goodenough to that office.

Thanks were voted to the ladies of the church, to those who beautified with flowers, to the speaker of the morning, and to those whose music had done so much to make the meeting a success.

The program was resumed with a solo by Mrs. Miriam Beckwith, prayer by Rev. G. W. Clark of Preston City, and the afternoon address by Rev. R. S. Merrill of the First Church of Christ in Longmeadow, Mass. He transported his hearers in the Goodwill pilgrimage to England and the international council at Bournemouth which he was privileged to attend, and so the conference came to the end of a perfect day.

Borrowed Yantic Man's Machine.

Somebody apparently borrowed the roadster of John Chadwick at Yantic without his permission but returned it without getting caught for their illegal use of the car. It was missing from his place at 9.45 Tuesday night but was returned at 12.45 Wednesday morning. It is reported that three young men in white shirts were seen to leave the machine after it was returned.

THE INAUGURATION OF WASHINGTON

When Washington was to be inaugurated, a great question arose as to whether it should be public or private. Various other questions came up as to how he should be sworn into office, for, as he was the first president, a precedent had to be made. The critics were somewhat displeased with Washington's costume, maintaining that wearing a sword seemed like an emblem of despotic rule.

The knowledge that our service assumes the burden of the entire arrangements, greatly assists those who seek our professional aid.

ROTARY CLUB TO PROTEST GAME PLAYED TUESDAY WITH DUWELLS

Question as to the Duwells' 8 to 2 victory over the Rotary club Tuesday evening was raised yesterday when the Rotary club formally protested the game on the grounds of misinterpretation of the playing rules.

The play upon which the protest is based was as follows:

With the Duwells leading 5 to 1, Austin started the Rotary's sixth inning by striking out. Sabrowski walked, and took second on a balk by Stephanik. Charron singled to right, scoring Sabrowski. Charron stole second. Dickerman was safe at first when Kos, the Duwell catcher dropped the third strike. Nylen hit to short and Dickerman was forced at second, Charron going to third, and Nylen was safe at first. With O'Neil batting Stephanik committed another balk. Umpire Tombari called the balk at once, but Stephanik in the middle of his pitch, delivered the ball which O'Neil smacked out to center for what probably would have been a double. The ball, however, was dead the instant the balk was called, so the hit of course did not count. Tombari waved Nylen to second on the balk but did not allow Charron to score from third. This is the play on which the Rotary are basing their protest, claiming that Charron should have scored. As Charron was caught in an attempt to steal home a moment later and as this was the third out, they claim he could have not been put out, as he automatically scored on the balk, and that the game was illegal following the play.

Action on the matter is expected to be taken at a meeting of the league's executive board on Friday evening following the Duwells-Elks game.

DICKEY LEADS YANKEES TO VICTORY OVER SENATORS

NEW YORK, Sept. 3—(AP)—With Bill Dickey showing the way the Yankees scored their fourth victory over the Washington Senators in 19 games this season, pounding out a 10 to 7 decision today. Dickey clouted a home run and two triples and drove in six Yankee counters.

The Yanks got an early start against Sad Sam Jones, who had not been defeated in New York since the Yanks sent him to Washington, and drove him from the mound in five innings. Burke held them hitless in the last three frames.

Southpaw Ed Wells, whose three defeats this season have been at the hands of the Senators, held Washington to five hits up to the ninth inning with a homer by Dave Harris as the only run. He weakened badly in the final frame and Washington scored six runs with two out. McEvoy retired the last man. The score:

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 3—(AP)—Outfielder Jim Moore, recruit from the Texas league, occupied the spotlight here today in the Athletics' 11 to 4 victory over the Boston Red Sox. The victory increased their lead over Washington to 8 1-2 games.

Moore hit a home run in the fourth inning and in the third hit a double that cleared the bases of three runners.

Grove, although relived after the sixth inning in which Boston got to him for four runs, was credited with his twenty-third victory of the season. Jimmy Foxx also hit for the circuit, driving out his thirty-third homer of the year. The score:

GIANTS SPLIT EVEN IN DOUBLE BILL WITH BRAVES

BOSTON, Sept. 3—(AP)—After winning the first game of today's double header from the Braves 5 to 3, the New York Giants lost a golden opportunity to gain materially in the National league pennant race as they fell victims to an eighth inning Boston rally and lost by 11 to 7. The Giants gained only a half game on the defeated Cubs instead of picking up a contest and a half.

The first game was decided in the seventh inning when Pitcher Clarence Mitchell's infield hit was followed by a single by Critz which went through Richbourg's legs to the bleachers and produced two runs. Each team had scored three runs in the sixth.

Home runs by Berger and Chatham, the first being Berger's 33rd of the season, kept the Braves in the running through the early part of the second game, although Boston errors provided several Giant runs. With the Giants in the lead, Boston drove Bill Walker from the mound and continued their attack against Hub Pruett for eight tallies. An error by Critz, a bad throw to Jackson on what looked like the start of a double play, had a big part in that big inning. It allowed the first run to score and prolonged the inning while the Braves hammered in the rest. The scores:

MCGRAW SIGNS FIVE-YEAR CONTRACT TO MANAGE THE NEW YORK GIANTS

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—(AP)—John J. McGraw, for 28 years manager of the New York Giants, today signed a contract to manage the National league club for the next five years.

In making the announcement, Charles A. Stoneham, president of the Giants, said that it had been the club's plan to have the formal signing at the expiration of the present contract but rumors of McGraw's leaving the Giants and the National league prompted immediate action. McGraw's present contract expires at the close of this year.

McGraw himself handed a statement from Stoneham to newspaper men at the downtown offices of the Giants this afternoon.

"Mr. Stoneham and I reached an agreement six months ago," he said, "and another contract would have been signed about the beginning of the new year but with these foolish stories going around that I would manage another club, or even leave the National for the American league, caused us to conclude the business now."

Rumors have persisted, since the Giants went on their last western trip without the manager, that the man who has been in charge of the Giants since 1903, and is a stockholder and vice-president of the club, would not retain his place.

It was explained today that ill health has kept the manager from the bench. McGraw's health is reported much improved but his physician warned him that he could not hope to regain it if he insisted on braving the heat and humidity of the bench.

McGraw is hopeful that his 1930 team will win his 11th championship for him.

"No, the race is not over yet by a long shot," he said. "We certainly have a chance."

"Will you be able to take a seat on the bench if the Giants get in the world series?" he was asked.

"Oh, yes," he smiled. "I am sure, in that event, the doctor would permit."

Men of Norwich, does your wife hurl a rolling pin with vigor and accuracy?

If she does it is possible that she may get renown as there is a new fad known as rolling-pin throwing contests being held in various parts of the country.

Why only the other day a Norwich woman in competition heaved a rolling-pin 75 yards to win over some 200 other women. When a woman can hurl a rolling-pin 75 yards what chance has a mere man got?

If this encouraging of women to practice the art of throwing rolling-pins doesn't stop there are bound to be dire results. Imagine being a man and coming home some night and have a rolling-pin bounce off the old dome.

Then the wife rushing up and weepily explaining that she was just trying out her throwing arm in anticipation of the contest to be held. That's carrying sport, if you call it that, a little too far.

Remember the old days when the rolling-pin was a culinary implement and not an adjunct of sport. When the young man asked his bride-to-be if she could use a rolling-pin he didn't mean in a sporty way.

If this rolling-pin throwing as a sport keeps up there is bound to be a sharp decline in the matrimonial market. What man would want to marry a girl who was the champion rolling-pin thrower of the state? It may be all right for the wife to hurl a few dishes at friend husband's cranium once in a while, but rolling-pins should be barred from the home.

Imagine holding out a few dimes on the wife and then having her find it out and start for the rolling-pin while you started for the back door. Then you run a hundred yards or so only to have the rolling pin rap itself around your neck. No sir, I'm against these rolling-pin contests the same as I'm against letting children play with matches. It's too dangerous.

Husbands, here's a tip. Buy your wife a glass rolling pin and she'll think twice before she heaves it at you.

PIRATES RALLY IN SIXTH TO BEAT CUBS

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 3—(AP)—A sixth inning rally which netted Pittsburgh a cluster of six runs, today enabled the Pirates to beat back the league leading Chicago Cubs, 9 to 6, in the first clash of their four-game series. The Cub loss, while the New York Giants were splitting even with Boston in a double header, allowed McGraw's contenders to creep up a half game on the champions.

The entire Buccaneer lineup batted around in the big sixth inning, Comorosky, who started the rally with a double, fanning with two men on to end the frame. The Pirates made six hits in the inning, two of which were doubles, and those linked with two walks, produced the half dozen tallies that spelled victory.

The home team was trailing, 5 to 2, when the game-winning offensive was launched. Teachout, starting Cub hurler, and Blake, who relieved him, were both driven from the slab in the sixth, Nelson finally stemming the drive. He left the game in the eighth for a pinch hitter and Shealy finished.

Spencer, starting Pirate moundsman, also went out in the sixth, Brame batting for him and driving in a pair of runs with a single to center. Swetonic, whose relief pitching against the Cubs has baffled them several times this season, held the visitors runless except for a homer by English in the ninth.

Hack Wilson failed to add to his home run total but garnered a trio of singles. Suhr hit the Pirates' lone home run, the ball landing in the right field stands. The score:

CARNERA MEETS THREE OPPONENTS AT HARTFORD

HARTFORD, Sept. 3.—Promoter Ed Hurley, who was at ringside in Atlantic City Saturday night as Primo Carnera scored a third-round kayo over Ricardo Bertazolla, conferred with the big Italian's managers after the bout and announces that they agreed to have Primo meet these opponents at the Hurley Stadium in East Hartford Friday night of this week: Jack DeMave, Jack McAuliffe and Fred Caldora.

Carnera will go two rounds with each of these, provided they can stay in the ring that long against the big boy who swings a ponderous right and a devastating left.

It was also agreed that he would go two additional rounds against Al Schooner of East Hampton, provided Schooner can be secured. Al has long been heralding that he would like to get into the ring with Carnera, so no difficulty is expected in getting his name to a contract. Just why Al or any other heavyweight in good health should want to fight Primo is something of a mystery, but Al has been asking the chance ever since it was announced that Carnera would box in this city.

Carnera's handlers, enthusiastic over his decisive win over Bertazolla, who has fought Maloney, Risko and other leading heavies, predict that he will kayo all of his opponents at the Hurley stadium Friday night.

Cheerful of the McGrath stable in Central Falls won the 2:24 trot, also in straight heats. His time was 2:18 and 2:14 1-2.

BURKE AND LACEY LEAD FIELD IN LANNIN TOURNEY WITH CARDS OF 69

SALISBURY PLAINS, N. Y. Sept. 3—(AP)—Billy Burke of the Round Hill Country club, Greenwich, Conn., and Charles Lacey, of the Pine Valley Country club, Clementon, N. J., were tied for first place with cards of 69 at the end of the first eighteen holes of the Joseph J. Lannin memorial open golf tournament played today over Number 4 course of the Salisbury Country club.

A stroke behind the leaders were Craig Wood, of Bloomfield, N. J., and Bobby Cruickshank, of Purchase, N. Y., each with 70. Two strokes behind were Bob Shave, of Cleveland, Bill Mehlhorn of Pensacola and Sol De Buono of Larchmont.

Lacey, who played the first nine holes in one under par, closed with a rush with a 33 on the homeward trip to tie Burke.

The leaders cards:

Burke	465	434	334—36
Lacey	444	524	544—36
In—
Lacey	434	344	344—33—69

The Associated Press, when asked last night regarding the round played by Massie B. Miller of Norwich, replied that they had no record of Miller playing in the tournament. Miller left Norwich to play in the tournament in which he tied for first place last year, and whether he did not turn in a card or was so far down the list that no report of his round was made to the Associated Press is not known.

TWO WORLD'S RECORDS SET AT SYRACUSE

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Two world records were smashed today in the Grand Circuit races here.

Hollyrood Chief came home in 2:06 1-2 to win the final heat of the Empire State $10,000 trotting handicap, the fastest time ever made by a trotter from a standing start.

In the Yates Hotel two-year-old pacing event Handy Dillon pounded home in 2:04 1-4, lowering the record of Calumet Adam for two-year-old pacers by one-quarter of a second.

Tom Berry had a field day of it with his Hanover Farm horses, winning the final heat of the American Horse Breeders' Futurity with Hanover's Bertha, taking all three in the State Fair stake for 2:20 trotting with Foster Dillon and grabbing a trio of starts in the 2:18 trot with Helen Hanover.

Guy Britton, third choice, took the Syracuse Hotel stake for three-year-olds in straight heats.

BERG HAS TOUGH TIME GETTING VERDICT OVER BROWN

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Jackie Kid Berg, tireless English fighter, had his hands full in winning a ten-round decision over Buster Brown, hard-hitting Baltimore scrapper, in a sparkling bout at Dreamland Park tonight. Berg's junior welterweight title was at stake.

The youthful Brown was forced to forget his boxing tactics to meet Berg's whirlwind rushes. The Baltimore fighter had less endurance, however, and eased off after each hard exchange, while Jackie kept pushing on. The verdict of Referee Johnnie Healey was popular.

Brown shook his opponent several times with solid right-hand smashes to the body but took more than he gave. There were no knockdowns.

Berg weighed 136 and Brown 134.

Miss Marlowe will meet Miss Workman tomorrow.

Caroline Babcock, of Los Angeles, was the last to enter the semi-final. She defeated Hilda Boehm, of Boston, 7-5, 6-3.

ITALIANS AND ROTARY PLAY EXHIBITION TONIGHT

Tonight at the Academy campus, the Italian Young Mens club and the Rotary club of the Junior league will meet in an exhibition game. Although the game will have no bearing in the league standing, both teams are anxious to meet again before the season closes. The Italians defeated the Rotarians in their last meeting in the league, 8 to 6, and claim they can do it again, while the Rotary are as equally certain they are the better team.

Whichever team wins, it is bound to be a good game and will afford the fans some baseball.

On Friday, the Duwells and Elks clash in what promises to be the banner attraction of the season with the league pennant at stake.

BROWN STARTS FOOTBALL WITH 32 CANDIDATES

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 3—(AP)—Brown football practice started today with 32 candidates reporting beneath a broiling sun. Nine lettermen were present headed by Captain Link Fogarty, of Flushing, L. I. Several of last year's veterans were missing and these will come in from day to day now until next week, when the squad will be practically complete.

Despite the heat, Coach McLaughry sent the men through their paces and talked to them briefly regarding plans for the pre-season training. Brown's greatest strength seems at this early stage to be in a wealth of good linesmen while speedy backs are at a premium.

FAVORITES TRIUMPH IN RACES AT INDIANAPOLIS

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Favorites triumphed in the two feature events of the Grand Circuit program of races at the Indiana State fair today.

Legality won the three-year-old Horseman Futurity trot, worth more than $7,000, by capturing the last two heats after finishing second to Calumet Annette in the first. The two-year-old Frank P. Fox pace with a purse of $8,500 resulted in victory for Corporal Lee, which also won the last two heats after finishing third to J. E. Favonian in the opening test.

The 2:10 Hotel Baker pace resulted in a straight heat victory for Hollyway, who turned in the best time of the day, 2:03.

Fortunate is the young man whose crop of wild oats isn't worth harvesting.

Lou Gehrig led the Big Six batsmen into action yesterday and registered the day's only gain in the batting averages of the sextet. He made two hits in four trips to the plate and brought his average up two points to .395. This gave him a margin of twelve over his leading rival for the American league championship, Al Simmons, who hit but once in five attempts and dropped two points to .383. Babe Ruth, third American league member, hit once in three times up and held his mark at .360. Bill Terry, the only National league member to play, lost a little of the ground he had gained in previous days by hitting three times in eight attempts in a double header. WORCESTER, Sept. 3.—(AP)— Holy Cross football practice started under a blistering sun today with 44 candidates reporting to the new head coach, Captain John McEwan, former West Point and Oregon mentor.

Bryne, seasoned quarterback, and Ambrose, a sophomore end, were the only two players asked to report who were missing. The opening drill lasted nearly two hours and was given over chiefly to individual instruction in fundamentals.

Starting tomorrow, two sessions will be held daily until college opens September 23.

The Hartford club is rated as one of the best in the Capitol city and comes here with an imposing array of ball players. Lefty Buckland is scheduled to do the hurling for the Red Sox, with Huband, one of the best catchers in the state, as his battery mate. Bernard will either use Johnny Greene or Bob Shaw on the mound against the Hartford club.

SIX FOOTBALL PLAYERS AT YALE ARE INELIGIBLE

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 3.—(AP)— Six Yale football candidates today were declared ineligible because of scholastic difficulties. They were F. H. Weicker, tackle; A. B. Strange, center; and J. H. Ingram, C. B. Jones, W. G. McLaughlin and H. Stevens, backs.

Weicker, a big fellow well over six feet, constitutes the biggest loss as it was probable that he would have seen some service this fall. The absence of Strange, too, will be a loss since he was the only center carried over from 1929.

Through his attorneys, Vallee denies ever proposing to Miss O'Laughlin.

CONN. 1931 PLATES TO BE WHITE ON MAROON

Nineteen hundred and thirty-one will find six distinct color motifs in use on New England automobile license plates and 26 different combinations in use in the country as a whole, the American Automobile association finds in studying the various color schemes for the coming year.

Connecticut has selected the same combination chosen by two other states, white figures on a maroon background. In addition to the Nutmeg state, Florida and New Jersey have designated this white maroon combination as the official 1931 colors.

The white on maroon scheme ranks as the second most favorite motif in the country, along with black on orange, yellow on black, and black on white, each of these being selected by three states. The combinations of white on green and white on black rank first, each being named by five states.

Colors to prevail in New England are listed by the national motoring body as white on green in Massachusetts, white on black in Maine, green on white in New Hampshire, black on white in Rhode Island, and white on blue in Vermont.

We'll Save you money on house paint!

WE'LL show you how you can save money by buying your paint on the yearage basis. We'll prove to you that Devoe is the most economical paint in the world.

Not because Devoe is a bargain paint. But because it has yearage which means the same to paint as mileage does to tires—because it lasts from one to three years longer than other paints.

And because it spreads further—because a gallon of Devoe covers 15% to 40% more surface than does a gallon of any other paint made.

Paint your home—it's a shrewd investment! But see us first—let us show you why yearage is the only sound basis on which to buy paint!

The Ideal of a Craftsman

In every age men have striven with untiring patience for the achievement of an ideal. The name "STRADIVARIUS", on a violin immortalizes a master craftsman who lived true to his ideals.

Making a cigar of the finest quality was the ideal upon which in 1874, at Manchester, N. H., Roger G. Sullivan—starting with one cigar maker—founded 7-20-4. Today because of its ideal quality, 7-20-4 has grown to the largest hand-made cigar industry in the World.

Quality workmanship and the finest tobaccos are traditional with 7-20-4. The unswerving tenet of its founder—to keep faith with the public—has remained unchanged for over half a century. It is this firm principle which today refuses to alter that method of manufacture which has made 7-20-4 Cigar—FAMOUS FOR ITS CHOICE QUALITY.

We cordially invite you to visit our factory

STONINGTON YOUTH FINED FOR TRAFFIC VIOLATION

(Special to the Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, Sept. 3.—Judge William A. Wilcox, of Pawcatuck, held a special session of Stonington town court on Wednesday morning when Truman Bennett, Jr., 18, of Stonington, was before the court charged with a violation of the motor traffic laws of Connecticut. Prosecutor Henry P. Hammacher told the court that the defendant had driven an Atterbury truck on which were Ford truck registry plates.

The father of the young man, present in court, was named as his guardian ad litem and a demurrer to the complaint was entered. Truman Bennett, Sr., in behalf of his son, stated that only three miles were driven on country roads and this was the first job his son had engaged in while trying to start in business. Judge Wilcox overruled the demurrer, found the accused guilty and sentenced him to pay a fine of $10 and costs, which totaled $22.95.

Court then adjourned to meet for the consideration of juvenile cases.

It was only at the Tuesday meeting of the Westerly town council, when Prosecutor John Ferguson, in behalf of the police committee of the council, Councilmen Joseph Fraser, Archie Meikle and John Monti, presented an amendment to Westerly town ordinances which prohibited public assemblages on public lands and highways of the town of Westerly without a permit first being obtained of the chief of police.

At the September meeting of the Westerly chamber of commerce, when the report was received on the progress of mosquito extermination, Dr John Champlin, Sr., said that a means suggested was to purchase a quantity of gold fish and place them in the ditched waters that the larvae might be destroyed. Horace E. Burdick asked if the cold weather would not kill these fish so that new ones would have to be purchased each year. Another active Watch Hill fire district member, Henry L. Burdick, with remembrance of many hours of "tilting," inquired why pickerel could not be substituted for the gold fish.

She, receiving torn ligaments of her left foot and slight lacerations of her body and face, was treated by Dr. J. J. Donahue, who lives across the way, and later she was taken to her home, where she is reported to be still in a critical condition. And he's right.

POETRY

To a Honey Bee

Thou born to sip the lake or spring,
Or quaff the waters of the stream,
Why hither come, on vagrant wing?
Does Bacchus tempting seem—
Did he for you this glass prepare?
Will I admit you to a share?

Did storms harass or foes perplex,
Did wasps or king-bird bring dismay—
Did wars distress, or labors vex,
Or did you miss your way?
A better seat you could not take
Than on the margin of this lake.

Welcome!—I hail you to my glass:
All welcome here you find:
Here let the cloud of trouble pass,
Here be all care resigned.
This fluid never fails to please
And drown the griefs of men or bees.

What forced you here we can not know,
And you will scarcely tell,
But cheery we would have you go
And bid a glad farewell:
On lighter wings we bid you fly—
Your dart will now all foes defy.

Yet take not, oh! too deep a drink,
And in this ocean lie:
Here bigger bees than you might sink,
Even bees full six feet high.
Like Pharaoh, then, you would be said
To perish in a sea of red.

Do as you please, your will is mine:
Enjoy it without fear,
And your grave will be this glass of wine.
Your epitaph—a tear:
Go, take your seat in Charon's boat;
We'll tell the hive, you died afloat.

—Philip Freneau.

White Dove of the Wild Dark Eyes

White Dove of the wild dark eyes
Faint silver flutes are calling
From the night where the star-mists rise
And fireflies falling
Tremble in starry wise,
Is it you they are calling?

White Dove of the beating heart
Shrill golden reeds are thrilling
In the woods where the shadows start,
While moonbeams filling
With dreams the floweret's heart
Its dreams are thrilling.

White Dove of the folded wings,
Soft purple night is crying
With the voice of airy things
For you, lost dying
They miss your flashing wings,
Your splendorous flying.

—Joseph M. Plunkett.

LOSSES OF 1 TO 6 POINTS IN A LARGE ASSORTMENT OF STOCKS YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, Sept. 3—(AP)—The stock market again served notice today that it was not to be hurried into an advance.

Prices moved inconclusively until the last half hour when a reaction set in that carried through to the close, bringing losses of one to six points in a wide assortment of shares. Trading, however, was in small volume. Measured by the average of 90 issues, stocks lost 1.7 points.

Despite a rather long list of dividend reductions headed by Kennecott's second cut of the year, the day's news was reasonably favorable. Iron Age reported improvement in steel ingot production for the third successive week and the weekly car loading statistics revealed a gain over the previous week. One chain store system announced an increase in August sales. Petroleum production again declined.

The bond market resumed its advance, led by the rails whose average price attained a new high for the year.

Stocks groped hesitantly for a footing during most of the day and the market's favorites generally held to changes of about a point until the late selling. Rails were little affected by the day's movements.

The heavy undertone of the earlier hours was replaced by a mild bullish demonstration early in the afternoon. Bethlehem Steel and United Aircraft, rallying 3 and 2 points, respectively, were prominent in this advance which eliminated the moderate losses of the morning. Bethlehem held two thirds of its gain, but United Aircraft retained only a fraction at the close.

Speculative commodities were irregular, wheat closed 5-8 to 7-8 of a cent lower under the influence of bearish government weather reports and a large movement of Canadian grain, corn sagged fractionally, but cotton advanced 50 to 75 cents a bale in this market.

Bradstreet's monthly report on commodity prices offered some encouragement. The publication said that its index declined only two-tenths of one per cent during August, while six groups of staples advanced, six dropped and one was unchanged. The inference was, said the summary, that prices appeared to have reached a point of stability.

The firming of money rates which had been expected yesterday developed today. Call loans advanced to 2 1-2 per cent after renewing at 2, reflecting bank withdrawals of $35,000,000 and the customary stringency that attends monthly settlements. There was no change in the rates for other forms of credit.

Only a few stocks lost as much as four, five or six points. These included such volatile shares as Case, Diamond Match, American Tobacco "B," Eastman Kodak, Foster Wheeler and Columbia Carbon. There were declines of 2 to more than 3 in Johns Manville, DuPont, Sears Roebuck, Westinghouse Electric, Auburn Auto and Standard Gas and Electric, and of about 2 in U. S. Steel, Vanadium, Radio, Loew's and New York Central, as well as some of the utilities. General Electric, American Telephone and General Motors lost a point or more.

Foreign exchanges were mixed. Continental currencies showed heaviness, but several of the Latin-Americans showed marked improvement.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3—(AP)—Iron ore shipments from ports of the upper Great Lakes during August, totaled 8,261,699 tons, against 10,306,967 tons in August 1929. Shipments for the season to September 1, were 32,575,921 tons, compared with 48,717,787 in the like period last year.

Leo G. Federman, president of Interstate Department Stores, today announced the closing of a lease for a large new store in Knoxville, Tenn., the 34th unit in the company's chain. In all of the company's stores, Mr. Federman said, business for August showed an increase over July.

Comparative data just compiled by the Chrysler corporation shows that for the first half this year the company produced 13.6 per cent of the total automobile business, exclusive of Ford, against 12 per cent in the first half last year, and that sales were 14 1 per cent of the total compared with 12.9 per cent in the first six months of 1929.

Stocks of gasoline in the hands of refiners representing 95.6 per cent of the refining capacity of the United States decreased 1,027,000 barrels in the week ended August 30 to 33,315,000 barrels, the American Petroleum institute reports.

MONEY

NEW YORK, Sept. 3—(AP)—Call money firm, high 2 1-2; low 2; ruling rate 2; closing 2 1-2 per cent. Bankers' acceptances unchanged.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 3—(AP)—The much talked of post election day rise in share prices failed to appear in today's curb market. The list sagged further in dull trading. Only a few of the popular trading shares were strongly supported.

Losses in the main were fractional, although a few of the lightly traded issues broke sharply. The action of the aviation shares, in response to the first non-stop flight from Paris to New York, was in distinct contrast to the violent bullish demonstrations in these issues in response to the trans-Atlantic flights of three years ago. Most of the aviation shares today were dull, and sold off fractionally. Trading remained sluggish until the final hour, when extensive selling, in sympathy with a downturn on the big board, carried the day's transactions to 429,100 shares.

Cities Service and Ford, Ltd, were active features, but were well taken around the closing levels of the previous session, and finished the day unchanged. Electric Bond and Share was firm for a time, but closed at 82, off fractionally. United Light A, American Super Power and Niagara Hudson also sagged a little. American and Foreign Power warrants and American Gas and Electric dropped about a point, Electric Power and Light warrants, lost 4 points in a few sales.

Oils and natural gas issues moved narrowly, and were inclined to ease. Most of the investment company shares were quiet and about stationary, but Prince and Whitely and Goldman Sachs moved up a little in fairly active buying.

Anglo Chilean Nitrate was a soft spot, breaking about 3 points. Deere tumbled nearly 5 in a few sales. Royal Typewriter, usually a wide mover, dropped nearly 10 points to the year's minimum. Glen Alden Coal, on the other hand, shot up 9, perhaps reflecting reports of a substantial upturn in coal production. Mead Johnson, a recent firm spot, lost nearly 2 points.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 3—(AP)—The bond market acquired renewed vigor today, especially in the rail group whose average price moved to a new high on steady accumulation of the highest grade issues. Other sections were quiet but firm.

A feature of the session, which saw a volume of business about equal to yesterday's was a stiffening of prices in several parts of the Latin-American group, based apparently on the receipt of better news regarding the political situations in those republics. Argentine listings advanced a point, while Buenos Aires 6s, rose nearly 3. Bonds of Chile and Brazil were mostly firm, but Colombians sagged on small offerings. San Paulo State 7s of 1956, sank 9 1-2 points to a new low while the 6s improved 4. Rio Grande Do Sul 8s, advanced 1. Mexican obligations continued to move up, although buying was only moderate.

A dozen rails touched new highs for the year. There was a tendency, especially in the later dealings, to extend the demand to the secondary issues of this group, but most of the business was done in the better liens. Bonds surpassing their previous 1930 peaks included Central Pacific first 4s, Chicago and Northwestern 6 1-2s, Big Four 4 1-2s, Cleveland Union Terminal 4 1-2s, New York Central 4 1-2s, Nickel Plate 4s and Peoria and Eastern first 4s, Missouri Pacific were firm.

On the whole industrials and specialties fared better than the utilities. Chile Copper 5s, General Steel Castings 5 1-2s, Fisk Rubber 8s, International Match 5s, Liggett and Myers 7s, Lorillard 5 1-2s, National Dairy 5 1-4s, Standard Oil of New Jersey 5s and United Drug 5s, were leaders in the improvement. Some of the gains exceeded a point. The inactive Marion Steam Shovel 6s broke 13 points.

The firmer utilities included American Telephone 5s of 1965, Hudson Gas 5s, Pacific Gas and Electric 5s and Western Union 5s, Small offerings of Utilities Power and Light 5 1-2s, Northern States Power 6s and Southern Colorado Power 6s brought nominal declines.

Convertibles were inactive and there was small inquiry for bonds with stock warrant Warner Brothers Picture 6s and Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron 6s, lost 3-4.

The day's chief new offering, a $40,000,000 issue of Portland General Electric 30 year 4 1-2s, priced at 93 3-4, was over-subscribed. In the case of the treasuries, only one issue showed a turnover of more than $1,000, principal amount.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Sept. 3—(AP)—Wheat prices crashed down today to the lowest levels reached here in 16 years. Not since before the World war started in 1914, has wheat been sold as cheaply on the Chicago board of trade as it was at the close today. The market showed no recuperative power in the late trading. There was no apparent concentrated pressure on wheat, and at times some impressive buying support was noted. The rallies attracted increased offerings however, and the consequent reactions swept prices into new low territory. A dispatch quoting George S. Milnor, president of the grain stabilization corporation, to the effect that all wheat used for drought relief purpose, would be replaced in the open market, failed to steady the faltering market. All other grains were depressed by the downward trend of wheat.

Closing prices on wheat were unsettled at nearly the bottom levels of the day, 3-8 at 1 1-8c net lower than yesterday's finish, corn closed 1-4 at 7-8c down, oats from 1-4c lower to 1-8c advanced, and provisions unchanged to an advance of 13c.

Provisions were somewhat unsettled reflecting the trends of both grain and hogs.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

A double-feature bill of unusually fine merit opens today at the Palace theatre with the showing of "Hot Curves" a baseball romance starring Benny Rubin and a host of others and "Women Everywhere" a musical romance with J. Harold Murray and Fifi Dorsay in the leads.

Supporting Benny Rubin, popular comedian, are Rex Lease, Alice Day, Mary Carr and many others. This is the story of a training camp scout who is sent out to sign up Benny Goldberg. He is too late to get the great player but discovers that a sandwich butcher on the train is called Benny Goldberg so he signs this one up instead.

Benny Rubin as Benny Goldberg is a howl from beginning to end. As always he has the newest gags to be thought of and his contortions, both facial and otherwise keep the audience in stitches.

"Women Everywhere" is somewhat different in theme but equally as enjoyable as "Hot Curves". This is a musical romance which is based on the affairs of Charlie Jackson, adventurous American rum-runner who agrees to deliver a load of guns to the Arabs. Betrayed by his Greek pilot he and his crew are taken by the French and landed prisoners in Casablanca.

Here the Greek flourishes his reward in the cafes and orders the best that the management can supply even to the most beautiful women. The women are not all to be enticed by a large bank account. And such a girl is Lili LaFleur, "Sweetheart of the Legion" who is in love with Jackson and who, in her rescue of him, does some of the most daring and exciting things yet to be seen upon the screen.

This double-feature bill which will be shown at the Palace through Saturday of this week is one of the most entertaining bills ever presented in Norwich.

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

The Shelton Basket Co. Shelton.

The Shelton Basket company, Shelton, is one of the very few basket factories still manufacturing baskets of hand drawn ash and oak splints. According to the last census there are but six such plants left in the entire country—and the most famous of these still resides in this state, where it snuggles placidly amongst the rolling hills of the lower Housatonic valley.

The company was founded in 1862 by N. P. Little of Columbia, Conn., and catered largely to the trade about Hartford, many of whose stores to this day have handled nothing but the local manufacture. The company's product however came to enjoy a widening popularity as the reputation of its skilled basket makers spread, and before long it was enjoying a state-wide popularity of no mean proportion. Mr. Little however did not seek actively to expand his industry beyond Connecticut, and not until the advent of A. H. Lavietes to the management, was the matter of national sales duly considered.

The expanding market which had grown to national proportions by 1912, made it necessary to haul increasing quantities of their products over poor dirt roads to the railroad station at Andover. In order to overcome their shipping problem, Mr. Lavietes caused the plant to be moved to its present site in Shelton.

From that date to this, the company has enjoyed a considerable success, sending its products into every city throughout the United States—and this in spite of the almost prohibitive freight rates which apply on such bulky commodities.

Several of the principal early competitors having withdrawn from the field, as the tide of cheap machine made and imported baskets swept down on the faltering hand industry, a rising premium on the hand made product developed, so that this goods now enjoys a more favorable market than ever before.

Today, as in the past, the ash and oak splints are carefully drawn from the wood by hand, though certain machine processes have been applied wherever practicable without affecting the quality of the product.

The humming saws, the busy weavers, and the interesting splint drawing operation have made the Shelton Basket company a great mecca for the curious and thousands of visitors are annually shown through the plant. The company issues a small complimentary booklet, "Shelton Baskets—America's First Industry" with the full history of American basketry and some interesting notes on New England, with each of its hampers, picnic-lunch, mail, baby and clothes baskets.

In addition to these household goods, they also manufacture a variety of service baskets for farm, grocery, laundry, mill and janitor use.

The present officers are: A. H Lavietes, proprietor and plant manager; Edwin B Lavietes, sales and advertising manager.

HARVARD QUARTERS AT RED TOP TO BE PLACE FOR COUNTY REPUBLICAN MEET

The place for the projected first annual outing of the New London County Republican club has been secured, according to an announcement by the executive committee made on Wednesday, when it was stated that the Harvard Athletic club has granted the use of its crew training quarters at Red Top on the Thames river for the outing. The date has been set for Wednesday, Oct. 1, and as this will be after the republican state convention, the outing will take the form of a ratification meeting and it will be expected that all the nominees on the state republican ticket as well as Governor John H. Trumbull and party leaders and state officers will be present.

It is planned to mail about 2,000 invitations to the affair, but the committee wishes to make it plain that although every republican man and woman in New London county is cordially invited to attend the outing, it is impossible to mail invitations to all of those appearing on the caucus lists of the various towns and that therefore those to whom the invitations will be mailed will be looked upon as a general committee to solicit acceptances to the affair.

An old fashioned clambake will be served at 1 o'clock for which James P. Hayes is to be the caterer and this will be followed by the entertainment programme for which it is expected to secure one of the foremost party orators as the principal speaker. There is also a possibility that a member of President Hoover's cabinet may be on the programme. Nominees on the republican state ticket will also be speakers.

Judge Daniel M. Cronin of New London, president of the New London County Republican club, is chairman ex-officio of the committee and Judge C. C. Costello of Groton is general chairman. Other members are William L. Apley, New London, secretary; John M. Mallon, Jr., New London, treasurer; and Col. W. Ellery Allyn of Waterford and Sheriff George H. Bradford, Montville.

CONTINUANCE AGAIN IN TWO EMBEZZLEMENT CASES

The continued cases against Fred Dulenschneider, 22, and Richard Brownell, 25, both of South Manchester, were called for trial in the city court Wednesday morning but were again continued September 12. While the accused were operating as "bad bill" collectors for several Norwich merchants they are charged with embezzling the collections. They were arrested August 5 on complaint of a local merchant.

It is understood that the men have agreed to turn over to the merchants the money they collected and that to date they have paid over about $500.

OLD TIMERS DROP TOUGH GAME, 7 TO 6

There were nearly a thousand baseball fans present at the Greeneville playground center last evening to witness the game between the old timers and the senior playground team. The game was nip and tuck and when called by Umpire Frank Sweeney at the end of the sixth inning the score was Playgrounders 7, Old Timers 6. Much excitement was displayed by the fans, who applauded and rooted for their heroes. The Old Timers had a great chance to clinch the game in their final inning with men on third and second base, when James Daley, the Old Timers' second baseman, hit a grounder to First Baseman Pino Quinn, who made a fine play by catching John Mullen at the plate and the catcher, Willett, then threw to first to get Daley, making a double play. The Old Timers had the tieing run on third and the winning run on second.

It was a great ball game to witness. John Oney was the fielding star of the Old Timers, while the hitting honors went to Wild Pat Sullivan of the old Sachem team of the Falls, who got two home runs over the left field fence. Jack Savage, an old time catcher, performed well behind the bat, just as in the olden days, getting two runners at second and one on third by his perfect throwing. The fans received many good laughs but stated after the game that they were more than surprised by the good playing of some of the old boys.

There will be some sore limbs today and a couple of the old timers were looking for a liniment bottle after the game.

COMMON DRINKING CUP IS SPREADER OF DISEASE

A drinking cup that touches the lips of one person and then another may easily spread disease unless it is properly washed and cleansed between each person's use. Recognition of this fact prompted the legislature in 1911 to pass a law specifically providing for rules and regulations by the state board of health prohibiting the use of the common drinking cup. Accordingly the following rule was passed by the state board in October, 1911:

"It shall be unlawful on and after Jan. 1, 1912, to provide a common drinking cup in or upon the premises of any public building, hotel, restaurant, theatre, public hall, schoolhouse or store and in any public park, street, railroad station, railroad car, or steamboat."

Diseases that are spread by material from mouth and nose are the ones especially apt to be spread by the common drinking cup. This would include such common diseases as diphtheria, measles, whooping cough influenza, measles, whooping cough and a number of others. Persons who would protect themselves from these diseases should avoid the use of a drinking cup that has been used by another until the cup has been properly washed and cleansed.

In some places such as soda fountains, and especially in temporary drinking establishments at fairs and carnivals, some difficulty may be experienced in properly washing or cleansing drinking cups. A very convenient way to solve the problem under such circumstances is to use individual paper cups that may be discarded after use by a single person. The use of individual cups at fairs and carnivals will avoid the necessity of the temporary installation of washing facilities where it may be difficult to obtain sufficient hot water.

Should anyone observe the use of a common drinking cup at any time or place, it is suggested by the state board of health that the local health officer be notified, as he is in position to enforce the provisions of Reg. 116 of the sanitary code.

THREE HURT IN CRASH AT MARLBOROUGH CORNER

Three persons were injured, one probably fatally, at Marlborough on the road between Colchester and Glastonbury, in a collision between two automobiles Wednesday.

Most seriously injured was Bert C. Riley of Marlborough, Mass., whose right arm was nearly severed. Witnesses said that fragments of the flesh from Riley's arm were scattered over the highway. He also suffered possible internal injuries. The others hurt were Miss Marion Hankand, also of Marlborough, Mass., who suffered possible internal injuries, and William C. Mulcahy of East Hartford, who suffered a broken collar bone, lacerations of the hands and face, and severe bodily bruises.

Robert Riley, driver of his father's machine, was arrested by police. He and his mother were uninjured. Mrs. Mulcahy, who was riding with her husband at the time of the crash, was also uninjured.

Mr. and Mrs. Mulcahy were on their way to Pleasant View from Hartford while the Riley machine was going in the direction of Hartford. The impact of the collision threw the Mulcahy car against a telephone pole, hurling its driver out and along the highway for about 25 feet.

The elder Mr. Riley, who was riding in the front seat with his son, had his right arm hanging out of the door of the car when the accident occurred and his arm was caught between the two automobiles when they came together.

SUES NORWICH MAN FOR AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

Suit has been brought in the superior court for Hartford county against George H. Kramer of 321 Central avenue, this city, by Fred T. Andres of New Britain on a claim for $1,500 for actual damages and treble damages for violation of the motor vehicle laws of the state.

Andres brings the suit for personal injuries and for damage to his automobile when it was struck by Kramer's car on Aug. 6, 1930 on the Windham road about two miles from Willimantic. In his complaint Andres alleges that he had brought his car to a stop on the extreme right of the road when he observed a 1924 Cadillac owned and driven by Kramer approaching at speed estimated at over 50 miles an hour and moving from one extreme side of the road to the other in a reckless way. The Kramer machine, it is alleged, hit the left front fender, side and wheel of the Andres car and continued on for about 70 feet before stopping. It is further alleged that Kramer was driving without his operator's license at the time and that the plates on the car had been issued for another machine.

MOTOR STOKOR

Automatic Coal Burner

FEEDS in the Coal — TAKES out the ASHES

TO the thousands who have waited until they could have automatic heat with coal, the safe, clean and inexpensive fuel, this announcement will be welcome news.

This rugged, splendidly constructed machine actually feeds in the coal and takes out the ashes.

It keeps your home at uniform temperature, exactly as you like it, regardless of weather.

It attaches to your present heating plant, no matter what kind—warm air, hot water, steam or vapor—we merely take out the grates.

A quiet little electric motor operates the machine and you do not go near it all day long.

A touch of the finger on the Minneapolis-Honeywell thermostat will increase the heat, if you wish, or decrease it. In mild weather this machine will keep the fire alive for less than five cents a day, all ready to come on strong, automatically, night and morning as needed.

The relief from care (if you run your furnace fire yourself) or, if you depend upon the furnace man, the relief of having an always comfortable home is almost too great to put into words.

It would all be worth an increased expense but actually

You save sharply on your fuel bill

Note that the almost-human MotorStoker burns No. 1 Buckwheat coal, effecting an important saving over the larger sizes. You pay from one-third to one-half as much as you would pay for automatic heat from other fuels and make this heavy saving every year for all the years to come.

And, above all, you are safe—your home is safe—your family is safe, for coal cannot explode.

OLD TIMERS DROP TOUGH GAME, 7 TO 6

There were nearly a thousand baseball fans present at the Greeneville playground center last evening to witness the game between the old timers and the senior playground team. The game was nip and tuck and when called by Umpire Frank Sweeney at the end of the sixth inning the score was Playgrounders 7, Old Timers 6. Much excitement was displayed by the fans, who applauded and rooted for their heroes. The Old Timers had a great chance to clinch the game in their final inning with men on third and second base, when James Daley, the Old Timers' second baseman, hit a grounder to First Baseman Pino Quinn, who made a fine play by catching John Mullen at the plate and the catcher, Willett, then threw to first to get Daley, making a double play. The Old Timers had the tieing run on third and the winning run on second.

It was a great ball game to witness. John Oney was the fielding star of the Old Timers, while the hitting honors went to Wild Pat Sullivan of the old Sachem team of the Falls, who got two home runs over the left field fence. Jack Savage, an old time catcher, performed well behind the bat, just as in the olden days, getting two runners at second and one on third by his perfect throwing. The fans received many good laughs but stated after the game that they were more than surprised by the good playing of some of the old boys.

There will be some sore limbs today and a couple of the old timers were looking for a liniment bottle after the game.

HARVARD QUARTERS AT RED TOP TO BE PLACE FOR COUNTY REPUBLICAN MEET

The place for the projected first annual outing of the New London County Republican club has been secured, according to an announcement by the executive committee made on Wednesday, when it was stated that the Harvard Athletic club has granted the use of its crew training quarters at Red Top on the Thames river for the outing. The date has been set for Wednesday, Oct. 1, and as this will be after the republican state convention, the outing will take the form of a ratification meeting and it will be expected that all the nominees on the state republican ticket as well as Governor John H. Trumbull and party leaders and state officers will be present.

It is planned to mail about 2,000 invitations to the affair, but the committee wishes to make it plain that although every republican man and woman in New London county is cordially invited to attend the outing, it is impossible to mail invitations to all of those appearing on the caucus lists of the various towns and that therefore those to whom the invitations will be mailed will be looked upon as a general committee to solicit acceptances to the affair.

An old fashioned clambake will be served at 1 o'clock for which James P. Hayes is to be the caterer and this will be followed by the entertainment programme for which it is expected to secure one of the foremost party orators as the principal speaker. There is also a possibility that a member of President Hoover's cabinet may be on the programme. Nominees on the republican state ticket will also be speakers.

Judge Daniel M. Cronin of New London, president of the New London County Republican club, is chairman ex-officio of the committee and Judge C. C. Costello of Groton is general chairman. Other members are William L. Apley, New London, secretary; John M. Mallon, Jr., New London, treasurer; and Col. W. Ellery Allyn of Waterford and Sheriff George H. Bradford, Montville.

CONTINUANCE AGAIN IN TWO EMBEZZLEMENT CASES

The continued cases against Fred Dulenschneider, 23, and Richard Brownell, 25, both of South Manchester, were called for trial in the city court Wednesday morning but were again continued September 12. While the accused were operating as "bad bill" collectors for several Norwich merchants they are charged with embezzling the collections. They were arrested August 5 on complaint of a local merchant.

It is understood that the men have agreed to turn over to the merchants the money they collected and that to date they have paid over about $500.

Married and Single Men, an annual event, will take place tonight at the J. B. Martin baseball field. A good game is expected. The game will be called at 6.15 o'clock. Umpire John Mullen will be in charge.

FEEDS in the Coal — TAKES out the ASHES

TO the thousands who have waited until they could have automatic heat with coal, the safe, clean and inexpensive fuel, this announcement will be welcome news.

This rugged, splendidly constructed machine actually feeds in the coal and takes out the ashes.

It keeps your home at uniform temperature, exactly as you like it, regardless of weather.

It attaches to your present heating plant, no matter what kind—warm air, hot water, steam or vapor—we merely take out the grates.

A quiet little electric motor operates the machine and you do not go near it all day long.

A touch of the finger on the Minneapolis-Honeywell thermostat will increase the heat, if you wish, or decrease it. In mild weather this machine will keep the fire alive for less than five cents a day, all ready to come on strong, automatically, night and morning as needed.

The relief from care (if you run your furnace fire yourself) or, if you depend upon the furnace man, the relief of having an always comfortable home is almost too great to put into words.

It would all be worth an increased expense but actually

You save sharply on your fuel bill

Note that the almost-human MotorStoker burns No. 1 Buckwheat coal, effecting an important saving over the larger sizes. You pay from one-third to one-half as much as you would pay for automatic heatfrom other fuels and make this heavy saving every year for all the years to come.

And, above all, you are safe—your home is safe—your family is safe, for coal cannot explode.

We invite you to see the Ingenious Motor Stoker in actual operation at The Flower Show in New London Armory, Sept. 5th and 6th.

DEATH TOLL OF HURRICANE IN SANTO DOMINGO WILL EXCEED 300; THOUSANDS INJURED; CITY WAS ALL BUT WIPED OUT

More Than 90 Per Cent of the 40,000 Inhabitants Made Homeless—Business Blocks, Public Buildings and Power Facilities Were Wrecked—Water Famine is Feared—American Red Cross Has Started Relief Measures—Some Estimates Place Deaths at 300 to 1,000

By the Associated Press

The tropical hurricane which roared up from the Caribbean sea and paralyzed the city of Santo Domingo Wednesday had changed its course last night and apparently was heading for the Florida straits, although with diminished force.

With the dead in Santo Domingo estimated from 200 to 1,000 and so many buildings destroyed that probably 90 per cent of the inhabitants were homeless communities in the path of the disturbance watched anxiously for the course of the West Indian scourge.

Both the Belen and the National observatories in Havana reported yesterday afternoon that the hurricane's course had changed. When it began, it swept over the British island of Dominica, in the leeward group, then swept northwestward over the Dominican republic, wrecking Santo Domingo, the capital. It missed the eastern end of the island, containing the Republic of Haiti.

Then the storm swirled northward, and Cuba, which had been in the previous path, breathed easier. But later computations indicated that at least the north shore of Cuba might be touched, likewise the numerous islands of the Bahamas and the Florida Keys. At that time the storm center was placed at 75 west longitude and 22.40 north latitude, or far off the north coast of Cuba and near the beginning of the Great Bahama Banks.

Father Gutierrez Lanza, director of Belen observatory cheered alarmed communities somewhat, however, by a statement that his observations indicated the storm had spent much of its force.

Advices have been fragementary because of disrupted communications, and it is believed that many of the numerous Caribbean islands, as yet unheard from, were touched by the storm.

DEATH AND DEVASTATION WROUGHT IN SANTO DOMINGO

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic, Sept. 4—(AP)—In this beautiful old city, all but wiped out by a hurricane, where 300 or more lie dead and another thousand are injured, relief forces tonight struggled with a colossal task of succor.

Half of the first new world settlement of the white race is in ruins. Homes, business blocks, public buildings, power facilities and the bridge spanning the Ozama river have been battered and twisted into a jumbled wreckage.

No authoritative source tonight could estimate with reasonable accuracy the millions of dollars of property that had been destroyed in the short space of the storm's passing.

Airplanes circled over the scene of ruin early today and gave the world the first view of the catastrophe. Later plans were launched for other planes to transport from Porto Rico and elsewhere every possible form of relief, including medical supplies.

Santo Domingo city faced a water famine, imperilling its 40,000 or more inhabitants. Efforts were begun to send fresh water in from island points by overland truck transport.

The storm hit Santo Domingo yesterday afternoon. It raged for more than an hour. It cut a wide swath across the eastern end of the island. Frightened inhabitants today were still stunned by the immensity of the hurricane.

Port-Au-Prince, metropolis of Haiti, at the other end of the island, escaped the fury of the gale and experienced only unusually high winds and heavy rains. So oblivious was Port-Au-Prince of the disaster in the capital of the neighboring republic that this morning's newspapers carried only a mention of the local storm and no news of the Santo Domingo destruction.

Roads into this city today were all but impassable. The problem of communication likewise presented itself. Only one cable line was restored with temporary equipment and broke a silence of more than 24 hours.

Officials tonight were trying to obtain communication with other points in the republic in an effort to ascertain the full extent of the blow.

ESTIMATES OF DEVASTATION BY GOVERNOR ROOSEVELT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4—(AP)—Governor Roosevelt of Porto Rico cabled the American Red Cross today that estimates of the dead from the Santo Domingo hurricane were ranging from 300 to 1,000, and word from the town indicated 90 per cent of the population was homeless.

A little later, Colonel R. M. Cults, commander of the First Brigade at Port-Au-Prince, Haiti, reported to the marine headquarters that "half the city of Santo Domingo was completely destroyed, 200 were killed and 500 injured."

The navy department announced its approval of a request of Governor Theodore Roosevelt, of Porto Rico, to detail the U. S. S. Grebe, station ship at St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, to report to San Juan to assist in conveying medical attention and supplies to the hurricane stricken region. The request was forwarded to the department by Captain Waldo Evans, U. S. N., retired governor of the Virgin Islands.

The message said: "Following information just received from Pan-American aviator who landed near Santo Domingo city this morning: 'Word from town indicates 90 per cent of population homeless. No estimate of killed or injured.'

"Other cables from All-America Cables company place estimates as low as fifty per cent of town destroyed. All cables, however, indicate great damage and considerable loss of life. Radio towers down. Food, water and medical aid lacking. Estimates of dead running from 300 to 1,000."

AMERICAN RED CROSS STARTS RELIEF MEASURES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4—(AP)—America marshalled her forces of relief today to aid the stricken areas of Santo Domingo and only word of the extent of damage done by yesterday's hurricane was awaited to throw into high gear the combined efforts of the Red Cross and the government.

On the heels of reports that 300 lives were lost in the Dominican republic and the hurricane was beating its way northward, the Red Cross cabled to American Minister Curtis an "initial appropriation" of $15,000 and instructing Captain Antonio Silva, manager of the Porto Rican chapter of the Red Cross and an experienced hurricane relief worker, to proceed by air to the scene.

Meanwhile residents of Cuba and Florida looked anxiously out across the water as weather forecasters declined to commit themselves upon whether they would be struck by the hurricane. Late reports said the hurricane had veered toward Cuba again after apparently turning away from the island.

At the first indication that the American coast might be endangered, the Red Cross expects to organize state chapters into relief units, with special facilities made available from the capital if the step seems warranted.

ROOSEVELT INFORMED 800 DEAD IN SANTO DOMINGO

SAN JUAN, Sept. 4—(AP)—Governor Roosevelt was informed tonight that 800 persons were dead in the city of Santo Domingo alone as the result of the tropical hurricane, with no part of the interior of the Dominican republic heard from.

The governor's information came from Major Cary I. Crockett, who flew from San Juan to the Dominican capital this afternoon.

Major Crockett's estimate was made after he had conferred with President Trujillo and Charles B. Curtis, American minister.

STORM WARNING ISSUED BY WEATHER BUREAU

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4—(AP)—The weather bureau tonight issued the following storm warning:

"Advisory: 9 p. m., the tropical disturbance is apparently central near the northeast coast of Cuba between Baracoa and Neuvitas with considerably lessened intensity, no wind of gale force being reported tonight. The disturbance will likely continue moving west northwestward and reach Florida straits by or during Friday night."

TWO TORRINGTON MEN INDICTED FOR MURDER

TORRINGTON, Sept. 4.—(AP)—First degree murder indictments were returned by the grand jury in superior court at Litchfield late today against Domenic Chiarello and Theodore Adamo in the slaying on May 9 of Antonio Russo.

Counsel for the defendants, who were remanded to the Litchfield county jail without bonds, filed a motion immediately after the indictments had been returned, seeking separate trials for the men. Judge Frank P. McEvoy reserved decision on the motion pending the filing of citations.

A verdict of suicide was given by the medical examiner when Russo's body was found in a woods here near his home. A farewell note and a revolver found near the body formed the basis for the verdict. An autopsy, however, later revealed that in addition to a bullet wound in the head, Russo had one in the back. Police also learned that Russo was not the author of the farewell note, since he was unable to write.

Ciarello and Adamo are expected to be tried during the September term of the superior court.

KIDNAPER IDENTIFIED BY MOTHER OF VICTIM

NEW YORK, Sept. 4—(AP)—The Grace Budd kidnaping case was reopened today when police said Mrs. Della Budd positively identified a prisoner described as Holard Pope, 60, as the man who took her ten-year old daughter away from her home two years ago. The child was never found, although a nation-wide search was made.

The man was arrested by detectives after they noticed that his description tallied with that of the man sought in connection with the girl's disappearance. He said he was a caretaker for several uptown apartment houses.

Mrs. Budd and a woman friend said at police headquarters that Pope, known to them as Frank Howard, took the girl away from her home on June 3, 1928. Police questioned him at length as to his movements since that time in an attempt to gain possible knowledge of the child's whereabouts.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Sept. 4.—(AP)—Gaining its fourth victory in as many days, the American six meter yacht team won the 1930 series for the British-American cup today, thus avenging the defeat it suffered at Great Britain's hands in the inaugural series on the Clyde in 1928. The Americans sailed only three boats against four for Great Britain today, yet outscored the invaders, 20 1-4 to 15.

BANDIT FATALLY SHOT BY NEW HAVEN POLICEMAN

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 4.—(AP)—Coroner James J. Corrigan, late today, completed his official inquiry into the fatal shooting of Archer Lafo, West Haven bandit, by a New Haven policeman.

The body of Lafo was taken to a hospital this afternoon for an autopsy.

The man, the father of four children, was shot down early today as he and George B. Moore of the Annex (32nd ward of the town), New Haven, attempted to hold up Officer James J. McHugh, member of the local vice squad. Moore, who fled, was captured later and positively identified by McHugh.

In West Haven court, Moore was held under $10,000 bonds on a charge of attempted robbery.

The attempted hold-up and shooting occurred on a lonely road in West Haven. Officer McHugh said he had been on a social call in West Haven and, wearing civilian clothes, was driving at a slow rate of speed.

Lafo and Moore, he said, pulled their automobile across the highway in front of his. As Lafo, brandishing an iron drill, approached, the policeman jumped from his car with his revolver in his hand. Lafo ran and McHugh fired twice, one of the shots striking below the heart.

Moore, the officer reported, held a revolver, and police today searched the vicinity for some trace of it.

With the blue bandana mask over his face, Lafo staggered to his machine and slumped behind the wheel, dead.

Moore escaped, only to be captured a half hour later by a policeman from West Haven, driving to the scene.

Lafo had been sought in connection with a series of hold-ups which have occurred in this vicinity recently.

SING SING INMATE STABBED ANOTHER CONVICT TO DEATH

OSSINING, N. Y., Sept. 4—(AP)—An inmate of Sing Sing prison, believed to have harbored a grudge over the division of the loot of a bank robbery, stabbed another convict to death tonight in the prison recreation hall before a keeper and a large group of prisoners.

The victim, Joseph Raymond Klune, 28, was stabbed once in the abdomen with a seven-inch knife from the prison kitchen. Harry Lipschitz, 26, was taken before Warden Lewis E. Lawes and coolly admitted the stabbing, authorities said. He had stolen the knife, they declared, and concealed it for several weeks in the hope of meeting Klune.

Keeper Charles Neidhardt said Lipschitz walked up to Klune and stabbed him after a short conversation. Then Lipschitz ran into the office of the Mutual Welfare league and surrendered.

Lawes said Lipschitz resented not having been given a "cut" in the proceeds of a $6,700 bank robbery in Woodhaven, Queens, staged by Klune and another man.

Lipschitz, a fourth offender, was sentenced in 1928 to life for robbery, grand larceny and assault. Klune came to Sing Sing last year to serve a five to ten year sentence for the bank robbery.

HEAVY DAMAGE BY FIRE TO STATEN ISLAND BREWERY

NEW YORK, Sept. 4—(AP)—Fire which broke out late today shortly after 150 employes left the Rubsam and Hormann brewery at Stapleton, Staten Island, made such rapid progress that firemen believed the $2,500,000 plant would be a total loss.

Five alarms, summoning most of the apparatus of Staten Island and equipment from Lower Manhattan, were sent in as the flames spread rapidly from a storeroom on the fourth floor of the seven story brick building. The storeroom contained barrels of ammonia and other chemicals.

There were several slight explosions. Huge masses of smoke attracted thousands of persons to the scene and all traffic was cut off on streets nearby. The Boyd Hill residential section, not far from the brewery, was said to be in little danger.

The brewery, one of the largest in the east, was built in 1878. It has been used for the manufacture of beverages and artificial ice.

CAUCUSES IN NEW HAVEN WERE HARMONIOUS

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 4—(AP)—Harmony prevailed at the republican caucuses held tonight in the 33 wards of this city to elect delegates to the city convention, which will be held tomorrow night.

Delegations in two wards were instructed for candidates seeking the senatorial nomination in the eighth district. The 13th ward pledged its delegation to Mrs. Mary E. Farnsworth, while the 16th ward passed a resolution supporting the candidacy of Charles Griffith.

New York Welcomes European Jurists

Mayor Walker, in Hi[illegible] dress, Referred to [illegible]als in the City Judi[illegible]

NEW YORK, Sept. [illegible]—A municipal welcome with the [illegible]dal accompaniment of crowds and noise and speeches was extended today to a group of distinguished European jurists, but their spokesman disclaimed for them the attributes of popular idols.

"I am afraid it is only too true that we are not a deputation of heroes," said Sir William Jowitt, attorney general of Great Britain, speaking for members of the bench and bar from England, France and Germany, here to attend a conference on international law.

"But suppose we merely represent public opinion, which, in democracies such as ours, in the long run shapes the destinies of nations. I claim there is no body of men in the world better able to present great public issues to our nations than the lawyers."

Mayor Walker, who greeted them at City hall, referred to current scandals in the city's judiciary in his address of welcome and said even the bench is not safe from "the antics of politicians."

"I am not unmindful," he said, "that if the politician has full swing in his mad chase after impossible laurels, he tears down the bench and destroys the confidence of the people in the bench. There is but one inevitable result, and that will be bolshevism and the end of us all."

Ten of the visiting jurists, who included Sir John Simon, chairman of Great Britain's Indian statutory commission, were awarded honorary degrees as doctors of law by Columbia university at a ceremony which preceded the city reception.

After each guest of the city received a medal commemorating the event, the lawyers were luncheon guests of the Chamber of Commerce of the state of New York.

The International Law association continued its sessions today with discussion of a report on the effect of war on contracts.

BELIEVE CRATER PLANNED DROPPING OUT OF SIGHT

NEW YORK, Sept. 4—(AP)—Evidence uncovered in the last few days led official investigators today to the belief that Supreme Court Justice Joseph Force Crater, missing since Aug. 6, deliberately dropped out of sight.

Police Commissioner Mulrooney disclosed that Joseph Mara, the justice's confidential attendant, who is also missing now, told detectives Judge Crater destroyed some personal papers before he left, told him he was going, and pledge dhim to secrecy.

In Justice Crater's apartment in lower Fifth avenue, detectives found his watch and other monogrammed jewelry, the police commissioner said, and other evidence, which he did not make public, that identification marks had been removed from the justice's clothing.

"I am going up Westchester way (Westchester county is north of New York city) and I don't want you to tell a single soul about it," is what Crater told Mara, Commissioner Mulrooney said.

From the time Justice Crater disappeared until three days ago Mara called daily at the Crater apartment and collected his employer's mail, Mulrooney said.

But now Mara also is missing, and the police today could not locate Frederic Johnson, Crater's secretary. Mara, the son of a Tammany leader, dropped out of sight three days ago, police said.

GANDHI AND ASSOCIATES REJECT PEACE PROPOSALS

BOMBAY, Sept. 4.—(AP)—Definite rejection by Mahatma Gandhi and his associates of proposals for peace in India through cessation of the civil disobedience campaign today dashed the hopes of the moderate envoys who had been in conference with the nationalist leader for many weeks.

It was announced upon reliable authority that while conversations between the "holy one," his co-leaders and Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru and Mr. Jayakar would be held at Poona, there would be no further discussion of possible terms by which the salt raids and other forms of "passive resistance" to the government would be interrupted pending the forthcoming round table conference in London.

Tomorrow's meeting, it was declared by political leaders, is merely for the purpose of receiving Gandhi's rejection of the peace proposals. This is in keeping with reports which have emanated from Yeroda jail and the prison of the Pandits Nehru at Allahabad for some days.

TO LIFT ATTACHMENT ON PLANE COLUMBIA

MONTREAL, Sept. 4.—(AP)—The legal fog which had held them earthbound for several days lifted today and Captain J. Errol Boyd, Canadian flier, and Lieut. Harry P. Connor, navigator, laid new plans for their proposed flight to England in the old trans-Atlantic monoplane Columbia.

John O'Brien, backer of the flight, arranged to post a bond and lift a writ of attachment on the Columbia which had been obtained by Roger Q. Williams as agent for its owner, Charles A. Levine.

Boyd and Connor have decided to break their flight at Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, instead of continuing without a stop to London, as they originally planned.

Levitt-Pape Ticket Delegates Defeated

In Fairfield County Towns—Waterbury Loyal to the State Organization

WATERBURY, Sept. 4—(AP)—Delegates pledged to the support of the local and state organizations, were elected at the republican primaries here, tonight by a vote of 1,792 to 879. The so-called Levitt-ticket whose object was the overthrow of the republican state organization, received 647 votes. The Callan ticket, pledged to the overthrow of the local organization, received 232 votes. Both these tickets, however, carried the same delegates' names. The regular organization ticket received 1,792 votes.

The regular republican organization carried every ward, in most cases by nearly two to one. The combined Levitt and Callan forces made their best showing in the first and third wards, where they were beaten slightly less than two to one. In the fourth ward, which is the heaviest democratic ward of the city and consequently where there are the fewest republicans, the regular organization won by more than seven to one.

LITCHFIELD COUNTY STICKS TO OLD MACHINE

WATERBURY, Sept. 4—(AP)—Litchfield county stuck to old machine names when casting its ballots for delegates to the republican conventions in a score or more of towns tonight, though in each town in the county the delegates went uninstructed to the major conventions.

In Torrington, Representative Arthur Weigold will head a delegation, which, while not instructed is understood to be with the state machine. Charles R. Roraback is seen as successor to Henry Ellis on the state central committee. Roraback is a cousin of J. Henry Roraback, state chairman.

Sheriff Frank Turkington, of Litchfield, will meet no opposition for the county post while the majority of delegates elected are expected to favor the candidacy of Edward W. Goss, of Waterbury for congress.

The entire Winsted town committee was re-elected and a list of delegates elected which savors of machine candidacies. A hard fight staged by delegates favorable to the Levitt-Pape ticket in several towns ended in defeat in each instance.

The same story was told by Naugatuck's tabulation. The rubber borough selected old time standbyes to represent it at the various conventions. The congressional fight is creating the most interest there because of the candidacy of Judge of Probate Martin E. Gormley, on the democratic side The delegates elected for the congressional convention are in favor of Edward W. Goss, of Waterbury.

SEYMOUR SUPPORTERS CLAIM LANDSLIDE VICTORY

HARTFORD, Sept. 4—(AP)—Supporters of Col. Clarence W. Seymour as the republican nominee for congress over Congressman E. Hart Fenn, claimed a convention victory of landslide proportions as the result of the caucuses in the towns of the first district tonight.

Frank Newton, one of the Seymour spokesmen, tonight declared himself "inexpressably pleased" with the results of the caucuses. At Seymour headquarters, after returns had been received from the caucuses, the congressman was conceded only 12 of the 106 convention votes.

Mayor George A. Quigley, of New Britain, appears with a potential strength of eight votes in the convention, six from New Britain and two from Burlington.

Except in Burlington, the delegates were not pledged, but in nearly every town caucus sentiment, as reported by town chairmen or other leaders, appeared strongly for Seymour. Exceptions were Wethersfield, where the four delegates were named for Congressman Fenn, and Rocky Hill, whose two delegates are reported to be for Fenn. At least one Fenn delegate appeared in the Marlborough delegation and at least one more from Southington.

Col. Seymour late tonight mailed to each of the elected delegates a letter congratulating him upon his election and soliciting his support for the nomination and promising, if elected, to "do everything humanly possible not only to protect, but also to advance, the interests of the district I represent, the state, and the country as a whole."

Seymour campaign headquarters will be opened here tomorrow.

ORGANIZATION WING WINS IN BRIDGEPORT

BRIDGEPORT, Sept. 4—(AP)—The re-organization movement, sponsoring the candidacy of Charles L. Dennis for town chairman, was overwhelmingly defeated in the republican primaries tonight. Delegates favorable to the election of J. William Hope as chairman, were chosen in every district.

It was a clean sweep of the city for the organization wing of the party. Although two district chairmen, former Director of Public Works A. J. Northey, of the second and William E. Primrose, of the ninth, were defeated in fights for control of their sections, delegates were elected in each instance that are classed as organization. It was Northey's first primary defeat in more than 30 years as district chairman.

Seven thousand votes were cast in the primaries for 27 delegate tickets.

COSTE AND BELLONTE LAND QUESTION MARK AT DALLAS

Brought the Plane Down There at 5.29.45 C. S. T. Yesterday, Thereby Winning Cash Prize of $25,000—Made Non-Stop Flight From New York in 11 Hours, 34 Minutes, 45 Seconds—150 National Guardsmen and 50 Policemen Were Unable to Restrain the Crowd at the Field—Elapsed Time From Paris to Dallas Was 48 Hours, 55 Minutes, 15 Seconds

DALLAS, Tex., Sept. 4—(AP)—Capt. Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte, French air heroes, landed their scarlet trans-Atlantic sesquiplane Question Mark here at 5:29:45 p. m. (C. S. T.) today, capturing the $25,000 Easterwood prize offered for the first successful Paris-New York-Dallas flight.

A huge crowd gathered at Love field gave the Frenchmen a vociferous greeting as they ended their 1,600-mile non-stop flight from New York after 11 hours, 34 minutes and 45 seconds in the air.

Whisked away from the field after brief welcoming ceremonies, at which they made short speeches, over a national radio hookup expressing appreciation for the warm reception, the fliers headed a parade through the streets of Dallas.

Captain Coste said flying conditions over the route from New York had been favorable, and no difficulty had been encountered in completing the hop, which was rather prosaic after the stormy crossing of the Atlantic.

The total elapsed time from Paris to Dallas via New York was 48 hours 52 minutes and 11 seconds.

No immediate decision was made as to when the return flight to the east will be started, but the fliers had announced they would remain in Dallas only long enough to rest and have their plane placed in condition.

Presentation of the $25,000 award won by Coste and Bellonte probably will be made in New York. Col. William Easterwood, Jr., Dallas chewing gum distributor, who is the donor, announced in London today that the contract called for a personal presentation either in Paris, New York or Dallas. He said if the air men remained in the United States until he could reach this country the check probably would be handed over in New York. Easterwood described the feat of the Frenchman as "the world's greatest flight."

Before returning to France the fliers will make a good will tour of the United States, including a visit to Washington where they will be received by President Hoover and other high government officials. Under tentative arrangements they will arrive in Washington next Sunday from New York for a stay of three days and be the guests of the president at a white house luncheon Tuesday.

The throng of admirers, estimated in excess of 10,000, many of whom had sore necks from hours of gazing skyward searching for the Frenchmen, could not be held back by the 150 National Guardsmen and 50 city policemen as the Question Mark touched its wheels on the ground at Love field.

The plane scooted the full length of the field before it came to a stop. Before Coste and Bellonte could remove their goggles soldiers and policemen were fighting almost vainly to keep the crowd from lifting the flyers bodily from the sturdy craft.

A convoy of six ships, carrying a delegation of welcomers and a transport loaded with newspapermen, which left the field hurriedly an hour earlier to keep a rendezvous with the French plane at Greenville, about 50 miles away, did not return for more than an hour after Coste and Bellonte had been officially received and had been escorted through the city along streets lined by thousands of cheering persons.

COSTE AND BELLONTE TO FLY TO LOUISVILLE TODAY

DALLAS, Tex., Sept. 4—(AP)—Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte, will leave Dallas tomorrow morning at [illegible] or 8 o'clock and fly to Louisville, Ky., for an overnight stop, continuing on to New York Saturday, their manager Rene Racover announced tonight.

Racover first announced shortly after arrival here that the return trip to New York would be non-stop starting early tomororw morning. Racover said the time of the trip to Washington had not been determined.

TO MAKE GOOD WILL TOUR OF THE COUNTRY

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—(AP)—A definite announcement today said that Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte will make a good will tour of this country before returning to their own land. The flight will be made at the invitation of a committee headed by Charles Hayden, banker. The personnel of the committee was not announced, nor was the itinerary.

The flight has the approval of both the American and French governments.

SHAMROCK'S MEASUREMENTS MEET ALL REQUIREMENTS

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 4.—(AP)—Shamrock V, Sir Thomas Lipton's fifth challenger for the America's cup, was measured today and found to meet all requirements for competition in the greatest of all yachting classics, which will open off here next week. She and the defender, Enterprise, skippered by Harold S. Vanderbilt will cross the starting line nine miles southeast of Brenton Reef lightship in their opening contest Sept. 13. The first boat to score four victories will be declared the winner.

Sir Thomas' sleek green sloop was towed over to the naval training station on Coaster's Harbor Island for the measuring ceremonies by Captain Bill Champion, veteran Atlantic coast pilot. Prof. Harold W. Webb of the mathematics department of Columbia university acted as official measurer. Professor Webb acted in a similar capacity for the two last Shamrocks.

The measuring was under the supervision of two naval officers, while several representatives of Sir Thomas looked on. They included Charles Nicholson, Shamrock V's designer, and her skipper, Captain Ned Heard.

Professor Webb's task will not be completed until he submits his report to the New York Yacht club, custodian of the famous trophy won by the yacht America in 1851. The report will be such a maze of figures that no layman would understand it.

STUDENTS AND POLICE FIGHT IN BUENOS AIRES

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 4.—(AP)—One person was killed and two wounded tonight, in a clash between police and several thousand students, who marched toward the government house.

After the shooting the shouting students left the Plaza de Mayo and marched down the Calle Florida, shopping center. They re-formed their procession and marched without incident.

After a few moments on the Calle Florida the students returned to the Plaza de Mayo, carrying aloft handkerchiefs soaked in the blood of their companions who had fallen and shouting "Assassins."

When they reached the plaza a new demonstration was headed by Dr. Alfredo Palacios, dean of the law school of the University of Buenos Aires.

MRS. M'CORMICK WILL HAVE WOMAN RIVAL FOR ELECTION

CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—(AP)—The unprecedented situation in which two women rivals will contest with a former senator for a seat in the United States senate was assured today when Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill, Illinois' first woman legislator, declared she would file for the office as an independent.

Mrs. O'Neill, a republican and militant prohibitionist, said "The dry people of Illinois are not satisfied with the declarations of the state convention," which held that its senatorial candidate, Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, would be guided on prohibition by a state referendum. James Hamilton Lewis, former senator and democratic nominee, has urged repeal of all prohibition laws.

The referendum, to be held in conjunction with the senatorial election, Nov. 4, embodies expressions on both state and national prohibition laws.

"I am being run by a number of organizations that are disappointed with the republican platform declaration," Mrs. O'Neill said.

FIRE DAMAGED PLANE AT EAST BOSTON AIRPORT

BOSTON, Sept. 4.—(AP)—The plane which Russell N. Boardman planned to hop off with soon on a trans-Atlantic flight in the interests of the American Legion, was partially destroyed by fire at the East Boston airport here late today.

Boardman and a mechanic had a narrow escape from injury as the plane burst into flames while the mechanic was fueling it and Boardman sat in the pilot's seat. Both clambered to safety and joined with workmen and other pilots in putting out the fire.

The fabric of the entire right wing and fuselage was destroyed but the motor and left side were not damaged.

Boardman had been making test flights the past few days in preparation for a take-off for Harbor Grace, N. F., which he expected to make by Sunday. He planned to tour Europe in his plane, if the crossing was made safely, advertising the American Legion convention which opens here Oct. 6.

HARTFORD, Sept. 4.—(AP)—Charles J. Moore of Torrington was re-elected president of the Connecticut Federation of Labor, at the state convention held here today. He polled 87 votes as against 36 by his opponent, James P. Donahue, of Waterbury. The latter moved that the vote be made unanimous and the motion was carried.

The vote for presidency was the only one on the ballot on which there was any contest, the remaining names requiring but one vote for election. John J. Egan of Bridgeport was again elected secretary-treasurer of the organization and was also chosen a state delegate to the American Federation of Labor convention.

The five men nominated for vice-president positions were unanimously elected. Arthur J. Wallace of Greenwich, and Cornelius W. A number of Hanover people went away for an outing during the week end and Labor day. Judge Adams and family with the Smiths and guests were at Poquonock, the Blackburns with guests were at Provincetown, and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Doyle and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ladd were visitors in Bridgeport.

Among visitors here during the holiday were Mr. and Mrs. James McFadden and Hugh McFadden, and Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Lennon, of Dover New Hampshire, at the Gessner home, quite a large party from Brooklyn, New York, at the Alexander home in Fullertown; Mr. and Mrs. Knight, formerly of Vernon Centre, and during the past few years, Florida, at the Gallup home, and sons of Mrs. Charles Kusian at her home.

It is a pleasure to friends to see Mrs. Frank Crombie well again, and Earl Papineau enjoying the outdoor air. All expect soon to see Charles Rood driving his car again after complete recovery from his severe illness.

Samuel Horowitz, after finishing his summer engagement the morning of Labor day, has returned to the home of his daughter, Mrs. Albert Moscowits. He admits that he does like Hanover, though Tennessee does very well for a little while in the winter time.

W. J. Brown, Nowata, Okla., pipeline walker, has covered 73,800 miles in the last thirteen years, walking eighteen miles every week day during that time.

Announcing a New Program of Vital Interest to Owners and Buyers of Fine Cars

Introducing brilliant new products and deeply lowered prices

Six months ago, Cadillac's international reputation as the foremost builder of fine motor cars was tremendously advanced by the announcement of the Cadillac V-16—immediately acclaimed the world's finest automobile . . . Now, out of an experience which produced this great car—and which has built and marketed more than 600,000 Cadillacs and La Salles—comes a new Cadillac and a new La Salle, both V-8's and (shortly to be announced) a new Cadillac V-type 12-cylinder car—sharing and benefiting in all that has contributed to the brilliant success of the V-16 . . . The Cadillac Motor Car Company presents in the new Cadillac and La Salle, strikingly new elements of value in appearance, performance and comfort, but of even more timely interest, extremely low prices—the lowest prices in the last twelve years of Cadillac history.

THE NEW EIGHT-CYLINDER
CADILLAC
PRICES RANGING FROM $2695 TO $3795 f. o. b. Detroit
Prices lowered from $600 to $900

The New Eight-Cylinder CADILLAC

The new Cadillac Eight—embodying every sound, high principle established by Cadillac throughout the years—is one of the fruits of the greatest manufacturing program in all Cadillac history.

It surpasses all previous Cadillac Eights in performance and beauty—in the originality of its design, the costly richness of its interiors and the craftsmanship of its Fisher and Fleetwood bodies.

And still the prices are much lower.

It has raised Cadillac standards of engineering and manufacture—embodying features developed by the Cadillac V-16, which confer upon it still greater steadiness, quiet, ease and riding restfulness.

THE NEW EIGHT-CYLINDER
La SALLE
PRICES RANGING FROM $2195 TO $3245 f. o. b. Detroit
Prices lowered from $245 to $750

The New Eight-Cylinder LA SALLE

La Salle benefits again by its association with Cadillac—and especially by the greatly expanded Cadillac manufacturing program.

Nothing less than this, and La Salle's share in the economies effected by General Motors could possibly accomplish such a saving for the public in the fine car field.

The brilliant new La Salle offers a new and more powerful V-type eight-cylinder motor, greater beauty of bodies, designed by Fisher and Fleetwood, greater richness of upholstery, and interior appointments.

By the simple logic of building better and better—La Salle puts into the hands of a vastly larger public a car of fine calibre never before within their reach.

THE NEW V-TYPE 12-CYLINDER CADILLAC

Cadillac will shortly announce a highly important addition to the Cadillac line—rounding it out into complete coverage of the fine car field. . . . After a year of demonstration side by side with the 16, the new V-type twelve-cylinder Cadillac is almost ready for public presentation. It will be a superfine car of 140-143-inch wheelbase, ranging in price from $3795 to $4995, f. o. b. Detroit. . . . The Cadillac V-12 will be announced and delivered to the public at a very early date

The Cadillac complete line will consist of THE LA SALLE V-8—THE CADILLAC V-8—THE CADILLAC V-12—THE CADILLAC V-16. Ranging in price from $2195 to $15,000.

DANIELSON

LOCAL WOMAN INJURES LEG IN STORE AT BOSTON

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 4.—Miss Carrie L. Fellows of North Main street was a patient in the City hospital in Boston today, awaiting determination by physicians of the nature of an injury to her leg. Miss Fellows fell yesterday on an escalator in a store in Boston while she presumably was shopping. Details of how the accident happened were not known to her friends here today. Miss Fellows, who is of advanced years and daughter of a former Congregational pastor at Wauregan, left here last Friday to visit in Cambridge with Miss Alice Greene, formerly of Danielson. She had left there for her train to return home, and evidently stopped in some store to do shopping when the accident befell her. First reports received here were from Boston police to Chief John McFarland and gave the information that Miss Fellows had broken her leg. Later advices today were to the effect that the exact nature of the injury could not be determined until after an x-ray had been made.

Report is made of the purchase by Charles Van Brunt Cushman, wealthy Pomfret resident, of a six-passenger cabin Stimson plane. Few aeroplanes have been owned in Windham county to date. The first to be purchased by any Danielson resident was brought in here two years ago by Alanson Colvin, who has since become a well-known pilot, who operates regularly in Rhode Island. The Cushman plane is said to be a splendid one and to have recently flown from Montreal to Pomfret in about three hours.

Cashier Ralph Dunbar of the Windham County National bank was the speaker at this evening's meeting of the Danielson Rotary club at Paco lodge. Mr. Dunbar discussed matters pertaining to the club in an interesting manner.

Lieut. Governor Ernest E. Rogers of New London has accepted an invitation to come here to attend the boxing exhibition to be staged in the interest of the Nurses' Home fund of the Day Kimball hospital. Mr. Rogers has written Promoter Frank Barber that he will be on hand.

Lieut. Henry Stoddard, C. A. C., Reserve, will commence a two months' period of training at Fort Monroe, Va., on Saturday of this week. Lieutenant Stoddard, a former member of the Service battery stationed here, is a graduate of the C. M. T. C., and has been making an excellent record in his military work. During July he had two weeks of training at Fort Wright. During the next two months he will attend the Coast Artillery school.

Danielson's denominational churches will go back to the regular order of services next Sunday, following the arrangements that were in force during July and August to permit the pastors having their annual vacations. Rev. Harding W. Gaylord will conduct the morning and evening services at the Westfield Congregational church. Rev. C. J. Armstrong will have returned from his vacation and will occupy the pulpit at the Sunday services at the Baptist church, as will Rev. Albert Abbott at the Methodist Episcopal church. Rev. A. E. Galbo will preach at the services at the Nazarene church.

Chief John McFarland made a tour of inspection of various streets in the borough this afternoon, looking for [illegible] and girls who have recently [illegible] a practice of riding their bicycles on the new sidewalks, contrary to borough ordinance. The practice has [illegible] so common of late as to give [illegible] so many complaints from people that the chief is bent on having [illegible] practice stopped.

The fascination that antiques have for a great many people, the interest they show in them and the prices they are willing to pay for them has been strikingly illustrated at Brooklyn recently, when a sale was held in Unitarian hall, in the church of that denomination dating back to Revolutionary times. The items offered for sale were choice and, in many cases, very rare. The sale drew an attendance that packed the hall to its capacity. Among the purchasers, after spirited bidding, were Mrs. Susan Peck McAneeny, wife of the president of the Hudson Motor Car Co. of Detroit, who has a summer place in Scotland; Mrs. Louis L. Lorrilard, Charles F. Swain of Pomfret, Mr. and Mrs. George F. Miles and Mrs. R. B. Noyes of Pomfret; Mrs. Carolyn A. L. Bowen and the family of Hamilton Holt, president of Rollins college at Winter Park, Fla., now summering at the Holt homestead in Woodstock; H. E. Welles, president of the American Optical Co. of Southbridge, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wesson of the same city. Samuel B. Swan, president of the Narragansett Electric Light Co. of Providence, Mrs. Swan, Irving H. Sweet and family of Oakland, R. I., Mrs. R. P. Bates of North Windham, Clarence E. Carpenter and a party of friends from Norwich, John F. Street of Pawtucket and Hampton, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Peabody of Hampton and Detroit, Mrs. Edward Boutelle of Hope Valley R. I., Ethel M. Carter of Elliott and Boston, Dr. George M. Burroughs and Dr. and Mrs. Robert F. Souther, Mrs. W. H. Brooke and daughter, all of Danielson.

Because he failed to stop when signaled to do so last night by State Officer Henry Mayo, Harold Thomley of Dayville was before Judge W. Fenner Woodward in the town court this morning, charged with failure to obey an officer. The accused was represented by Judge Sabin S. Russell as counsel. Judge Woodward found him guilty and imposed a fine of $5 and costs, $4 of the fine being remitted.

The incident apparently grew out of a misunderstanding on the part of Thomley. State Officer Mayo was in civilian clothes when he signaled to Thomley to stop his machine, that the officer might check as to the manner in which the car was being operated. Thomley paid no heed and the officer finally fired a shot from his gun to bring him to a halt.

Lieut. Ross V. Urquhart, commanding officer at the Danielson barracks, was in Hartford today, attending a conference of state police lieutenants from various parts of Connecticut with higher officials of the department. These conferences are held periodically.

Members of corn growers report that they have had very good success this year in controlling the European corn borer as result of following the advice of the County Farmers' association agent and other officials as to keeping the pest in check.

Only a little more than three weeks will elapse before this territory will abandon its daylight saving scheme of things for the year. A standard time schedule of doing things will be resumed here on Sunday, Sept. 28.

Construction of new sidewalks [illegible] School street is practically done. The walks are on the west side of the street from Academy to Cottage street and from Cottage street south are along the east side of the street.

As is customary each September, enumerators soon will begin the task of checking the number of children resident within the limits of Killingly that are between 4 and 16 years of age. The total enumerated will determine the amount of money the town will receive from the state for educational purposes on the basis of $2.25 per young person enumerated.

Occupants of a car bearing an Oklahoma registration were interested and pleased when they found upon returning to where it was parked here that Chief John McFarland had, in their absence, attached a Welcome-to-Danielson tag bearing the information that such tourists are given unlimited parking privileges here.

Chief A. P. Woodward is again urging upon property owners the desirability of having chimneys of their homes or chimneys of other buildings used regularly during the cold weather season cleaned at once. Since Chief Woodward inaugurated a campaign along these lines several years ago there has been a decided reduction in the number of chimney fires in Danielson. Incidentally, the new borough charter has a provision requiring property owners to clean chimneys of their buildings at least once a year, and there is a penalty for not doing so.

Supt. W. E. Parker of Killingly's schools said this morning that the registrations in various schools of the town have increased by about 30 since the original report on the first day, Tuesday of this week, of the present school year.

There is still time for you to make your deposit in our savings department and have it draw interest from the first of the month. The Windham County National Bank.—adv.

Friends here received cards today from Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Babson and their daughter Eloise, of the West Side, who were at Niagara Falls yesterday.

Several of Danielson's amateur boxers in the Louis Peloquin stable are to take part in bouts scheduled to be held in Westerly the coming week.

The effort of Sarah Williams Danielson chapter, D. A. R., to aid the Day Kimball hospital Nurses' Home fund by arranging presentation of a picture at the Orpheum theatre was very much of a success and will yield a considerable revenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederic O. Armington have received cards from their son, Donald Williams Armington, who has been on a trip to the coast with Alex LeBelle. The most recent cards received here were dated in Nebraska. The young men are now homeward bound.

Miniature golf appears to be capturing the fancy of many Danielson people, who find it very good fun as well as interesting and requiring considerable skill.

Arrangements are practically completed for the annual Brooklyn fair. The programs for the two big days this year will be much the same as in other recent years.

PUTNAM

PUPILS AT ST. MARY'S SCHOOL NUMBER 850

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 4.—With the tabulation of enrollment records at St. Mary's school completed, Rev. Ernest J. Boileau, principal of the school stated this afternoon that 850 pupils comprised the student body of the parochial institution to make up the largest single enrollment of any school in the city. A comparison of the figures submitted in Father Boileau's report with the public school enrollment returns of yesterday showed the St. Mary's record falls but 80 pupils short of equalling the number of students attending the combined public schools.

The attendance there is one of the largest recorded in many years and is an increase of 13 pupils over the enrollment of 1929. The eighth grade class, according to Father Boileau, was so large that it became necessary for the faculty to establish an additional class, there being 34 students in one division and 33 in the second. The filing of class returns by the parochial school principal today raised the number of scholars enrolled in Putnam schools to 1,710.

PUTNAM RESIDENT DIES WHILE VISITING AT MONSON

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 4.—Miss Jennie A. West, an old resident of Putnam, died while on a visit at the home of her niece, Mrs. John Nelligan, of Monson, Mass., today. Miss West is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Nettie Royce and Miss Catherine West, of Monson, Mass., and one brother Burt West, of Rockville, this state. Miss West was born in Tolland, Conn., January 15 1858 the daughter of C. Maran West and Mary Eliza Royce. She has made her home for 48 years with L. E. Smith at 46 Church street, this city, and for many years has been a member of the Second Congregational church of Putnam.

WEDDING

LePire—Chapdelaine

A pretty early morning wedding took place at St. Mary's church today at 6:30 o'clock, as Miss Jacqueline Chapdelaine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Chapdelaine of this city, and Leodore LePire, of Bullock street, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John B. LePire, were united in marriage by Rev. U. O. Bellerose, the pastor. Rev. Father Bellerose was also celebrant of a nuptial mass. The arrangements were simple. The couple entered the church where only immediate friends were assembled, to the strains of the Wedding March, from Lohengrin, played by Miss Rose Metras, church organist. Miss Chapdelaine was attended by Mrs. P. Edgar Lucier and Mr. Lucier attended Mr. LePire as best man. Following the ceremony the bridal party was tendered a wedding breakfast which was served at the bride's home on School street. Mr. and Mrs. LePire departed this forenoon for New York city where they will spend their honeymoon.

Mrs. LePire is a graduate of Putnam high school, class of 1927, and is well known in Putnam. The groom is an operator at the power station of the Connecticut Light and Power company at Mechanicsville. He assumed this position after completing his education in local schools.

Believe it or not, East Putnam snakes are becoming air minded. This morning, Thomas G. Daniels of Plainfield, county game warden, and a local newspaperman, while riding the game patrol in the vicinity of East Putnam were afforded the rare opportunity of seeing a black snake take to the air, secured in the claws of a hen hawk, whose pirating expedition into a large hen yard suddenly came to an end with two blasts from a farmer's shot gun. The reptile was seen gliding smoothly through grass on the side of the highway and apparently had been under observation of the bird's keen eye for several minutes before the hawk suddenly swooped down directly in front of the warden's automobile, snatched its prey with lightning-like rapidity and made away in erratic flight, successfully eluding a shot from the officer's pistol. The snake, a fair sized black one from all appearances was as surprised as were the two men who watched the aerial maneuvering of the hawk. The reptile squirmed and twisted but was unable to secure a release from the tenacles of the flying hawk.

The condition of Fire Chief Ralph E. Thurston, patient at the Truesdell hospital in Fall River, Mass., was reported slightly improved today.

Drivers of the Acme Lines Transportation company, attached to the Webster terminal, held a banquet at the Kimball grill Wednesday evening which was tendered in honor of a company official recently transferred to another station. About 30 were in attendance.

Curley, mayor of Boston, will attend the reception to be tendered in honor of the visit to Bay State of Lord Mayor Reuben Salter, of Boston, England, on Wednesday, September 17, as the guest of the Boston, Mass., chief executive. Mayor Richard's reply of acceptance was forwarded to Mayor Curley's office today.

A special meeting of the auto racing committee of Woodstock fair was called for a second time this week Wednesday evening and plans for the cancellation of the racing program decided upon Tuesday night were reconsidered and followed with an announcement that the gasoline chariots to be piloted by famous drivers will compete for honors as was originally planned. According to announcement made following the meeting, liability and accident insurance has been procured.

Jasper Holmes, of Charles street, who has been seriously ill for the past several days, was said to be slightly improved this evening. Physicians reported his condition as critical Tuesday, but a favorable change was indicated this morning as he rested easier. Mr. Holmes, for a number of years, was foreman of the dying department at the Hammond-Knowlton Silk company.

During the month, the report of Mrs. Harry Torrey, acting district nurse, showed that there have been 227 visits made, with receipts totalling $77.76. The report also indicated that 47 babies were examined at conferences held with the cooperation of the state helath department.

Delegates to the republican county convention will gather in Putnam on Tuesday morning. The session will be held in the superior court chambers where a candidate for sheriff will be nominated. The county republican committee to serve for the next four years will also be elected. All delegates to attend were elected at the conventional caucuses held in the various towns Thursday evening.

COSTE'S AIDS

In his story of his trip across the Atlantic, Captain Coste is mindful of the great assistance and confidence received from the radio equipment he carried and it is clearly set forth that speed was one of the great factors. Inasmuch as Captain Hawks only recently declared, on lowering the cross country record, that it was folly for any flier to attempt to cross the ocean in a land machine, it is easy to understand his comment on the Coste flight when he says that there has been no contribution to aviation. Possibly that is true, but it has shown, even though the wisdom of using a seaplane for such a trip seems apparent, that the high-powered machine, the one that can make the best time, stands the best chance of making the crossing.

Speed featured the crossing by Coste. He had one of the best, one that was built to accomplish special things, a war plane, and he made the most of it. Through his speed he was able to reach these shores while others in slower planes would have been feeling their way over the ocean. He encountered certain handicaps, but in the cutting down of the time required in crossing he may have escaped worse.

While, aside from his own ability as a flier, speed was one of the things which others have not had, radio was another. It doesn't appear that Coste was obliged to use it extensively. He doesn't claim that it had prevented him from getting lost or that he had been rescued from uncertainty by the use of it, but it gave him an assurance that could have been secured in no other way. He knew that he was in a position to get in touch with those who could help him with information, or who might come to his assistance in case of need. He found [illegible] protection of great value, although it has been one of the things [illegible] transatlantic fliers have [illegible] to leave behind. Those who [illegible] wireless haven't always reached their goal and those who [illegible] it haven't always failed, but the satisfaction of being able to [illegible] in touch with the rest of the world in time of need serves to relieve the [illegible] and to provide a comfort during [illegible] hours. Thus it seems that the [illegible] has added not a little to [illegible] flying.

WHEELER'S INQUIRY

Senator Wheeler of Montana has [illegible] from a visit to soviet Russia. He has been a strong advocate of recognition of that government by the United States. He has held that opinion for a decade or so and he made [illegible] of the congressional races [illegible] to get in a personal inspection of conditions over there. As [illegible] be expected he came back [illegible] enthused over Russian accomplishments and urging with increased [illegible] early recognition of that government. He even criticizes this country for not taking such a step and does this to such an extent that one wonders why he ever consented to return to these shores. He came back with the same conviction that he carried over, but he didn't consider the trip useless.

He took pains to inquire about the use of convict labor, a matter in which this country has been particularly interested because of the claim that goods which were being sent to this country were produced by such workmen. Such an inquiry was quite natural. But how did he conduct it? He said he spoke to soviet leaders concerning it. That must have given him solid satisfaction, although he might have done the same of soviet representatives in this country or addressed letters upon the subject to those in Russia and got the same information. Senator Wheeler went to Russia to get his views confirmed. He brought back the only opinion that was to be expected. He found the soviets were in agreement with him, after being conducted about the country and shown those things they wanted to show him and answering his questions.

It doesn't appear that the Montana senator went into Russia and conducted an investigation such as would give him first-hand information of the real conditions there. He certainly brings back a decidedly different story from what has been told by others who have been there and been concerned over much the same thing. At the same time he doesn't indicate that he spent so much as a minute suggesting to the soviet leaders that they do the few simple things that would result in an early recognition of their government by the United States. He prefers to call the American people a "bunch of suckers."

UNIFORMITY NEEDED

It may take time for it to go through, but it is believed that the recommendation of the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws will do much towards decreasing the large and needless number of highway fatalities. It is the belief of the commissioners that uniformity in the codes regulating motor traffic in the various states will do much to decrease accidents.

There is no escaping the fact that this is one thing which has received too little attention. There is a decided lack of uniformity in dealing with motor traffic. It might be supposed, as it is in some instances, that all drivers know what a green light means and what a red light means. They do, in the general use of such as signals, but they have no way of knowing what cities permit right turns on red as well as green or what cities prohibit it. They do not know that no left turns are permitted or that certain streets are one-way unless they are given proper information. On the other hand, there are those drivers who do their utmost to respect the letter of the signs even to refusing to go ahead on a green light when a sign beneath it says "Right turns on red."

Great numbers of drivers are in strange cities every day. They are faced with the problem of finding their way, watching route numbers, studying signs and looking for signals. What is simple enough in one city may be decidedly complex in another. There is no effort at uniformity in most instances.

Every community has its own traffic problems. They must be met to the best advantage but when efforts of one state to meet conditions are entirely nullified by the failure of other states to take any action, when safety requirements are imposed in a skip stop manner by the states, the efforts to overcome bad conditions are not what they should be. There are plenty of instances where uniformity would be highly beneficial and, in view of the many accidents and fatalities, it is surprising that greater progress is not being made in that direction.

DANGEROUS INTERSECTIONS

The situation at the Marlborough's four corners is not so different from that at any similar intersection. It is a point where two important highways cross, where cars may be expected to go in most any direction at any time and where any driver should, if he knew the situation, be disposed to take his foot off the gas and get his car under such control that he could stop in time to avoid an accident.

If that had been the case with the drivers whose cars came together there no one would have been injured and the cars would not have been marred. The situation is not dissimilar to that at the Salem four corners or, in fact, at any railroad grade crossing. At all such points there is sound reason for the exercise of caution, and that doesn't mean putting on speed and trusting to luck that nothing will happen.

It is true that there are many highway signs which tell of an intersection [illegible] or a cross road, when [illegible] a cartpath leaves the main thoroughfare. Plenty of the side roads which are designated by signs in advance as cross roads carry so little traffic that the users thereof take due precaution before entering the main highway, and the practice of passing them without decreasing speed may encourage the idea that no different attention need be paid at other points.

It doesn't require many serious accidents to eliminate any such view. There are places where real danger exists, where bad smashes and fatal accidents have occurred, where the view of the other road is shut off. At these danger points it may be that different warnings need to be established. If so, there should be no delay in providing them, but whether more and different warnings are needed it is apparent that caution by more drivers should be used. Possibly it is needed as a general practice.

THE DOMINICAN STORM

Plenty of sympathy and offers of assistance will go to the Dominican republic because of the losses which it has suffered at the hands of the hurricane. Located on the east end of the island of Haiti, with a population of about a million, it covers an area about the size of the states of Vermont and New Hampshire, or about four times the size of Connecticut, and when a wind storm gets into action in that region devastation of a serious character frequently follows. Porto Rico, Cuba and even Florida have felt the effects at different times in no uncertain manner.

When such storms are discovered getting underway it is possible to broadcast information somewhat in advance of the arrival of the blow. This makes it possible for ships which can to get out of the way or to stay in safe territory. But for islands or cities which are in the path there is no escape. Winds that blow from 135 to 150 miles an hour are merciless. Whatever lies in the way must take the consequences. Few are the buildings which are constructed to withstand any such cyclonic storms and inadequate measures for the protection of human life usually prevail.

From all accounts, the city of Santo Domingo has been wrecked, and similar conditions are to be expected throughout that end of the island. Winds that blow at less than half the velocity credited to the Caribbean windstorm raise plenty of havoc in this part of the world and it can be readily appreciated what the effect must be at any point in the West Indies where such a devastating cyclone strikes. It is one of those instances which illustrate the helplessness of humanity when the forces of nature go on a rampage.

Are your confidence and enthusiasm all ready for the yacht races?

The man on the corner says: Those dodging the sun one day are seeking its warmth the next.

The suggestion that drivers be tested now that the inspection of cars has been made, isn't a bad one.

Now that schools are open again motorists should remember that "Schoolhouse Ahead" signs mean something once more.

For the time being the revolts in South America are directing public attention away from affairs in China and India.

It must be a tremendous surprise to members of Tammany to think there could even be a suspicion of graft in that benevolent organization.

FILE CLERK

The four stenographers of Baker & Co. always went to luncheon together, but Sara Baines, who answered the telephone and took care of filing, lunched alone. Sometimes she got awfully tired of eating by herself, but such were the conventions of Baker & Co. Stenographers were stenographers and file clerks were file clerks—because they were too stupid to be stenographers. It is a situation to be found in more than one office.

Perhaps Sara wasn't really so stupid; still, she realized that she was anything but brilliant. Nevertheless, she kept her hand in with her typing and shorthand so that if her chance came she would be ready to take it. That was the only way she would get her chance—by waiting. Sara was not one of those who make their own opportunities.

She really liked her telephone and filing job, which proved that there was something queer about her. Other office girls whom she met on the street car coming to work refused absolutely to do filing. It was the most menial kind of office employment. But answering the telephone was little better. Anybody could answer a telephone. Yet somehow Sara derived a warm feeling of satisfaction from her work.

For example there was the time when John A. Ott, Baker's most important customer, rang up in a sputtering rage about a mistake in filing an order. Sara's calm soothing voice informed him that Mr. Baker was out. It told him when he would be back. It made an appointment, expressed regret over the mistake, thanked Mr. Ott for calling about it. By the time all [illegible]

Still Sara was not a stenographer. She was not brilliant [illegible] and lunched alone.

Then Miss Av[illegible]

[illegible]

At the end of the week came [illegible]. When the summons came she tried to appear calm as she entered Mr. Baker's office.

"Oh, yes, Miss Baines," he said, [illegible] in his chair and clearing his throat. "Let's see. I told you I'd let you know about your job today, didn't I? Hem! Well, I think you'd better go back to the filing and telephone, Miss Baines. We will hire another stenographer."

Sara fought back the lump in her throat and the sense of failure that gripped her. "I—I'm sorry I couldn't do the work well enough," she managed to say, humbly.

Mr. Baker's lips twitched a little. "I didn't say that, Miss Baines," he said. "I think you'd be very good with a little more practice, but the fact is we need you too much on your former job. I almost lost Ott's business this week because of the way this other girl talked to him on the phone. The files are in terrible condition. In fact, they never have been any other way except while you looked after them.

"Filing and the telephone are two mighty important parts of this business and I don't intend to trust them to incompetent people. I want you to keep on with that work if you will. Of course, you will get that $10 salary increase, anyway, and perhaps a little more later on. Is that satisfactory?"

Sara somehow managed to express her thanks and escape from the office. The following day she was back at the filing and the telephone. At noon she graciously allowed the stenographers to accompany her to lunch.—Chicago News.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4—Further scrutiny of those old valor records of the Confederacy dating back to the '60s has introduced the Bystander to one that staggers belief.

It tells of the single handed capture of 300 Union soldiers by a South Carolinian, Capt. Lyle J. Banks of Limestone, that state.

"I think Captain Banks' conduct such that he should be made a colonel," Major General Charles W. Field wrote, speaking as an eye witness, in sucmitting his recommendation that the officer be promoted.

There was no vacancy in that grade, however, so Field confined his actual request to promotion to major. Banks originally was an enlisted man of the First South Carolina regiment and already had worked his way up to a captaincy when the exploit in '64 at Gordonsville, Va., took place.

"Due to his gallantry more than 500 prisoners were taken," General Field reported. "His bearing was so gallant that men in the ranks cried out in my hearing: 'That is a fine follow'; 'Who is he?'; 'He is a brave man.'"

Still Doubted

When this original recommendation went to Richmond for war department approval, it bore the endorsements of General Lee himself and of General Longstreet. It evidently caused doubt in Richmond, however, for it went back for more information. Then Brigadier General John Bratton gave this account:

"In action on the 27th of October on the Williamsburg road, Captain Banks advanced several hundred paces in front of our line and captured 300 prisoners. His arms were full of swords and several stands of colors. Others went to his assistance and succeeded in capturing 600 prisoners in all.

"This was done in view of three brigades of the division."

Lee Approved

Back at the war department in Richmond, even with his additional data there still seemed to be difficulty found in crediting the story. Banks' promotion to major was approved, however, subject to a personal recommendation from "Marse Robert" himself.

That General Lee promptly forwarded and the gallant South Carolinian went up a step in rank and had his name spread on that brief and amazing roll of the bravest of the boys in gray which Uncle Sam now keeps in his files.

Why not? If there is anything more striking in all the long story of valor in action American soldiers have written in all wars, the Bystander has not heard of it. In numbers involved, at least, it outranks the World war exploit of Sergeant York.

And if Sen. Cole Blease of South Carolina, who still rumbles with Civil war echoes now and then, ever gets his eye on that yellow old official story of Banks' valor, or on the similar record of Sergeant H. S. O'Brien of the 7th South Carolina cavalry, no doubt they'll go into the Congressional Record. They are worth reading.

YOUR HEALTH

Is Your Child Ready For School?

By Allan Craig, M. D., Chicago.
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

The holidays are over. Schools will soon open. The boys and girls will gather in groups wondering how they are going to like the new teacher. Billy Jones, over in the corner of the school yard, will open his mouth as wide as he can to show the fellows where his tonsils used to be. This month twenty-five million boys and girls, of various ages, will assemble in our schools to begin their year's work. The coming months will not be easy for these young minds.

Are your [illegible] in shape for [illegible] adenoids [illegible] serious [illegible]. This is no theoretical observation [illegible] a proven fact. Periodic [illegible] a [illegible] investment for any [illegible] forestalled [illegible]

Good nourishing food at regular hours slowly eaten and not gobbled [illegible] will help children towards steady growth and development. Of course the desirability of plenty of fresh vegetables and fruits must not be overlooked here.

Periodic visits to the dentist are a necessity. Why should we allow the children's second teeth to come in out of place and in an unsightly manner when by a little care at the right time this can be avoided? Small cavities develop remarkably fast in the child's teeth, particularly if he is somewhat careless in his use of the toothbrush. He must learn not to neglect his back teeth and he must also learn to scrub with the brush.

Our children spend a considerable portion of their young lives in the schoolroom. Consequently a very serious responsibility is placed upon our teachers. Some parents, unfortunately seem to welcome school days as an opportunity for getting those "troublesome youngsters" out of the home. They want to shift everything to the teacher forgetting many times the important influence of the family environment. A definite cooperation between the home and the school is required. There should be no interference of one with the other, but, rather, a complete harmony in the common purpose of promoting the welfare and development of the child.

Are the little children of today going to look back in future years and bless the present generation because they have been given a full measure of good health, or shall it be that many will say "We have become infirm because of your neglect?"

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

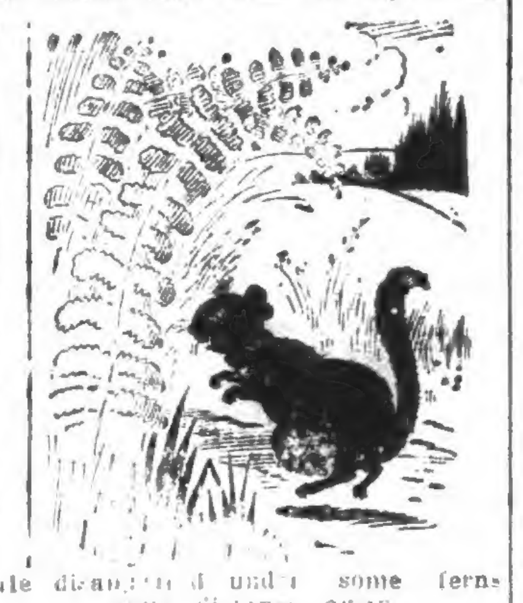
All through life this fact you'll find,
That anger to the truth is blind.
—Old Mother Nature.

Impy felt that he was quite established out in the Great World. He had a home, with a nice, comfortable bedroom, two storerooms and an entrance that was so well hidden that it was really a secret. Best of all, he had made that home all himself. It represented a lot of work—of hard work. Impy was proud of it. It was his first home; that is, the first home of his own, and it was a very nice home.

Impy sat on a fence post very early one morning. He had had his breakfast and he was sitting up on that fence post to take a sunbath and look around him. Something moving back of the second post beyond him caught his attention. At least, he thought he saw something moving there. He fixed his bright eyes on the top of that post. For a few moments he saw nothing. Then he saw a little nose appear above the top of the post, followed by the top of a head and a pair of bright eyes that looked over at him shyly. It was only for a minute and then they disappeared. Impy knew that there was some one on the top rail back of that post.

Impy knew that he had seen another Chipmunk. Right away he became angry. This was his territory. He was ready to fight any other Chipmunk for it. "I saw you!" he barked. "I know where you're hiding! You'd better go back the way you came. If you don't, you'll be sorry. I'll make you sorry." Impy was boasting.

Nothing happened over behind that other post. Impy waited and waited. He saw no more bright eyes peering over the top of the post. Finally he could stand it no longer. He jumped down on the top rail, raced along it to the next post, jumped up on top of that post, down on top of the next rail and raced along this to the second post—the post behind which he was sure some one was hiding. But when he looked down from the top of the post no one was to be seen. He looked this way; he looked that way; he almost began to wonder if he really had seen anyone there. Then he caught sight of a tail disappearing behind another post farther along the fence. From the way in which that tail disappeared he knew that its owner was running.



He disappeared under some ferns some distance away.

"He's afraid and he ought to be!" boasted Impy. "He has no business here and he knows that. If he ever comes near I'll teach him a lesson. I'll teach him a lesson he'll never forget." Impy sat up on the top of the post and boasted. He wanted this stranger to hear. He bragged. He tried to appear very bold and brave. He did not want any neighbors and he said so. But though he sat there for a long time, he saw no more of the stranger that afternoon.

When Impy finally returned to his home he was very well satisfied with himself. He felt that he had shown that stranger that this was his territory and that it wasn't safe for any Chipmunk to come around there. However, when Impy went to his home he took extra care that no one should see just where he went. He didn't approach his home openly. He disappeared under some ferns some distance away. If you had been watching you might have seen a fern here and there move, but that is all you would have seen. Your eyes would have had to be very sharp to see even this much. And so Impy reached his home and went down into his house underground. So it was that he didn't see the prettiest of little Chipmunks shyly looking over toward those ferns where he had disappeared. I wonder what he would have said had he seen that pretty little Chipmunk.

Keeping Cool

One extremely hot night recently, when extra company in the home made it necessary to use all bed space, Mrs. X. gave up her bed and slept with her daughter, who was quite solicitous about her mother, as the day had been almost unbearable. She kept a fan at hand and between naps waved it back and forth over her mother's pillow at the right.

Some time toward morning Mrs. X. roused and heard the slight rustle of the fan. Sleepily she inquired, "You still awake?"

With a gasp the daughter inquired, "Where are you?" for the voice came from the foot of the bed. Seeking relief the mother had changed positions in bed early in the night.

Charles D. Mahaffie, former finance director of the interstate commerce commission, was sworn in yesterday as a member of the commission. He was appointed by President Hoover to succeed Thomas F. Woodlock, who resigned to accept another position.

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

The Tredennick Paint Manufacturing Company, Meriden.

The Tredennick Paint Manufacturing company, a Connecticut corporation, is the outgrowth of the partnership of L. Tredennick & Co. started in Meriden in 1901 for the purpose of doing contract painting and making the paint used in their work.

The manufacturing end of the business developed to such an extent that in 1906 the L. Tredennick Paint company was organized to engage more extensively in the production of paint with the following officers: Jonathan Tredennick, president; Horace R. Clark, vice president; Edward Tredennick, secretary and treasurer.

In 1905 the property at 301 South Colony street, their present location, was rented for factory purposes and in 1909 it was purchased and the building enlarged. Shortly after this the company suffered a disastrous fire which destroyed all of their factory. A concrete building was then erected and equipped with modern machines for the production of paint. The plant has been enlarged three times since then.

In 1920 the company was re-organized with authorized capital stock of $100,000 (all of which is outstanding) and the name changed to The Tredennick Paint Manufacturing company.

The company continues to specialize in paints for mills and factories but also puts out a full line of prepared house paints, varnish stains and enamels. Special paints for special purposes are also made.

Their registered trademark, spelled TRECO, in the center of an elongated diamond drawing signifies that the quality goes "in" before the mark goes "on" their products.

The present officers are: Horace R. Clark, president; Edward Tredennick, vice president and general manager; Robert W. Carter, secretary and treasurer.

The partnership of L. Tredennick & Co. was continued for the purpose of contract painting and, under the title of E. Tredennick, Inc., is now doing business not only throughout Connecticut but in adjoining states.

Salem woman gives credit to Vegetable Compound

HAWTHORNE'S House of Seven Gables is situated at the end of Turner Street overlooking Salem harbor. This historic neighborhood is now a Polish-American district. At 15 Turner St. live Mr. & Mrs. R. J. Kulakowski and their twelve healthy, happy children.

"But we weren't always happy," Mr. Kulakowski confided. "My wife was ailing for five years. First she seemed just tired and run down. Then she got weaker and weaker and became so crippled that we had to carry her from room to room. When I came home from work, I would find her crawling on her hands and knees. I was a motorman then on the Salem to Boston cars. One day I was telling my conductor about my wife and he suggested Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Said it had helped his sister. Well, I got a bottle and she started taking it. We kept on until she took about eight bottles in all. By that time she was up on her feet and doing her work."

Mrs. Kulakowski's twelfth child was born on Easter Monday. "I have never lost a child," she says, "and none of them has ever been seriously ill. My oldest daughter is now in her teens, and I am giving her the Vegetable Compound, too."

SAVE-A-LIFE CAMPAIGN REDUCED AUTO ACCIDENTS

A marked reduction in accidents, injuries and deaths as the result of the operation of motor vehicles in this state is shown in the report of the state motor vehicles department for the eight months ending Aug. 12. In the period since the first of the year motor vehicles accidents have been reduced by approximately 3,000 as compared with 1929; personal injuries were reduced by 1,000, and deaths are 36 less than in 1929 to Sept. 1.

During the month of the intensive Safe-A-Life campaign, which ended with August, there were 366 less accidents than in the same month of 1929, there were nearly 500 fewer injuries to persons, and there were 13 less deaths during the month.

During the first eight months of this year there was one death for 1424 motor vehicles on the highways of the state, as compared with one fatality for 1,218 cars on the roads last year. This year's record of fatalities per number of automobiles operated is the lowest in the past five years.

There have been 12,388 accidents reported in the state to Sept. 1 this year, 7,186 personal injuries and 244 deaths. In the first eight months of 1929 there were 15,259 accidents reported, 8,139 persons injured and 280 persons killed.

Figures for August show that there were 1,728 accidents in that month this year as compared with 2,094 last year; approximately 1,000 persons injured as compared with 1,945 last year; and 37 persons killed as compared with 59 last year.

The decreases all along the line are attributed to the constant safety campaign maintained by the state department of motor vehicles. Although a special effort was made to enlist the support of the public during the Safe-A-Life campaign in August, the department's campaign is kept up throughout the entire year, and according to Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel will be continued unabated this autumn in an effort to continue the very favorable showing made thus far this year.

RECKLESS DRIVING CHARGE AGAINST FREDERICK GLYNN

A manslaughter charge against Frederick Leroy Glynn of New London was dropped and a reckless driving count substituted when he was presented on a continuance in the city court here Thursday morning. A continuance for a day was granted on the new charge.

Glynn was the driver of an automobile which struck and fatally injured John R. Tennant of 519 North Main street on the night of July 27 at the corner of Ninth and North Main streets. Tennant died at the hospital about 15 minutes after he was hit.

The coroner's finding exonerated Glynn from criminal negligence.

SUFFERS FRACTURED CKULL WHEN HIT BY AUTO

Stanislaw Trasko, 49, of Hunter's avenue, was badly hurt about 10 o'clock Thursday night, when he was hit and knocked down by a machine owned and driven by Joseph D. Duggan, 26, of No. 25 Elliott avenue, Hartford. Trasko is on the danger list at the W. W. Backus hospital, suffering from a fractured skull and other injuries.

The accident occurred near his home. It is understood he was crossing the highway, intending to make a purchase at the store in the Taft's station waiting room, when he was hit by the machine, which was being driven toward Norwich.

Constable Louis A. Paquette investigated the accident and, in view of the seriousness of the man's injuries, Coroner Edward G. McKay immediately started an inquiry. Duggan was held at police headquarters for questioning. Trasko's injuries comprise a fractured skull and lacerations above the eye. He is married and has four children.

DIBBLE'S OR DEVIL'S HOPYARD IS QUESTION

One story of how the Devil's Hopyard got its name is good until another is told. It seems there are many versions, each week generating a new crop, and each explanation seems plausible and each has its ardent champions.

Miss Emily Saunders, historian of New York, made another trip to Lyme to check up on the newest Hopyard derivations and confesses she is more "deviled" than ever. A big mail awaited her at Ferry tavern, Old Lyme, the outpost base of her expedition, most of the correspondents rushing to the defense of the wild hops inspiration of the name Devil's Hopyard.

Miss Ernestine E. Griffin, herself a newspaper correspondent writes: 'This version of the naming of Devil's Hopyard is vouched for by responsible honest people—old settlers who have listened to elders who remembered that hops were raised there—four acres or more.

"The late Mrs. Abbie Lyons Mack lived in 'Sheepskin Hollow' and remembered, when a girl, that hops were raised in the Hopyard. She passed on many years ago, highly respected. Mrs. Mack told this hop raising explanation of the name to a neighbor, a young girl, who is now Mrs. Laura Chapman, aged 70 years.

"Corroborating this version of Devil's Hopyard derivation the story was told to my brother and self by the late George K. Babcock of North Plain who died in 1929.

Dibble's Hopyard

"He always lived near the Hopyard. Mr. Babcock said. 'A man named Dibble lived near the Kettle Hills and had a large lot, four acres or more in which he raised hops, and from which he made hop beer. The young men of Millington sometimes got tipsy from it and one irate mother, when asked where her sons were, answered, 'Why, over to Dibble's Hopyard, of course, but it should be called the Devil's Hopyard.' Dibble was evidently an old time bootlegger.

"We lived two and one half miles from this weird, beautiful spot and we are now sorry that Mr. Babcock (who was 84 years old or so) passed. His mind was keen and he could tell many tales of early history in his section of town and would have been delighted to do so.

"Mrs. Laura Chapman asks me to write the bit that she knows, and my brother is anxious for the Babcock version to go in the record,"

James Whitney Frost of Old Saybrook, historian of the lower Connecticut river valley, reports:

"The story I have been told is that a Mr. Dibble used to have a hopyard there, and the present name is a corruption of 'Dibble's Hopyard. There are a good many families of Dibble hereabouts. I'm sure it would be interesting to have the other stories published.

"I am writing a short history of Lyme for use in middle grades of the schools and should like to include the most authentic version of the naming of the Hopyard.'

Hop Theory Supported

The growing of hops is further supported by Miss Emma J. Thompson, a native of East Haddam, who writes: "Thirty years ago, while driving with a patient through the Hopyard she told me that when she was young, wild hops grew there. She had seen the plants festooning the bushes and trees and stretching across the road to make a canopy in places. This was the reason she gave for the name. I have found a few plants of wild hops growing in that vicinity."

Steamboat men recall that Capt. Peter Dibble, who commanded the State of New York (afterwards City of Springfield) was a native of Middlesex county. The family name Dibble continues in several neighboring towns to this time.

Many Visitors Now

Perhaps the most important feature of the controversy over the naming of the Devil's Hopyard, which has waged all summer, with many correspondents writing their favorite version of the naming, is the great number of visitors who have come to know of the district embraced in the new state park. More people have driven through the Hopyard this summer perhaps than in 100 years before. Already motor car traffic is congested on Saturdays and Sundays, since much of the highway permits only one car to pass. Drivers are warned to blow horns approaching sharp turns and steep hills.

Miss Emily Saunders, whose interest in the naming of the Devil's Hopyard attracted so much letter writing, reviving so many memories, is puzzled. She inclines now to the Dibble hop farm and home brew works as being the logical source of the name.

"I came to Ferry Tavern in Old Lyme to spend just a few days," she says, "and I have been here most of the summer. It has been very fascinating to dig into the history of this wild hopyard country—about as natural and unspoiled as any section I have seen in America. I hope that many people will come to know it and appreciate it as I do, and I hope too, that it will not be spoiled or hurt by motorists who are careless with picnic refuse and fire."

FGAN CAPTURES FEATURE AT INDIANA FAIR

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 4.— (AP) — Egan, four-year-old black colt, captured the first and third heats to win the L. S. Ayres 2:10 trot, feature of the Grand Circuit racing program at the Indiana State fair today. The purse was $5,000.

Black Leaf, driven by Palin, nosed out Egan in the second test, but finished fifth and third in the other heats.

Happy Direct won the 2:18 pace, and Senator Madden scored a straight heat victory in the three-year-old trot.

The deciding heat of the three-year-old pace was held over until tomorrow because of a rule prohibiting racing after sun-down, except by permission of all drivers concerned. Parshall, driver of Marvin Brooke, which won the first heat and then finished second and fourth in the next two, objected to finishing the event today. Symbol Direct took the second heat and Napoleon the third.

When BABIES are Upset

BABY ills and ailments seem twice as serious at night. A sudden cry may mean colic. Or a sudden attack of diarrhea. How would you meet this emergency—tonight? Have you a bottle of Castoria ready?

For the protection of your wee one—for your own peace of mind—keep this old, reliable preparation always on hand. But don't keep it just for emergencies; let it be an everyday aid. PURSES OF O'BRIEN AND ROJAS ARE HELD UP

WATERBURY, Sept. 4.—(AP)—Deputy State Boxing Commissioner Joseph H. Lawlor ordered the purses of Frankie O'Brien, of Hartford, and Paul Rojas, of Tampa, Fla., withheld pending an investigation of their tame ten round bout featuring the Waterbury A. C. card at the Lakewood arena here tonight. O'Brien got the decision in the contest which was jeered and laughed at by a small crowd.

When it was apparent after five rounds that neither boxer was fighting to the best of his ability, Commissioner Lawlor notified Referee Bill Conway, of Hartford, to tell the fighters he would refuse payment to them if they did not improve in their work. The closing rounds were a repetition of the earlier heats and at the close of the bout it was announced that neither boxer would receive payment. O'Brien weighed 156 1-2; Rojas 160 1-2

Albert Leon, 133, Tampa, Fla., knocked out Billy Fitz, 137, Waterbury, in the first round of a scheduled six rounder.

Ernie Simms, 136, Naugatuck, won a four round decision over Gene Martin, 136 1-2, Thomaston.

Tut Jackson, 170, Waterbury, knocked out Larry James, 173, Derby, in the third round of a scheduled eight rounder.

WORLD'S RECORD BROKEN THREE TIMES AT SYRACUSE

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 4.—(AP)—A world record was broken three times today in the Grand Circuit races being held here in conjunction with the New York State fair, bringing the total for the week to six. The record performances came in the chamber of commerce $10,000 pacing handicap.

The first heat was taken by May E. Grattan in 1:06, cutting a half second off the former mark for a mile pace from a standing start. In the second heat Harry D. won in 2:05 3-4, again lowering the mark. The third time around Harry D. was pushed home in 2:04 1-2.

Guy Day, the favorite, after throwing Walter Cox from the sulky in the first turn and then trotting the remainder of the mile to place fifth, won the third and fourth heats of the three-year old trot, taking the race off from Jessamine and Guy June.

Lee Side, after delaying a start by bad action, plunged and reared with Ben White, tossing him from the sulky in the two-year old trot consolation. Neither was injured. This race was taken by McAubrey in straight heats. Darkey Grattan, favorite in the 2:12 pace, also won in straight heats, not even being pushed.

Another favorite, Peter Patch, was bumped in the 2:15 trot. Miss Bertha Handover won the first heat. Bob Galloway, the second, and Peter Patch the third, and then Bob Galloway came back to take the race off.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—(AP)—The 12-round bout between Gorilla Jones, Akron, O., and Harry Smith, New York, Negro middleweights, was halted in the 9th round and called "no contest" tonight. The referee said neither was trying. Jones weighed 153 Smith 147.

Paul Bianchi, of Argentina, stopped Jack Edwards in 2 minutes, 32 seconds of the third round of a five-rounder. Bianchi weighed 206, Edwards 199.

CRUIKSHANK HOLDS TWO-STROKE LEAD IN LANNIN OPEN GOLF TOURNEY

SALISBURY PLAINS, N. Y., Sept. 4—(AP)—Bobby Cruickshank, Purchase, N. Y., professional, toured around the Salisbury County club's No. 3 course in 71 strokes today to take a two-stroke lead over the field in the $5,000 J. J. Lannin Memorial open golf tournament at the halfway mark. Cruickshank scored a 70 over the same course in the first round yesterday for a 36-hole total of 141.

Tied for runner-up honors at 143 were three eastern pros, MacDonald Smith of Great Neck, Gene Sarazen of Fresh Meadow and Charles Lacey of Clementon, N. J., Smith and Sarazen shot themselves into contending positions by scoring 69s today while Lacey, who shared the first round lead with Billy Burke of Greenwich, added a 74 to his 69 of the opening day. Burke, scoring a 77, dropped to sixth place with 146, two strokes behind Jim Barnes of Pelham, whose 144 was good for fifth place. Barnes scored a fine 70 on his second round.

Capt. E. F. Carter, former Irish champion, led the amateurs with a total of 149.

Ninety-nine qualified for the final 36 holes tomorrow.

Disaster greeted the attempts of several outstanding favorites to get up among the leaders. Al Espinosa, Chicago pro, took a 78 for a total of 150, and Tommy Armour was another stroke back with 76-75—151. Horton Smith, pro at the Cragston, N. Y., club, who took a 77 yesterday, shaved only one stroke off that figure today and was 12 strokes back of the leader with 153, as was Leo Diegel, whose scores for the first two rounds were identically the same as Horton Smith's.

The leaders and their scores include:

Bob Cruickshank, Purchase	70-71—141

CITIZENS AND KACEYS PLAY SECOND GAME ON SUNDAY

The second game of the Polish Citizens-New London Kaceys for the inter-city title will be played Sunday afternoon at Mercer field, New London, it was announced Thursday evening. It had been expected that the teams would meet twice over the week end, Saturday at the Academy campus and Sunday at New London, but the New London team found difficulties in lining up its players for Saturday so that the series will continue on the Sabbath. The third game of the series will be played at the Academy, Sat. Sept. 13.

Boots Greene, youthful righthander, of the local forces, will get the mound assignment Sunday, according to an announcement by Manager Georgie Bizinski. Boots, who was chosen as one of the pitchers on the City league's All-Star team, is really in his first year of fast company and has made good with a bang, earning the right for a starting berth in one of the games of this important series. And he thinks he can do just as good as did his brother, Johnny in the first game of the series Labor day when the Kaceys were let down with four hits and beaten, 2 to 1.

The Kacey camp has high hopes of evening matters up Sunday, however, when they will have Bill Smith, Jimmy Watterson and Paddy Ryan, their regular outfielders back in the lineup. They were all absent in the first game. The Kacey pitcher for Sunday is unknown.

That this series is arousing just as much interest as any Norwich-New London clash of yore ever did, is evidenced by the way the first game was talked-up and by the predictions of the fans for succeeding clashes. It was generally agreed that last Monday's game was just about the best that has been seen in either city this year and for quite a few other years. This game furnished conclusive proof that the teams are mighty evenly matched and presages some stiff tussles before the set of games ends.

Thursday evening, members of the city championship Citizen team were guests of Manager R. B. Hamilton of the Palace theatre at a showing of Hot Curves, a baseball picture now current at this house. The following were present: Charley Lamery, Stephen Cimikoski, Johnny Greene, Boots Greene, Pete Finn, Leo Jarvis, Lloyd Jarvis and Manager Bizinski.

CUBS GAIN FULL GAME ON GIANTS BEATING PIRATES

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 4—(AP)—Chicago gained a full game on the New York Giants in the National league flag campaign when two home runs by Gabby Hartnett and one by Kiki Cuyler gave the champions a 10 to 7 victory over Pittsburgh in ten innings here today. The game also saw the return of Rogers Hornsby, Cub second baseman.

Hartnett's first circuit blow came in the sixth inning off Wood with two on base and put the visitors in the game.

Cuyler, former Pirate, tied up the contest with a home run off Wood in the eighth and a double off the bat of Jess Petty, also an ex-Buccaneer, put the Cubs a run to the good in the same session.

"The Waner act" came to the rescue of the Pirates in the ninth to put across one run and deadlock the tally after two were out. Lloyd doubled and Brother Paul tripled.

Swetonic went in for Pittsburgh in the tenth, relieving French, who had taken the place of Recruit Charley Wood in the eighth. Taylor and Kelly singled and Hartnett came to the rescue with his game winning clout.

The fray was featured by long hits and sensational plays. The score:

FOLLOWING THE DOCTOR'S ORDERS

A local man was in a reminiscent mood the other afternoon and was recalling some of the humorous incidents of bygone years. The conversation had turned to the medical profession.

"Do you remember Dr.—— who used to visit in Norwich and is now a specialist in New York? Well, here's one Doc told me about a certain Norwich man of Hebrew extraction, long since departed from our midst."

"It seems that the man was pretty much overweight and was troubled with indigestion, in fact so troubled that he called in Dr.——. The doctor at once diagnosed his case as one of over-eating and lack of exercise. After cautioning the man about his diet he wrote out a prescription. As he handed it to the man he said: 'Now you take this every morning and after taking in go up as far as St. Patrick's church. Do this for two weeks and then, on the third week, start going going to Park church and two weeks after that go to the Backus hospital.'

'Well, after the six weeks were up the doctor called on his patients: 'Well, how are you feeling now?' asked the doctor. 'Oh, not so good,' replied the patient, 'there's not much difference.' 'Did you do as I told you about taking the medicine and going to St. Patrick's church and then to Park church and then to the hospital?' asked the doctor. 'Oh yes, I did all those things, but I don't feel a bit better.'

'Do you mean to tell me that you took the medicine and then walked to St. Patrick's church every day for two weeks and then walked as far as Park church for another two weeks, and then to the hospital for two more, and you don't feel any better after all that exercise' questioned the doctor.

"Oh, doctor, you didn't say anything about walking to St. Patrick's church and Park church and the hospital," answered the patient.

"Well, how did you go then," asked the doctor.

"Oh, I paid Jim Burke 25 cents every morning to take me up to the church in his hack and back."

The local man says that if he didn't know it for a fact he would think that it was just another story.

GIANTS LOSE GROUND WHEN BEATEN BY BRAVES

BOSTON, Sept. 4—(AP)—The New York Giants lost ground in the National league pennant race today when they failed to connect with the offerings of Old Tom Zachary, the Boston Braves winning, 7 to 1.

The Giants made nine hits off the former Yankee southpaw but Old Tom was stingy in the pinches, the only run coming as the result of Jackson's triple and Roettger's single in the seventh. Four double plays played an important role in Zachary's victory, the last of the quartet of double killings coming in the ninth with Maranville making a brilliant stop of Jackson's hot grounder back of second, tossing the ball back-hand to McGuire, whose quick throw to Neun was in time to complete the double play.

Young Jim Chaplin pitched well for the Giants until the eighth, allowing only six hits in seven innings, but he weakened in the eighth and was reached for four more, which were good for a like number of runs. Jimmy Welsh hit a home run for the Braves in the fourth.

ATHLETICS NOSE OUT RED SOX IN FIFTEENTH

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 4—(AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics required 15 innings to beat the Boston Red Sox today 8 to 7. The world's champions took the lead in the first inning and the game was tied at 4 to 4 from the sixth to the tenth. In the tenth Reeves hit a home run and in the A's half Bing Miller tied the score again with a circuit drive.

Danny MacFayden started for the Red Sox and lasted until the fourteenth, when with the game 7-5 in his grasp, he was hit for a double by Cochrane and Simmons' 33rd home run of the year that tied the score again.

Grove went into the box in the seventh inning, held the visitors to nine hits and struck out eight men. The score:

B. Martin diamond. Realizing that the Hartford aggregation is one of the strongest in the Capital city, Tony has made preparations to meet them with a team that will be the equal of anything that can be produced in Hartford.

For pitchers, Bernard will have Lefty Lucier and Johnny Green, if the latter does not play with the Polish Citizens at New London on that date. Jimmy Murphy will be behind the bat. For the initial sack he has Middy Dugas. The rest of the infield is somewhat different from that which represented the Ideals during the City league season. Nap Liberty has been shifted from third base to second. Carlie Krauss has been signed to play the short field, and the third base assignment has been given to Hal Cummings.

As for the outfield Bernard is not certain but he will probably have the two Smiths and another heavy hitting player to make up the outer defenses.

With a club of this calibre representing Norwich there should be some mighty fast baseball as there are three former Eastern league players in the roster of the Hartford club. They are Lefty Buckland, who will pitch, Huband, a catcher and Alexander an outfielder. The remainder of the Hartford club is made up of players from the various twilight leagues about the city.

HUDLIN'S PITCHING GIVES INDIANS WIN OVER CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Sept. 4—(AP)—Willis Hudlin's three-hit pitching aided Cleveland to a 3 to 2 victory over the White Sox in the first game of the series today.

The best the Sox could do was to bunch Jolley's double, a triple by Crouse and an infield out for two runs in the second, while the Indians pecked away at Cecil Pat Caraway for all their runs in the first four innings. Bob Seed's homer provided the last Cleveland score. The victory was Hudlin's thirteenth of the season. The score:

HADLEY OUTPITCHES JOHNSON AS SENATORS DOWN YANKS

NEW YORK, Sept. 4—(AP)—The Washington Senators won their 16th game of the season from New York Yankees today as Bump Hadley outpitched Henry Johnson for a 3 to 2 decision. The Yanks have won only four of the 20 encounters this year, with two more remaining on the schedule.

Johnson struck out 11 Senators but the winners made the most of their seven hits while Hadley was holding the Yankees to six safeties. Lazzeri's error paved the way for the Senators' first run in the initial round but the Yankees' third sacker came back to atone for his misplay, poling out a triple that scored two runs in the same inning. Thereafter, however, Hadley was stingy with hits, allowing only four in as many innings.

The Senators tied the score in the sixth when Manush doubled, went to third on a sacrifice and romped home on Judge's single over second base. Sam Rice's bounding single over Lary's head followed by two hits of a like kind by Cronin and Judge sent the winning run across the plate in the eighth.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4—(AP)—Knute Rockne, Notre Dame's football coach, will inaugurate a new series of weekly programs, "football prediction interviews" on the Columbia chain tomorrow evening.

He will be interviewed by Christy Walsh, sports authority, and is to discuss the coming football season, outlining the chances of some of the more prominent teams. The program opens at 9:30 o'clock (EST).

Westerly Indies vs. Boston Tigers

A great game is expected on the White Rock diamond Sunday when the Boston Tigers meet the Westerly Independents.

The Boston Tigers is one of the strongest semi-professional teams around Boston and the Independents have won 17 of their 20 games played, meeting the House of David, Brooklyn Clowns and other teams. The game will start at 3 p. m., with two competent umpires.

On Sunday, September 14th, the Independents will play the Westerly Sea Scouts. The Scouts will have for their battery two players from the Boston National league team.

DUWELLS-ELKS GAME TO BE PLAYED SATURDAY

The Duwells-Elks game in the Junior league, which was to be played at the Academy campus tonight, has been shifted to Saturday afternoon. Due to the fact that it is now getting dark so early and as the Academy field was available for Saturday afternoon, it was deemed advisable to play the game then.

A Challenge

The L. H. Athletics would like to arrange a game with any team in the Junior league for any night in the week. Phone 1481 any night between 5:15-6.

THOMPSON DEFENDS TITLE AGAINST FREEMAN TONIGHT

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 4—(AP)—Young Jack Thompson, world's welterweight champion, will defend his title for the first time since he won it four months ago, when he meets Tommy Freeman, Cleveland challenger, in a 15-round contest to a referee's decision here tomorrow night.

The bout will be fought in the Cleveland American league ball park, with the prospects that the gate receipts will exceed $50,000.

Freeman, who defeated Thompson seven months ago, before the California Negro won the championship, will meet the title holder at the welterweight limit of 147 pounds. When he engaged Thompson in his first contest Freeman did not have to make weight and he came in at 153 pounds. This enabled him to retain his full fighting strength and gave him an edge of six pounds.

There had been speculation as to Freeman's ability to meet the welterweight limit, but he dispelled this by tipping the beam at 145 pounds yesterday. The only question bothering Freeman handlers is how strong he will be at that weight.

Thompson has had no trouble making weight. He scaled 144 3-4 yesterday and was so well satisfied with his condition that he did no gymnasium work today, spending the entire time resting.

Freeman, however, went through a light workout to keep himself in trim.

The question of a referee remained unsettled tonight. Ed Barry, chairman of the boxing commission and director of public safety, refused to consider a Cleveland referee and had under consideration Eddie Purdy of Chicago, George Blake of Los Angeles, Lou Magnolia of New York and Patsy Haley, also of New York.

The commissioners met with Chairman Barry this afternoon and went over the referee situation, but declined to reveal their selection until tomorrow. Blake is in the immediate territory and could be brought here in time to referee the match. Jack Dempsey was the choice of the management of the two boxers as third man in the ring, but the American Legion, under whose auspices the bout will be held, refused to consider the former world's heavyweight champion.

Thompson and Freeman probably will crawl through the ropes about 10 p. m., E. S. T., with the semi-windup going on after the championship match.

CARNERA WILL ARRIVE IN HARTFORD THIS AFTERNOON

HARTFORD, Sept. 4—Primo Carnera, who boxes Jack DeMave, Jack McAuliffe, 2nd and Fred Caldora at the Hurley stadium Friday night, will arrive in Hartford tomorrow afternoon.

The big Italian has reserved a suite at the Hotel Bond but there is some question as to just how to park all of his six feet, seven inches. Willard Rogers says the hotel management may have to put two couches together or have Primo sleep sideways.

There is state-wide interest in the appearance of Carnera at the stadium Friday night, his first appearance in a Connecticut ring and the prediction is that 10,000 fans will be on hand as he unlimbers his big guns and trains them on DeMave, McAuliffe and Caldora.

Carnera's managers, who are pointing him all the time for a shot at the heavyweight championship, believe Primo can knockout all three of these boxers, although each of the bouts is limited to two rounds.

None of the three is expected to give Carnera any trouble, but should offer enough resistance to make the three abbreviated battles of interest.

Interest centers, of course, in the big Venetian, his physical proportions and his actions in the ring.

Local Italians plan a reception for Primo when he detrains here and puts his great dogs on Connecticut soil for the first time.

Doubleheader At Jewett City Sunday

Sunday afternoon, at Ashland park, the baseball fans will witness a doubleheader. The first game, starting at one o'clock, between the Holy Name team and the Shymas, promises to feature the best baseball ever played by these two clubs. The second game, starting at three o'clock, will be between the well organized Ashland Accos and the fast New Haven Colored Giants.

Coach Joe Gilbert, of the H. N. S. promises to put his strongest line-up on the field, which will include such players as Perry, Soleiski, Beaulieu, Slonski, Vachon and Pisso. Vachon, the ace twirler of the H. N. S. staff, will be the probable hurler, as all members of the team are determined to win this game. The team has also been strengthened with Armand Gilbert, star of Plainfield high school, where he led the batters for two seasons. Kusza, the regular shortstop will also return to his former post after a two weeks' lay-off with a lame arm. All in all, it promises to be a fine baseball exhibition.

In a comparative test recently, the Garden discovered that receipts for the Jack Berg-Kid Chocolate bout, which was not broadcast, were considerably more than for the Al Singer-Sammy Mandell contest which was put on the air.

WILLIMANTIC HORSE SECOND IN KINGSTON RACES

KINGSTON, R. I., Sept. 4.—(AP)—Vic Donahey, owned by James Malloy, of Oakland, won the 2:15 pace, feature event on the racing program at the Kingston fair today. The chestnut gelding was second in the first heat and first in the other two. F. W. Perry, of Taunton, piloted his bay gelding Hatteras to straight heat victories in the 2:15 trot. Second money in this event went to Preston Watts of the Thread City Driving club in Willimantic, Conn., when Pilot Dillon was penalized for foul driving.

BABY FALLS THROUGH WINDOW BREAKING BOTH HER LEGS

Doris Elsie, 10 months' old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gabriel McGaw, fell from the second story window at her home on Main street Wednesday noon. The child was asleep in her crib, which was near an open window in which there was a screen. Her mother was engaged with her household duties. The child woke and stood at the open window, pushing the screen out. A doctor was called and later she was taken to Lawrence Memorial hospital, New London, where an x-ray showed that she had broken both legs above the knee, also has injuries to the head and numerous bruises.

THE FARMER'S TALK TO FARMERS

SOME OF LIFE'S MINOR VEXATIONS

(Written Specially For The Bulletin)

Many a man has made less fuss about having his head chopped off than you and I make about having a tooth pulled.

As a matter of everyday fact, it isn't the big blows of disaster which enrage us so often as the petty but persistent pin-prickings of little irritations.

We can stand the bludgeonings of destiny with our heads "bloody but unbowed," as the poet puts it, while a comparatively short course in domestic nagging will simply drive us wild.

While we may not all feel disposed to agree with the western wisecracker's assertion that "life is jest one dam thing after another," we must all admit, as proven by our own experiences, that life is usually and to most of us just one little thing after another.

No world-startling achievement comes to us; we rarely have any miracles of luck, good or bad; we simply keep plodding along on the same old roads at about the same old gait.

Wherefore and for which exact reason it would seem as if the monitions of the commonest kind of common sense would lead us to fix up those old roads so we could travel them safely and comfortably.—By "roads," above, I mean not merely state highways and city streets but all the channels along which life moves. I mean all the lines we follow in our day's work or play or rest.

Considering how vitally our comfort depends upon the little things of life, wouldn't it seem almost an axiom that we would look after them pretty sharply and arrange them with some regard for convenience?

Yet that is exactly what we don't do.

This morning I want to forget the "farm problem" and the navy dispute and the drouth and all the other "first-page" big features and talk about a few of the pernickety, rasping, bothersome little irritations which surround our daily movements as a flock of mosquitoes hover about our tree-swung hammocks; small botherations which we undergo every day, simply because we've come to accept them as inevitable.

First of all, Buttons.

Perhaps not many of us have reached the degree of desperation attained by the famous Frenchman who blew his brains out because he was "so tired of buttoning and unbuttoning," but I'll bet there isn't a man in all The Bulletin's bishopric who doesn't occasionally or oftener, lose his temper over the incomprehensible offishness of a button or the disconcerting failure of a button-hole.

Now the fact that neither Edison nor Marconi nor Steinmetz nor Wright has yet invented a better method of fastening clothes than buttons, may be accepted as evidence that we shall have to continue using the makeshifts for an indefinite time. But common sense would dictate that we should minimize the evil in all possible ways. We should use just as few buttons as are absolutely necessary and we should insist that they be, so far as their various uses will allow, of standard size and shape.

We don't do either. Instead, we are actually encouraging the sons of Belial who make our shirts to limit their output to what they call "coat-shirts," with 11 or 12 buttons instead of the five which were all even old-fashioned stupidity found necessary. We are more than doubling the fuss of getting the things on; more than doubling the irritation of having to make unwilling buttons go through elusive buttonholes; more than doubling the task of keeping buttons sewed on; more than doubling the risk of a disconcerting button-losing just when propriety most urgently demands button-holding.

To make matters still worse, no two shirt-makers seem to use the same size or shape of button. Some are thin and small; some are thick and clumsy. I find no statement from the census bureau of the number of dissimilar shirt buttons manufactured in the United States. But anybody who has had to buy shirts during an average lifetime knows that there are more than seventy times seven. And that's the limit up to which we are bidden to forgive.

So much for buttons. Consider, next, the shirt itself.

Most of us common farmers have to buy our work-shirts ready-made. We can't afford to have them cut and fitted by custom tailors. And it is next to impossible for one of us to buy a work-shirt which is much better than a baby's bib. It just about covers the shoulders. That's all. It is skimped in fulness, it is short in sleeves, it is bobbed in length to the verge of indecency. It is so short that a very few minutes of the stooping and lifting which we farmers have to do so much of works it up above our waist-bands and almost to our collars. Yet that sort of disappointment is practically all we can buy. Why cant' somebody start building honest shirts in honest sizes of honest goods at living prices? Not even Echo answers.

Pants pockets; there's another outrage on common sense

Pockets are primarily intended to keep things in, such as money and marbles and knick-knacks and pocket knives and matches and pencil-stubs, etc. Originally they were made so as to hang from the waist-band and along the groin where there is a body fold or depression admirably suited to hold them and their contents without bulging. Moreover, the opening was so placed that there was small likelihood of the contents spilling out from it, no matter what position the body was in. In an evil day some over-greedy manufacturer found he could save a cent or two by making the pocket open along the side-seam. This brings all one may carry in the pocket square on top of the swelling of the thigh, thus producing additional fleshly discomfort and involving greater strain and wear on the fabric itself. Also, the lower position of the pocket opening makes the pocket itself a less secure custodian. If one stubs his toe and falls, he is likely not only to scratch his nose but to have his money and knife spill out into the mud.—But just you try to buy a ready-made pair of pants or overalls with the pockets intelligently planned and fitted and see how long it will take you to find 'em!

Then there's corn bread. In four years American mills have cut their grinding of corn into meal by a quarter. That means that less than three-quarters as much corn bread is made and eaten as formerly. Yet corn bread, when properly made, is not only a distinctively American food, but one on which the distinctive American character has been built for generations. It is in some ways superior as a food to that made from any other cereal. Says The Country Gentleman, commenting on this degeneration of national taste:

"But corn bread is far more than a food. It's a form of art, a national expression. A crispy slice of corn bread, piping hot and properly lubricated with yellow butter or creamy ham gravy, produces in one the same aesthetic delight, the same exaltation of spirit, as a lovely sonnet or a fine mural. Corn bread, like an after-dinner pipe or an open fire, helps to make a man tolerant of his fellows and philosophical about his own woes."

It is almost as impossible to get decent corn bread in a hotel or restaurant, now-a-days, as it is to get genuine strawberry shortcake. Why? Are we getting soft-headed or simply flabby-stomached?

Then there's this much cussed and discussed "daylight saving," so-called. No farmer among us objects in the least to factory and shop and office and store workers starting work at 6 a. m. instead of 7, and quitting at 4 p m. instead of 5, if they find such a thing desirable. But why should they insist upon calling 6 o'clock 7, and making us farmers change our clocks twice a year in order to give them an extra afternoon hour to play golf or tend their flower-beds? Let them make their own hours and play their own games. But why ask us to scratch because they itch?

Take our highway and traffic signs, for another thing. They are theoretically intended to help the traveller along his way. Now and then they do just that thing. But not always nor often. Practically all of us now-a-days drive autos. Instead of a horse jogging along at five or eight miles an hour, we scoot over the roads at 30 or 40 miles an hour. We haven't the time nor will the traffic allow us to haul up to the side of the road and spell out a small-lettered sign tacked to a fence-post or a tree. What the modern automobile driver needs is a sign over the middle of the road, high enough to insure safety and low enough to be visible from under the visor and big-lettered enough to be readable from rods away. How many such are there in New England after 30 years demonstration of their necessity? And again Echo is dumb.

In the cities it is even worse. Most of them have automatic lights, green for "go-ahead" and red for "stop." But no two cities have exactly the same method of distributing and exhibiting these signs. Some have them on pillars in the street-center; some have them on posts along the sidewalks; some have them on the corners of buildings. Nor does any one city stick to any one plan. I personally know of one city where the first red-and-green signal you come to is hung from two trees over a street intersection, the second is stuck on a post which you must leave at your right in passing, the third is on a squat pillar in the center which you must leave to your left, the fourth is on a cornice at a street corner to your right, and the fifth is planted some distance down a side street, and invisible till you get almost opposite it, even when you know where to look for it, which no stranger can be expected to. Moreover, the regulations concerning the passage of these piggledly lights are continually being "revised" and "improved" so that only the constant residents of the city can possibly keep track of the changes.

These are just a few of the minor vexations of life. No one is important enough to start a rebellion against. They are just little irritations, cat-boils of custom which don't demand expert surgery to lance, but merely a modicum of common sense to get rid of.

But where is the common sense which could easily take care of them? Have we lost that, too?

THE FARMER.

D. A. R. CHAPTER HISTORIANS TRIBUTE TO CAPT. DENISON

MYSTIC, September 4. — When Fanny Ledyard chapter, D. A. R. met Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Estella B. Bailey, the regent, presided. During the business session it was reported that one of the gates at White Hall cemetery which were placed there by the chapter, had needed repairs and that C. C. McGaughey had repaired it without any expense to the chapter. A vote of thanks was given them. A vote was also given Mrs. S. L. Cheesebro for getting the year book out on time. Notice was read of the annual state meeting to be held with Lucretia Shaw chapter, New London Oct. 1st. This being the date of the local chapter meeting it was voted to have the chapter meet Oct. 2nd. Any who plan to attend the luncheon Oct. 1st are to notify Mrs. Bailey not later than Sept. 26.

The first divisional meeting will be held in Boston, Dec. 3 and 4. Connecticut delegation headquarters will be at the Hotel Statler. A contribution to the navy and marine memorial, to be erected at Tacomah park, Washington, D. C., was voted. A letter was read from the visiting nurse, asking for a contribution and this was voted. The day of the Denison reunion the Shenandoah flags were displayed on the street and on the flag pole and it was voted to pay for having this done. The magazine chairman reported a binder to hold the D. A. R. magazine, with July, August and September magazines, is in the library for public convenience. Mrs. Billings Crandall paid her mother's dues as a memorial and this was appreciated by the chapter.

It was voted at the July meeting to have an old cemetery on the Ledyard road, Old Mystic, cleared of brush and weeds. Mrs. Bailey reported the work well done. She also plans to have inscriptions on stones in some of the old cemeteries copied for the state and national society. After the business meeting, Mrs. Emily W. Williams, the chapter historian, read a paper as follows:

The Denison Homestead

The most noted historic spot about here is the Denison homestead, built early in 1730. It was the home of one of our foremost leaders in war. It was Capt. George Denison's grandson, George, who married Lucy Gallup built the house and their son, George, born in 1725, was the first male child born there. He married in 1748, Jane Smith, daughter of Nathan Smith and Mary Denison, who at her death, left 350 descendants. In May, 1929, she had been dead one hundred and one years. Her grave is in the small Denison yard near Mystic, which land belonged to the family from the earliest times.

With the exception of Capt. John Mason, Capt. George Denison was our greatest warrior as given in the annals of Connecticut. Here, at Pequotsepos, he built his home, and helped barricade it with a stockade which he placed southwest of and near, and here he drilled his forces, trained them in military tactics and finally led them at the battle of the Great Swamp fight, in 1675. He was a leader of men, also in other ways than battle.

At the town meeting, in church building and the general assembly, he was one to decide whether Mystic and Pawcatuck should be a town and upon what terms.

Some time after the charter of Connecticut was obtained in 1652, Capt. Denison still exercised his office as magistrate, commissioned by Massachusetts; and it was 14 years before he was absolved for such responsibility by the Connecticut general assembly.

He was one who spoke his mind and held to his own opinions. He had the right to solemnize marriages, and helped build the first church at the Road in the town.

Just recently this homestead has been made more historical by the gathering there of more than 800 of his descendants. A number of authentic relics of past days are there deposited as later Mrs. Gates intends that the place shall become a mecca for all Denison descendants.

MONTVILLE

FINE OF $50 WITH COSTS FOR RECKLESS DRIVING

Roland E. Nordoff, of Uncasville was arrested by State Trooper Eric Swanson and Peter Busch of Groton barracks early Thursday morning, on a charge of reckless driving when the Pontiac sedan he was operating figured in a slight accident with a Ford coupe owned and operated by John Feinci, of R. F. D. No. 2, Waterford, on the bad curve near the Inland Paper Box Co. plant. The sedan, which was traveling toward Oakdale, and when the driver had nearly made the turn, a truck was backed up to the boiler-room door, unloading sand and the driver went to the middle of the road to clear the truck, which, the accused claimed, was partly in the traveled portion of the road. When turning back to his right he clipped the left rear fender of the Ford which resulted in the accused car turning over, with slight damage. Mr. Nordoff was the only occupant of the cars who was injured, receiving a bad cut on the right hand which required fourteen stitches to close. The case was tried before Justice of the Peace Oscar E. Church Thursday at 10 a. m. The court found the accused guilty of reckless driving and Nordoff paid a fine of $50 and costs.

He claimed that he was far behind on rent, grocery and electrical bills which he couldn't pay. The only way he could pay the fine was to serve it out. The judge sent him to the lock-up in Norwich to work out a $2 and costs fine.

"Dreams Do come true!"

"Boys and Girls. This Offers You a lifetime opportunity"

EARN A TOUR OF EUROPE OR A COLLEGE SCHOLARSHIP

For thirty years I have wanted to make this offer. From my own boyhood there remain vivid memories of bitter struggles for the advantages of education and travel. I have looked forward to the time when I might help worthy young people over the same rough spots, and this offer is the realization of that dream.

I hope every boy and girl in this land between the ages of 12 and 19 will learn about this plan. I believe it to be the most extensive educational and travel opportunity ever offered.

Next summer a happy crowd of boys and girls will receive from The Sparks-Withington Co., either a $750 College Scholarship or a tour of Europe with all expenses paid from the time they leave home until their return. My friends have prevailed upon me to conduct the tour personally. But this is not all. Every boy or girl who works for one of these awards will be paid for whatever success they have, regardless of whether or not they win a Scholarship or Tour.

The work will be interesting and easy. You will not be expected to sell anything. You will be under the personal guidance of a responsible business man in your own community, who will help you succeed. Throughout America hundreds of other boys and girls are doing the same simple work and enjoying it thoroughly. Your parents will be delighted to have you turn spare time into profit.

It costs you nothing to take advantage of this offer. It isn't a game where only a few win and others receive nothing. It is an opportunity for you ALL to work, to produce results, to earn money and to be rewarded in exact proportion to what you accomplish. In addition to the boys and girls from every section of the United States and Canada who win the Grand Awards of a College Scholarship or European Tour—every successful boy and girl will win cash. No effort will go unrepaid.

This offer ends April 15, 1931. Time is precious, so don't delay. The Sparton dealers listed below will give you full and complete information about this lifetime opportunity that I am offering you. Get in touch with them at once. Simply tell them that you want to know more about the Sparton Scholarship Award. They are expecting you and will furnish everything you need to start at once. Decide to enter right now.

W. E. Sparks

To the Parents of Young America

In making this offer I am gratifying an ambition I have held in my heart for many years. I only wish there could be no limit to the number of winners.

If my own two sons were between the ages of 12 and 19 years I would be proud to have them work for such a reward. The work itself, which promises immediate financial returns, will also help to develop character. Perhaps you, like myself, were denied the privilege of a college training or education by travel, so you can realize the fine advantages of my plan. Have your boy or girl send for the details, talk it over, and let's work together to teach them self-reliance, independence, and the power that lies within themselves to secure the best things the world has to offer.

STOCK MARKET DULL YESTERDAY, WITH SELLING RIPPLE IN THE LAST HALF HOUR

NEW YORK, Sept. 4—(AP)—The stock market slumbered through most of today's session awakening just before the close to find that a late bear drive had snatched a point or two from several of its favorite shares.

In the main, the day's movements were patterned after yesterday's, there were a couple of rallies and a couple of declines prior to the repetition of Wednesday's selling ripple in the last half hour. So dull had trading become by early afternoon that only about 77,000 shares changed hands between 1:30 and 2:10, but the professional shorts quickly took advantage of this condition, as has been their habit in recent months, and sales in the last 50 minutes totaled about 450,000 shares, bringing the day's total just over the million and a half mark.

News was scarce, and enthusiasm for an advance in prices was even scarcer. Wall street heard reports that one or two of the independent steel companies were likely to take unfavorable dividend actions. There were several more dividend reductions, including a cut by a New York bank, the first to take such a step since the panic. F. W. Dodge corporation reported a 5 per cent reduction in the value of building contracts awarded during August in comparison with July.

Wheat was heavy, making new lows for the season on net losses of about a cent. Corn was somewhat firmer and cotton showed nominal advances amounting to 5 to 15 points.

Bonds were again in favor and the average for thirty issues rose to a new 1930 high. Much of the strength was in the rails. U. S. Steel preferred made a record high at 148 1-4, a point above the previous peak attained in 1929.

The undertone of the share market was generally heavy. Upward moves in the steels, motion picture shares and a few specialties such as Eastman Kodak and United Aircraft had little breadth and profits were promptly accepted. The late selling first appeared in the utilities, carrying down American Telephone, Western Union and American Power and Light about 3 points each, and then spreading throughout the list. U. S. Steel, General Electric, American Can and General Motors lost a point. New lows were touched by Goodyear Tire, Ludlum Steel and Cerro De Pasco Copper, the last named touching 40 1-8, a minimum since 1924. Ludlum was affected by reports concerning the safety of the dividend.

There was only a handful of strong spots at the close, these included Vanadium Steel, New York Central, American Tobacco "B" and United Aircraft, up about a point.

The weekly federal reserve statement showed increases in discounts and open market purchases of bills, reflecting the usual operations incident to the month end demands on the money market. The total of bills and securities, which represents the amount of reserve bank credit outstanding, increased $45,000,000.

European currencies were under pressure. Sterling cables lost 1-4 and the French franc sagged 3-8. Latin-American rates again rallied.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 4—(AP)—The curb market was still on the down grade today, although the movement was sluggish.

There were signs of professional activity for higher prices in a few specialties, but utilities, oils and the popular trading shares generally were subjected to bear selling, particularly in the last hour. Total sales aggregated only 388,200 shares, the lowest of the week.

In the utilities, Brazilian Traction, sponsored by Canadian interests, rose more than a point in fairly active trading. Electric Bond and Share usually a dominating influence sold up a fraction, sold off 1 1-2, then rallied a point, closing off a fraction. Central States Electric, American Gas and Electric, and Electric Power and Light warrants, lost a point or two. United Light A, gained more than a point, then reacted.

Although production and consumption statistics were moderately favorable, the petroleum issues again eased. Possibly influenced by gasoline price cutting at Kansas City, Cities Service, the most active issue on the board, was well supported, and closed steady. Cosden and Derby Petroleum, however, both reached new lows, off about a point, and Humble eased. Gulf and Standard of Ohio, worked a little higher in a few sales.

Fresh bullish activity appeared in Libbey McNeil, which rose 1 1-2 points. Translux also reflected pool activity, but made little headway. Some of the aviation issues firmed up, notably Detroit Aircraft, Aviation Corporation of the Americas, and Aero Underwriters. Western Air, however, lost 2. General Alloys and Mead Johnson each gained a point.

A few of the less active investment trusts were firm. The more active investment company stocks, however, eased. Goldman Sachs lost a fraction, perhaps reflecting reduction in the dividend of Manufacturers' Trust company, in which it has a large interest. And United Founders also eased. Atlas Securities, and Graymur gained a point, and Ungerleider nearly 2. Prince and Whitely was active and firm.

Showing the thinness of the market in several comparatively inactive shares, a block of Schletter and Zander, sold at 1 1-4, as compared to a previous price of 6. Pines Winterfront dropped 10 to a new low at 24.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 4—(AP)—Bonds advanced today on an increased turnover and the price average for thirty representative issues went to a new high for the movement.

The strength of the rails was a prominent factor in the advance, but utilities and industrials were close to the carrier obligations in the demand by institutions and private investors.

Foreign issues were irregular, with the exception of French bonds. Both the 7s and the 7 1-2s of the Republic made new highs and better prices also prevailed for several other issues of French origin. Latin-Americans were widely mixed. Peru 7s, trading for the first time this week, advanced more than 4 points from the previous sale and the second 6s, rose a point. Argentines were firm, but Brazilians, Colombians and Sao Paulos were highly irregular.

The usual number of new highs was made in the domestic list. Rails [illegible] Chicago and [illegible] general 5s, New Haven 4 1-2s and Pennsylvania 4 1-2s and 4s. New tops for the year were also reached by American Telephone debenture 5s of 1960, Bell Telephone of Pennsylvania 5s, North American Edison 5 1-2s, Pure Oil 5 1-2s and Standard Oil of New Jersey 5s.

Inquiry for the rails extended rather noticeably into the secondary listings, which was regarded as a significant move. The Erie issues were in good demand at fractional advances. New York City tractions were buoyant on large turnovers.

Miscellaneous firm spots embraced Illinois Steel debenture 4 1-2s, National Dairy 5 1-4s, Penn Dixie Cement 6s, and Youngstown Sheet and Tube 5s.

Convertible and other issues carrying stock features were again dormant. Texas Corporation 5s eased. Warner Brothers Pictures, another popular bond, were firm.

Liberties held steady on light dealings, but the Treasuries sagged, the 3 3-4s losing 1-4.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Sept. 4—(AP)—Upset by weakness at Winnipeg and continued absence of foreign demand for North American breadstuffs, wheat prices took a nose dive into new low territory in Chicago today. All other grains were dragged down in sympathy with wheat. A steady stream of selling orders, said to have originated in Winnipeg, appeared shortly after the opening. Traders said this apparently represented hedging against actual purchases from the country. Prices were driven down to within [illegible] bushel of the low prices established in 1914.

Wheat closed nervous and unsettled at 7-8 at 1 1-4c net lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed from 1-8 at 1 1-4c lower to 1-8c higher, oats 1-8c lower to 1-4c higher, and provisions showing 7c at 45c advance.

Provisions showed considerable strength because of buying by cash interests and packers and ranged higher, despite grain weakness.

NE WORK, Sept. 4—(AP)—Construction contracts awarded in the 37 states east of the Rocky Mountains during August, totaled $347,318,300 a decline of 5 per cent from $367,526,400 in July and 29 per cent from $488,882,400 in August last year, F. W. Dodge corporation reports. For the year to August 30, new construction undertaken in this territory totaled $3,352,860,000 compared with $4,156,865,300 of the like period last year.

Corporate financing in August, totaled $230,500,000, the lowest figure recorded in seven years, a compilation by Standard Statistics company, shows. The figure was only one-third of the financing reported in August last year, offerings of common stocks increased 83.4 per cent over July this year, but both the preferred stocks and bond divisions showed substantial declines.

Report is made by P. D. Taylor, president of Canada Dry Gingerale, that sales during August were 10 per cent above those of the corresponding month last year and that earnings last month also exceeded those for August a year ago.

JEWETT CITY

FORMER TROLLEY POLES ARE BEING REMOVED

A dozen men were engaged Thursday removing the big 35-foot chestnut poles that carried the high tension copper feed wires for the trolley system that was operated over the steam iron. The cars stopped running and the Connecticut buses were put into operation November 30, 1925. The trolley cars ran over the Norwich-Worcester tracks for 28 years. When these poles were erected many of the tall, straight chestnut trees were felled in local wood lots, and sold for $10 a pole on the stump. Today, the same sort of pole, as a result of the blight, has passed out of existence. Poles being used here today are from Georgia and South Carolina and cost a dollar a running foot.

No water so. of P. O. sq., Anthony St., and Lisbon, 10 p. m. to 2 a. m., Friday night.—adv.

A year ago today, September 5th, the state of Connecticut sent a big power drill here, with two engineers, for the purpose of ascertaining the depth and extent of the great ledge that underlies Lisbon and the western section of Griswold. In the middle of the following month, actual work was begun on the Quinebaug viaduct. Only those who have seen the great construction project proceed will be able to appreciate its magnitude, which as this great bridge nears completion, becomes more and more apparent. Probably Saturday, in less than 11 months after the first soil was removed on the survey, the last bed of cement will be poured on the railroad overhead. The fill at the head of the Leonard cut-off was being rolled Thursday, preparatory for the final dressing, which, it is said, will be temporarily macadam until the 20-foot fill is properly settled.

This (Friday) night the city water will be shut off in the south end of the town, and the water company will move the hydrant near the Slater library, 16 feet up the street. New highway grades at that point have made the change necessary. Two hydrants now only 200 feet apart, guard the area at the new bridge approach.

To the Big-Fisted Man

Or, here's to the man with a hand like a ham,
And a fist just as big as his heart;
To the big, manly chap, be he banker or drudge,
Owning railroads or driving a cart;
To the man who looks steadily straight in your eyes
And gives you a grip like a vise—
Such men as decided long since once for all,
That they'd rather be men than be mice.

He may have a skull like the crust of the earth,
And a jaw like the Terrible Turk;
His hands may have spread on the helve of a pick,
Or at some other menial work;
But his heart you'll find good as a nugget of gold,
And 'twill always be faithful to you—
Then, here's to the man with a hand like a ham
And a soul that is loyal and true.

He may not be versed in the dining room's ways,
He may never have donned a dress suit,
But he will stand fast while you're true to your trust,
Your honor he'll never dispute,
For he's just the friend that will fight to the end,
Till there's no further use to resist—
God bless him, this man with the hand like a ham
And a heart just as big as his fist.

— Strickland W. Gillilan.

After being shown the Laird's "ground" and all the resting places of the gentry of the district, the visitor said jocularly, "But you haven't shown me your own last six feet by four, John."

"Oh, it's over there hard by the gate," said the sexton, pointing to the entrance.

"That's a queer place to select," observed the visitor. "You must have some reason for it."

"I have that, sir," promptly replied John. "There's goin' to be an unco scramble in this kirkyaird when the Last Trump sounds, an' I'm makin' sure I'll get oot before the crush. — Detroit News.

Norwich Produce Market

Furnished by Bureau of Markets Conn. Dept. of Agriculture

The markets throughout the state were generally glutted with produce since the holiday. The local market was in line and very liberally supplied except in string and lima beans and sweet corn and stocks were moving very slow this morning. Evergreen corn of excellent quality is now available in moderate amounts. Tomatoes were a drug on the market. The best quality of the season is now offered at almost give away prices.

The recent hot weather has hastened the ripening of most fruits especially in peaches where heavy supplies are being rushed to market. Georgia Belles were most in supply with Elbertas beginning to appear. This should be an exceptionally good year for housewives to can peaches. Quality is better than average with prices predicted lower than usual. Apples were liberal and good stock in moderate demand.

Palace Theatre

Can you imagine Benny Rubin as a baseball star? Probably not—but then when you have seen him as a pirate, as a general and as almost every kind of person who wears a uniform it is not too much to expect to see this versatile comedian in the role of a big leaguer.

Benny Rubin is the star of "Hot Curves" which is now playing at the Palace theatre where it will be shown through Saturday on the double-feature bill combining it with "Women Everywhere" a musical romance.

"Hot Curves" shows the rise of Benny from a sandwich seller on a train to that of a star on a big baseball team.

"Women Everywhere" the other production on this bill is the story of an adventurous rum-runner who agrees to send a load of guns to the Arabs. Betrayed by his pilot he and his crew are captured by the French and marooned. His rescue is affected by a singer in a cafe and the whole picture is one of thrilling incidents and charming scenes.

Lon Chaney in The Unholy Three At Palace Sunday

On Sunday the Palace will present "The Unholy Three" the first talking picture made by the late Lon Chaney. No one will want to miss this great actor's best production which is one of the most popular pictures that has been presented to theatre patrons.

Broadway Theatre

An exceptional male cast supports Richard Barthelmess, First National-Vitaphone star, in "The Dawn Patrol," which closes a weeks engagement at Warner's Broadway today.

Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., plays the role of his pal and best friend; Neil Hamilton enacts the role of Major Brand, quick-tempered commander of the air squadron who constantly clashes with Barthelmess. The comedy elements of the story are handled by Clyde Cook, James Finlayson and Frank McHugh.

Howard Hawks directed "The Dawn Patrol," which is based on the thrilling air story by John Monk Saunders. The story is laid in France in 1915 and concerns the dramatic adventures of a group of "schoolboy" flyers of the Royal Flying Corps.

C. G. SAILORS AND SHORE PATROL IN NIGHT CLASH AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 4.—For the first time in many months a clash occurred tonight between coast guard sailors and a shore patrol, with the result that one sailor, Louis R. Pearson, is a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, suffering from severe lacerations of the scalp and head, and Guy Smith is a prisoner at police headquarters and will be in court tomorrow morning, charged with breach of the peace and intoxication. Pearson's injuries are of such a nature that he will be detained at the hospital indefinitely. Pearson and Smith were on Main street when the attention of Patrol Officer Frankie Cheslott was attracted to the men because of the demonstrative conduct of Smith. Cheslott, who gained prominence by his fistic battles in the coast guard, ordered Smith off the street. The latter refused to obey the order and was started for police headquarters to be locked up.

Shortly after passing through Main street, Pearson attempted to take Smith from the custody of the patrol officer. A fight between the officers and the sailors followed, Cheslott being compelled to use his club on Pearson, who was very much the aggressor. During the height of the fight a submarine base patrol officer happened along and rendered assistance to Cheslott. Both patrol officers landed their prisoners at headquarters and Pearson was suffering from such severe wounds that it was necessary to transfer him to the hospital. During the progress of the fight, Cheslott's blouse was practically torn from his body.

Mentally Unbalanced

Irving Congdon, about 28, of 324 Bank street, was arrested tonight for his own safety. He was on Bank street and approached Patrolman Henry Sylvia and requested to be locked up. He was accommodated, for there is little doubt that he is unsound mentally.

On Two Charges

Frank Sammatara, 121 Shaw street, was arrested this afternoon by Traffic Officer Clarence Wells, charged with failing to stop at a signal and driving without a license. He will be in court tomorrow.

POLICE AFTER BOOTLEGGERS GET EVIDENCE IN TWO PLACES

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 4.—The police this afternoon and tonight conducted three liquor raids, but in only one instance were they successful in obtaining evidence of violation of the law. About 4 o'clock the officers went to the club room, 205 Main street, conducted by Joseph Connelly, and a search of the premises revealed several quarts of whiskey. Connelly and Habab Farrah were arrested, charged on two counts of violation of the liquor law, keeping with intent to sell and illegal possession. Connelly was released when Stanley Leno qualified on the proprietor's bond of $1,000 and Farrah obtained his liberty when Mrs. Alexandra Haddad became surety on Farrah's bond in a like amount. Both will be in court tomorrow. Edward Plonsky, Michael Riley, Arthur Fleming, Cornelius Glynn, Thomas Swain, Timothy Dineen and John Kelly, who were found in the club room, were arrested on a charge of frequenting. All were released when Leno qualified as surety on their respective bonds of $100. The frequenters will be in court tomorrow. Judge Daniel M. Cronin several weeks ago issued orders that frequenters be not arrested when found in drinking resorts, but as the identity of those found in the establishment today was unknown to the raiding force they were taken into custody. The raiding force consisted of Automobile Patrol Officers William Corcoran and George Cockell and Patrolmen Frank Philopena, Louis Pine, Edward Riordan and Cornelius Moriarty.

This evening a raiding force in charge of Sergeant John Courtney raided a Main street store and a Hill street house, but were not successful in finding either liquor or beer.

A raiding squad consisting of Sergeant John Courtney, Automobile Patrol Officer George Cockell and Patrolmen Michael Dorsey and Frank Philopena, tonight raided the residence of Mary D. Ymerski, 7 Shapley street, and seized about one gallon of alcohol. Mrs. Ymerski was arrested on two charges of violation of the liquor law, illegal possession and keeping with intent to sell. She furnished a surety on her bond of $1,000 and will be presented in the police court tomorrow morning. The woman has never been arrested before, but her husband has a court record for violation of the liquor law.

STOLEN NORWICH CAR RECOVERED IN NORWALK

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 4.—A Hudson automobile, owned by George V. Zurcher, 30 Fourth street, Norwich, stolen in this city last night while parked in the highway, was recovered early today in Norwalk, and the thief, Gilbert U. Nichols, a sailor stationed on U. S. S. Lark, was arrested, charged with the theft, for Nichols was in possession of the car when it was seized. Nichols was returned to New London by Captain Charles A. Pinney and Detective Sergeant Nelson Smith and was locked up. He will be given a hearing in the police court tomorrow. Zurcher accompanied the officers to Norwalk and returned with his car this afternoon. Zurcher absented himself from the auto for a long time after coming here last night and Nichols obtained easy entrance to it, for the doors were not secured. He drove away and while in Norwalk, after the police of that city had been requested to be on the lookout for the car, it was observed by a patrolman. When Nichols was questioned, he said he was Robert G. Smith, 664 Bank street, but that name was fictitious, as it was discovered that no man of that name resided at or was known at the address.

Borrowed Car Gone

A Nash roadster owned by David J. Feeney, submarine base, was reported to the police this afternoon by Carl Hanson, also of the base, as having been stolen. The markers on the car are L—5663. The car was loaned to Hanson and he parked it on city property next south of the customs house. While he was absent, a thief entered and drove away in the car.

Dasbach Gets Bail

Detective Sergeant John Cavanaugh returned to New London this afternoon from Roselle, N. J., and brought with him as a prisoner, Harry A. Dasbach, formerly of New London, wanted on a charge of non-support. Dasbach was released on bail of $1,000, furnished by Louis and Marian R. S. Phillips, and will be in court tomorrow.

SHOWING OFF FOR GIRLS, MOTORCYCLIST INJURED

Vincent W. Baroni, Oak street, North Billerica, Mass., is a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital suffering from injuries sustained yesterday afternoon when the motorcycle he was riding collided with an automobile in Groton. Baroni received a compound fracture of the left leg, dislocated knee, lacerations over the left eye and left knee. Baroni was driving his cycle on Poquonoc road and was performing stunts, apparently for the benefit of girls in a car following. Baroni's cycle traveled all over the road and in and out of the line of traffic with the result that it crashed against a Jewett auto owned by Frederick Baker, of Jordan Village and driven by Allen E. Edwards, also of Jordan Village. Baker's automobile overturned, but its occupants escaped injury. As soon as Baroni's condition will permit he will be arrested on a charge of reckless driving and given a hearing in Groton town court.

An automobile driven by Edward O'Connor, Bingham, N. Y., and a car operated by George H. Foley, of Willow street, Mystic, collided last night near the country club in Stonington. O'Connor was arrested by State Police Officer Donald Brown charged with reckless driving. He will be in Stonington town court Tuesday next. O'Connor, driving a Ford, was traveling at an excessive rate of speed and was headed toward Westerly. In attempting to guide his auto past Foley's car, O'Connor misjudged the distance and ar crash resulted. Both cars were damaged, but their occupants were not injured.

MCELHANEY UNDER COVER BUT PAYS FINE THRU COUNSEL

John McElhaney, proprietor of a speakeasy at 9 Pearl street, was fined by proxy in the police court this forenoon on a charge of violation of the liquor law. Although McElhaney, who has been in hiding several days was not present to defend the charge, his counsel, Morris Lubchansky, entered a demurrer, which was overruled by Judge Daniel M. Cronin and a fine of $200 and costs was imposed. McElhaney was arrested with several other liquor dispensers two weeks ago upon information supplied by Hartford stool pigeons. When in court the following day, counsel for McElhaney requested a continuance, which was granted, the postponement being until a week ago last Monday. Louis Elfenbein qualified on McElhaney's bond of $1,000, but when the continued date arrived, McElhaney was not in court and the bond was declared forfeited. The case was reopened today and the bond recalled, when McElhaney's counsel appeared in the interest of his client and entered the demurrer. It is now anticipated that McElhaney will emerge from hiding.

The youth was presented in the city court and after the taking of brief testimony, the case was continued until the 20th inst. Brown and Althea Gilliam, the latter also colored and residing on Hill street, were arrested Sunday night near the city line on Williams street by State Police Officer William Elmer MacKenzie. The automobile in which the youth and girl had been riding was observed parked alongside the highway. They were arrested on a charge of lascivious carriage. After being in custody a short time, Althea confessed to being the mother of a child, born about two years ago and said that Brown was its father. A warrant was then issued for Brown's arrest on the more serious charge.

PATROLMAN HARRY WATTERSON SUSPENDED BY POLICE CHIEF

Today Captain Charles A. Pinney suspended Patrolman Harry Watterson on a charge of violation of the police rules and regulations. Watterson has not been notified of his suspension for his whereabouts are not known to Captain Pinney other than the patrolman is reported to be in New York. The officer will be given a hearing by City Manager William A. Holt as soon as the absentee returns to this city, which probably will be within a day or two. The specific charges against the officer are leaving the city without permission and absenting himself from duty.

Watterson requested a week ago that he be allowed to take his monthly two days off on Sept. 1 and 2. The request was granted, but he did not make it known that he intended leaving New London. The officer was supposed to report for duty at 10:30 o'clock last night, but did not do so, for during the day he communicated with police headquarters, stating that he was in New York and that he would be detained there a few days because of his contemplation of having his tonsils removed and that be would obtain the treatment at a hospital. The hospital where the officer is supposed to be a patient was not designated in the telephone message.

NOT BEARING HEAVY ON OUT-OF-STATE MOTORISTS

Out-of-state motorists are not discriminated against in the enforcement of state motor vehicle laws, asserted Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel Sunday night when asked for his views on the recent complaint of Russell A. Harmon, secretary of the Bancroft Automobile club, of Worcester, Mass. The Massachusetts authorities have declined to retaliate against Connecticut motorists because of the charges made by Mr. Harmon of discrimination against Massachusetts drivers, Mr. Stoeckel said, and Connecticut officials have regarded the incident as closed.

Separate investigations were made of the incident which was the immediate cause of Mr. Harmon's complaint by both the motor vehicles department and Commissioner Robert T. Hurley of the state police, and according to both investigations the incident involved a flagrant violation of the state motor vehicle laws, Mr. Stoeckel said. "The man was given a stiff fine—why not? So would anyone else who violated our laws in a like manner," the commissioner said.

"Much of the trouble with out-of-state motorists comes through the fact that they fail to recognize that the motor vehicle laws of this state are being enforced upon all drivers. They do not realize that the Connecticut law regarding staying in line is enforced, and that in this state we regard this as a serious offense, not a minor infraction of the law," continued Mr. Stoeckel.

"Since we have tightened up on the enforcement of the laws we have cut the death rate from motor vehicle accidents ten per cent. As regards the complaint against the fines imposed, these fines are set by statute and the presiding justice has no option after finding a driver guilty of the violation of the law than to impose the fine. Contrary to the expressed belief of out-of-state drivers, the justice does not pocket the costs assessed—a certain amount of this money goes to the state and to the witness, as prescribed by law. And to a certain extent the costs themselves are set by law, so that the costs in the average case will be more than $11, a sum which some out-of-state clubs hold to be exorbitant."

Connecticut is not waging war on any particular class of operators because of the state from which they come, the commissioner said, but will continue to wage war on all who violate its motor vehicle laws regardless of the state from which they come.

The tropical disturbance is apparently central tonight near the northeast coast of Cuba between Baracoa and Neuvitas with considerable lessened intensity, no winds of gale force being reported. It is likely that this disturbance will continue to move west-northwestward and reach the Florida straits on or during Friday night.

Showers have occurred within the last 24 hours in portions of the south Atlantic and gulf states and at scattered points in the Rocky mountain region and the plain states. Fair weather has prevailed elsewhere.

The weather will be generally fair in the Washington forecast district except for scattered thunderstorms in the South Atlantic states Friday but the eastward advance of the Minnesota disturbance will likely cause showers in the Ohio valley, the lower lake region, Tennessee Friday night and probably Saturday and in the Atlantic states during Saturday.

The temperature will rise in the interior of the north Atlantic states Friday.

CONNECTICUT BREEDERS ANSWER SHEEP QUESTIONNAIRE

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Sept. 4—Announcement of the results of a questionnaire recently sent to sheep breeders of Connecticut was made by the extension service of Connecticut Agricultural college. Of the 300 questionnaires sent out, 75 brought replies. As no attempt was made to obtain answers from selected sheep owners, the results may be taken as a fair average of the sheep situation in the state, even though it is evident that the total number who reported is relatively few. Fifty-eight of the 75 answered questionnaires were usable for obtaining the following figures:

Sixty-two and seven-tenths acres of land per farm, are being used for sheep raising.

The total number of sheep on the fifty-eight farms is 1,813, made up of 1,474 grades and 339 purebreds. This makes an average of 30.7 sheep per farm.

The average number of days that the sheep are on pasture each year is 243, but this of course does not mean that they are required to find all food in this way for this period. A good average for days in pasture with no other food supplied would be about 180.

Forty-six reported that they used pure-bred rams, with nine reporting grades and four not reporting. The average cost of rams used is given as $31.20 per head. Shropshires rank first in the number with fifteen, Cheviots eleven, Hampshires eight, Southdowns six and Dorsets five.

Forty-eight reported that paper twine is used in tying the fleeces, with eight reporting that it is not used and two not reporting.

Fifty-one of the 58 breeders reporting dock their lambs, while 39 castrate and 19 do not.

Only six breed their lambs the first year while 50 breed them as yearlings. Some of these owners sell some lambs at Easter and the remainder later, depending on the market and the prices which prevail. The average weight of the lambs sold is 53.8 pounds, this figure including those sold at Easter—thus the relatively low weight.

The average price per head received for lambs last year was $9.81.

The average weight of the fleece in 1929 was 6.32 pounds and the average price received for wool last year was 36c per pound.

Thirty-two reported that they sold their wool to the local dealers, eleven sold through commission men and four had their wool made into blankets.

March is the popular lambing period in Connecticut—29 reporting in this way: 21 had the lambs come in February; 14 in April; and three in January. These figures total more than the 58 reporting, but some of course had the lambs coming in two or more months.

Forty-one reports stated that grain was fed at some season of the year; four reported no grain fed. The average amount of grain fed per ewe is given as 143 pounds. Thirty-four reported that they fed grain during the breeding season.

Fourteen stated that they fed mangels or some kind of root crop—an average of 169 pounds being fed per ewe. Silage is fed by five reporters in amounts averaging 250 per ewe per year.

The average income per ewe per year is given as $11.07.

NORWICH REPUBLICANS NOMINATE DELEGATES IN HARMONIOUS CAUCUS

That harmony prevails within the ranks of the republican party in the town of Norwich was evident at the town caucus Thursday evening when 400 or more men and women voters of the party unanimously named delegates to the five coming political conventions. A hinted rift in the ranks of the party failed to materialize. In its selection of delegates to the various conventions the caucus endorsed Lieut. Governor Ernest E. Rogers of New London as the republican candidate for governor, Congressman Richard P. Freeman for re-election, Charles W. Cassidy for state senator from this district, George H. Bradford for election as high sheriff of New London county and Judge Nelson J. Ayling for re-election as judge of probate.

There were no contests and the business of the caucus was transacted in about 20 minutes time. George M. Charbonneau, chairman of the republican town committee, called the caucus to order at 8 o'clock and asked for nominations for a moderator of the meeting. George N. Beardow named Henry H. Pettis for moderator and he was selected for that office, applause greeting him as he took the chair. "Ladies and gentlemen: I thank you for the nomination," said Judge Pettis. "I am glad to see so many here tonight," he continued. "It augurs well for the campaign to come." Judge Pettis went on to say that the state has had republican rule for a good many years and has prospered under it. "Compare this state with others and you will find very few managed as economically or as efficiently," he said. In concluding, Judge Pettis said it was the duty of all, as citizens, to see that the administration of this state remains as it is.

Edmund Hindle named John Stankiewicz as clerk of the caucus and he was chosen for that office. After the clerk had read the call for the caucus, the moderator called for nominations for delegates to the state convention.

William Enos nominated Mayor Lee Roy Robbins, George M. Charbonneau, Charles W. Cassidy and F. Russell Smith as delegates to the convention. Mr. Enos stated that they have pledged themselves to support Lieut. Governor Rogers for governor in the forthcoming convention and also Albert J. Bailey and Mrs. Frank A. Mitchell for members of the state central committee. Howard S. Spalding moved that the delegates be acted upon in groups and as there was no objection to the motion Judge Pettis ruled that that proceedure be followed. Accordingly, the state convention delegates were unanimously chosen, there being no nominations in opposition.

Harold S. Burt nominated George H. Geer, Mrs. Frank I. Royce, Mrs. Eva Higgins and Mrs. C. G. Thompson as delegates to the congressional convention, to support Congressman Richard P. Freeman for re-election. They also were unanimously chosen.

As delegates to the county convention, Herman A. Bruckner nominated Andrew B. Davies, John R. Bowman, Jr., Oscar H. Main and John McDougald. In making the nominations, Mr. Bruckner stated that the delegates would support George H. Bradford for election as high sheriff of New London county. Mr. Bradford, at present, holds the office of high sheriff of the county, having been appointed by Governor John H. Trumbull to complete the unexpired term of the late Sidney A. Brown. The nominations were unanimously made by the caucus.

A. R. Manning nominated Judge Arthur F. Libby, Howard S. Spalding, Henry H. Pettis and Frank Belque as the senatorial convention delegates. Mr. Manning stated, in making the nominations, that they have pledged themselves to support Charles W. Cassidy as state senator from this district. The caucus unanimously selected them as the delegates to the convention

The final delegates selected were those to the Norwich district probate convention. Josiah Greenstein named Edmund W. Perkins, E. LaRue Bliven, Dr. Charles Solomon and Ernest O. Rodier, as the delegates, in support of Judge Nelson J. Ayling for re-election. The nominations were unanimously made by the caucus. The last business to come before the caucus was the selection of a town committee. Chairman Pettis called for nominations. Edwin Hanks offered the following nominations for the committee:

George M. Charbonneau; first district, Charles W. Cassidy, George G. Engler, Josiah Greenstein, Henry H. Pettis, John R. Bowman, Jr., Kenneth W. Fox, Ebenezer Learned, Herbert J. Ferguson, Theodore Richards, John Stankiewicz, Joseph Tomanio, Mrs. Clarence G. Thompson, Mrs. Jennie M. Davis, Mrs. Richard Lane. Second district, Mrs. Frank I. Royce, William Huntington, Walter R. Cowan, Louis Pollock, Mrs. Leslie L. Brewer. Third district, William S. Murray, Mrs. William Lund. Fourth district, Arad R. Manning, Mrs. Ruby Jordan, Mrs. Ruth Colt. Fifth district, Frank Belque, William Enos and Mrs. Ruth Grant Sears. Sixth district, Howard A. Spalding, Mrs. Eva Higgins.

Judge Ayling moved that the town committee have power to fill any vacancies that may occur on the ticket and that the delegates have power to name proxies. After adopting this motion the caucus moved to adjourn, having been in session for approximately 20 minutes.

WILL DEMONSTRATE SILO AND CORN BORER CONTROL

On Monday, September 8, on the farm of Fred M. Abell of Lebanon, a demonstration of silo filling and cutting corn to control corn borer will be held. The demonstration is arranged so that operations may be observed from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m.

The purpose of the demonstration is twofold. The corn borer control service of the United States department of agriculture will be present with a tractor drawn harvester with the special low cutting device. This machinery is coming east from Toledo, Ohio, this week for a series of demonstrations in southern New England. The equipment and operation of it will be under the supervision of Frank Irons of Ohio who is the inventor of the low cutting device.

The second phase of the demonstration is to show more efficient use of labor and equipment in silo filling. It si a common practice among most Connecticut farmers to use tip carts for hauling corn from the field to silage cutter. Investigations in several states have shown that this is a very expensive way of hauling corn as compared to low down wagons. The tip cart not only requires more labor but the labor is used with much less efficiency. The low down wagons to be used for this demonstration are very simple inexpensive affairs that any farmer can make at home. The corn field is located some distance from the silo so in this case the low down wagons will be hauled by a truck. Horses will be use dwhile loading It will be worth while to stop and see this demonstration.

Damages of $15,000 are sought in a suit brought in the superior court by Mrs. Mary E. Dorsey of 109 Truman street, New London, against Harold L. Washington of Roxbury, Mass., and Charles H. Foggie of Boston, who, it is alleged was driving Washington's automobile on May 18, 1930 when it ran into Mrs. Dorsey's house.

At the time the automobile mounted the sidewalk and hit the house, Mrs. Dorsey claims the shock and vibration threw her against a buffet in her dining room, resulting in injury to her left side and shock from which she suffered a nervous breakdown which will suffer permanent injuries which will impair her ability to earn $26 a week as a clerk at the Corticelli Silk company.

CREMATING THE BODIES OF 1,000 HURRICANE VICTIMS

Mass Cremation Was Resorted To Lest the Horror of Pestilence Be Added to the Misfortune of Santo Domingo—Relief Work Is Being Conducted Under Martial Law—Plight of the 5,000 Injured and the 30,000 Homeless Growing Hourly More Critical—Damage Within the City Limits Has Been Estimated At $20,000,000—Relief Work Is Progressing

(Copyright 1930 and all rights reserved by the Associated Press)

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic, Sept. 5—(AP)—Under martial law this capital of the Dominican republic, oldest white man's city in the Americas, lay in ruins today as the bodies of almost 1,000 of its citizens, men, women and children, burned on great funeral pyres.

To the north lay death and desolation the extent of which could not even be guessed, for all means of communication between this Caribbean seaport and the interior was wiped out by the hurricane that whiplashed the island Wednesday, leaving it as though an earthquake had torn it asunder.

The plight of the 5,000 injured and the 30,000 homeless and destitute was growing hourly more critical.

Of the city's 10,000 buildings only 400 were left in which to house the wounded and the weak and today hunger began to stalk the littered streets.

Relief workers had time only for the living and so, lest the horror of pestilence be added to the city's sorry burden of misfortune, any attempt at burying the dead was abandoned in favor of mass cremation.

Despite the terrific loss in life and property—the damage within the city limits was roughly estimated at $20,000,000—hope flamed strongly in the survivors' hearts and was strengthened by reports that relief ships were on the way with food and medical supplies, doctors and nurses.

Food, because of its insufficiency, was being strictly rationed and President Leonidas Trujillo himself worked in wreckage-heaped streets seeing that the most needy were first served and most carefully protected.

As is always the case in the aftermath of disaster, whether the catastrophe be due to fire or flood, wind or earthquake, there were during the first paralyzed period after the hurricane passed some instances of looting. But today the city was under martial law and the relief work went forward with perfect order.

Because others could not be spared and in order to utilize every available agency in at least preparing for the gigantic reconstruction program, prisoners were set to work today clearing the debris from the streets.

Their task will take them weeks and maybe months, for it is a colossal undertaking just to clear the ground for the Santo Domingo that is to be. Masonry and timbers lie everywhere in tangled heaps, mounds of wreckage from which bodies were still being recovered today.

Declaring that the situation was disastrous and that 90 per cent of the city was destroyed, President Trujillo appealed by cable today for quick assistance from the United States and all other friendly nations.

"We are in need of everything,' he wired.

It was really two disasters that beat the city prostrate Wednesday afternoon, for first one arc of the whirling hurricane crashed across the city and then, after an interval, the other half of the circle ripped across town in the opposite direction and completed the havoc.

The first devasting rush of wind, tearing off roofs and pushing over walls of wood and stone on occupants of houses and public buildings and on pedestrians in the street, was due north. After a period of hysterical terror that seemed interminable there came a lull and the people thought the worst was over. But the quiet was only due to the fact that the city was temporarily in the slower moving hub of the hurricane's wheel, and soon the storm broke again, the wind this time due south.

The greatest intensity was between 1 and 2 o'clock. By 5 the hurricane had passed inland across the republic, spreading death and destruction that even yet cannot be estimated.

U. S. ARMY OFFERS AID TO SANTO DOMINGO

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5—(AP)—The United States army today offered to aid hurricane sufferers in Santo Domingo if requested by the Red Cross and a cable was dispatched by the war department to Porto Rico, authorizing the release of surplus army medicines, food and shelter, if necessary to save life.

APPEAL FOR CLOTHING AND MEDICAL SUPPLIES

NEW YORK, Sept. 5—(AP)—Charles B. Curtis, American minister to the Dominican republican, through the Associated Press, today sent an emergency appeal to the American people for funds, clothing and medical supplies for the populace of the hurricane-stricken city of Santo Domingo.

Mr. Curtis said he had received $15,000 from the American Red Cross for emergency relief, but that this amount was "insufficient for actual needs."

CRIMINALLY RESPONSIBLE FOR FATAL SHOOTING AUG. 10

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 5—(AP)—James Brown, of Branford, Negro, is held criminally responsible in a finding issued tonight by Deputy Coroner Thomas R. Robinson for the fatal shooting on August 10 in Branford of Charles Middleton, 26, also a Negro.

In a second finding, the deputy coroner absolves Joseph H. Kane, of Meriden, of criminal responsibility in the death on August 13 in Wallingford of Mrs. Ethel N. Bailey, of Yalesville, who was killed when her automobile collided with a Connecticut company bus operated by Kane.

In the Brown finding, the coroner charges that Brown had interrupted a conversation which Middleton was having with two other men. The finding further charges that Brown shot Middleton without justification when the latter objected to the interruption.

CLOSING SESSION OF C. F. OF L. CONVENTION

HARTFORD, Sept. 5—(AP)—A committee of five members of the Connecticut Federation of Labor, was appointed at the closing session of the organization's convention to appear before the platform committees at the state conventions of both major parties and to advocate planks in favor of repeal of the state prohibition enforcement act and of an old age pension system.

These two programs had been consistently agitated throughout the four day convention of the federation and both had received the hearty endorsement of the delegates. The committee will consist of Carl Lang, of Bridgeport, James Donahue, of Waterbury, William F. Steinmiller, of Hartford, J. Nicholas Danz, of New London and Henry Tierney, of New Haven.

DIRIGIBLE LOS ANGELES NOT DAMAGED IN ANY WAY

LAKEHURST, N. J., Sept. 5—(AP)—The navy dirigible Los Angeles, returned to its hangar at 7 p. m., today from a trip over up-state New York. The ship was not damaged in the least, its officers said, contradicting rumors that its rudder was put out of commission on the flight.

High winds caused the officers to change their plans to return by way of northeastern Pennsylvania. The dirigible instead, took a straight course down the Hudson river.

The report of the damaged rudder was first circulated by an aviator at Canastota, N. Y., and relayed by telephone from a Syracuse newspaper to officers here. The trip was made in connection with the New York state fair at Syracuse.

FORMER KAISER WINS HIS LIBEL SUIT AGAINST EDITOR

BERLIN, Sept. 5—(AP)—After a bitter court struggle in which echoes of his lost splendor reverberated through the halls of justice, former Kaiser Wilhelm today won in his libel suit against a newspaper editor he charged with slandering him.

The court decreed that the defendant, Ewald Mendel, editor of the Morgenpost, must pay a fine of 1,500 marks (about $75) or serve three months in jail. The newspaper had charged that the kaiser allowed the Krupp Arms Works to furnish inferior munitions during the World war because he had a financial interest in the company.

MRS. TOWNSHEND FAILED TO MAKE THE DELEGATION

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 5—(AP)— Mrs. Hanna D. Townshend, vice chairman of the republican town committee who sometime ago announced herself as a candidate for the republican nomination for lieutenant-governor, failed to win a place on the delegation to the state convention at tonight's city convention.

Earlier in the week, 24 women members of the town committee had signed a petition requesting the election of Mrs. Townshend as a state convention delegate.

The convention tonight named 12 delegates to the state convention. They will be headed by Mayor Thomas A. Tully.

Complete Nat'l Govt. Demanded For India

Ghandi's Price For Calling Off the Civil Disobedience Campaign

POONA, India, Sept. 5—(AP)—A complete national government for India, responsible only to the people of India, and the right to secede at any time from the British empire were the demands of Mahatma Gandhi upon which the peace negotiations between the British government and the civil disobedience leaders today broke down.

This was the price exacted by Gandhi and the Pandits Motilal and Jawaharlal Nehru, congress party leaders, in exchange for calling off the civil disobedience campaign that has wracked India since last March.

Refusal of Lord Irwin, viceroy of India, to accept it, was announced to Gandhi in Yeroda prison by Sir Taj Bahadur Sapru and Mr. Jayakar, intermediaries.

The peace efforts thereupon ended in complete failure. Presumably the civil disobedience campaign will be actively resumed.

Resumption of the violent clashes between police and volunteers and of the political bitterness that divided Indians against Indians and Europeans against nationalists is indicated by announcement of Gandhi's terms and their rejection.

The civil disobedience campaign during the recent rainy season has been virtually in abeyance. All India has been watching the negotiations between the government and Gandhi in the hope that a better spirit would be developed for the forthcoming London round-table conference.

FEMININE LOQUACITY BEGINS IN THE CRADLE

BRISTOL, England, Sept. 5—(AP)—Woman's tendency to loquacity reveals itself before she is out of the cradle, according to Prof. C. L. Valentine, head of the department of education of the University of Birmingham and author of works on psychology.

"Many infants love to babble long before their talk can have any definite meaning even for them," he said in an address before the British Association for the Advancement of Science today. "And I have to report that I noticed this more decidedly in my two little girls than in the boys."

DENIAL OF INDICATIONS OF DISORDER IN BRAZIL

RIO DE JANEIRO, Sept. 5—(AP)—The government issued an official statement this afternoon saying that there was no indication of disorder in any part of Brazil.

The action was brought about by rumors of trouble in the state of Santa Catherina, and the departure of three destroyers during the night for Florianapolis. OFFICERS ELECTED BY VETS OF FOREIGN WARS

BALTIMORE, Sept. 5— (AP) —Paul C. Wolman, of Baltimore, was elected national commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and Kansas City chosen for the 1931 convention today as the 31st National encampment here came to a close with a demand for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment and its enforcement laws.

Wolman was advanced from the post of senior vice commander, to which Harold D. DeCoe of Sacramento, Calif., was advanced from the junior commandership. Rear Admiral Robert E. Coontz, retired, of Washington, was elected junior national commander in his absence. Wolman succeeds Hezekiah N. Duff, of Lansing, Mich.

Dr. Guy Seward, of Fremont, Neb., was re-elected surgeon general: George A. Henderson, of Newark, N. J., judge advocate general; R. B. Handy, of Kansas City, quartermaster general, and Rabbi Emmanuel J. Jack, of Yonkers, N. Y., national chaplain.

The demand for dry law repeal was adopted by the convention by a vote of 573 to 637, after it had set aside an adverse report by the resolutions committee. When the adverse report was returned, the convention floor became a scene of pandemonium.

FRANCE READY TO TALK ARMAMENT LIMITATION

PARIS, Sept. 5—(AP)—A correspondent of the Associated Press was informed by authoritative French sources tonight that France is ready to negotiate a general treaty for the limitation of armament, based on the existing strength of the French army.

This decision regarding land forces, is contingent upon the maintenance of the Versailles treaty intact. French opinion was described as increasingly disturbed over the demand of German nationalists for revision of the Versailles treaty.

The newspapers gave prominent position to a speech by General Von Seeckt, former commander of the German reichswehr, to the effect that the coming years must be spent in a struggle against this treaty.

Paris believed an important contribution will have been made to the cause of disarmament if an agreement to limit land forces to their present level can be negotiated. This, they believe, would arrest an armament raise and possibly lead to reduction agreements.

STRIKES PREVAILING THROUGHOUT SPAIN

MADRID, Sept. 5—(AP)—Scarcely an important town in Spain remained without some sort of strike tonight. Disorders occurred today at Renteria, near San Sebastian, over a metal workers' strike and free-for-all fights over political issues were reported at Orense, in Galicia.

In neither of these cities did deaths result, but many persons were injured and in Renteria all business houses closed after the strike was unexpectedly proclaimed at noon. Most of those injured were struck by stones from the mob or knocked down by the horses of mounted guards.

PRESIDENT YRIGOYEN OF ARGENTINA HAS RESIGNED

Retired In Favor of Vice President Martinez—First Official Act of the New President Was to Declare a State of Siege In Buenos Aires—News of Yrigoyen's Resignation Was Greeted by the Shrieking of Sirens and the Explosion of Bombs in the Capital—Later Disorders Broke Out in One of the Principal Streets

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 5—(AP)—President Hipolito Yrigoyen, twice Argentina's chief of state, resigned this evening.

The president, known as "Argentina's powerful man of the people," retired after a week of political agitation and student riots. He turned over the ship of state to Vice President Enrique V. Martinez, who immediately declared a state of siege in Buenos Aires. Troops were held in barracks.

The news burst in the feverheated city like a bombshell. Sirens screeched, bombs were exploded, and extra editions were rolled out by newspapers.

Yrigoyen had held an almost dictatorial power in Argentina since his election to the presidency in 1928, for the second term. His first term began in 1916.

The president's resignation, though expected all week, stunned the capital.

Late this afternoon a mysterious order from government quarters to "stand by" reached high newspaper circles. Then at a given signal "La Nacion" exploded bombs, the customary way of announcing extraordinary events.

A few minutes later the news ran like wildfire that Yrigoyen had resigned and given over his powers to Enrique Martinez.

Dr. Martinez, who is 44, is a physician of the Province of Cordoba, which is the most important in Argentina outside of Buenos Aires.

He served as governor of Cordoba, later became a national deputy, and was chosen vice-president by the electoral college after the death of Vice-President-Elect Francisco Beiro in April 1928.

Dr. Martinez was elected because he was considered Yrigoyen's choice. He has considerable following in his own province but not in the country at large. He was, incidentally, the youngest vice president in the nation's history.

Discontent against Yrigoyen has been mainly within his own party because of his failure to provide positions for his supporters.

Under the state of siege, or martial law, all demonstrations and public gatherings, such as the disorders in which students participated last night, are automactically prohibited.

There were evidences this morning that martial law might be imposed, as persons who occupied buildings near the government house were privately informed to be ready for evacuation of their offices in case trouble necessitate dmilitary rule.

The retirement of the president was considered due to pressure by the members of the cabinet following the political agitation which had unsettled the country for a week.

DISORDERS IN PRINCIPAL STREET OF BUENOS AIRES

BUENO SAIRES, Sept. 5—(AP)—Disorders following the resignation this evening of President Hipolito Yrigoyen broke out along the Avenida De Mayo, one of the principal streets of Buenos Aires.

Fighting occurred near the building of "La Prensa", opposition paper. A meeting was scheduled for 7 p. m. near there.

Telephone service to "La Nacion" and other principal newspapers was suddenly interrupted about the same time.

Rigid censorship was clapped on outgoing press cable dispatches and public gatherings in the streets were forbidden.

CLUE TO DISAPPEARANCE OF MAGISTRATE CRATER

NEW YORK, Sept. 5—(AP)—Out of a mass of rumor and report concerning the whereabouts and reason for the disappearance of Joseph Force Crater, justice of the New York supreme court, who has been missing since August 6, came information today from a motorist who identified a picture of the judge as that of a man he picked up on a road near New Rochelle, N. Y., about a week ago.

Meanwhile the only organized search for the missing jurist was being conducted by New York police, and even they were without a formal request to seek him.

Governor Roosevelt, notified at Syracuse of the disappearance, said the state, through lack of funds, was not in a position to help in the search. The judge's wife, although reported upset over her husband's absence, has made no statement. She was reported today to be on her way to New York from the Crater summer home in Maine.

L. G. Boegker, a salesman of Portchester, N. Y., said he had given a lift to a disheveled looking man on the morning of August 28 or 29. The man's clothes, said, "looked like they had been slept in." Shown a picture of the missing justice, he declared, "undoubtedly that is the man I picked up."

TROUBLE OVER PAINTING OF NO. COVENTRY SCHOOLHOUSE

SOUTH MANCHESTER, Sept. 5—(AP)—When the Coventry school board gave its old red schoolhouse in North Coventry a coat of white paint this past summer, it automatically lost ownership of the property on which the school stands, according to Charles Jacobson of this town, owner of the farm adjacent to the school grounds.

Mr. Jacobson cites a clause in an old deed setting apart land from the farm he now owns so that North Coventry could have a school site. This deed specifically states, according to Mr. Jacobson, that the property shall revert to the owner of the farm land if the town fails to use the plot for school purposes, and if the school is not painted red.

Mr. Jacobson has not decided whether he will order Coventry to paint the building red again, order the property vacated, or overlook the odd proviso.

TWO MURDER INDICTMENTS RETURNED IN DETROIT

DETROIT, Sept. 5—(AP)—The special grand jury today returned two murder indictments in one of Detroit's unsolved gangster killings. With the indictments went a report to the circuit court that in investigating the assassination of Jerry Buckley, political radio commentator, the jury had unearthed new information regarding the slaying of William Cannon and George Collins, who were shot down in front of the La Salle hotel on July 3.

After returning the indictments and hearing several witnesses the jury adjourned for its second week-end recess. It will reconvene Monday on the eve of a special mayoralty election made necessary by the recall of Mayor Charles Bowles in a special election on the eve of the Buckley slaying.

COSTE AND BELLONTE ARRIVE AT LOUISVILLE

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 5— (AP) — The sesquiplane of Captain Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellone, trans-Atlantic fliers, landed at Bowman field here after a flight from Dallas Texas, at 6:41 1-2 p. m. (c. s. t.) today. The fliers plan to remain here overnight before continuing their return flight to New York.

The plane circled the field once before coming to a perfect landing. The fliers then taxied up to the administration building where a reception committee, headed by Mayor William Harrison, waited to greet them.

The flight here from Dallas, Texas, was made in six hours and 11 minutes. It was dark when the fliers arrived and flood lights were playing on the field.

A crowd estimated at about 6,000 persons extended a noisy greeting as the plane landed.

At the fliers own request, there will be no banquets or celebrations for them here, other than a parade to a hotel where they will remain under guard overnight. They will leave in the morning for New York, their definite starting time was not announced, but officials at the field said they understood it would be "before 8 a. m."

HOOVER CONGRATULATED VON GRONAU AND ZIMMER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5. — (AP) — Captain Wolfgang Von Gronau and Edward Zimmer, German trans-Atlantic fliers, today were congratulated by President Hoover and discussed with him the practicability of a commercial air line between Europe and the United States.

Before seeing the president, Von Gronau said the idea was entirely feasible. He said the ocean crossing should be divided into three stages with bases on the west coast of England, Iceland and Greenland.

The flight of the Germans was unheralded and was a part of the training program of a German governmental flying school which is headed by Von Gronau. He said no advance preparations were made and that their plane was old and lacked proper radio equipment.

"If we were able to do this and still get through without undue delays in the face of almost continuous storm and fog," he commented, "it should not be difficult to duplicate the trip regularly and successfully with modern equipment."

Two other members of the German crew, Franz Hack and Fritz Albrecht did not accompany Von Gronau and Zimmer to Washington.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Bashful Miss Frisky

Where'er you go you'll find it true
That bashful folk are hard to woo.
—Old Mother Nature.

It was two days before Impy saw that strange Chipmunk near his home for the second time. He popped out from under the fern surrounding his doorway just in time to catch a glimpse of the stranger scampering along the rail fence. Rage filled Impy's heart as he started after the stranger. But the stranger could run and in a very short time Impy had lost sight of this tormentor. You see, that is the way that Impy regarded the stranger. He didn't want any one round; yet this stranger persisted in coming.

Impy turned around and went back. He climbed to the highest stone on the pile of stones, and there he sat and chattered. By and by he had a feeling that some one was watching him. He turned suddenly in time to see a tail disappear between some of the stones of that pile. My, but Impy was upset! Never have you seen any one more upset. This was unforgivable impudence. He started to hunt for the intruder. In and out he ran between the stones of that pile, but he didn't find the intruder. Once more he climbed to the top stone. And then shortly the same thing happened again. This time, however, Impy got a better look at the stranger and, curiously enough, his anger suddenly melted away. He couldn't have told you why; it just melted away, that was all.

This time Impy didn't follow. He remained where he was and it wasn't long before he saw a pair of bright eyes peeping at him from behind a stone. He sat perfectly still. These bright eyes remained still also. He knew they were watching him. Impy pretended not to see them. After a long, long time, the prettiest Chipmunk Impy had ever seen hopped up on a stone a little distance away.

"What is your name?" asked Impy, much to his own surprise.

"Miss Frisky," replied the pretty little stranger.

"That's a nice name," said Impy, and turned toward Miss Frisky. Instantly she disappeared. She was very bashful—very, very bashful, indeed. Impy was becoming excited. He hunted for her which was the worst thing he could have done. His hunt was in vain. He returned to his former seat on the rock. It wasn't long before he discovered Miss Frisky peeking at him again. "Where do you live?" asked Impy.

Miss Frisky refused to tell him.

"I suppose you know," said Impy, "that I live here?"

Little Miss Frisky nodded, but she didn't say a word.

"Can't we be friends?" persisted Impy.

Again, little Miss Frisky nodded. At this Impy started toward her. Instantly, Little Miss Frisky darted away. Impy stopped. Little Miss Frisky stopped, but at a safe distance. "I won't hurt you," said Impy. "I promise you I won't hurt you."

Little Miss Frisky said nothing, but suddenly turned and darted away. It was surprising how quickly she could disappear. Impy was disappointed. He made his way back to his favorite stone and there he hoped and hoped that little Miss Frisky would come back. But, though he waited and waited, he saw no more of Miss Frisky that day. That was because she was so very, very bashful.

TUGELO HELD CRIMINALLY LIABLE FOR TURCOTTE DEATH

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 5 — Joseph Tugelo of Jackson street, Willimantic is held to have been guilty of criminal carelessness and negligence in causing the death of Maurice L. Turcotte, who was run down by an automobile operated by Tugelo in Willimantic on August 26, in a finding that Coroner Arthur G. Bill made today. It is significant that Coroner Bill says in his finding that he is communicating the import of it to Prosecuting Attorney Harry S. Gaucher of the Willimantic city court. The coroner commented in speaking of the case that Tugelo's carelessness was of a most flagrant nature.

Coroner Bill says in his finding that he viewed the body of Mr. Turcotte preceding the holding of the inquest on August 27 and 29. From the testimony taken at the inquest I find that the said Maurice Louis Turcotte died at St. Joseph's hospital in Willimantic on August 26th, from a fracture of the upper thoracic spine, fracture of the right humerus, fractures of the ribs, in the right chest, and laceration of the scalp caused by being struck by an automobile driven by Joseph Tugelo of Jackson street in Willimantic."

"I further find that said death was caused by the criminal carelessness and negligence of the said Joseph Tugelo."

This is the second finding that Coroner Bill has made this week in which he has found an automobile operator guilty of criminal negligence, the other instance being that in which Joseph V. Biondi of East Hampton was held criminally accountable for causing the death of Rev. Theodore Martin of Hebron.

WEDDING

Brandenburg-Brooks

A wedding of local interest at Newton Highlands, Mass., Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock, in the Congregational church, was that of Miss Priscilla Fairbanks Brooks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hilliard Brooks, and John Asher Brandenburg of Pineville, Kentucky. Rev. Ben Roberts, pastor of the church, officiated. The bride was given in marriage by her father. Miss Frances Clapp Brooks was her sister's only attendant. Howard Brandenburg, brother of the groom, was best man.

The bride's white satin gown and rare lace and the tulle veil were those worn by her mother at her bridal, and the handkerchief carried by the bride was one that had been carried by her grandmother. Her bouquet was a shower of white roses. The bridesmaid's gown was of pink satin and her hat black. She carried a bouquet of fall flowers.

The church was attractively decorated with gladiolus. Following the ceremony a reception was held.

The ushers were William Reeves of New London, James Otis Watson 3rd, of Fairmont, West Virginia, Ralph Carim of Greensburg, Pa., and Fred A. Simmons, Jr., of Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Brandenburg will make their home in Chicago, where the bridegroom is associated with the American Brake and Foundry company of that city.

The bride, Wheaton '27, was for two years a member of the Killingly high school faculty, a teacher of outstanding ability, and rare personal charm. She made for herself a large place in this community.

Mr. Brandenburg is a graduate of the Yale Scientific school, class of 1929.

Given Suspended Jail Sentence

George D. Charron of Plainfield was before Judge W. Fenner Woodward in the town court this morning to answer to charges that he had violated a provision of the fish and game laws by fishing with more than two baited hooks, in this instance three such hooks. Charron was apprehended some time ago while fishing at the Atwood private pond in the southern section of the town of Killingly, near the Plainfield line, and was ordered into court by County Game Warden Thames Daniels of Plainfield. Charron was represented by Attorney Joseph Smith of Moosup.

Judge Woodward sentenced Charron to serve 30 days in jail, suspending execution of the sentence, and assessing costs of $11.55, which were paid.

KILLINGLY SCHOOLS OPERATED ECONOMICALLY REPORT SHOWS

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 5—Forthcoming annual town reports will contain in the section devoted to the town school committee and the school superintendent, W. E. Parker, much interesting information, especially as to costs. The report will say: "Because of the fact that the school committee has kept a close watch of expenditures and checked with the budget frequently through each year there has been no case in recent years where the expenditures for school purposes have exceeded the appropriations. In addition to this is the further fact that Killingly's expenditures for schools, although greater than several years ago, still remain much below the average for the state, and well below the cost of other towns of the state which are in the same classification, insofar as population is concerned.

Killingly, together with 18 other towns, falls into class III, the group of towns whose population is between 5,000 and 10,000. It is therefore reasonable to compare the cost of Killingly's schools with the cost of schools in other towns of this group. For the year 1928-29 the cost per pupil in Killingly was $78.58. There were 182 school days during the period, so it cost the town $.4317 per day per pupil."

The good showing made in Killingly may be illustrated by comparison of the cost per pupil here with the cost per pupil in some other of the towns in the III class. For instance, the cost in Plainfield was $92.22; in Putnam, $88.14; in Thompson $92.11; in West Hartford, $115.79; in Westport, $126.32; in Stafford, $86.15; in Groton, $85.12. Southington, Branford, Winchester, Seymour and Plymouth are other towns in the III group with lower per pupil costs than Killingly, these ranging from $77.63 to $56.08.

The median cost for class III towns was $82.63, the median cost for Connecticut $97.06, the median cost in Killingly $78.58. Therefore, the cost per pupil in Killingly approaches close to $20 less than the average for the whole state, or to be exact, $12.48.

In Killingly the cost per pupil in the high school was $113.99, in the elementary schools $66.82; all schools $78.58.

In the costs for textbooks, stationery and supplies used in Killingly's public schools the per pupil expense is likewise correspondingly low. The median cost in the state for textbooks in the elementary schools was $1.58 the past school year, while Killingly's cost was $1.07. In the high school the cost per pupil was $3.28, as compared to a state average of $3.60. The average in the state for stationery and supplies in elementary schools was $1.95 per pupil, but Killingly was $1.46. These figures represent the average cost for the past six years, but not including the year ending in June. These low costs in Killingly have been made possible only through close co-operation on the part of all directly interested in the handling of the business, and in the practice of the utmost economy in buying.

PLAINFIELD

Manager William Bailey of the Miamiane baseball team will not play Jake Wechsler's All-Stars Monday evening, it was announced Friday.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon Gagne were grieved to hear of the sudden death of their infant daughter, Theresa, a year and a half old. The father backed an automobile in the yard of their home near Jewett City, supposing the child was in the doorway, but the little girl had started out toward the car, unnoticed by the father. The child was knocked down by the machine and died five hours later from a fractured skull. Mr. Gagne formerly lived at Plainfield and married Mary Vezina, of the village, about three years ago. Mrs. Gagne's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Verina live at 132 Sixth street, Plainfield.

Ross Harden, of Hartford, was in town Wednesday, calling on friends who were pleased to see him, after many years. Mr. Harden was employed at Lawton mills about eight years ago and while in the village made many friends.

Among the teachers who arrived in town during the past week and are registered at the Lawton inn, are Miss Mary Harrison, of New Haven, who is teaching at Packer; Miss Gertrude Nerenan, Augusta, Maine; Miss Celia Israel, Willimantic, of Plainfield grammar school; Miss Brown, of Columbia, who is to take the place of Miss Allen, who has had to give up teaching for a year on account of ill health.

PUTNAM

JOHN F. REARDON REFUSES STATE COMMITTEE OFFICE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 5.—John F. Reardon, agent of the mills of the Grosvenordale company, in North Grosvenordale, and a member of the republican state central committee from the 28th senatorial district, last night asserted he would not seek re-appointment to the state republican committee this year, when the convention for such nominations is held. A report from Danielson Thursday evening, following the Killingly town republican conventional caucus, said that Attorney Sabin S. Russell was a candidate for the nomination to the central committee. When advised of the report, Mr. Reardon was elated and heartily endorsed the Danielson attorney's reported candidacy with the statement: "I am glad to learn of the result of the Killingly caucus and I sincerely hope Mr. Russell is nominated."

The state central committee will lose a valuable member with the retirement of Mr. Reardon who is widely known throughout the state.

Attorney A. MacDonald, Jr., is chairman of the republican town committee for another year. He was re-elected to this post Thursday evening at the adjournment of the party caucus which was held at the municipal building. The membership of the committee has been augmented and its organization somewhat revised. At the present there are 28 members serving, with an equal representation of men and women voters.

The town school committee has called for bids for the transporting of students living in the Park street section of the city from their homes to school and return. A special meeting of the committee is to be held Saturday for the consideration of proposals of various hackney firms, which must be filed with Edward W. Mullan, chairman of the transportation committee, not later than 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

The call for candidates for berths on the Putnam high school football team will be issued next week by Coach L. F. Noyes, who has returned to his post at the local school. Several veterans will respond to the 1930 call and the early prospect is that a successful season will be experienced by the Noyesmen this year. An excellent schedule has been arranged and the training period will be a severe grind for the fresh material, as Coach Noyes has many important holes in the line-up to be filled. The re-conditioned athletic field, now one of the finest anywhere in the state, will perhaps be used this season.

If negotiations now underway are successful, local football fans will be treated to a holiday when Jack Cronin physical education director and coach of athletics at LaSalle, at Providence, invades the high school campus to take on the new edition of the Noyesmen in one of their first games. Jack Cronin, who is also a star backfielder of the professional Steam Rollers team at Providence, has turned out many winning teams at the preparatory school and has plenty of championship material reporting for practice this year. The meeting of the two Putnam mentors, Coach Cronin and Coach Noyes on familiar soil will also be a decided novelty for the followers of the sport.

The agriculture and home economics bureau of the state, through County Agriculture Agent Raymond E. Wing, has announced that the farm bureau of New London county has extended an invitation to Windham county farmers to attend a silage filling and corn-cutting demonstration, to be held Monday, September 8, at the farm of Fred M. Abell in Lebanon. Agent Wing said the demonstration will be somewhat different from the corn borer demonstrations of the past inasmuch as it will include labor saving machinery and labor saving methods in cutting and filling the silos. The program will begin at 10 a. m., to continue until 4 o'clock in the afternoon. A feature of the demonstration will be the exhibition of a U. S. department of agriculture corn harvester, used in the control of the ravages of the corn borer. Co-operating with the farm bureau officials of Windham and New London counties in arranging for the Lebanon meeting are Professor A. W. Manchester and P. L. Putnam of the farm management department of the state agricultural college.

With the state road between Danielson and Wauregan concreted and re-opened to traffic, there is no longer any need for Putnam autoists to follow the roundabout route through Pomfret and Brooklyn, when driving to Norwich and points south.

At all of the republican caucuses held in this portion of the county Thursday evening, harmony prevailed at every session. There were no contests and in no instance were delegations instructed to lend their support to any candidate.

Alfred Bonneville, of Norwich, is spending the week end at his home in this city.

VOLUNTOWN

On Tuesday evening shortly before 10 o'clock, the village was aroused by the cry of fire. The large barn on the corner of Lillibridge and Morrey avenues was discovered in flames which rapidly demolished the building together with a small shed in the rear. Volunteer firefighters did splendid work in saving the house adjoining. The A. A. Young Fire company, of Jewett City, promptly answered a call, making a quick run and getting to work in true firefighter's style. Although handicapped by lack of water, they did all possible and their service and the service of the local firefighters were successful in confining the fire to barn and shed where the fire started, although there were several houses in close proximity to the burning buildings. The property is owned by Frank Stevens, who had only recently purchased it from Benjamin Wilcox. The property has been unoccupied during the summer. Mr. Stevens held no insurance on the buildings which contained his tools and many auto parts which are a total loss. The origin of the fire is still unknown. The action of the Jewett City firemen in making such a prompt response to the call for aid showed a true neighborly spirit and is greatly appreciated by all local people.

The fire of Tuesday evening again brought before the local people the lack of organized fire protection. Some sort of an organized fire-fighting system should be adopted.

The home of Thomas McDonald was shingled this week with fireproof shingles.

Schools opened on Wednesday with the following teachers: Principal, Mrs. Mary A. Freeman of Maine, Miss Bertha Stanley of New London and Miss Jones of Hartford.

James and William H. Kaufmann; congressional, Warren E. Tanner and Charles A. Tanner; senatorial, Walter C. Tanner and Thomas McDonald; probate, Emey Dupont and Lloyd Congdon; republican town committee, Howard E. James, Mrs. Emily B. Chatfield, Walter C. Tanner, Fred G. Dewley.

DWINDLING TROLLEY PATRONAGE

Signs continue to pile up showing the drift of patrons away from trolley transportation and the need of introducing new economies in order to meet the changing conditions. For a time this appeared to be confined to suburban service, but it has now become necessary to apply it more and more to service in the cities.

The announcement that in the near future the Connecticut company will operate its line between Willimantic, Norwich and New London with one-man cars indicates the necessity of dealing with this line the same as it has with the lines in the respective cities. When patronage forces curtailment it is necessary to apply it both to service and expenses. Many are the lines which are successfully operated with one-man cars and in such instances it means the prolongation of a service which could not otherwise be maintained.

What is being done on this line is only what is being done by the same company between Bridgeport and New Haven, while in the city of Bridgeport the curtailment will mean the operation of the cars less frequently, except during the rush hours. In each instance it will permit the trolley company to eliminate certain expenses which patronage does not warrant. It reflects the dwindling use of trolley cars.

While there were days when it was considered that trolley lines in country and city were fixtures, the coming of the automobile has completely changed the situation. The suburban lines suffered first and many of them have been abandoned and such service as is needed over those routes is furnished by busses. Even then it was considered that the trolley would always be required in the cities. Gradually that view is changing. There are cities today, like Woonsocket, which have eliminated such service. Others are witnessing the abandonment of certain runs and the substitution of busses. How long it will be before the last electric is as much of a curiosity as the last horse car is problematical, but those who insisted a few years ago that busses should then be used instead of rebuilding car lines are not backward in pointing to their wise counsel.

COUNTRY SIDEWALKS

According to legislation which has been adopted in New Jersey, the highway commission of that state is authorized to construct sidewalks along the state highways. This would seem to mean that there is an effort to be made to prevent more of the needless accidents which result from pedestrians walking in the highway, and especially at night, without any light to indicate their presence.

There is always an opportunity for the pedestrian to provide for better protection for himself. He cannot fail to recognize the danger he travels in. He would not have to drive a car long before he would understand that the person walking without a reflector or light is not easily seen by the rapidly traveling car, the driver of which would prefer to avoid than to strike him. A light would make it possible for the driver not only to see and turn out for the walker but likewise to give him warning that the car was approaching.

But, with the building of sidewalks along the highways, the presumption is that it will be done only where there is likely to be considerable highway walking. Certainly there are sections where the construction of such a walk would be a waste of public funds. And it is a question just how much the pedestrians will appreciate such a sidewalk, anyway.

Those who have noticed point to the fact that there is frequent complaint because there is no hard-surfaced sidewalk constructed in front of certain property. There is no disposition to be satisfied until a tar or a cement walk has been built. Immediately after such an improvement has been completed at much expense, the observant citizen points out that instead of using the new walk many of the pedestrians are confining their steps to the grass ground adjoining and wearing a path which indicates that the desire for a new walk was not as unanimous as supposed.

It is not so certain that the roadside walk, or even a graded shoulder, would suit everyone, but there will be interest in watching the results in Jersey.

BALLOONING

Ballooning isn't generally indulged in, but there never fails to be a keen interest in the outcome of the year's contest for the Bennett prize. It cannot be said that the gallery of spectators is particularly large along the route of the flight, for none knows definitely what that is going to be, but they usually get away before plenty of admiring friends. There always has been and probably always will be a crowd eager to witness a balloon ascension. There is a thrill and a fascination about it, even if there is no parachute drop involved.

In the Bennett contest it is a question of which gas bag can be so navigated as to make the greatest distance. In ballooning, as in everything else, much depends upon the skill of the pilot. He must determine where the conditions are the most favorable, or ought to be, how to take advantage of them and how to avoid the pitfalls and handicaps.

It is quite certain that ballooning will never become as popular as flying in an airplane or riding in an automobile. It furnishes a means of navigating the air, if one is satisfied to trust himself to whatever wind blows. There is probably a charm about it which appeals to many, and yet the more or less helplessness of the persons in the basket is certain to restrict the number who will participate.

Going aloft to be rushed along by the prevailing wind means facing certain hazards under any condition, but starting out on such a race in the teeth of a storm is certainly not inviting, though it may insure plenty of speed and a thrill that can be obtained in no other way.

The Bennett prize was provided for the purpose of stimulating interest in ballooning. Possibly something of that kind was necessary to keep the sport alive, in view of the other developments which have taken place, but while there are always enough entries to provide a real race it can hardly be said that ballooning is gaining in popularity by leaps and bounds. The prize, nevertheless, serves to develop a rivalry that would probably not otherwise exist.

VERDICT OF THE CAUCUSES

For the past few weeks there has been an effort made to so influence the republicans of the various towns that they would select delegates antagonistic to the present republican regime in Connecticut. Special ammunition has been directed against the head of the successful organization in an effort to bring about a change, and apparently a big following was expected.

The caucuses have been held. The republicans have selected their delegate to the several conventions and, except in two of the smallest towns of the state, there was no evidence of a serious demand for changing control. Even in those cities and towns where the hardest fights were made, the opposition made a poor showing, so much so that it must be apparent that there is not much sympathy with the purpose for which they have been working.

This isn't the first time such an effort has been made. It is not the first time that those who thought they represented majority sentiment have found out to the contrary. They have, however, had the probable pleasure and satisfaction of trying out their ideas and making their appeals to the electorate. They have found that they were not heard with sympathetic ears, that party sentiment did not jibe with their views and that within the party there is not that sentiment which they thought might exist under cover. They have had their opportunity to try out their plan. From the result, it would seem that there could be no doubt as to the attitude of the republicans of Connecticut. As a matter of fact, as a study is made of the verdict, there would seem to be slight satisfaction. In view of the efforts that had been put forth.

THE MEYER APPOINTMENT

President Hoover has made it evident that he is guided by fitness in filling important offices. Although some of his appointments have encountered opposition, political and otherwise, they have, nevertheless, been men who were eminently fitted to administer the respective positions.

In the selection of Eugene Meyer, of New York, as the new governor of the federal reserve board, he has chosen a man who is recognized as possessing the very qualifications which that office calls for. He has picked a man who has rendered valuable service to his country on former occasions and by the record he has established in that work he can be readily judged.

Thus when Governor Young resigned from the board to accept the presidency of the Federal Reserve bank in Boston, there was no surprise when the name of Eugene Meyer was mentioned as the probable appointee. There was but one thing that stood in the way. It is permissible to have but one member on the board from any district. To have named Mr. Meyer would have given New York two. Thus it could not be done as long as Edmund Platt, of New York, remained on the board. Mr. Platt, though vice-governor for years, fully appreciated that and the importance of having Mr. Meyer on the board. He disclosed it by presenting his resignation, and thus made way for the choice of the man who was desired and needed in the important office of head of the federal reserve board.

It is to be expected that whatever appointments need to be made to the board that they will be chosen with the view to strengthening it, and such must be the interpretation of the Meyer appointment.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

The Bible in all ages has been resorted to as furnishing evidence for everything that the brain of man has wanted to support. A little while ago the writer ran across an interesting account of the almost insuperable difficulties encountered in surveying the route of the proposed Nicaraguan canal. It is for the most part a tangled maze that has never been penetrated by a white man. Added to this is the heat beyond anything ever experienced in the United States. All this reminds us of the difficulties encountered in the digging of all the international canals. Perhaps the strangest of all was that which joined the Atlantic with the Pacific which Philip the Second contemplated. When the king was thinking this over he was not quite sure of the moral side of the question, hence he sought the advice of the friars. At first they were nonplussed, but at length the Bible helped them out. This passage settled the question: "What God hath joined together, let not man put asunder."

It is a little hazardous to refer to weather conditions a month ahead because of probable changes that will come. But some changes are so radical as to suggest some profitable lessons. If anything under heaven is fickle it is our New England weather. This, of course, is only re-stating an old chestnut. We have been sweltering in torrid heat all the way from 113 in Alabama to 81 degrees in Eastport and we have had it a little below 60 and we were wearing more clothing. Now is this all haphazard, or is it under the domain of law?

As a cold matter of fact we are often brought face to face with phenomena of the natural world that baffle our little puny minds and we have to accept them whether we understand or not. As the earthly father is not called upon to explain all his actions to his immature children, whose minds are not sufficiently developed to understand them, neither is the Great Ruler of the Universe under any moral obligation to make known the working of his laws in this material universe. There is a reason for every phenomenon of the natural world that serves a great necessity whether our limited understanding can take it in or not. It is for us to wonder and admire, rather than to fret and complain because it is too hot or too unseasonably cold. Some people are so constituted that they will kick on the music of the celestial choirs!

For the most of us the vacation period has passed and we must bone right down to hard work. Now the question is not where you have been, nor now long you have been away, but how have you spent the time and what have you gotten out of it? Now this sounds strange to some people. They cannot for the life of them understand how one can get a vacation that is not produced by a tape-measure. It must be so many days at the seashore; so many times dipping into the salt water; so many crabs eaten, and so many square feet of tan on face, neck and limbs. Now, if you have followed this rule of uniformity, you must have had a glorious time in spite of your tortured flesh. Now these feeble-minded people who break away from this formula and get into the atmosphere of new places and scenes; see new faces and come into contact with new ideas do not have a real vacation.

It was the writer's privilege in the early part of August to spend some very pleasant days on the Berkshire trail in the old town of West Cummington. The natural features of this old place were well calculated to inspire rest and recreation. The host on this occasion was a dear old friend of many years standing; a retired business man of Springfield who, being a great lover of nature, some years ago, bought a place on this trail and remodelled it into a spacious and comfortable summer home. The surroundings were made to correspond with the premises. With a high steep mountain directly in the rear which belongs to the state reservation and with the Westfield river in front, it is an ideal place for rest and change. This coupled with the invigorating air, peaceful surroundings, and most of all, with genial and intelligent companionship, made it all that was desirable.

I cannot let this Berkshire experience pass without referring to the good fortune I had in spending a part of one afternoon in visiting the birthplace of William Cullen Bryant, only three miles away on a hillside remarkable for its beauty and wide range of vision. The homestead is a large and beautiful and fashioned New England mansion that has been well preserved. I had the pleasure of going over it, and saw the table where Bryant, then 18 years old, wrote the immortal "Thanatopsis" which up to that time was the finest poem that any American had produced. Certainly the wide outlook for miles around must have made a great impression on this sensitive boy. After Williams college, Bryant for a while practiced law, but later made his great reputation as editor of The New York Evening Post. It is well that this fine old mansion is open to the public for Bryant is a name that America will not forget.

Not so long ago most of the people in this vicinity were attracted by the dirigible Los Angeles directly overhead. The writer had a splendid view of the craft on a country road in the vicinity of Voluntown. It was sailing very slowly almost directly over Mount Misery, headed in a southwesterly direction. I thought its slowness was due to the uncertainty of its location, or charmed with the beauty of Mount Misery. At any rate it was a mass of splendor in silvery white imparting a sense of power, ease and perfect mastery. One could hardly help feeling, What is science going to spring upon us next? Is it absurd to suppose that in the future human beings will be sailing through space on individual silver wings?

Another thought comes to the writer while the vision of Mount Misery is clear in his memory. By the way, it is not quite clear in his mind why anybody should think of attaching the word "misery" to such a picturesque mountains. A hillock set in such romantic surroundings cannot be very miserable. Think of its splendid isolation from the jangle of human tongues! How far removed it is from the fluctuations of the country's stock markets! How untouched it is by the ravings of the great American Insane Asylum, sometimes alluded to as the United States senate! How thankful it ought to be that it has never been knocked out of shape by motor trucks and Ford sedans! Most blessed Mount Misery! What possibilities thou hast for a great state reservation!

New Account of the Burning of New London Appears On 149th Anniversary of the Event

Today is the 149th anniversary of the raid on New London, carried out by a British force in the Revolutionary war. On Sept. 6, 1781, a force of 800 British and tories under command of Gen. Benedict Arnold, who was born in Norwich, burned the city, destroyed much private property and at Fort Griswold killed 84 American soldiers, many of them after their surrender. This raid followed similar forays made by Arnold in Virginia.

The story of the British descent on New London has often been told; yet new light is shed in several particulars by the latest account of the operation, given in Charles Coleman Sellers' biography, "Benedict Arnold the Proud Warrior" (New York: Minton Balch and company, 1930). The book is one of the new accessions to the Otis library. Mr. Sellers discusses Arnold's raid on the eastern Connecticut port, and the events leading up to it, as follows:

Name For Barbarity Undeserved

The Virginia raids had obviously accomplished nothing to Arnold's satisfaction, and he was embittered by the lack of any sweeping success following his change of allegiance.

He had proven himself a vigorous and efficient officer, and yet he had done nothing to clear his name of the shadow upon it. His proclamation in Virginia summoning the inhabitants to join him in repelling the rebel "banditti" had failed of any effect.

His zeal to prove himself worthy and loyal, on the other hand, by a prompt and rigorous prosecution of his orders, had brought upon himself and his men an undeserved reputation for wanton barbarity. Conscious of the difficulties of his situation, he had taken pains to protect the inhabitants from plundering or other irregularities popular among invading armies.

It was essential, however, that he raise no doubts of the fidelity of his new allegiance by any lenity in carrying out his instructions. The reputation for barbarity was none the less acquired, and reflected to the troops he commanded.

British Soldier Was a Good Fellow

The British soldier, whom the Americans now regarded as a monster of brutality, was quite frequently a good, hymn-singing Methodist, and a good fellow among his comrades at all times. He was more thoroughly part of a military machine than the American fighter, but was not always, even in action, swayed by the passion to kill.

Young Nicholas Stoner, full of the devil and rebellion, as wild a boy as ever came out of the backwoods, never forgot the big grenadier who pulled him out of the way of a comrade's bayonet thrust with a ponderous, "Vast, shipmate; it's only a child."

The English soldiers had their opinions and ideals, and General Arnold, much as they may have admired him as an enemy, was not easily to win their respect.

On the twenty-seventh of August, Margaret's (Mrs. Benedict Arnold's) second boy was born, and they christened him in honor of James Robertson. A soldier's son, with a soldier's name, he was to win distinction in the field, and then at court, and to rise to the highest rank in the army.

Week later, the father sailed in command of a new marauding force, the record of which was to complete his reputation for truculent ferocity.

Port Was Important Supply Station

Large deposits of stores were carried at New London, poorly defended. Of especial interest was the British armed ship Hannah, with a cargo valued at 80,000 pounds, captured that summer by the New London privateer Minerva. Arnold was eager for action, and his knowledge of the country fitted him for the work.

In the first hour of the morning of September sixth his ships were struggling with an unfavorable wind off the threatened harbor, and the sun was up before they could beat into the channel. New London, on the west bank of the Thames, had only the feeble defenses of Fort Trumbull; but across the water, on the high eminence over Groton village, Fort Griswold offered a more difficult problem.

Griswold was firing the "larum" to the countryside, two guns at regular intervals, and Arnold destroyed the effect of this by bringing in, properly timed, a third salute from one of his own ships.

Two miles below the town, at about nine in the morning, he landed his men, a division on each side of the river. One division marched for Groton Heights. He himself, with the other, took Fort Trumbull without difficulty and entered New London.

The people were moving their ships out of reach up the river. This it was impossible for him to prevent until Fort Griswold fell. Fort Griswold, moreover, was annoying the new garrison of Fort Trumbull with a bombardment to which it was unable to reply.

Arnold had been told that the works at Groton were unfinished and manned by a force of 20 or 30. He and his staff rode to a hill above New London to watch the capture, and there realised immediately that the little earthen redoubt, its cannon bellowing in confident defiance across the river, would not be taken as easily as he had expected. He dispatched an aide to countermand his orders to Lieutenant-Colonel Eyre to attack, but the message arrived too late.

Britisn Were Infuriated

Eyre had already received a refusal to his summons and was advancing on three sides of the works in solid columns, broad gaps repeatedly torn in his ranks by a murderous fire from the fort. He fell wounded, but his men pushed on irresistibly gained lodgments in the outer defenses, and, with the battle nearly an hour old, broke through a last desperate stand and poured into the open parade of the fort. The little garrison of 150 was at the mercy of the infuriated men, who had now their first chance to avenge their losses in the assault.

The commandant, Lieut.-Col. William Ledyard, advanced toward the victors, holding his sword by the blade, raising and lowering it in sign of surrender. It was thrust through his body as the wave of scarlet swept over, and there followed a brief orgy of vengeance. An officer ran wildly about, waving his sword, screaming:

"Stop! Stop! In the name of heaven! My soul can't bear it!"

A young Yankee sergeant found himself pleading for his life from a big soldier stabbing blindly at him with his bayonet and roaring:

"Bejasus, I'll skipper ye!"

Captain Bromfield, now in command of the victors, came upon some of the maddened men shooting down the rebels who had fled into the magazine and beat them back with his sword, shouting to them:

"Stop firing! You will send us all to hell together!"

The massacre was quickly over. Bromfield retired with about 60 prisoners, half their number wounded, and the fort was blown up behind them.

Town Caught Fire From Warehouses

Arnold immediately turned to the burning of the warehouses, and these, with a shift in the wind and explosions of gunpowder, fired the town. In the rush and confusion there was no hope of controlling the fires, which offered the Americans one more atrocity for their formidable list, and was deeply regretted by Clinton.

The massacre was but a normal consequence of such an attack, but the burning of New London and the outcry that followed it seemed to prove that General Arnold could not be used to advantage in the American war.

"Arnold did not return until yesterday afternoon from New London owing to head winds," Justice Smith confided gloomily to his diary. "It is a bad symptom that the Army thinks their losses greater than the Rebels."

A Washington Bystander

Associated Press Staff Writer
By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Almost everybody knows that there have been 18 amendments to the federal constitution since its adoption. Enough has been and is being heard about the 18th amendment to insure that.

Most folks, and probably all feminine folks who have any interest in the matter, know there have been 19 changes. No. 19 was a red-letter affair for the women.

But who knows that a total of 24 constitutional amendments have been proposed to the states by congress at various times, or what became of the five not ratified—as yet, anyhow—or what they were about?

Studied by Iowan

Representative Ramseyer of Iowa, who still has a good deal of the school teacher in his makeup despite some eight successive terms in congress, has been digging into the history of these unsuccessful amendments.

It is his opinion, based on the legal studies and practice which followed his training and school teaching beginnings, that they are all dead, though still, presumably, pending before various state legislatures.

He thinks the supreme court would so hold in regard to any of them but the anti-child labor amendment proposed in 1924.

There must be, in his view, some sort of statute of limitations to run against proposed amendments even where no specific clause to that effect is incorporated in the submitting congressional resolution, as was done with the prohibition amendment.

In that case a seven-year period of submission was prescribed. It was not needed, yet the fact that it was hitched as a sort of tail to the dry plank clearly indicates that a lot of members of senate and house did not believe the proposal was going through. Some may have voted for the resolution on that theory.

First in 1789

Take the case of the first of the five unratified amendments. It forebade congress to raise its own pay without one house election intervening after passage of the act before it became effective.

That was submitted in 1789 with approval of 11 states necessary. Six states voted yes, five voted no and three did not vote at all. Could the "no" states change their minds now if they so desired?

One of those five unratified amendments, and probably the most peculiar constitutional proposal ever made, was submitted on March 2, 1861, just two days before Lincoln's inauguration. It proposed to forbid any amendment to the constitution which would authorize congress to abolish slavery. By that time the country had grown until affirmative action by 25 states was necessary.

Only three ever acted, all favoring the project. They were Ohio, Maryland, and, curiously enough, Illinois, the state which gave the Great Emancipator to the nation.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Protests Against Wet Statements

Mr. Editor: As a laboring man and a firm believer in the right of laboring class both men and women to have those things that are for their peace, prosperity and happiness, we protest most earnestly against the statement of the president of the Connecticut Federation of Labor and an organizer from Boston at the convention held in Hartford that prohibition is a failure and that a great majority of the laboring class would vote for repeal of the 18th amendment. In our opinion it is far from being a failure, and a huge success. It is the best friend labor ever had. It has brought them peace, prosperity and happiness.

Ten years ago there was not a labor bank in the country. There are now 27 with a combined capital of over $30,000,000. Thousands of homes have been built and countless comforts of life are being enjoyed, all earned by sober industry which were not possible in the old days. There are many wise men and women in the laboring ranks that know what is for their best interests and we believe that they will vote without any modification whatever for their best friend—the 18th amendment.

A FRIEND OF LABOR.

Why Things Are So

Mr. Editor: The views of "One of 1,000 Dissatisfied Republicans" appearing in last evening's issue of the "Record" concurred with the views of probably more than 1,000 judging from the comments and expressions of surprise. "To think," said one, "that it is necessary to have the public defender also the corporation counsel and to have the deputy coroner a partner of the coroner, who is also the partner of the public defender and corporation counsel." Mass production of offices with the merger of all in one with the appointment of two coming from the same source and all four closely related. It beats three in one.

Animals are said through inbreeding to reduce their virility. Their stamina becomes weakened. The progeny is not stable. It was the fashion to talk of our Osgoods, Nortons, Blackstones and to comment on the fact that they were all dead. Such is the common lot of all but each generation has its own problems and in its ability to solve them lies its hope of prosperity, usefulness and contentment.

Secretary Pilcher has departed but the Babson report on conditions in Norwich at $1,500, a report still survives while as a monument to his perspicacity we have the $40,000 tax revaluation list rapidly becoming deflated and the Norwich Inn, until now a young lady officiates as secretary of the chamber of commerce since the demotion of the broadcast secretary. Norwich city tax payers should settle Norwich city problems. The city has labored under a system of absentee ownership of its industries until now it becomes fashionable to live in the town or out of the city and town and tell the city where they get off, and why? I am telling you. The city is run, operated and controlled by persons who do not pay one cent of taxes into the treasury of the city and have no right to vote in the city. No wonder as your correspondent noted that New London is sufficient unto itself and engineers a county meeting for a state wide object, political in its nature, without including a Norwich man in the list of those who are putting it over.

Why does Norwich not have a place where the motor car owners may register its cars? Why does New London have such a place? Ask the motor vehicle commissioner.

With interlocking bank directorates carried to the Nth power we now have interlocking political affiliations and mergers of political jobs carried to a much farther extreme, if such there is. The city taxing itself to provide water, gas, electric light and is a measure fire and police protection to the citizens of the town who hold the purse strings of the city but place but little or nothing in the purse. An archaic, undemocratic, indefensible economic proposition that has been abandoned by all of the Connecticut cities while Norwich holds grimly on because it will not assert itself and is held by a strangle hold by folks and interests that contribute not one cent to the city's advancement or the city's expenses. Their living comes however in large part from the city.

What has become of the town school board's recommendations? Are our children to receive their graded and high school education in tents? Why so much noise if a real emergency existed and why so summarily dropped? Does the police court of Norwich measure the height and breadth of republican vision?

Election day is November 4th.

THE CITY OF NORWICH.

YOUR HEALTH

The Laboring Man And His Colds

By Halstead G. Murray, M. D., Medical Director, Dennison Mfg. Co., Framingham, Mass.

(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

On Labor day our thoughts naturally turn to the health problems of the many people engaged in various forms of industry. Possibly the most common ailment in the world of industry today is the "cold in the head," the majority of persons having at least one cold each year.

The general medical opinion seems to be that colds are caused directly by germs, and these germs are passed on to one another by sneezers, coughers, soiled handkerchiefs, and from handling articles recently handled by persons with acute colds. Colds and their complications cause more lost time from work than any other ailment or disease; so aside from the discomfort of a cold, there is the economic side of this "cold" business to be considered by the worker today. For instance in a certain industrial establishment of 3,000 persons, about half women and half men, each year there are more than 2,500 cases of "colds" treated at the factory clinic or dispensary. The next most common ailment is headache, with over 1,000 cases; thus colds lead the league by 15 per cent and win the pennant each year for the greatest number of victims.

Various measures can be taken to lessen this large number of colds. The greater number of them occur during the winter months, when we turn on the heat, close the windows, and actually spend not more than thirty to sixty minutes out of doors each day for two or three months. No wonder we get colds! This means that there is at least one important thing to remember—do not let workrooms get overheated! There should be a thermometer in every workroom in the plant and someone in the room should be made responsible for temperature control. When the thermometer rises above 70 degrees F. the windows should be opened or heat turned off. Thermostatic control on the heating system helps considerably. Cold drafts striking persons on the back of the neck when they are sitting quietly at a desk certainly do seem to be the exciting cause of many colds. Drafts should be avoided by persons who are sensitive to them.

In one factory they discovered that 52.9 per cent of all illness causing over seven days disability in January, February and March was due to respiratory infection. Respiration infection means some diseases of the nose, throat or lungs, so they printed the following advice and put it up in the form of bulletins all over the factory:

"Pneumonia, tuberculosis and rheumatism may follow colds. During the months of January, February and March 1921, 371 employees lost more than seven days each from colds which was 51.8 per cent of all sickness during that period. The majority of these cases could have been prevented by following the simple rules of,

Plenty of fresh air in sleeping rooms.

Avoiding people with colds.
Plenty of sleep
Avoiding crowded rooms.
Keeping bowels open daily
Keeping pores of the skin open by frequent baths.
Proper eating.

The next year during January, February and March there was 33 1-3 per cent less sickness; and the average amount of wages lost was reduced 25 per cent. From this we see that it is quite possible to avoid many of these head colds and respiratory infections by following such simple rules of hygiene as are quoted above. It is worthwhile to try it.

Persons who have several colds a year should consult their family doctor and follow his treatment. Do not balk if he suggests catarrhal vaccine treatment as a preventive measure. In industry where it has been tried out it has been found that from 38 per cent to 63 per cent of those taking that treatment have been entirely free from colds from three to four months during the winter. Let us resolve now before the winter months set in to rid ourselves of colds—and if in spite of our precautions we fall victims to the "pesky sneezlers and wheezlers" let us not doctor ourselves but seek the advice of our family doctor, or if in the large industrial plant—the company physician.

SUNDAY MORNING TALK

The Transforming Power of God

One of the most sticking manifestations of divine power of what we know is shown in the transformations that are wrought in every realm of the universe.

Each recurring spring tide presents to us a wonderful transformation in the world of nature. Trees and plants that were apparently dead put forth their buds and blossoms appear on all sides, so changing the aspect of nature that at times it seems as of we were walking in fairyland, while sweet odors scent the air and we become conscious that we are face to face with that wonderous change in the natural world which seemed best to aid to symbolise the crowning miracle in the history of Christ, His resurrection from the dead. And yet this marvel of transformation is not limited to the spring tide, for throughout the changing seasons there is a continued process going on which results in the growth and development which is no less wonderful than the changes of the early spring.

The close study of almost every form of natural life presents to us transformations most wonderful. As a single illustration of this truth, take the insect world, where the marvelous changes which occur between the larva and the image form of an insect are so striking as hardly to be credible, were we not assured of the facts of the case? The most marvelous display of the transforming power of God, however, is found in the spiritual world. In the conversion of a single human soul, we have a miracle of transformation which is far more wonderful than any change that takes place in the material world. Much is said and written about the different things that influence our lives and make them what they are. Transformation in the hearts and lives of men and women is the supreme aim and purpose of Christianity. This is the object of all missionary effort and the goal of every true Christian. One of the cheering features is the wonderful transformations which have taken place in the life of every true Christian past and present. It matters not whether it be the brutal savage or the sin-cursed of the countries having greater advantages, God often uses His humblest followers as instruments to bring about this wonderful change. Sometimes it is the spoken or the written word. We know that no word spoken or written for the Master is ever lost. We know that no earthly power can do for our lives what the marvelous power can. . .

Stories That Recall Others

Wrong Room

They had asked for a double room at the hotel. The bellboy deposited them in the room assigned by the clerk. They began to look around to see that all requirements had been met. Finally the young son found something wrong.

"What's the matter, son?" the father inquired.

"This ain't no double room," he answered. "It ain't got two Gideon Bibles."

Yes, How?

Milburn and his mother on a vacation trip in the country saw a cow. The boy's first question was, "Say, mother, what's that on the cow's head?"

"Why, it's the cow's horns."

"Well," followed up the youngster, "how does she honk them?"

If you want to see a small boy look ungrateful, present him with a manicure set.

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

The Horace R. Whittier Co. Pequabuck.

The Horace R. Whittier company, now located at Pequabuck, came into existence as an outgrowth of the enamel dial department of the Cooper Oven Thermometer company.

The business was organized under the name of Whittier and Wilson in 1924 and was located in Plainville. The growth of the company soon demanded larger quarters and two years after its organization it was moved to Bristol, occupying the third floor of the Wallace Barnes building on Riverside avenue. For four years the company, developing rapidly, increased their equipment and perfected their manufacturing facilities until it was found that even more space was required.

October 1928 the company purchased a site in Pequabuck and built the present factory, comprising 5,000 square feet of floor space. The plant is equipped with modern machinery, specially constructed gas enamelling furnaces, designed and built on the premises by the company's engineer, spraying equipment and every known improved convenience to manufacture a highly specialized product.

The Horace R. Whittier company was originally formed for the purpose of enameling dials for thermometers and meters but it soon became manifest that there were other fields for this industry. By close application to research work and the education of the public to the many uses and advantages of vitreous enamel, it has greatly increased the demand for its products which now include intricate enamel work, printing on curved surfaces, extremely small parts, name plates, dials for all types of instruments, switch covers, thermometer scales, stove and heater parts and many other items until now the original industry is only a small part of its present activities.

The company was originally owned and directed by Horace R. Whittier. July first last, the Horace R. Whittier company, because of its close affiliation, merged with The Cooper Oven Thermometer company, the purpose being to effect closer co-operation and increased production. The company herefterth will be known and operated as The Horace R. Whittier company, division of the Cooper Oven Thermometer company.

The present officers are: Albert E. Whittier, president and treasurer; Horace R. Whittier, vice president; George W. Priest, secretary; Lance H. Foote, general manager.

This is the last line in Norwich and one of the last in the state to be converted to the one-man car system. The change-over will mean the cutting down of the trolley force by approximately 14 men.

GIFTS MADE TO REV G. F. BAILEY AT NORWICH TOWN FAREWELL RECEPTION

A large company of parishioners assembled Friday evening in the First Congregational chapel from 8 to 10 o'clock, to say farewell to the retired pastor of this church, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, for whom with his daughter, Miss Louise P. Bailey, an informal reception was given by the parish. Deacon Henry F. Frazier, president of the League of Service, was master of ceremonies. As the guests arrived they were welcomed by Senior Deacon Dwight W. Avery, Deacon Clyde M. Beebe and Mrs. Herbert L. Yerrington and Mrs. Frank E. Sterry. Arranged in large decorative baskets and vases the chapel was attractively decorated with cut flowers, potted plants, begonias, dahlias and gladioli, under the direction of Miss Ida Beebe. Herbert L. Yerrington was chairman of the musical program, delightfully furnished by Norwich Christian Endeavor Union orchestra, of which Rev. Mr. Bailey has been a valued member as cellist. Other members of the orchestra are Theodore Sterry violinist and leader, Rev. Howard Bushnell, Nelson Tacker, Lloyd Chapman, Miss Dorothy Packer and William Packer, violins, Edward Jordan cornetist, and Miss Louise Sterry pianist. During the evening ice cream, lady fingers and fancy wafers were served by the supper committee of the League of Service, Mrs. John L. Browning, chairman, and Mrs. Walter T. Clark, Mrs. Oscar Heinrich, Mrs. Ernest Washington, Mrs. Harriet Barber, Mrs. Charles Barber, and Misses Margaret Chapin and Bernice Underwood.

Among the nearly 200 present were Rev. George H. Strouse of Bozrah, also Rev. Mr. Bailey's entire family, including his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harold T. Bailey, of Hartford.

Special mention has been made of the careful and devoted service which Miss Bailey has given the kindergarten in the church school. Miss Bailey has been its superintendent for a long time and during the summer months this department has met every Sunday morning at 10.45.

In the course of the evening, both Rev. Mr. Bailey and daughter were presented substantial sums of gold in separate containers from the church, as tokens of esteem and friendship. Rev. Charles E. Reeves presented the gifts in a most friendly cordial manner in behalf of the church. Rev. Mr. Reeves said he deemed it a privilege for the committee in charge to confer such a favor upon him. He also spoke in commendatory words of Rev. Dr. Shipherd's remarks at this church on a recent Sunday when supplying the pulpit, when alluding to Rev. Mr. Bailey's retirement.

In addressing the interested audience Rev. Mr. Reeves said of Mr. Bailey: "He is marked by a quiet dignity and gentle graciousness of manner, tenderness in ministry to suffering and sorrowing, devotion to service to young and old. In pulpit ministrations, candor was joined with caution and simplicity with directness. In his ministrations of the parish, he showed rare executive ability and in all relations with parishioners and townspeople he manifested the high quality of a Christian gentleman. That is the sort of man that has been our pastor." When the speaker handed the gift to Rev. Mr. Bailey he told him he had not finished. At this point he said it gave him profound pleasure in presenting Miss Bailey her gift. One who had shown such gentle ministry of the sick room and the church school the past year, as well as being a devoted companion to her father in the home. When presenting Mr. Bailey the gift of gold from the church, Rev. Mr. Reeves also mentioned that there also was a gold piece in another box from the orchestra present. In behalf of the Drop-in class Mrs. Frank E. Sterry presented Mr. Bailey a fountain pen, and besides her gift of gold this class through Mrs. David M. Dean presented Miss Bailey an arm bouquet of cut flowers.

Rev. Mr. Bailey, in response, said he was overwhelmed with surprise and appreciation. He spoke at length of his very pleasant and helpful associations with the church and all its branches from a financial and a social standpoint. He specially emphasized the pleasure derived from the children and in alluding to the Scripture, felt that he had been showered with loyalty and devotion in such a cordial reception equal to St. Paul. He further mentioned the good times all had had together on many occasions and said that he would miss the rich fellowship and friendship.

Miss Bailey also acknowledged her gifts in a gracious manner. The program closed with the orchestra playing "Blest Be the Tie That Binds" and the congregation uniting in singing.

Since coming to Norwich Town, Rev. Mr. Bailey has entrenched himself in the hearts of the people. His faithful and devoted ministry to his parish has been most edifying and his departure from Norwich will be universally regretted, though his close friends rejoice that he is to take a well-earned rest.

It has been remarked by many from other churches that Rev. Mr. Bailey would not only be missed by the parish he is leaving, but by the entire community. Besides the gifts mentioned, some of the members of the Norwich Town church presented him a personal gift.

Rev. Mr. Bailey began his Norwich Town pastorate in November, 1911, having preached his first sermon as pastor of the church, Sunday, Nov. 2, 1911.

WOMAN FOUND DEAD IN KITCHEN OF HOME

Miss Mary Frances Tibbets, 83, was found dead on the floor of the kitchen at her home, No. 27 Cliff street, about noon Friday, evidently an accidental gas victim. The elderly woman had been dead several days and it is thought that she was overtaken by death sometime Tuesday.

John B. Stoddard, who lives in the same house, noticed a slight smell of gas and investigating, found the woman dead. She was on the kitchen floor and one burner of a gas stove was open. It is thought that she fell while trying to light the gas stove, or accidently opened the burner in falling. A letter, which Mr. Stoddard had shoved under her door Tuesday, had not been touched. Medical Examiner C. C. Gildersleeve conducted an investigation and Undertaker C. A. Gager was given charge of the body.

Miss Tibbetts was born in Roxbury, Mass., the daughter of the late Mr and Mrs. Joseph Tibbetts. For 25 years she had made her home in Norwich. For a number of years she resided with an aunt, Mrs. Clara Clarke, of Park street, and after her death moved to her present home on Cliff street. She was a member of the Dudley street Baptist church, Boston, and was an attendant at the Central Baptist church, this city.

Surviving are five cousins, John B. Stoddard and Mrs. Nettie F. Adams, of this city; Guy Ayer, of Preston; Mrs. Julia Maine, of Pachaug, and Judge Talbot, of Reno; four nephews, Joseph Satterlee, of South Manchester; Joseph Edgerton, of Montville; Charles Stoddard, of Boston, and Enos Stoddard, of Needham, and a niece, Miss Mary Satterlee, of South Manchester.

MERCHANTS BUREAU MAKES FALL OPENING PLANS

There was a meeting of the Merchants bureau of the chamber of commerce held Friday evening at 6:15 in the Wauregan hotel. Those present were President J. Fred Fleming, C. I. Smith, Michael Cohen, Herman Sharpe, J. B. Caron, John Lyston, Simon Mandel, Mr. Maurice of Liscom Stores, Mr. Anderson of Porteous & Mitchell Co., Glen Merithew, and R. B. Hamilton of the Palace theatre, and Miss Mary E. Bundy, acting secretary of the chamber of commerce.

The purpose of this meeting was to discuss plans for the fall opening. The date previously set for this event was Sept. 19-20, but due to the fact that there was only two weeks' time to get ready it was the decision of those present to postpone the fall opening one week later, making it Sept. 25-26.

A long discussion took place relative to a street pageant, in the form of an evolution of style, and President Fleming was instructed to appoint a special committee to make the final arrangements.

It was voted to have a style show Friday evening, Sept. 26, at the Palace theatre through courtesy of Manager Hamilton, whereby both men's and women's wearing apparel would be shown.

The window contest was again voted upon and will be carried out according to classifications, the same as last year.

Specially appointed committees will call upon the merchants within the next few days and it is hoped by the bureau that each and every one of the Norwich merchants will enter into this fall opening and make it the best one ever.

McKay and in court Thursday, the manslaughter charge against him was changed to reckless driving.

EFFICIENCY FLAG TO NAVY'S OLDEST VESSEL

Honors in battle efficiency for the cruiser class, second line, have been awarded the U. S. Rochester, the oldest ship of the navy now on active duty, for the competition year ended June 30, 1930.

In winning the pennant, the Rochester, which was commanded by Captain Harry A. Baldridge, U. S. N., at present director of naval intelligence, will have but a short time to wear it, as the vessel, nearly 40 years old, is scheduled to be scrapped this fall.

Second place in battle efficiency among the second line cruisers went to the U. S. S. Denver, followed by the U. S. S. Galveston.

The Rochester, which is the flagship of the navy's special service squadron operating in Central American waters, was authorized in 1888. She was commissioned originally as the U. S. S. Reports from the chairmen of the different committees show great activity and enthusiasm of all the grangers to make Norwich Grange fair a big success. The programme of Aug. 27 was in charge of Mrs. Dorothy Rogers in the absence of the lecturer. Radio night and apple night, combined, made a very pleasing programme.

IDEALS FACE STRONG TEAM IN RED SOX AT J. B. MARTIN FIELD ON SUNDAY

Sunday's Lineup

Hartford	Ideals
Cameron, ss	2b, Cummings
Underhill, 3b	c, Murphy
Salad, cf	3b, Liberty
Alexander, lf	1b, Dugas
Weisner, 2b	lf, R. Smith
Mikan, rf	rf, F. Smith
Greenbaum, 1b	cf, Perry
Huband, c	ss, Krauss
Buckland, p	p, Lucier
Metcalf, p	p, J. Greene

Game Called at 3 p. m.

When these two clubs get together at the J. B. Martin diamond on Sunday afternoon there will be some real good baseball served up for the approval of the fans. The Hartford Red Sox are just about the best baseball club in Hartford and have been playing fast clubs throughout New England with good results. The Red Sox, as can be seen from their lineup, were formerly the New Departure team of New Britain. Some of the best ball-players in the Hartford district are playing with this club. Alexander, Mikan, Huband and Buckland are former leaguers having played with the various clubs in the Eastern circuit a number of years ago.

In Lefty Buckland, who is no stranger to local fans, the Red Sox have one of the best pitchers in Connecticut. Buckland although pitching for quite a few years has lost none of his cunning. Huband who does the catching for him is rated as one of the best back-stoppers playing semi-pro ball. Besides being a good catcher Huband is something of a hitter and fans will remember his hitting against the J. B. Martin club at various times. Another long distance clouter is Alexander in left field. Alexander bats in the clean-up position and is a dangerous hitter at all times, especially in the pinches when hits mean runs.

To combat this Hartford threat Manager Bernard has rounded up quite a team that should be able to give a good account of themselves. Bernard has paid strict attention to getting together a team of hitters and he apparently has met with success as practically every man on the club is a real slugger. With Lefty Lucier in the box and Jimmy Murphy behind the plate the Ideals will have a mighty formidable battery. With good support behind him Lucier can turn in a game that will do credit to most any pitcher.

It is expected that the crowd at tomorrow's game will be one of the largest of the season as there are no other local ball games scheduled for the day that can compare with this attraction.

SENATORS AGAIN PROVE TOO STRONG FOR YANKEES

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—(AP) — The Washington Senators again displayed their superiority over the Yankees today by pouncing out a one-sided victory, 14 to 5, in their semi-final game of the season. It was the 17th game Washington has won in their 21 clashes this season.
